DAR To Sponsor American History Essay Contest

The local chapter of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) -- Youghiogheny Glades -- is sponsoring an American History Essay Contest, with the written topic to be "Coming to America in Colonial Days:1607-1776." The contest is open to students in grades five through eight in public, private, or parochial schools, or in sanctioned home study programs.

Deadline for submitting essays to the local chapter is January 7, 1994, and more details about the contest may be obtained by contacting Juanita Browning at 334-2348.

"The topic might be appropriate for the Thanksgiving season as a part of the regular history studies, expository writing classes, or for extra credit," stated Browning. She noted that students should consider any aspect of immigration during the Colonial period, and the reasons and/or motivation that drew people to America. The hardships and dangers of travel, as well as the types of transportation used could also be discussed, she said.

Essays will be judged for historical accuracy, adherence to subject matter, organization of material, originality, interest, spelling, grammar, punctuation, and overall neatness. Essays will be judged first by the sponsoring chapter, which will then forward one winning essay in each grade level to the district or state level. Winning essays are then judged at the division or national level.

Recreation Area Announces Fall And Winter Hours

The Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area office has announced that the Deep Creek Lake State Park boat ramp will remain open 24 hours per day through October 31. Access after sunset will be through the new after hours gate located 3/4 mile north of the main entrance on State Park Road.

The ramp will be open 8 a.m. until sunset November 1, 1993, through March 31, 1994, (weather permitting). Persons may contact the park office at 387-5563 to receive a daily status report on conditions.

The campground will close Monday, November 1, and re-open in early April.

The waterfront picnic area is open 8 a.m. until sunset daily year-round. During inclement weather access is provided through the winter entrance located ¼ mile south of the main entrance on State Park Road. There is no fee charged until May of 1994 to use this area and visitors are encouraged to spend less crowded fall and winter days at the lake.

Maryland Insurance Commissioner "Declares War" On Insurance Fraud

Maryland Insurance Commissioner Dwight K. Bartlett III announced last week that he is proposing regulations which would institute mandatory inspection requirements for private passenger automobiles insured under a new policy or insured as an additional or replacement vehicle.

These regulations are designed to combat schemes such as insuring non-existent or "phantom" vehicles which are then reported stolen and repair-damage-costs that existed before the policy was issued.

In a news briefing on insurance fraud awareness, Bartlett said, "When an insurance company submits a rate increase for our approval, I want to ascertain what that insurer is doing to combat fraud and whether there is an effective anti-fraud plan in operation. Sometimes it's easy for an insurer to pay claims - knowing or believing there could be fraud involved - and pass those losses along to the customer in the form of higher premiums. The days of the easy ride are over.

"We must educate and convince every Marylander that cheating the insurance company - whether adding "phantom" dollars to insurance thefts claims or playing games with workers compensation benefits - is wrong. Very simply, fraud raises everyone's insurance rates. In addition, we shall make it perfectly clear to agents and brokers that any impropriety will be met with stern consequences from the Maryland Insurance Administration.

"It is estimated that the average cost of insurance fraud in Maryland exceeds $1.35 billion per year. That's more than $270 for each Maryland citizen. You could build another Oriole Park at Camden Yards, buy the Baltimore Orioles, construct a new domed-football stadium, and gain a new franchise in the National Football League - and have a half-billion dollars left over. And repeat that year after year, just with the amount of money involved in insurance fraud in Maryland every year."

Nationally, property and casualty insurers spend more than $200 million each year to combat fraud, the volume of which would be more than the total sales for some of the nation's largest industrial corporations, Bartlett said.

Maryland State Police Lt. John R. Davis, administrator of the State Insurance Fraud Unit, remarked on the various scams and schemes being conducted throughout the state. He referred to such ploys as paper automobiles, large scale medical fraud, well-organized accident rings, and phony theft claims.

Organized in late December 1992, the State Insurance Fraud Unit is composed of uniformed members of the state police, investigators from the Insurance Administration, and legal expertise from the Office of the Attorney General.

Larry Patterson To Be Guest Speaker At Awake '93

The Rev. Larry Patterson will be the guest speaker at each of the four services of Awake '93, an event sponsored by the Casselman Valley Pastors' Association. The services will begin Sunday, October 17, and conclude Wednesday, October 20. All four services will be held at Maranatha Assembly of God Church, 1000 Spring Road, Grantsville, and all services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

"The stated goal for this effort is to present the gospel message to our community and to seek the unchurched, reclaim the inactive church members, and to promote spiritual growth in those who attend church so that each local congregation might be strengthened by God's power," stated an Association spokesperson.

Patterson is one of the leading evangelistic speakers in the United Methodist Church. He is a senior pastor of one of the United Methodist churches in Huntington, W.Va.

There will be a special children's message at the first and last services and a special counseling service will be available at all four services for those who desire it.

Special music will be performed at the services and some of the musicians include Allen Burklee, the Mountain Anthems, the McHenry Male Chorus, the Frostburg Youth Choir, and Wendy Snyder of the host church. There is ample seating and parking for all who wish to attend.

There will be a special prelude to the four-night event in the form of a prayer meeting at 7 p.m. on Saturday, October 9, at Maranatha Assembly of God.

The Casselman Valley Pastors' Association is comprised of 14 pastors from northern Garrett County and southern Somerset (Pa.) County.

GRANTSVILLE

Mrs. Kathryn Nixon is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

The Maple Grove Church is planning for an international mission program where all who wish can send a towel, soap, and box of iodized salt in packages, and also as many blankets or money for overseas relief. A dedication service is planned along with the 10:30 a.m. worship service. Everyone is welcome, according to the Rev. Terrell Mallow, pastor.

On Sunday, Oct. 10, at 7 p.m., The Heaven Band from the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, will present a gospel program at the Laughlin Church of the Brethren. The public is invited. The Rev. Curtis Ketterman is the pastor.

Robert Beachy and Miss Debbie Dishorn were united in matrimony at the Noah's Ark Church by the Rev. Spence on Saturday. Mrs. Goldie Beachy, grandmother, Mrs. Donna Stahl, and Mrs. Orpha Wisseman attended the wedding, followed by the reception at the Eastern Garrett County fire hall.

The Woodmen of the World held their regular meeting on Monday, Sept. 27, at the Woodmen building, with James Gutherie, president, presiding. Two applications were written for Lodge No. 128. Plans were finalized for the Annual Banquet set for October 16 at 7 p.m. The scrapbook material was ordered.

Burton Lytle, representative, and his son, Edward, were guests. Alice Younkin won the door prize.

Sierra Club To Host Fall Hikes

"To celebrate the arrival of fall and the annual parade of color in our region," the Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club has set a series of Saturday hikes for the last four weeks in October, according to a club spokesperson. The hikes are designed to explore different regions of Allegany and Garrett counties.

The October 9 hike will involve traversing a portion of the Big Savage Mountain Trail, beginning at St. John Rock. The approximately four-hour hike will begin at 10 a.m. St. John Rock is reached by exiting I-68 at Beall School Road, proceeding south and following signs for the Savage Mtn. Trail.

Subsequent Saturdays feature hikes along the C&O Canal towpath from Oldtown to Town Creek Aqueduct (October 16); Popular Lick from New Germany State Park (October 23); and Will's Mountain up from Piedmont Street (October 30).

Hikers should bring appropriate clothing, water, and a light lunch. Each hike will take about four hours and will return to the starting point. The public is invited; Sierra Club membership is not required.

Interested persons are asked to arrive by 10 a.m. on the date specified at the designated place. More information may be obtained by calling 301-895-5881.

QUALITY CUSTOMER SERVICE – Kevin Frazee, left, of Phenix Technologies and Carol Corbin, right, of Buchmann Optical Inc. were among 30 local managers, business owners, and front line service employees who attended a power seminar recently at Garrett Community College on delivering Quality Customer Service. All participants had the opportunity to learn more about the benefits of and principles for delivering service that brings customers back. The seminar included a dynamic presentation by Butch Sumpter, Plant Manager for Bausch & Lomb, and work in focus groups led by Cathy Clecker, Brenda McDonnell, Connie Trickett and Karen Rackner. Several additional customer service-related classes will be offered by the Small Business Development Center at the college this semester. The first class is designed to equip front line service employees and managers with the skills and knowledge they need to deliver customer centered services. It starts October 11. The second class will provide business owners, managers and marketing staff with the opportunity to explore creative ways of having "the right product, at the right place at the right time, and at the right price." It will start October 13. The third class is to help managers develop specific strategies, systems, and procedures to add value to their products and services and build customer loyalty. It will start October 26. Persons wishing to register for any of these classes or obtain additional information, should call Ann White or Sandy Major at the GCC Small Business Development Center at 387-3080.

Dr. Patricia Gotsch

Garrett Medical Group is announcing the addition of Patricia B. Gotsch, M.D. to its staff. Dr. Gotsch will begin the practice of Family Medicine with Obstetrics on Monday, October 18, 1993.

Dr. Gotsch received her undergraduate education at Loyola College in Baltimore, where she graduated summa cum laude in 1984 with a B.S. in Biology. She attended medical school at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine where she received her M.D. degree 1988. Dr. Gotsch completed her residency in Family Practice at Hinsdale Hospital in Hinsdale, Illinois. Subsequent to her residency, Dr. Gotsch joined a private group practice in Downers Grove, Illinois in 1991. While she enjoys the full range of Family Medicine, her special areas of interest are Obstetrics, Gynecology and Pediatrics.

Dr. Gotsch's husband Kenneth is employed by Motorola as a Test Engineer. After relocation, he will be doing similar work as a consultant. Ken and Patricia have two children: Zachary (4) and Abigail (2). As a family, they enjoy a variety of outdoor activities including skiing and hiking. The Gotsch family is looking forward to living and working in the western Maryland/West Virginia area.

To Schedule an appointment with Dr. Gotsch, please call Garrett Medical Group at 301-334-8171

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

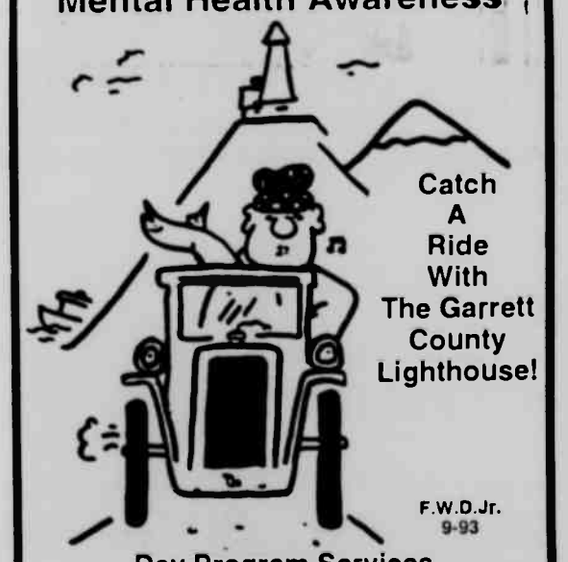
The Windrush Gallery

by Joan B. Crawford

A local couple who have made their love of the outdoors into a business will be launching a new venture next week when they open the Windrush Gallery in their restored historic home in Friendsville.

Crede and Carol Calhoun, commercial photographers who specialize in color brochures and illustrations for clients in tourism, travel, and outdoor recreation industries, have converted the great room of the 95-year old house into an art gallery. Here they plan to have artists display their works for sale and give workshops. Eventually they also plan to have a photography studio, dark room and guest cottage for visiting artists.

An official opening of the Windrush Gallery has been planned for October 12, from 7-9 p.m., with many area artists participating. Among these will be Ken Bauer, Sonia Pratt, Linda Reeves Cook, Chuck Stump, and Ron Skidmore. Some of the unusual art work to be included will be Indian metal sculptures by Crow, son of Shawnee Chief Raincrow; black and white prints by Tico Herrara, recipient of a Gugenheim Foundation grant; watercolor river scenes by Hoyt Reel; wood sculptures by Jeannie Kuhn; and whimsical animal metal sculptures made from discarded farm implements by Robin Nixon. During the wine and cheese reception, the three-woman folk group Trillium will entertain. Interested persons are invited to attend the opening by calling 746-4083.



The Windrush Gallery, named for a river god, is located in the Leslie Friend house overlooking the Youghiogheny River in Friendsville. The house that was built for bank president Leslie Friend and his wife Ida Glotfelty Friend in 1898 and was the first house in the town to have electricity stood unoccupied for 40 years before the Ernie Savage family restored it and subsequently sold it to the Calhouns. Among its features, Crede notes the balloon framing and the original steel roof Carol points out the oak hardwood floors, oak staircase, and the hand planed black walnut and cherry doors.

Many local residents are familiar with the work of Crede Calhoun as he has found subjects for his photography in the natural beauty of this area. As a whitewater guide and former North American telemark skiing amateur champion, he has spent many days with his camera on the rushing rivers and ski slopes of western Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. Among his clients have been the Canaan Valley National Wildlife Refuge, the Adventure Sports Institute at Garrett Community College, the Blackwater Falls recreation area, and the Garrett County Promotion Council. His photographs have appeared in a number of magazines, including Mid-Atlantic Country, Maryland Travel Guide, and West Virginia. Later this year his work will be published in National Geographic Traveler and Audobon.

Carol, who grew up in Toronto and who met Crede on a rafting trip brings to the business extensive experience in sales and marketing. She expresses her enthusiasm for their new venture. "For several years we have been working out of our home. But now we have a place to display works of art. We will always be looking for interesting artists. In the future we want to give workshops for children and adults."

The couple now share their home with their dog, Jake, a part black Lab, part Newfoundland, and a calico cat named Sneakers. They hope that their home on the river will become a focal point for artistic endeavor in the community and beyond.

State Task Force Suggests New High School Assessments

The State Board of Education received recommendations of a state task force last week, calling for new high school assessments that could affect students graduating in 2000.

Following years of study, the Outcome-Based High School Graduation Requirements Task Force recommended the development of the new assessments as requirements for high school graduation.

The assessments would be in two parts. The first part would evaluate students' specific knowledge in English, social studies, mathematics, and science. The second part would measure students' skills or proficiencies that relate to all subject areas, such as problem solving and communication.

By focusing on specific academic knowledge and skills, the high school assessments recommended by the Maryland task force differ from the "outcome-based education" proposed in several other states that include attitudes and values. The proposed assessments, the task force said, should promote education programs and instruction that enable students to apply knowledge according to specified performance standards.

Dr. Joan Palmer, a deputy state superintendent who was head of the task force, said development of the new assessments begins with the question, "What essential proficiencies and content knowledge should the graduate be able to demonstrate?" The answer will become the specific knowledge and skills that determine the range of educational decisions from curriculum and instruction to school organization and allocation of resources.

The academic knowledge and essential skills assessments would eventually be incorporated into programs and courses developed by local school systems. Local school systems will also supplement the state assessments with locally developed assessments, which could include projects and portfolios of students' work.

Palmer said the task force recommends development of the skills part of the assessment through an inclusive process involving the whole range of people with a stake in quality education, including parents, the business community, and local educators, among others.

The new assessments will be designed to encompass existing elements of Maryland's education programs, Palmer said. These include state curricular frameworks, the Maryland School Performance Program, skills assessed in the state financial tests, and graduation requirements revised by the board last year.

The task force report states that the assessment plan will mean setting high expectations of performance for all students while changing instructional methods and time to ensure all students achieve the standards. The task force recommends specific content knowledge standards could be developed to take effect for the class of 2000.

Choose To Lose Class Offered

The Choose To Lose Weight Management Class, sponsored by the Wellness Together Program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department, will begin Monday, October 18, and meet every Monday through December 6 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Class sessions will be held in Garrett Memorial's Community Services Center located between the hospital and the Garrett Medical Group. Kelley Nestor, Wellness Together instructor, will facilitate the course.

The Choose To Lose Weight Loss Program is based upon the nationally acclaimed best selling book, The Choose To Lose Diet, written by Ron Goor and Nancy Goor. "Choose To Lose is a proven weight loss program that is geared toward people who want to lose weight as well as learn better eating habits. The program places an emphasis on learning to make educated choices regarding food intake and incorporate the role of exercise in weight loss and weight maintenance," explained Deborah Nichols, Wellness Together coordinator.

The cost for the course is $60, which covers class and other related materials. Two individuals from the same household may join at a special cost of $75.

For more information about the Choose To Lose Program, persons may contact the Wellness Together Office at (301) 334-2155, ext. 443.

State Board Notes Shortages Of Teachers

The State Board of Education recently designated special education and three areas of science as teaching fields of critical shortage. The board also designated Baltimore City and Allegany, Garrett, Caroline, and Somerset counties as geographical areas of teacher shortages.

The board's action directs funds under the Sharon Christa McAuliffe Tuition Assistance Program to teachers who train in the shortage areas. Teachers who receive tuition assistance under the program receive special consideration if they teach in a field or jurisdiction designated as a shortage area.

The report projects that during the current year, local school systems will hire 2,947 teachers out of an available total supply of 3,301 teachers. Despite this relative overall balance, there are serious imbalances in some teaching fields. In general special education for grades 6-12, supply was only 28% of demand. In the three science fields designated as shortage areas, supply was 27% of demand in general science, 65% in earth/space science, and 73% in physics.

In mathematics, often a shortage area in past years, the supply of qualified teachers was a third greater than the demand. The report attributes this change at least in part to a response to earlier reports that there was a need for mathematics teachers.

The report shows that the number of minorities graduating from the state's teacher education programs has increased from a low of 5.8% in 1988-89 to 10.2% in 1992-93. The number of minority teachers hired has increased from 14% in 1989 to 20% in 1992.

Teacher recruitment efforts in recent years have sought to bring more minority teachers in the state's classrooms to achieve a closer racial balance between teachers and students. In 1992, 21.4% of school staffs statewide were minority while 40% of the students were minority.

Kelly A. Friend Will Reign As 26th Autumn Glory Festival Queen

Kelly A. Friend, Accident, will reign as queen of Garrett County 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held October 14-17 in downtown Oakland and the surrounding area.

Miss Friend is a senior at Northern High School and is active in a variety of school activities. She is currently class president, Student Council representative, and a cheerleader. She is a member of the Recycling Club, Amnesty International, and the Leadership Club, and was organizer and overseer of the Prom Promise '93 Celebration.

She has won numerous scholastic awards, including the TAM Science Award in 1993, recognition by the U.S. Achievement Academy as an All-American Scholar, listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students for two years, honorable mention in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program in the Artistic Talent Division, and was Outstanding Student of the Year last year.

Kelly resides in Accident with her parents, James and Esther Friend, and is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren and Youth Group. She plans to pursue a four-year degree in business administration with concentrations in Spanish and communications. She is currently employed by Josie's Restaurant in McHenry.

Miss Friend will be accompanied throughout the Autumn Glory Festival by Princesses Jennifer Rider of Northern High School and Tatum Shomo of Southern High School.

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Autumn Glory Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550-1581, telephone (301) 334-1948.

Jennifer Rider, Tatum Shomo To Serve As Autumn Glory Princesses

JENNIFER RIDER

TATUM SHOMO

Jennifer Rider and Tatum Shomo have been named princesses for the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival slated for October 14-17 in downtown Oakland, and the surrounding area. Kelly Friend, Accident, will reign as queen (see separate story).

Miss Rider is a senior at Northern High School, where she is secretary of the National Honor Society, a member of the Academic Team, Student Council, track team, and cheerleading squad, and is the Prom Promise chairperson. She plans to major in pre-medicine at St. Mary's College after her high school graduation. She is the daughter of Tom and Diane Ruckert, Grantsville.

Miss Shomo is a senior at Southern High School, where she is involved in varsity cheerleading as co-captain, is editor of the yearbook, president of the Student Council, treasurer of Garrett County Association of Student Councils, a member of the National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, and the World Affairs Team. She has won numerous awards, including the National Science Merit Award, U.S. Achievement Academy, and Who's Who Among American High School Students. Tatum plans to pursue further education as a medical student. She is the daughter of Loyd and Kim Shomo, Mtn. Lake Park.

During the festival, Jennifer and Tatum will participate in the Firemen's Parade Thursday evening, the Saturday's Grand Feature Parade, as well as numerous other festival events, and will assist in awarding trophies to winners of the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle championships Saturday evening.

For more information about the festival or a free brochure, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

CELEBRATE THE GLORY-- The Garrett County Commissioners have officially designated the week of October 10-17, as "Celebrate the Glory" Week to showcase Garrett County's 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held October 14-17, at the peak of the fall foliage season. As part of the "Celebrate the Glory" campaign, numerous Promotion Council members will participate in the "Best Dressed Business" Contest and local residents and businesses are requested to decorate their windows to help showcase Garrett County during the festival. Pictured in the above photo are Garrett County Commissioners Brenda J. Butscher, Elwood L. Groves, II, and John G. Breskey, Cathy Clocker, "Celebrate the Glory" committee chairmen and Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council board member, and Diane Wolfe, Promotion Council executive director.

Festival To Feature Arts, Crafts, Antiques

Garrett County's 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held October 14-17, will feature the Fine Arts Exhibit of Garrett County Artists' paintings, drawings, and prints at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland Tuesday through Saturday, sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council; the 20th Annual Civic Club Antique Show and Sale Friday through Sunday at the National Guard Armory, 8th and High streets; the Autumn Glory Contemporary Craft Show Saturday and Sunday at the Dennett Road Elementary School gym and cafeteria on Dennett Road; and the 14th Annual Heritage Craft Festival, also Saturday and Sunday, at Broad Ford Elementary School on Harvey Winters Drive. These shows offer unique artwork, antiques, and craft items on display and for sale throughout the festival.

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone (301) 334-1948

AN AEROBATIC AIR SHOW by Clancy Spaal of Pittsburgh will be among the highlights of the ninth annual Greater Gortner Airport Fly-In, slated for October 17 beginning at noon. The fly-in is usually held earlier in the season, but was moved to this date to coincide with the Autumn Glory Festival. Other activities that afternoon will include an airplane candy drop for children, airplane rides, aircraft displays, live entertainment, a petting zoo, and concessions. The Greater Gortner Airport is located just off Blue Ribbon Road, which turns left off U.S. Rt. 219 about five miles south of Oakland. Admission to the fly-in is $2, with children age 6 and under admitted free.

Greater Gortner Airport Fly-in Set For Oct. 17

The Ninth Annual Greater Gortner Airport Fly-In will be held Sunday, October 17, beginning at noon, at the Gortner Airport, located five miles south of Oakland, off of Blue Ribbon Road, as part of Garrett County's 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival.

The fly-in offers entertainment for all ages, including an air show with aerobatic performances by Clancy Speal from Pittsburgh. His performance will feature the low-level roll on takeoff; four- and eight-point vertical hesitation rolls, tail slides, the Lomcevak and the knife edge.

Skydiving, an airplane candy drop for children, airplane rides all day, aircraft displays, helicopter displays, live entertainment by local groups, Shriner clowns and exhibits are also on the agenda. There will also be displays of antique engines and equipment by the Maryland Army National Guard, a petting zoo, concessions, and drawings for prizes by local merchants. Admission to the fly-in is $2 for adults and free for children age 6 and under.

More information or a free festival brochure may be obtained by contacting the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third St., Oakland, MD 21550-1581; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Banjo And Fiddle Championships Are Festival Events

An annual part of the Autumn Glory Festival, the "Official" Maryland State Banjo and State Fiddle Championships, will be held at the Southern High School gymnasium in Oakland on Saturday, Oct. 16.

These contests feature competitions between top banjo and fiddle players from numerous states. Trophies and prize money will be awarded to the top four banjo contestants, with a special award for the best "old-time" banjo player.

Fiddle contestants will be judged in three amateur categories--age 60 and over, 13-59, and youth (12 and under). First, second and third-place winners in the adult categories will be awarded prize money and trophies, and prize money and medals will be awarded in the youth category. The fiddle contest will also feature a Professional/Championship category, with prize money awarded to first and second-place winners.

The State Banjo Championship begins at 7 p.m., followed by the Fiddle Championship at approximately 8 p.m. Contestants should register for each event one hour prior to the contest and doors will open at 6:15 p.m. Refreshments will be available and seating is limited. Admission is $7.50 for adults and $3.00 for children under 12.

These contests are sponsored by First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, and funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council. Advance tickets are available at First Federal's Oakland office and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550-1581, telephone (301) 334-1948.

Autumn Glory Festival Events Slated In Parks

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), State Forest and Park Service has announced Autumn Glory Festival events scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 17.

There will be a pancake breakfast from 9 to 11 a.m. at beach pavilion #6 of the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area, featuring "all you can eat" pancakes, sausage, juice, and hot drinks for $5. Children eat for $2.50. Park Naturalist Diane Miller will lead a hike to the Historic Brant Mine. Hikers should meet at the camp check-in office of the park. At the mine site Jim Preston will give a brief presentation describing the coal miner and the mining industry during the early 1900's. In addition, participants will visit the Brant Homestead site.

From 1 to 3 p.m. Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area will be offering guided pontoon boat tours to allow participants to enjoy the fall colors from the lake. Those interested in signing up for the tours should call the park office at 387-5563. The cost will be $5 per adult and $2.50 for children. Seats will be reserved on a first-come, first-served basis. In the event of poor weather conditions the tour will be canceled.

For more information on these or other park activities, persons may contact Diane Miller at 387-5563.

Ricky Skaggs To Perform In Concert During 26th Annual Autumn Glory

Country music star Ricky Skaggs will perform m concert Friday, October 15, in the Southern High School Gymnasium in Oakland during the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, with shows at 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Skaggs was born in Cordell, Ky., and began his musical career singing harmonies with his mother in church and at family gatherings at the age of 3. At age 5, he began to learn to play the mandolin and later became proficient on the guitar, banjo, fiddle, telecaster, and mandocaster. In 1975, he formed his own group "Boone Creek" and began experimenting with ways to crossbreed country and bluegrass with jazz, folk, and rock.

In 1980, Skaggs wrote the arrangements for Emmylou Harris' album "Roses in the Snow." He moved to Nashville that same year and became a part-time fiddler for The Whites.

Skaggs records on the Epic label and his album awards include "Waitin' for the Sun to Shine," "Highways & Heartaches," "Don't Cheat in Our Hometown," all gold albums in the U.S. and platinum in Canada, and "Country Boy," gold in Canada. The "Don't Cheat in Our Hometown" album in 1983 was listed by People Magazine as the only country music album in their 10 Best of the 80's.

Skaggs has also won numerous awards, including the Country Music Association's Entertainer of the Year, Instrumentalist of the Year, and Vocal Duo of the Year with his wife, Sharon White, and the Academy of Country Music Touring Band of the Year. He was inducted into the Grand Ole Opry in 1982 as their 61st and youngest member at the time, and has performed on a wide variety of major TV networks.

Reserved tickets for the concert have been sold out; however, general admission tickets are still available for $15 each and may be purchased at the following locations: Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville, Friendsville Pharmacy; Englander's, Proudfoot's, and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland; and at the Promotion Council Office in the courthouse. If any tickets remain by the evening of the concert, they will be sold at the door.

PARADE ROAD CLOSINGS -- In conjunction with State Highway Administration recommendations, as has been customary with previous Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature paradss, some of the roads near Oakland will be closed for the parade. The above map indicates streets and roads which will be closed from 11 a.m. until after the parade ends on Saturday, October 16. Center Street will be open until 12:45 p.m. for cross-town traffic only. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open only to permit holders and for southbound traffic only. All other traffic will be routed via Fourth Street, and permits will be available from the Promotion Council office for festival participants and local businesses whose employees require access to downtown Oakland after 11 a.m. After 11 a.m., pedestrians and off-road-vehicles will be using the parade route, so drivers are urged to exercise extreme caution when driving in that area. Persons who need permits for use in the management of a business on the day of the parade are asked to contact the Promotion Council office immediately. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on Wilson Street. Because of construction on the Route 219 Bridge, all traffic using Route 39 from 11 a.m. until the parade ends will be routed via Underwood and Monte Vista roads to Routes 219 and 135 (see map below).

Road Closings, Detours Scheduled For 26th Grand Feature Parade

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards in recent years, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, which will be sponsored by First United National Bank & Trust. The adjacent maps of Oakland indicate road closings on Saturday, October 16.

As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory Festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade; however, the festival committee requests that local residents note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 16, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the American Trust Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, October 16, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders only and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street or on Memorial Drive from Route 219 to Eighth Street.

Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.; U.S. Route 219 between Fourth Street and Oak Street, Memorial Drive between Third Street and Fourth

Liars Needed For Autumn Glory Storytelling Event

The Tall Tale Liars' Storytelling Festival will be held in conjunction with the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival on Saturday, Oct. 16, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 316 East Oak Street, Oakland.

This festival is coordinated by Dr. Gail N. Herman, professional storyteller. "The truth can sometimes be absolutely outrageous and lies can often sound truer than the truth itself," said Dr. Herman. "Fact is often sprinkled with an enthusiastic joining together of fantastic memories to create tall tales, whoppers, and first-person humorous yarns. Traditionally, from Appalachia to the Ozarks, fishermen, hunters, loggers, and industrial workers have improved on actual happenings with exaggerated marvels. While being entertained, the listener is also introduced to the teller's nostalgia for the good old days and perhaps even a little resentment of the machine-addicted modern society."

Herman said that, although tails of various occupations and backwoods life are also good reading, they only come to life when the tall tale teller improvises them for the listeners. In some states, these stories were traditionally told from the "liar's bench" where a person might go and be sure of an audience at any time of day.

Local and out-of-town storytellers and community people are invited to tell tall tales and "true" personal stories, and there will also be a presentation of tall tales by children. Tellers are invited to contact Dr. Herman at Route 2, Lodge Circle, Sky Valley, Swanton, MD 21561, (301) 387-9199, to register for telling tales at the event. Prizes will be awarded.

Admission to this contest is $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and children ages 4-12. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

This event is sponsored by the American Association of University Women for the benefit of the Tapestry of Talent Student Storytelling Festival of Garrett County. For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 334-1948.

Street; and Pennington, Crook and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street.

Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Signs advising travelers of the detour will be provided by the Maryland State Highway Administration, and personnel helping travelers at closed roads will be provided by Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and the Oakland Police Department.

Permits are being issued by the festival committee to local merchants and festival participants who need to go through the roadblock on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The units of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will set up within the closed area, and the parade will begin at 1 p.m. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on Wilson Street.

Because of construction on the Route 39 Bridge, all traffic using Route 39 from 11 a.m until the parade ends will be routed via Underwood and Monte Vista roads to Routes 219 and 135. In order to alleviate potential traffic congestion, local merchants are requested to schedule large deliveries at times other than when the detour is in effect. All roads will be open to traffic again as soon as possible after the conclusion of the parade.

For more information, persons may call 334-1948.

Oakland VFD To Host Meal, Parade, Oktoberfest During Autumn Glory

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will open Garrett County's 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival with a variety of events on Thursday, October 14, in downtown Oakland.

The first event on the Autumn Glory agenda will be an Oktoberfest meal at the Oakland fire hall on Third Street, featuring German-style food and drink. Advance tickets for the dinner will be on sale at noon at the fire hall, and the meal will be served from 4-7:30 p.m.

The Firemen's Parade at 7 p.m. will feature bands, drill teams, fire equipment, antique fire apparatus and rescue apparatus from the surrounding area. Participating departments are judged in several categories. Firemen from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the surrounding areas are invited to join the parade. Prior to the parade, apparatus judging will be held at the Farmers' Market parking lot on Route 219 north of Oakland from 5:30 p.m. until parade time.

Wrapping up the evening will be the annual Oktoberfest Celebration, beginning at about 8 p.m. at the fire hall. The celebration includes German-style food, drink, and the OVFD Oktoberfest Band, directed by Manning Smith. The Fireman of the Year Award and the Training Award will be presented at this time by the Garrett County Firemen's Association. There is no admission charge.

For more information on this event or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Do You Know ...

... Why deciduous trees lose their leaves?

The weather has nothing to do with the fall change of colors. The shortening days and lengthening nights are a warning that winter is approaching and causes trees to release a hormone that restricts the flow of sap to each leaf. As autumn progresses, the sap flow slows and chlorophyll, the chemical that gives the leaves their color, disappears. Leaves both require more water and lose more water through osmosis than any other part of the tree. The loss of those leaves is a survival technique to cope with winter's frozen ground, when trees are unable to draw water.

... Why evergreens stay green all winter?

The surface area of evergreen leaves or needles is much less than deciduous trees, so they lose much less water through evaporation. Evergreens do lose their foliage, but not all at one time. Leaves and needles live from one to six years, depending on the species. New leaves or needles are produced each year and some of the old ones die and fall to the ground. This is not as noticeable because the new leaves or needles generally conceal the older ones.

... Why leaves change colors?

Some of the pigments that produce the oranges and yellows are present in the leaves all summer, but are masked by the green chlorophyll which converts sunlight, carbon dioxide and water into the sugars that feed the tree. As the tree begins to shut down its food-making processes, some of the chlorophyll is drawn back into the twigs and trunk revealing some of the fall colors. Warm, sunny days and cool nights combine to trap some of the sugars in the leaves which result in brilliant reds. The breakdown of other chemicals in leaves produces bronze, purple, orange and crimson.

... What purpose the leaves serve on the ground?

As the leaves die and fall to the ground, the trees grow dormant for the winter. The leaves, which through the spring and summer months convert carbon dioxide to oxygen, now take up another task, enriching the soil and providing nutrients for future generations of trees.

Lots of Music To Highlight 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival

A variety of musical entertainment is scheduled for the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, set for October 14-17, beginning with the Firemen's Oktoberfest Celebration. The Oakland VFD German-style "oompah" band will begin playing immediately following the Firemen's Parade on Thursday, October 14, at the Oakland Fire Hall on Third Street.

Friday afternoon's "Celebrate the Glory" Festivities at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland Town Parking Lot will feature the Country Dock Cloggers of Prince Frederick, the local Buffalo Run Band, and other groups. Friday evening's entertainment will feature country music star Ricky Skaggs in two concerts at 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. at the Southern High School Gymnasium in Oakland, with performances by the Beaver Creek Bluegrass Band 45 minutes prior to each show. Admission is $15 per person.

The Country Dock Cloggers will perform again at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 16, on Second Street in front of Proudfoot's Pharmacy in downtown Oakland. Bagpipe concerts will also be performed by the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums on Saturday, at 11 a.m. in front of the Grand Feature Parade reviewing stand on Second Street and at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, October 17, at St. John's Episcopal Church on Route 135 in Deer Park. Admission is free to both concerts.

Also on Saturday, in front of the parade reviewing stand, the "Light" Singers, hosted by the Pleasant View Baptist Church outside Oakland, will perform gospel music from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Saturday evening will feature the "Official" Maryland State 5-String Banjo and Fiddle Championship, sponsored by First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, at 7 p.m. at the Southern High School gym. Admission is $7.50 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

The Mt. Top Promenaders will perform Western style square and round dance demonstrations from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturday in front of Proudfoot's Pharmacy and will host an Autumn Glory square and round dance on Sunday, October 17, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Southern Middle School cafeteria.

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone (301) 334-1948.

WORKER B

Nothing works harder than our B7100 HSD tractor. From home use to commercial applications, this 16 HP tractor is just right for all kinds of jobs.

The B7100 HSD comes with a hydrostatic transmission that means there are no gears to shift. Press your toes on the pedal and you go forward. Put your heel down and you back up. Simple.

This four-wheel drive compact tractor is powered by a Kubota liquid-cooled diesel engine. Mid and rear PTO plus hydraulic three point hitch provide great implement selection to perform many chores.

So if you're looking for a hard worker, look no further than Kubota's worker B7100 HSD tractor.

Kubota.

Toll-Free Fall Foliage Hotline Now Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that beginning Monday, September 27, a toll-free Fall Foliage Hotline will offer weekly updates on fall colors, festivals, and celebrations.

By dialing 1-800-VIEW-TREES (1-800-843-9873), callers can listen to a three-minute summary of where the Maryland foliage is reaching its fall peak of red, gold, orange and scarlet. Updates weekly, the hotline also will feature the state's top fall festivals and celebrations.

The Fall Foliage Hotline is produced by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, a program of the Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED), with assistance from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Fall is when Maryland shows its true colors. The Fall Foliage Hotline gives callers inside information on where to find the most spectacular colors," said Governor Schaefer.

Information about things to do and see in Maryland this fall also is listed in the new Fall Travel Guide. The public may obtain free copies of the state's fall travel kit, including the new travel guide, by calling the Fall Foliage Hotline.

"Autumn is a great time to tour Maryland. The weather is cooler and nature provides a brilliant backdrop for every kind of activity -- biking on the C&O Canal Towpath, antiquing in Frederick County, or just taking a quiet stroll on Ocean City's boardwalk," said George Williams, director of the Maryland Office of Tourism Development.

DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., urged citizens to visit some of the more than 300,000 acres of public lands in Maryland. There is no better time of year to walk, bike or camp and appreciate the beauty of nature than in the fall, and no better place to do that in our state forest and parks, " he said. "Not only are the leaves offering spectacular displays, but the geese and waterfowl are arriving and it is the best time of year to watch deer and other wildlife."

Maryland's fall line-up includes festivals and events from Western Maryland to the Eastern Shore. The Autumn Glory Festival in Garrett County celebrates the peak of Western Maryland's fall foliage October 14-17. For information, the public may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council at (301) 334-1948.

Patuxent River Appreciation Days will be held October 9-10 at the Calvert Marine Museum in Solomons, Calvert County. For information, the public may cal (410) 326-2042.

The Waterfowl Festival November 12-14 in Easton, Talbot County, brings together 500 of the nation's prestigious wildlife artists, presenting the finest in paintings, carvings and antique decoys. For information, the public may contact the festival office at (410) 822-4567.

Those who want to enjoy quiet and solitude in a quaint setting can head to Maryland's Eastern Shore and stroll the quaint streets of St. Michaels and Oxford.

The Maryland Office of Tourism Development estimates that more than 40 percent of travelers to Maryland visit the state during the fall months.

A very special welcome to all of our autumn visitors at this year's Autumn Glory Festival. Garrett County loves to show off its colors and I invite you back for our other beautiful seasons.

Drop by our office and say hello. It's always great to make a new friend.

Sincerely,

Rob Michael

Brilliant Colors Signal Beginning Of Autumn

The brilliance of the crimson and orange maples, cast against the conifers' greens and the lemon-yellow poplars, are sights with a moving power for which there are no words. They are nature's fall fireworks, to be appreciated with oooohs, aaahhs and perhaps an oh my.

Autumn is here, preparing us for change with the arrival of the geese, shorter days and cooler nights, pumpkins ready for harvest and the most visible change--the fall foliage.

It is one of nature's wonders, that with all our scientific knowledge even those who study trees cannot with certainty predict whether this fall's display will be just average or something spectacular.

Where To Go

At this time of year there is beauty everywhere. For John Riley, Maryland's State Forester, the most beautiful places to see fall's colors are in Western Maryland.

"Herrington Manor and New Germany state parks offer thrilling contrasts of maples and cherry set against the green conifers and reflected in blue lakes," he says.

Then, there is Savage River State Forest.

"You have to see Monroe Run, from the overlook, looking down for five miles toward Savage River, to appreciate the natural beauty of Garrett County, especially in the fall," Riley says.

His favorite spot, though, is reached by following a dirt road through Savage River State Forest, north of Route 40, toward Keyser's Ridge.

"It is my favorite place in Maryland, with oak trees, maple and poplar and hollows filled with hemlock, beech and cherry."

Closer to the metropolitan areas, Cunningham Falls State Park in Frederick County offers mountains with beautiful vistas of maples, oak, ash, hickory, black gum and hemlock. Bill Miller, the park manager, says that hiking the 1½-mile trail to either Cat Rock or Bob's Hill will reward the hiker with a splendid fall panorama.

Gunpowder Falls State Park in Baltimore and Harford counties also offers a wide range of fall foliage opportunities. The Hereford area, on the Gunpowder River just below Pretty Boy Dam, offers interesting rock outcroppings in the midst of the fall colors. The hiking trails, along the river in this area are moderate to difficult, but offer a beautiful contrast of foliage, stone and river.

The Northern Central Rail (NCR) Trail, part of Gunpowder Falls State Park, offers easier walking or biking through the woods and farm fields of Baltimore County. The renovated Monkton train station, which is on the trail, is now a visitors center and a slice of Maryland railroad history.

Falls Ranger Peyton Taylor, a well kept secret is how pretty the Hammerman Area is in the fall. Unlike the summer, there are no crowds and its open fields and picnic area offer a majestic view across the Gunpowder River.

Merkle Wildlife Sanctuary in Prince George's County is on the Patuxent River and contains open fields, wetlands and forests. Its fall colors include the crimson of the red maple, the poplars' lemon yellow, the magenta sassafras and the burnished yellow of the American beech.

Merkle's fall display also includes mallards, black and wood ducks, green and blue-winged teal, and thousands of Canada geese. On Sundays, between noon and 3 p.m., you can take a four-mile driving tour from Patuxent River Park at Jug Bay to the Merkle Visitors' Center. There are interpretive signs along the way, a 1,000-foot wooden bridge crossing the marsh at Mattapomi Creek, and a 40-foot observation tower overlooking the Patuxent River.

The colorful leaves will peak during the first two weeks of October in Garrett and Allegany counties, in mid-October in the lower elevations of Washington and Frederick counties, and toward the end of the month in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOL. NO. 116 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1993 | PER COPY 35¢ | Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

NO. 33

WHEN THE SUN SHINETH, MAKE HAY, but after the hay is made, toss some of it on an old hay wagon and hitch it to the farm tractor and away you go - the autumn hay ride. That's just what the members of Selbysport United Methodist Church did recently as they enjoyed a hay ride through the crimson-amber-copper-colored countryside that makes Garrett County such a splendid place this time of year. And which is why visionaries 26 years ago decided to have a festival that would celebrate the fall season and share it with people who only see tall office buildings and busy streets most of the year. Many people-pleasing events are planned throughout the county this weekend and a list of those events appeared in the Splendour tabloid that appeared in last week's edition of The Republican. Copies of that tabloid may still be obtained at the Promotion Council Office at the Courthouse or at many local businesses in the county. Photo by C. Speicher.

Recommendations Sent To Governor For Judgeships

Two attorney's and one sitting judge's names were submitted to Governor William Donald Schaefer who will soon be appointing judges for Garrett County District and Circuit courts.

A 13-member Judicial Nominating Committee, chaired by Hugh A. McMullen, recommended Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer who is seeking reappointment for his own position, and former State's Attorney Ralph M. Burnett and current State's Attorney James L. Sherbin.

Thayer's judgeship requires a general election in 1994.

Also applying for the District Court judgeship was local attorney, Robert Hesson, who did not receive a recommendation from the nominating committee.

The District Court judgeship became vacant in September when Judge Jack R. Turney retired after sitting on the bench for over 11 years.

Rash Of Serious Vandalism Reported To Local Police

Numerous local persons were victims in a rash of costly vandalism last weekend that occurred at several Mtn. Lake Park and Oakland homes and businesses. Oakland City Police Chief John Smes reported that the total loss from the vandalism is over $10,000.

The rear windows or windshields of nearly 20 vehicles were shattered with rocks on the night of Oct. 8 or early morning of the following day. The vandals were apparently riding in a vehicle as the incidents were widespread in the southern end of the county.

The victims who were left with shattered car windows and other damage included Mtn. Lake Park residents Tim Miller, Gary Turnev, Patty Hickey, Leo Stottle-

AUTUMN GLORY DIGNITARIES gathered for a photo session last night at the Kick-Off Dinner at the Wisp Resort in McHenry for the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. Kelly Friend, a senior at Northern High School, was crowned queen of the festivities. Kelly currently serves as class president, Student Council representative, and a cheerleader. She is a member of the Recycling Club, Amnesty International, and the Leadership Club. She was also organizer and overseer of the Prom Promise '93 Celebration. She has also won numerous scholastic awards. She resides in Accident with her parents, James and Esther Friend, and is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren and its youth group. She will be accompanied throughout the festival by Princesses Jennifer Rider, Northern High School, and Tatum Shomo, Southern High School. Pictured left to right are Karen Spiker, president of the Deep Creek Lake Garrett County Promotion Council; Art Naylor, named Honorary Golden Ambassador for this year's festival (see seperate photo and information below); Kelly Friend, Autumn Glory Queen; and Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Promotion Council.

Friday Autumn Glory Activities Are Announced

As part of the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, a variety of "Celebrate the Glory" festivities are scheduled for Friday, October 15, in downtown Oakland, beginning with the Greater Oakland Business Association's (GOBA's) Scavenger Hunt, starting at 9:30 a.m. and continuing until 5 p.m. The schedule of events is as follows:

9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. - GOBA Scavenger Hunt -- Registration at Presentations on Alder St.

10 a.m. - 5 p.m. - Mountain Fresh Producers' Association Farmers' Market, featuring arts and crafts, baked goods, flowers, maple syrup, pumpkin painting, and cider-making demonstrations, coffee, and hot chocolate.

Noon - 5 p.m. - Festivities at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland Town Parking Lot: face painting for children, photos with Barney, the purple dinosaur, and antique car display.

12:30 p.m. - Performances by Pat Morfoot on the Hammered Dulcimer.

Education Bd. Addresses Consolidation, Capital Improvement, School Nurse Need

The consolidation of the Loch Lynn and Red House elementary schools, the capital improvement program, and the dire need of more school nurses were among the topics at the regular meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education on Tuesday. Several topics were of interest to parents and teachers, resulting in a major portion of the meeting being held in the planetarium classroom because of the number of citizens present.

Described as an "emotional issue" by Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent, the proposed consolidation of Red House and Loch Lynn elementary schools was discussed. Suzanne Sincell, a representative of the Southern Area Elementary Study Committee (SAESC), reviewed the task charged the committee and gave the group's recommendations, which were based on issues including student enrollment trends, the condition of school buildings, financial considerations, impact on communities, and other items.

Concerning the committee's task of reviewing the study of Loch Lynn and Red House schools, the finding and recommendation of the SAESC was a reaffirmation of the previous recommendation to construct a new building to replace the existing schools. SAESC suggested that the education board and the Garrett County Commissioners explore the possibility of centrally locating the new school between the two present school districts, and further that the new facility be configured as a pre-kindergarten through fifth grade with a capacity of approximately 350 students.

The rationale for this recommendation was based, Mrs. Sincell said, on the present condition of the two existing schools and the costly, unlikely possibility of renovating the structures. The price of renovation would exceed construction, according to the SAESC report.

Several concerned parents were in attendance for the committee's report, and Lisa Skipper read a letter to the board urging them to strongly support the idea of a centralized location for the new building. Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent, explained that because of the Land Act of 1992, the most likely location for the school at the present is within the Loch Lynn city limits.

"This is because of the Land Act," he said, "which mandates that all new public

MDOT Officials To Review Local Highway Projects

Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT) representatives will meet with local officials on Friday, October 22, beginning at 9 a.m., at the Garrett County Courthouse to discuss transportation issues and proposed capital projects in the county. The meeting is part of a two-month tour throughout the state by MDOT.

MDOT Secretary O. James Lighthizer will lead the review of the capital program, which includes highway and transit projects, as well as other key transportation programs proposed to take place between 1994 and 1999.

The meetings provide the opportunity for state and local officials to exchange information on transportation issues and construction projects before plans are finalized and sent to Governor William Donald Schaefer for his review and approval.

The final version of the capital program will be presented to the Maryland General Assembly in January.

Vision 2004 Slated At GCC

In these days of invention and re-inventions, Garrett Community College has set a date for looking into the future and "Inventing Tomorrow." Vision 2004, which will bring together college trustees, faculty, staff, students, and community members, has been scheduled for Friday, November 5, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

According to President Dr. Steve Herman, Garrett Community College has reached a plateau in achieving institutional stability, strength, and quality. "Now is the time," he said, "for the next step forward -- a bold initiative to achieve excellence, to become the nation's best small rural community college. To accomplish such an ambitious goal, GCC must coalesce the energies and dedication of faculty, staff, students and community. The best way to forge unified commitment to a vision is to create it together."

The Vision 2004 Convention will have a workshop format, with participants divided into working groups, each assigned a topic on which it will frame a vision. These group visions will then be woven together into a comprehensive picture of what GCC will be in 10 years.

Persons interested in participating in Vision 2004 should call the president's office at 301-387-3056.

Public Hearing Held On Rec Plan Update

Only one local citizen attended a public hearing this week held to determine if the concept of developing an indoor pool and fitness center in the county should be included in the recently updated Garrett County Land preservation and Recreation Plan.

Jerome Plauger, Deer Park, told the Garrett County Commissioners that he felt such a proposal was not in keeping with the board's typically "frugal" manner of governing.

"You know we don't have the money," said Plauger, "You've pushed to keep the tax rate the same for several years. Personally, I'd like to see it go lower. I think the public can trust that you'll keep that in mind."

John Nelson, director of Garrett County Planning and Zoning, then explained that actual plans and location for an indoor pool and fitness center have not been included in the master plan but rather the concept and the need for one.

A letter written by Charles "Bus" Bender, chairperson of the Garrett County Planning Commission, to the commissioners on September 9 stated that the Planning Commission recommends that "additional recreational facilities are required to meet close-to-home recreation needs. The steps to accomplish this are enlarging winter trail systems as well as seasonal biking and hiking trails, providing elderly and handicapped access to recreational area, increasing boat access points, increasing opportunities for swimming, and investing in facilities within neighborhood and community parks."

Commissioner Elwood Groves stated that persons interested in commenting on the inclusion to the master plan would have 10 days (from Tuesday) to do so.

Potomac Engineering, Inc., was contracted by the Planning Commission to perform the update of the recreation plan.

Skaggs Concert Tickets Remain

Although all of the reserved seating tickets for Friday night's concert by country/western star Ricky Skaggs at Southern High School have been sold out, plenty of general admission tickets are still available, according to Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

Tickets are available at most local pharmacies and will also be available at the door if any remain by concert time.

HONORARY GOLDEN AMBASSADORS - Former Honorary Golden Ambassador Lynn Beckman, left, passed the medal to this year's Honorary Golden Ambassador Arthur Naylor at the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Kick-Off Dinner held last night at the Wisp Resort. Born and reared in Garrett County, Naylor is a former president and board member of the Deep Creek Lake - Garrett County Promotion Council and was one of the founders of the Autumn Glory Festival, once called the Turkey Festival when city dwellers rode the train to beautiful Garrett County and ate turkey dinners. Before his retirement, Naylor was president of the Naylor Corporation. He served on the Garrett National Bank's Board of Directors from 1960 until 1992. He was also a founder of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library and a former member of the Oakland Rotary Club. He now serves as an Oakland town councilman and a member of the Board of Directors for The Lighthouse. Naylor resides in Oakland with his wife, Betty. They are the parents of three grown children, Jenne, Milton, and Paul, and have six grandchildren. Naylor will participate in the Grand Feature Parade on Saturday and several other events planned for the Autumn Glory Weekend. Honorary Golden Ambassadors are selected based on the contributions they have made to promote development and tourism in Garrett County.

LOCAL SOLDIER HURT IN SOMALIA - Specialist James (Brian) McCroskey of B Company, third 75th Ranger Regiment of the United States Army, formerly of Deer Park, was serving in Somalia when his regiment fell under heavy attack, making headlines throughout the world. McCroskey was among the soldiers injured in the assault, shot in the left arm. The soldier apparently witnessed the deaths of two companions during the attack. He was transported to a Somalian hospital where he underwent surgery, and was transferred to a German hospital where he was operated on again. McCroskey was then flown to the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C. Finally, he was transferred to the Martin Army Hospital at Fort Benning, Ga., where he underwent yet another operation on his arm. According to a family member, he sustained some nerve damage from the gunshot wound and will require a series of surgeries within the coming weeks. Having been temporarily released from the hospital, McCroskey and his wife, the former Jodi Lynn Elliot, are expected to arrive home in Deer Park for the weekend, the family member said. A 1991 graduate of Southern High School, the soldier is the son of Joe and Debbie McCroskey, Deer Park.

Sex Offender To Spend Three Years In State Prison

An Oakland man found guilty of third degree sex offense was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Clarence D. Crosco, 74, was remanded to the custody of the correctional prison by order of Fred A. Thayer, presiding judge.

Crosco was charged with the sex offense as well as fourth degree sex offense and assault and battery. The latter charges were merged with count one, according to the court document. He was found guilty in an August jury trial.

The defendant was brought up on the charges after he apparently engaged in sexual contact with a 9-year-old female in September 1992. The incident took place at an Oakland residence, according to the report.

In a separate case, an Oakland man appealed a Garrett County District Court conviction and the case was not prosecuted by order of James Sherbin, state's attorney. Steven E. Ervin, 43, was found guilty in district court of malicious destruction of property, having been accused of shooting two dogs.

Ervin appealed the guilty verdict of the district court judge, who fined him $250 and ordered him to six months of unsupervised probation. Sherbin's order to not prosecute ended the case, with Ervin being refunded the fine ($150 of which had been suspended), and the probation being stricken.

BEST DRESSED BUSINESS - The Town Motel in Oakland, owned and operated by Norman and Janice Hankins, has been named as the winner of the 1993 "Celebrate the Glory" Best Dressed Business Competition, held as part of the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. The competition featured 35 participants throughout the county who decorated their business to celebrate the glory of the fall foliage season and the Autumn Glory Festival. Participants were judged in a variety of criteria, including decorations pertaining to a fall theme, originality of display, overall impact, and decorations promoting the festival. The second place winner is Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Lake, and third place winner is Cuppett Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland. The Town Motel was awarded a plaque designating them as the "Best Dressed Business" and the perpetual "Celebrate the Glory" banner to display. Pictured in the above photo are Diane Wolfe, executive director, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, presenting the plaque to Norman and Janice Hankins.

Explosion At Wisp Hotel Being Probed By MSP

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, are currently investigating an explosion that occurred in Room 604 of the Wisp Resort Hotel in McHenry late Friday night.

Ofc. W.L. Mowbray indicated in a news release that a large firecracker possible quarter stick exploded in the room shattering glass and injuring two persons.

Injured and treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were Dooil Paik, 37, Alexandria, Va., and Jung Kim, 40, Annandale, Va. They were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

There was also a small fire involved, according to police reports.

The incident remains under investigation.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Annual Mtg. Set

The annual meeting of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will be held October 27 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Garrett Community College. All founders, contributors, committee chairpersons, and other interested persons are invited to attend.

According to Executive Director Fred Stemple, the agenda will include a wrap-up of the 1993 season, a preview of the 1994 season, and a progress report on the project with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

"We have completed a very successful season," Stemple said, "and are finding a renewed energy for the arts in this community. We are always looking for interested people to help us carry out our mission."

In addition to the business meeting, entertainment will be provided and refreshments served. For more information, persons may contact Stemple at 387-3082.

Numerous Arrests Logged By GCSO

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has logged arrests in the past two weeks with the issuance of numerous bench warrants. A DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was made, and a Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with violating a domestic protection order.

An Oakland man was charged with DWI early Sunday morning. Denver K. Eichorn, 22, was stopped on Rt. 219 in Oakland and the officer detected the odor of alcohol on the driver. He was subsequently charged with the offense.

Mark Whitacre, 25, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged last week when he apparently violated a domestic protection order. He was found on the property of Concetta Whitacre although he had been ordered by authorities to stay away from the property.

An Oakland man was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants, according to the report. Dannie A. Stemple, 39, apparently failed to appear in court to face drug charges.

Johnny J. Thomas, 32, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants for failure to appear in court, according to the police report.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Thomas A. Donnelly, 43, Westernport. He was arrested for failure to appear in court.

Two bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Ronald K. Stekeur, Osage, W.Va. Stekeur is accused of failing to appear in court to face various traffic charges.

Melvin G. Cullers, 41, Aurora, W.Va., was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failing to pay deferred payments.

Timothy W. Arnold, 39, Oakland, was issued a bench warrant for failure to pay deferred payments, according to the report.

Scott E. Patton, 18, Oakland, was issued a bench warrant for failure to pay fines.

Gary A. Ashby, 21, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to pay deferred payments.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Bradley K. Lewis, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, for violation of probation.

Richard L. Craver, 41, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to pay fines.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Michael Sisler, 29, Oakland. Sisler apparently failed to pay a fine incurred by him for a DWI conviction.

Howard V. Sisler, 22, Accident, was issued a bench warrant for failure to make a $655 deferred payment fined him for a DWI conviction.

Theft, Property Destruction Being Probed By GCSO

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating two crime incidents involving theft and property destruction.

Mark F. Arnold, Oakland, contacted police this week when he discovered that his 1992 Honda four-wheeler had been stolen. The vehicle was parked in a barn behind Arnold's property on Jasper Riley Road. The four-wheeler was last seen on Sept. 23 and discovered stolen on Oct. 4.

The fence on Riley's property was cut by the culprits when they took the item. Officers gathered some evidence at the scene, according to the report.

Thomas Jones, Oakland, notified the sheriff's office when he discovered that the tires on his 1993 Ford Probe were slashed. The car was parked at Garrett Community College on the evening of Oct. 10 when the vandalism occurred.

An investigation is continuing.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Friendsville

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make a regular visit to Friendsville on Friday, Oct. 22. Donors will be welcomed at the Friendsville fire hall from noon to 6 p.m. All persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health are invited to donate.

Correction Noted

In a fire story that appeared in last week's edition of The Republican it was incorrectly stated that the house that burned near Loch Lynn was occupied by Johnny Thomas and Ruth Lloyd. Actually, Thomas was just a visitor at the time of the fire. The occupants were Rocky and Ruth Lloyd.

We regret the misunderstanding.

Persons planning to attend the festival may arrive anytime they choose, according to Dr. Herman, but may wish to be there by 10:30 in order to get a good seat

Proceeds from the festival support the Garrett County Tapestry of Talent Children's Storytelling Festival, which is held in the spring at Garrett Community College

Pa. Man Remains "Stable" As Result Of Vehicle Mishap

Darren P. Carpenter, 21, Pennsylvania, remains listed in "stable" condition at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, according to a hospital spokesperson, after he was injured in a single-vehicle accident early Saturday morning.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Carpenter was ejected from the vehicle at the time of the accident.

The 1 a.m. accident reportedly occurred when Jeffrey P. Wildermuth, 19, West Chester, Pa., was operating a 1989 Chevrolet Geo on Interstate 68 at approximately 80 miles per hour in foggy conditions. The driver tokl police he ran off the left side of the road and overcorrected the vehicle, causing the vehicle to strike an embankment on the right roadside and roll over.

Neither the driver, nor the other passenger, Butch Gonder III, Philadelphia, Pa., were reportedly injured.

Carpenter was transported to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Tfc. J.R. Tindal investigated and charged the driver of the vehicle.

SOUTHERN GARRETT BRINGS HOME MORE TROPHIES - The Southern Garrett Marching Band is continuing to have a successful marching season this fall, having brought home more trophies last Saturday. The band participated in two field show competitions with the first at Westmar High School where they captured the award for best drum line in Group II and overall. They also received honors for best drum major and best color guard at Westmar. Southern was second in Group II with a score of 78.7, just edged out by Central High School, Martinsburg, W.Va. The score also placed the band in third place overall. The band then traveled to Baldwin High School, Pittsburgh, Pa., where the musicians took first place honors in Group II with a score of 80.9. They also placed second overall. The marchers captured awards for high music, high marching and maneuvering, best drum major and drum line. The band will host its own show this Saturday as part of the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. The Western Maryland Tournament of Bands will begin at 6 p.m. at the Southern football field with 10 area bands in competition. Pictured above is part of Southern's award-winning drum line. Shown left to right are Jason O'Brien (asst. captain), Jason Barr (capt.), Joel Getty, David Peterson, Paul Tepper, Justin Helbig, and Danny Murphy. Several color guard members and pit musicians are shown below as they "wow the crowd" at Westmar.

STRIKES WALL

Raymond B. Goad, 58, Cumberland, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital last Thursday, October 7, following a single-vehicle mishap, but has since been released, according to a hospital spokesperson. His vehicle reportedly struck a wall at the base of Backbone Mountain.

State police said the accident occurred when Goad fell asleep while operating a 1993 Dodge Ram van east on Md. Rt. 135 at Backbone Mountain. The vehicle reportedly collided with a wall at the base of the mountain.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater investigated the 3:05 p.m. mishap and charged Goad. Tri-Towns Rescue Squad transported Goad to the Cumberland hospital.

TWO TREATED

Two persons were treated and released from Memorial Hospital in Cumberland on Friday, according to a hospital spokesperson, following a two-vehicle accident at the entrance of Fuel City in Grantsville.

Sharon L. Garrison, 43, and Daniel L. Garrison, 17, both of Eckhart, received minor injuries in the 4:15 p.m. mishap which occurred when Sharon Garrison, operating a 1987 Pontiac Grand Am, was attempting to make a left turn into the Fuel City and failed to see an oncoming vehicle, a 1981 Jeep CJ7 operated by Daniel Yeaney, 19, Friendsville, traveling south on U.S. Rt. 219. The vehicles subsequently collided.

Northern Rescue Squad transported the injured to the hospital. Cpl. G.R. Chaney investigated and charged Garrison in the mishap.

TROOPER ESCAPES INJURY

A state police trooper was not injured Sunday night when a tractor-trailer struck a parked truck he has just inspected along Interstate 68.

The accident occurred at 11:54 p.m. when a rig operated by Thomas E. Colvin, 42, Winchester, Va., traveled off the highway at the top of Negro Mountain and struck the parked rig, which was unoccupied at the time.

Police said Colvin fell asleep prior to the accident. He reportedly refused medical treatment by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Colvin was charged in the mishap

DWI ARRESTS

Two persons were arrested and charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) by state police this week.

Erik B Lennox, 27, Swanton, was charged with DWI on Friday by Tfc. Wayne Mowbray.

Paul D Knox, 40, no address given by police, was charged with DWI on Saturday by Tfc. S.H. Anderson

Glorious Homecoming...

The 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival is underway and if the weather cooperates there is no reason to believe it won't be one of the best yet, even though most of the truly brilliant leaves are now gone.

Fortunately it is not just the pretty leaves that make the festival an inviting event, particularly for persons who reside outside of Garrett County. For some who have never resided here but are frequent visitors the festival provides an opportunity for a long-weekend vacation filled with a wide variety of fun and activities. For those who have never been here, it is an opportunity to see all that Garrett County has to offer.

For still others, the festival offers a great annual homecoming, as former residents whose careers or other circumstances required them to leave the county, delight in coming back to renew old acquaintances.

Two examples of the latter that come to mind are two clergymen who will be at the Oktoberfest this evening at the Oakland fire hall. One is a Lutheran pastor who once served an Oakland parish and has moved twice since leaving Oakland about a dozen years ago. Despite the fact that he now resides about four hours away, he has returned once again to play trumpet in the Oktoberfest band. The other is a United Methodist pastor who also served in Oakland for a number of years and is a former member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. He, too, will drive four hours to get here and will be at the ticket table this evening, working with his former fire fighting "team-mates" and greeting his many Garrett County friends.

Both of these individuals have a whole new life elsewhere, in other locations, with other responsibilities, and with other people. But they both love to come back, and it really has little to do with pretty leaves or any one particular event of Autumn Glory. They are drawn back by the special relationships that were created when they resided here. There is a special warmth in Garrett County that fosters a rather unique bonding, one that is not easily broken by distance and time.

There are undoubtedly hundreds of other similar examples of folks who come back each year to "celebrate the glory." We hope that the special human element that seems to be the real reason for their return never ceases to exist.

Now, on with the festival, and let's have a blast.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Northern Division of the Mountaintop Soccer Association, which is in its development stage, is fortunate to be joining such a strong organization as Mountaintop Soccer Association in Oakland.

Currently there are a total of 10 teams at Accident, Friendsville and Grantsville. We owe a very special thanks to all those volunteering their time and efforts to pull this organization together, especially the coaches, Casselman Lumber Co. for donating materials for the goals at Grantsville (where the '93 games are being played), NHS Coach Tom Ables and his soccer team, Sandi and Bill Flockhart for creating a booklet on extremely short notice, and Railey Realty for the use of their office.

Thanks also to the players and their parents for being so supportive during this start-up period!

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Humane Society, Inc., has been given custody of the animals belonging to the late Elizabeth (Libby) Ray, by Mr. Ray.

Mr. Ray has been in the hospital and cannot care for the animals.

We now have 19 rabbits, two dogs and three cats -- we cannot find the other four cats at this time.

We are a non-profit organization and our only income is from fundraisers and donations from caring people.

We have a spay neuter program to pay for the animals we adopt, plus we have animals in foster homes throughout the county. These animals must have good shelter and nutritional food.

We need financial help to care for these additional animals.

Those donating in various ways to this endeavor as of this date are: Drs. Dona and Joseph Alvarez, their family, friends and staff; Piper Building Supply; Charles and Sherry Rittenhouse; Polly and Walter Ramsey; the John Lee and Genevieve Miller family; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gnegy; the Animal Shelter staff, Wayne and Camille; Judy and Jimmy Lininger; Mrs. Dorothy Leuba; friends and neighbors of the Ray family who cared for the animals until we picked them up; and members of the Garrett County Humane Society, Inc.

Please send your tax deductible donation to Garrett County Humane Society, Inc., Box 25, Accident, MD 21520.

Thank you very much.

On September 19, 1993, 111 participants joined together in "Making Strides Against Cancer."

A grand total of $6,553.73 was raised to fight this dread disease. Participants included many individuals as well as striders from Browning's Foodland, Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Homes, Bausch and Lomb, Dental Health Group, Railey Realty, Home Health, The Silver Tree and The Survivors.

Doug Ellis, striding as an individual was the top fundraiser contributing $536 to our cause. This is Doug's third year as top individual strider. The "Survivors," a group of striders who continue their personal battles against cancer, were the largest team in numbers and in contributions totalling $1,493. They were a great inspiration. Laura Livingston led the Survivors in individual contributions at $180.

I'd also like to thank W.K.H.J., Jamie Adams of the Deep Creek Lake State Park, Carroll Deams and Sally Boone and her outreach team for all their help in planning this event.

This year we doubled our participation over past years. Our goal is to double our participation once again. To reach that goal we need you. Please join with us next year for Making Strides Against Cancer.

With your help we can make a difference.

Sincerely,
Elaine McDonald

To the Editor:

Your right to select how you will take care of yourself is being assaulted. Presently, there is scheduled to go into effect this year, a bill passed into law last year that would seriously restrict the choices a person could legally exercise. If allowed to go into effect, no one knows what the outcome could be.

I'm not talking about the National Health Care Plan. I'm talking about every person's freedom to purchase food supplements and similar substances such as vitamins. Under this law, your choices will be severely reduced. You are paying dearly now for the few selections you have. If these selections are less, you will have less freedom to choose.

The freedom to choose is based upon having many choices from which to select. Having fewer choices is less freedom. The freedom our forefathers fought and died for are in reality freedoms to choose and select from among many. Contact your U.S. senators and ask them to co-sponsor S.784 and preserve your freedom of choice.

To the Editor:

"Educating everyone takes everyone" is a philosophy currently displayed on bumper stickers. By working together, parents, teachers, students and other members of the community at large can guarantee all children their basic human right to be educated. Inclusion of all children regardless of the diversity of their abilities enriches society as a whole. Teaching students with disabilities in typical classrooms is just as important a responsibility as that of educating students with unusual academic abilities.

Appropriate support must be provided throughout both the school system and community in order for the process of educating everyone to be successful. Working together we can accomplish this goal.

Sincerely,
Suzanne Ryan

To the Editor:

Contrary to recent press reports, clean, healthy water is flowing from taps in Maryland homes. The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) uses aggressive technical assistence and capital funding programs to safeguard drinking water supplies around the state.

MDE works directly with Maryland communities to monitor drinking water quality, identify potential problems and solve them before they threaten drinking water supplies. This approach serves Marylanders better than purely punitive enforcement actions.

Sometimes water supply systems do have problems that need to be corrected. The Lonaconing water system in Western Maryland is a perfect example of successful technical and financial assistance.

Lonaconing experienced water ouality problems and water shortages due to inadequate, aging facilities. An enforcement action would have done nothing to solve the financially strapped region's problem. Instead, the state contributed over $2 million and helped secure other funding necessary to construct a new $6 million water supply system. This system will be fully operational by June 1994. Since 1991, the state has committed over $13 million to fund water system improvements.

Despite this financial commitment, unmet needs still exist. To help communities meet tightening federal drinking water standards, MDE has twice sought legislative approval--unsuccessfully--for fees that would help MDE and local government better oversee drinking water operations.

MDE has already gained legislation approval for a low interest revolving loan fund if money for such a program is included in the federal budget. In addition, a recently formed committee representing a broad range of interests will study future MDE efforts and long-term funding options for the state's water supply programs. We expect recommendations in November.

More resources must be committed to maintaining quality drinking water systems and programs. MDE will continue to support increased funding for water supply programs. At the same time, we intend to maintain our statewide technical assistance efforts and take enforcement actions when appropriate.

Sincerely,
Ronald Nelson
Deputy Secretary
MDE

To the Editor:

In recent years there has been a resurgence of interest in the repopulation of the black bear in Garrett County. What does this mean? What image comes to mind when you hear the word "bear"? For many people a bear is a warm, fuzzy, friendly Teddy, or a butterball of a Pooh bear, even a practical joker bear like Boo Boo or Yogi. What child doesn't know about Smokey the Bear, protector of the forest?

Few people see the bear as a potentially vicious, non-discriminant killer, with the destructive potential to ruin thousands of dollars worth of property. People like Lee Shillingburg, who live near state forests, are helping to raise public awareness to current legislation which protects the bear and prohibits the landowner from protecting his property or from collecting any financial compensation for bear damage. Insurance companies will no longer insure people like Mr. Shillingburg because of the extensive damage potential of wild predators. The landowner finds himself caught between the law and the constant harassment of this cunning predator who executes night raids on cornfields, fence lines and livestock.

A bear trail is easy to follow. Ask Mr. Shillingburg. It is marked by the blood of a torn, partially eaten carcass, dragged over fences and across fields. At the end of the trail at Mr. Shillingburg's farm, he found the mauled, crushed and battered bodies of two of his sheep. There are other sheep missing and unaccounted for.

The new environmentalism has spawned specific legislation reflecting the concern for the safety of the bear, but logic becomes unclear when that same law prohibits the landowner from protecting himself and his property or from collecting any compensation for bear damage. Don't you agree that laws need to be amended to reflect common sense, good judgment and to protect the landowner, also?

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter in hopes that if someone out there is faced with what I have experienced over the past year, it will help them.

All my life I have been a very strong "Pro-Life" advocate. I would argue abortion to the end of the earth. I was often told that if I was faced with the decision of abortion in the case of rape or severe birth defects that I would be singing a different tune. I never thought I would be faced with this decision. I had a beautiful daughter and that would never happen to me, I thought.

When I found out I was pregnant again, I of course anticipated a healthy baby. At three months I went for a "routine" sonogram, when the technician detected problems. I was devastated.

After seeing doctors at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland; West Virginia University, Morgantown, and Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, the prognosis was the same, "Your baby will die, it is not a matter of if he will or not, he will, the questions is when."

The very first thing WVU in Morgantown suggested was "abortion." I stated to them that it was not an option. God had given me this child and he would remain until God made the decision otherwise. Even after I told them this it was a constant suggestion by every medical professional that entered the room. I do not feel my "choice" was respected. They made it very clear to me that if I was not going to take their "suggestions" they would no longer treat my child. They had scheduled tests for my son, and canceled them when they found out the seriousness of my son's condition. Their exact opinion was "your child is not worth the time, money, and resources when he will die." I feel it was my decision to decide that, not theirs. I am very appreciative to hospital and medical staff like those at Sacred Heart and Allegheny General Hospital that respected my choice, and worked with me after my decision was made. My son was as important to me, or more important than he would have been if they would have told me that he would be perfectly formed. How would you have felt?

It was a very long five months, with a lot of high hopes, and hopes that were shattered. I loved and enjoved my son until May 12, when a sonogram showed that my son had died. It had happened. My life seemed to end at the moment they told me it had happened. I feel for anyone that has to go through hearing their child is dead. Your world seems to stop turning instantly!

I had my child at the Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland, and I love and thank all the nurses, my doctor, Dr. A. Valdes, and everyone that was there with all the kind words, and tears to help me get through.

It has not been an easy year, but I have told this long story to say this: What I went through I would not want anyone to go through, but it was worth every minute of it to feel my son kick; to hear his heartbeat just one more time; to see him on a sonogram; to get to know him for the few months I had him. All of these things would have been lost if I had listened to the doctors that felt my son was not "worth the trouble." I loved every minute I could show him that I loved him, and just to say, "I'm here for you, regardless."

After his birth I was able to hold him, love him, and have a funeral, and grave site to visit. All of this would have been lost through abortion. I would not have known what the actual outcome would have been, if their advise had been taken, or known what he looked like, his hair color, if he looked like mom, dad, or maybe his sister. I'm so proud of my son, and of my decision. I have no regrets, and a clear conscience that I have given my son every chance to live and done nothing to take his life. It is tough, but we can make it through it!

If you are faced with this decision, please consider my story, and what I have said. Regardless of the situation or the condition of your child, the baby is your child, and you will love your child no matter what. Give your child a chance at life. You won't regret it!

If you find yourself in this unfortunate situation and want someone to talk to, or someone to just listen, feel free to contact me at 387-6167, or write me at Route 5, Box 4790, Oakland, Maryland 21550. I would be more than happy to listen, and help in any way possible.

I write this in memory of my son, David Jay Kestner, May 14, 1993.

Loved and missed,
Mom, Karen Kestner

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

Maryland's 5th Annual Community Service Day
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

As governor, I hear a great deal about the good things that our citizens are doing to make Maryland such a great place to live and work. What makes Marylanders special is that they are caring people, people willing to help others. A great example of this caring spirit is found in the number of citizens who participate in Community Service Day, a day dedicated to recognizing volunteers and encouraging Marylanders to participate in local volunteer efforts.

Originally started in Montgomery County in 1988, I saw all the great work accomplished with a countywide Community Service Day, and decided that it was the type of project that could benefit every community. So in 1989, it was adopted as a statewide program.

Last year, over 250,000 volunteers participated in various community-based volunteer efforts. People planted trees and cleaned up neighborhood parks, roadways, and streams. They donated blood and collect canned food for shelters and food banks. Marylanders also volunteered in soup kitchens and visited terminally ill children at local hospitals. Many good deeds were done on Community Service Day 1992, and this year promises to be even more successful.

To celebrate the fifth annual statewide Community Service Day on Saturday, October 23, projects are being organized to collected canned food to supply to local food pantries; to clear neighborhood parks and roadways of litter and graffiti; and to give a fresh coat of paint and make repairs to homeless shelters and soup kitchens.

Civic and fraternal organizations, neighborhood and school groups, and individuals in almost every county and Baltimore City participate in these types of projects. State agencies involve their employees by organizing their own agency project or encouraging employees to get involved in a county project.

Our intentions for Community Service Day are to have all Marylanders join the people who already volunteer their time for our communities. If there isn't a local project going on that suits your tastes, organize your own project. If you can't physically participate in a clean-up effort, then consider supplying or serving the refreshments. Or kick-off your holiday food drive early and use Community Service Day as a catalyst for giving. Hopefully, this new-found spirit of volunteerism will continue throughout the year.

Remember, Community Service Day doesn't mean giving of your wallet, it means giving of yourself, lending your time and talents to the community. And, by participating in this effort you join the ranks of others who volunteer, such as volunteer firemen and rescue workers, hospital volunteers, and volunteers who help non-profits provide much needed services to those less fortunate.

The giving has already begun with the donation of posters and time from county and state community service day coordinators. Special thanks goes to WJZ-TV and the Art Litho Company for their support of this community-based volunteer effort by supplying the state with the 1993 Community Service Day posters, as well as to Maryland National Bank for providing the poster design. When I think of all the wonderful projects that are being planned and all the generous people involved, I feel even more proud to live in Maryland.

For more information about Community Service Day projects going on around the state, contact your Community Service Day county coordinator or the Secretary of State's Office at (410) 974-5524. In the meantime, I'd like to hear from Marylanders about what they have planned to make Community Service Day 1993 a great success. Please write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis MD 21401.

To the Editor:

The Mountain Top Public Service District would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the following people and organizations for their help, patience, and understanding during the recent painting of the Bayard water tank: CMC Construction Co., of Mt. Storm, for performing the work, citizens of Bayard, Gormania, and Gorman, for their patience and inconvenience for some low and high pressure while work was being performed and in keeping us informed of problems; Garrett Sanitary District Water Department, who after being made aware of pressure problems on the system, instructed their personnel to draw water only on 12 a.m. to 8 a.m. shifts to fill the water tank at Gorman; WKIIJ for being there when we needed you; the Grant County Commission, who paid for the lease of two tankers for water that was on stand-by for fire protection for Bayard and surrounding areas; and the Bayard, Mt. Storm, and Gorman fire departments.

Unfortunately, our system is at the age that work will have to be scheduled for the remaining four tanks in the future. When the tanks are brought down and we rely on line pressure to feed that particular community, where tanks are located, some meters and regulators will fail, causing an inconvenience to some of our customers. During these periods our personnel are on call 24 hours a day, as they were on the Bayard tank case, to minimize problems. Customers are encouraged to call the PSD to report any problems.

Thanks again, Bayard, Gormania, and Gorman.

Mountain Top P.S.D.

To the Editor:

I recently had a chat with a well-educated, intelligent, hard-working, 42-year-old father, who had just lost his job with a high-profile national company. He's very understanding of his former company's actions, but he really does not understand the root cause of job loss in this country; including his own. He's without a job for the first time in his life, at probably the most critical time of his life, and the sad fact is: he doesn't even know why!

He doesn't know that our own elected, and appointed officials in Washington have sold him out, and millions of others like him, to the "One World'era," and the rest of the foreign lobby clique in Washington, who have been selling our country piecemeal to our foreign competitors for the past quarter century...eliminating "customers" my friend's company depends upon...as did his job!

If you know our history, and are attuned to current events, you are aware of what has actually been happening to this country during your lifetime as misbegotten government regulations, inane policies and shortsighted trade decisions, destroyed whole industries in this country, and then subsidized their export to foreign lands through criminally atrocious tax codes, containing loopholes for special interests groups.

It's not a pretty picture. It drips with greed and avarice. It's like "The Portrait of Doran Gray," that he tried to keep in the attic. While he showed his "other" face to the world, it sprouted all the wants and cankers of his true nature and devastating effect on those around him.

He was as phony as a politician's promise. But, on the other hand, he is as real as NAFTA; government reform; deficit reduction; career politicians; foreign lobbyists; the liberal media; political leaders generally, and William Jefferson Clinton, in particular!...who is not a man of the people; but a career politician, pure and simple. The very kind his namesake, Thomas Jefferson, warned us against so many years ago! He could care less what happens to you, as long as he survives. If you question this fact, look, realistically, at what he put his wife through. What saved him, in that cauldron of conscience, and nothing else, is the fact that his 'wife," Hillary, is a cagier "career politician" than he is. We now have two serpents at our throats; where we normally have but one.

Enough is enough! We must, once and for all, stop allowing our servants, career politicians and appointed officials, directed by insidious foreign lobbyists, to sell our worth! our heritage! and our country!...to the highest bidder for "personal profit!"...in most instances.

Respectfully yours,
Ronald R. Rowan

NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK PROCLAIMED - The Garrett County Commissioners this week have set aside the week of October 18-24 to be observed as National Business Women's Week and signed a proclamation for the observance of the week in Garrett County. National Business Women's Week is being sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. The Commissioners have urged all county citizens, all civic and fraternal groups, all news media and other community organizations to join in the salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to the economic, civic, and cultural purposes. Working women constitute 44 million of the nation's work force, and "are constantly striving to serve their communities, their states, and their nation in civic and cultural programs," according to the proclamation. Shown in the above photo, seated, left to right, are the Garrett County Commissioners Brenda J. Butscher, Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey. Standing, same order, are Ruth DiPaolo, Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW), membership and public relations chairperson; Carol Craver, Garrett County BPW, National Business Women's Week Committee chairperson; Connie Judy, National Business Women's Week Committee member; Renee Savage, Young Careerist Committee member; Terese Feather, Young Careerist chairperson; Cosette Harman and Joanne Harsh, both National Business Women's Committee members; Liz Daniels, Garrett County BPW president; and Pat White, National Business Women's Committee member.

Arrest Made In Connection With Local B&E, Theft

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office placed an Oakland man under arrest this week in connection with a Youghiogheny Mountain Resort theft that apparently took place in September. Jackie G. Friend Jr., 35, was charged with three counts of breaking and entering, burglary, malicious destruction of property, and theft.

The victim in the case was Charles Brooks, Dundalk, who owns a vacation residence at Youghiogheny Mountain Resort. The home was broken into sometime between Sept. 9-30. Stolen in the break-in were two Kawasaki four-wheelers, a VCR, a television, portable radio, three chainsaws, a weed-eater, and an all-terrain vehicle helmet.

Friend was apparently arrested following a week-long investigation. The defendant was found to be in possession of a Kawasaki four-wheeler, according to the police report, which connected him with the incident.

Friend is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Beaver Creek Bluegrass Band Concert Friday

The Beaver Creek Bluegrass Band will perform as the opening act for the Ricky Skaggs Concerts Friday, Oct. 15, at Southern High School gymnasium as part of the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. Beaver Creek's performances will begin approximately 5:30 and 8:30 p.m., prior to the Ricky Skaggs concerts at 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The Beaver Creek Band started to entertain audiences in 1980 with a style planted firmly in traditional bluegrass, but with a strong sense of establishing their own sound. "Having a Wonderful Time," the band's fourth recording project, includes five original compositions, including the title track by Randy Ord and "No Good Times" by Don Shean, as well as two previously unrecorded songs by Rick Lang and Suzanne Thomas.

Members of the Beaver Creek Band are Mary Kissel of Fair Oaks, Pa., Randy Ord of Glenwillard, Pa., Richard Ord of Sewickley, Pa., Don Shean of Greensburg, Pa., and Scott Pearson of Russell, Pa. The band performs at numerous festivals throughout the U.S. annually.

Admission is $15 and includes both the Beaver Creek Band and Ricky Skaggs concert. Tickets are still available in Garrett County at Beachy's, Deep Creek, Englander's, Friendsville, Gregg's and Proudfoot's Pharmacies, the Promotion Council office, and at Disc Jockey Records in Country Club Mall, LaVale. Tickets will also be available at the door for both concerts Friday evening, with doors opening at 5:15 p.m. for the early show and 8:15 p.m. for the second show.

For more information, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion council, 200 South Third St., Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

FRIENDSVILLE WRITES "BROWN BAG" BOOK REPORTS - Friendsville Elementary School and the S&S Market are working together in an effort to encourage reading in the school and community. Freda Sines provided brown paper bags to the students who in turn decorated them with drawings and writings about books they have read. They signed their names on their "brown bag book reports" and returned them to the market. Shoppers now have the chance of receiving one of the attractively decorated bags for their groceries. This cooperative effort between the school and a local business is in the interest of encouraging more reading at both the school and at the local library. Sandy Schofield's fourth grade class, which participated in the project, is pictured above.

Oakland, MD 21550

PARADE ROAD CLOSINGS – In conjunction with State Highway Administration recommendations, as has been customary with previous Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature parades, some of the roads near Oakland will be closed from 11 a.m. until after the parade ends on Saturday, October 16. Center Street will be open until 12:45 p.m. for cross-town traffic only. Beginning at 11 a.m Route 219 will be open only to permit holders and for southbound traffic only. All other traffic will be routed via Fourth Street, and permits will be available from the Promotion Council office for festival participants and local businesses whose employees require access to downtown Oakland after 11 a.m. After 11 a.m., pedestrians and off-road-vehicles will be using the parade route, so drivers are urged to exercise extreme caution when driving in that area. Persons who need permits for use in the menagement of a business on the day of the parade are asked to contact the Promotion Council office immediately. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on Wilson Street. Because of construction on the Route 219 Bridge, all traffic using Route 39 from 11 a.m. until the parade ends will be routed via Underwood and Monte Viete roads to Routes 219 and 135 (see map below).

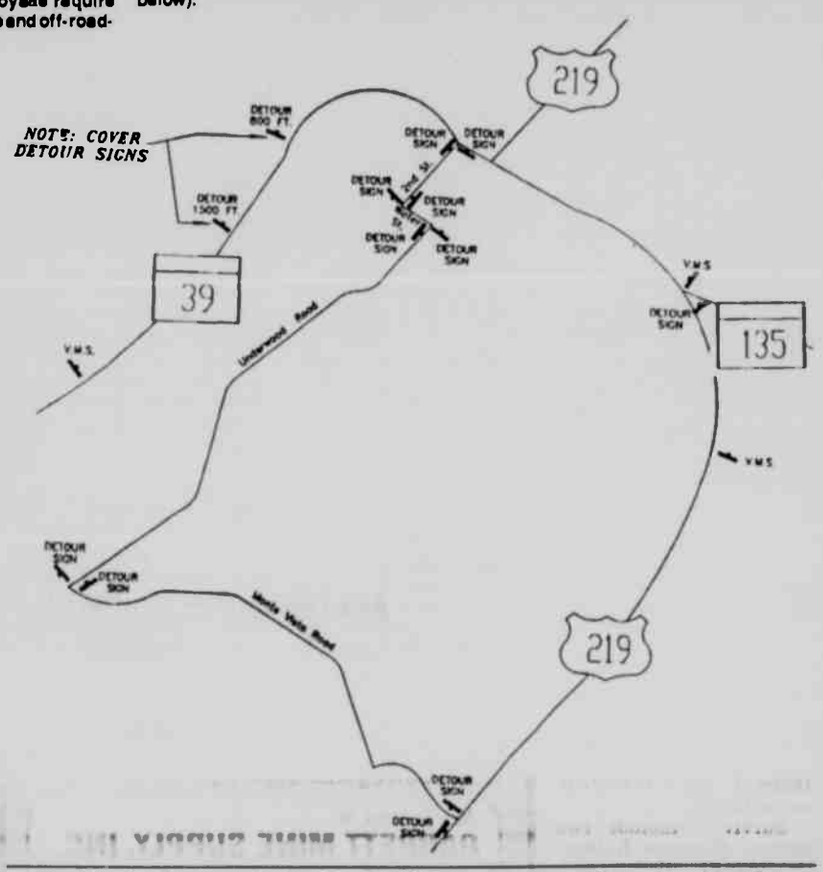
Road Closings And Detours Scheduled For 26th Grand Feature Parade

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards in recent years, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, which will be sponsored by First United National Bank & Trust. The adjacent maps of Oakland indicate road closings on Saturday, October 16.

As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory Festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade; however, the festival committee requests that local residents note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 16, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the American Trust Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, October 16, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders only and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street or on Memorial Drive from Route 219 to Eighth Street.

Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.; U.S. Route 219 between Fourth Street and Oak Street; Memorial Drive between Third Street and Fourth Street; and Pennington, Crook and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street.



Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Signs advising travelers of the detour will be provided by the Maryland State Highway Administration, and personnel helping travelers at closed roads will be provided by Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and the Oakland Police Department.

Permits are being issued by the festival committee to local merchants and festival participants who need to go through the roadblock on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The units of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will set up within the closed area, and the parade will begin at 1 p.m. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B Naylor Masonic Lodge on Wilson Street.

Because of construction on the Route 39 Bridge, all traffic using Route 39 from 11 a.m until tha parada ends will ba routed via Underwood and Monte Viete roads to Routes 219 and 135. In order to alleviate potential traffic congestion, local merchants are requestad to schedule large deliveries at times other than when tha detour is in affect. All roads will ba open to traffic egain as soon as possible after the conclusion of tha parada.

For more information, persons may call tha Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council office at 334-1948.

Ralph Burnett Named Affiliate Of The Year

The Garrett County Board of Realtors presented the "Affiliate of the Year" award for 1993 to Ralph Burnett, senior partner at the law firm of Burnett, Eiswert, & Janes.

From the time of inception of the local Realtors organization, Burnett volunteered his time and service to assist in developing the charter and business structure. He provided legal and consulting services without charge to the local association for many years.

During 1993, Burnett provided continuing education services for the local Realtors on a volunteer basis, teaching the subject of "Procuring Cause." In addition, he has also taught several classes on real estate contract law.

In addition to his efforts in support of the Realtors, his community service activities are numerous. He serves as chairman of Board of Directors for the Garrett County Development Corporation and the Salem Children's Home, is a director of the American Trust Bank, and has served as past master of the Oakland Masonic Lodge 192, president of the Mt. Top Softball League, and as a director of the Garrett County Promotion Council.

Burnett has been the senior partner and trial attorney at Burnett, Eiswert & Janes since 1978, having served as state's attorney and deputy state's attorney from 1973-1978. He is a member of the Garrett County Bar Association, the Maryland and Arizona bar, and is qualified before the Federal District Court of Maryland.

He lives with his wife, Lucy, on the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

AFFILIATE OF THE YEAR - Presenting the 1993 Affiliate of the Year Award as well as a special recognition certificate for having provided continuing education courses to Ralph Burnett, left, is Robert Custer, president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

Boergers Announces Candidacy For Maryland Governor

Maryland State Senator Mary Boergers (D-Montgomery) has officially announced her candidacy for governor through a series of events held around Maryland this week.

With her announcement, Boergers will seek to become the first woman governor in the history of Maryland. Boergers is a 12-year veteran of the state legislature, serving in the Maryland House of Delegates from 1981 to 1990, and in the Senate since 1991. She was a leader of the successful "Question 6" pro-choice referendum campaign in 1992, and has won recognition for innovative economic strategies, her work on behalf of women and children, and leadership on education.

Growing up in a single parent house (her father died when she was young), Mary earned scholarships and worked in a variety of part-time jobs in order to earn college and graduate degrees. In fact, her scholarship to Catholic University's Graduate School was awarded by a national fraternal organization to "sons" of its members. She was the first "daughter" to be awarded the scholarship.

As a teacher at Rockville High School, she earned a reputation as a hard-working, innovative and effective classroom teacher, according to a campaign spokesperson. Later, as a lobbyist in Annapolis for the National Organization of Women, Boergers began her fight to protect the rights of women and children.

In 1981, she was appointed to the Maryland House of Delegates to fill a vacancy, upsetting the party's "anointed favorite," said the spokesperson. She achieved this victory by organizing independent members of her party committee.

After a single year as a delegate from Montgomery County's 18th district, the party leadership redistricted Mary into the adjacent 17th district -- in effect, ending her political career, or so they thought. Waging a broad-based, grassroots campaign, however, Mary won solid victories in both the primary and general elections of 1982.

In her nine years in the Maryland House, Boergers served on the Ways and Means Committee and the Economic Matters Committee. On both committees, she was a driving force for improved education, transportation, and job creation.

Boergers resides in Kensington with her husband, an attorney with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and their two children.

American Heart Walk Slated At Southern Track

"Garrett County residents don't have to run a marathon. They don't have to swim across Deep Creek Lake. They don't even have to set foot in a gym. To condition their hearts, they just need to get moving."

So states a representative of the American Heart Association.

One way for persons to start is to participate in American Heart Walk on Saturday, October 23, 9 a.m. at the public track at Southern High School. American Heart Walk is a nationwide fitness and fund-raising event to benefit the American Heart Association.

Physical inactivity is a major risk factor for heart disease, according to the American Heart Association. When combined with excess eating, physical inactivity may lead to obesity and high blood cholesterol, two more risk factors for heart disease.

"The good news is even low-intensity activities can lead to long-term health benefits and lower the risk of cardiovascular disease if done daily," said Ann Sherrard, medical and community chairperson. "These activities include walking for pleasure, gardening, yardwork, dancing and vigorous housework. Games like golf, badminton, croquet, shuffleboard, lawn bowling and ping-pong are also good ways to get in a little exercise."

For people who want a more vigorous workout, aerobic exercise for 30 to 60 minutes three or four times a week can condition the heart and lungs, Sherrard said. It can also help reduce other heart disease risk factors. These include high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure and cigarette smoking.

"Garrett County residents can help themselves feel, look and work better," Sherrard said. "We can improve our circulation and ability to breathe. And we can better fight anxiety, stress and depression.

"A person's job also can help him or her shape up," said Sherrard. A recent study found that middle-aged men and women who work in physically demanding jobs or perform moderate to strenuous recreational activities have less coronary artery disease than their less active peers.

"Before you start, you should have a physical check-up," Sherrard said.

The American Heart Association is a non-profit health organization funded mainly by private donations. The AHA spent more than $232 million during fiscal year 1991-92 on scientific research, public and professional education and community programs. With more than 3.6 million volunteers nationwide, it is the largest voluntary health organization dedicated to reducing disability and death from heart and blood vessel diseases, which annually kill more than 930,000 Americans.

For more information on Walk Registration or diet and exercise, persons may call the local American Heart Association Office at (301) 724-4011 or (800) 734-3709.

PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT DONATED - The Potomac Valley District Council of the Homes Safety Association recently presented $200 to Broad Ford Elementary School for the purchase of playground equipment. The Potomac Valley District Council represents the coal mining and allied industries of Garrett County and Grant and Tucker counties of West Virginia. The council promotes the doctrines of safety and conservation of life and health of its members at work, at home, and on the highways. Shown above, left to right, are Mike Nestor and Jody Theriot, Homes Safety Association officers; Linda Stevens, program coordinator; and Tom Fowler, Broad Ford Elementary principal.

How you pay your mortgage affects how much you pay

A Biweekly Mortgage from American Trust not only saves you money, it lets you build equity in your home faster and pay off your loan sooner. And since your payments are automatically deducted from your American Trust checking account, you will never have to write a mortgage check again!

With the Biweekly Mortgage program from American Trust, instead of making one large house payment every month, you make half that monthly payment every two weeks. As a result, the principal balance of your loan is reduced quicker - allowing you to save thousands of dollars and own your home in a shorter period of time than you would with a conventional mortgage. Fourth Home Added To "Home For The Holidays" Tours

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross announced this week that a fourth home has been added to its 1993 "Home for the Holidays" Christmas tour of homes.

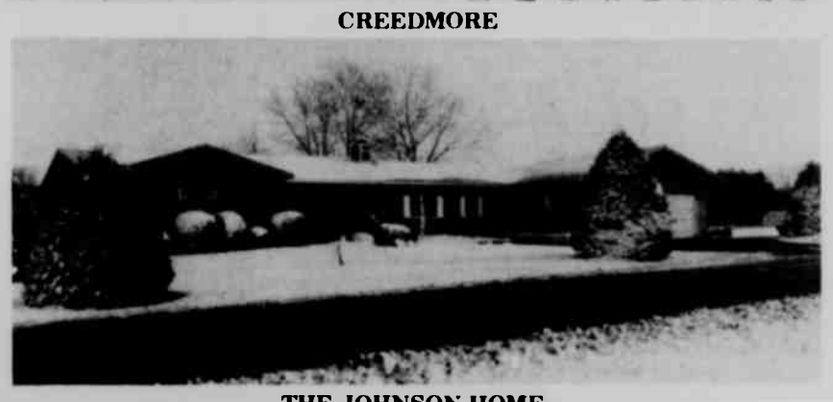
The Harley Farm Bed and Breakfast on U.S. Rt. 219 North, recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gillespie, will be the first home featured in November when The Republican begins to showcase each home.

Other homes on this year's tour on December 3 and 4 include:

- the Victorian home "Creedmore," owned by Donald and Suzanne Sincell, 510 G Street, Mtn. Lake Park. It was built in 1903 and is a separate listing on the National Register of Historical Sites.

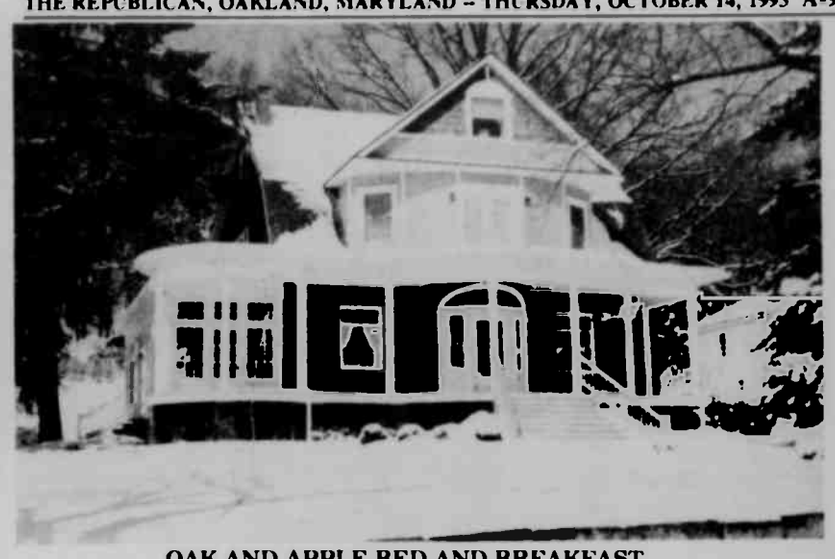
- the traditional home of Wayne and Jackie Johnson at 1112 Dennett Road. The country interior is warm and inviting, according to those who visit. It was built in 1967 by local builder Dale C. Harvey.

- the Oak and Apple Bed and Breakfast at 208 North Second Street, Oakland, owned by Edward and Janna Kight. It was originally known as the D.M. Dixon home, built in 1915, and is colonial in design.



Tickets for the house tours will be available at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Englander's pharmacies the end of October. Hours of the tour will be 4 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Friday, December 3, and 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 4. No tickets will be sold at the door the days of the tours, but tickets will be sold until December 1.

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church will be serving a soup and sandwich meal in conjunction with the tour of homes. Their tickets will be available at the door only.



Persons desiring additional information may call Donna Heginbotham, chairperson of the house tours, at 334-2837.

Frostburg (G.C.) Woman Cleared Of CDS Charges

A Frostburg (Garrett County address) woman was cleared of five drug counts against her by sitting Judge William G. Murphy in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Lauri A. Thomas, 21, Frostburg Road, had five drug charges against her dismissed because lab reports were not available at the hearing. She had been charged with two counts of possession of a narcotic with the intent to distribute, two counts of possession of marijuana, and one count of possession of drug paraphernalia.

The co-defendant in the case waived a preliminary hearing.

Thomas had been arrested with a co-defendant at their residence on September 15 by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after they executed a court-ordered search and seizure warrant. Found in the house were suspected marijuana leaves, a brown smoking device, a grow light, plant food, a beer can fashioned into a smoking device that contained traces of suspected marijuana, and six ounces of suspected crystal methamphetamine. Police also reportedly found seven suspected marijuana plants 150 feet from the back of the house with a well-worn path leading from the house to the plants. The estimated street value of the suspected drugs found was approximately $14,000.

In other District Court news, Joseph R. Welch, 18, Oakland, was granted probation before judgment on a felony theft charge. He was placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation and was ordered to pay restitution of $320 to Brian King within three days.

Welch was reportedly involved with a juvenile in the theft of a number of power tools on July 10. The tools were reportedly taken and then dumped in some weeds in the Swanton area.

Thomas M. Neagle, 20, Baltimore, was sentenced on a felony theft charge for which he had been found guilty in June court proceedings. He was handed an 18-month jail term in the Maryland Department of Corrections, to run concurrently with a prior jail term.

He had been arrested by the Maryland State Police on August 9, 1992, after it was determined that he broke into a number of vending machines and stole the money from them.

Curtis L. DeWitt, 20, Oakland, was found guilty of violation of probation on an earlier felony theft charge and the judge extended his probation 90 days.

DeWitt's parole officer recommended violation of probation after DeWitt failed to meet the conditions of his original parole.

Kenneth W. Lafferty, 33, Westernport, was found guilty of non-support of a minor child. He was given a suspended 18-month jail term and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. He was also ordered to pay the $3,169.46 in back child support and to keep up with his payments.

Charges were brought by the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Laurence B. Wolfe, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, was granted probation before judgment on an animal cruelty charge. He was fined $25 and placed on one day of unsupervised probation.

Wolfe was to have appeared in court for the charge on August 8, but he failed to appear and a bench warrant was issued by the judge and bond was set at $1,000.

Wolfe had been charged with that offense by Clayton O. Winters Sr. who claimed that Wolfe kept his rotweiler chained outside to a tree with no dog house or other shelter. He also said the dog whines and barks all night while still chained outside, although Wolfe claimed he brought the dog in at night.

DWI CASES

Clay B. Deffenbaugh, 22, Strattenville, Pa., was granted probation before judgment on a charge of operating a motor boat while intoxicated. He was fined $25 and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. A second charge or operating a motor boat in a reckless manner was not prosecuted in a plea agreement with a State's Attorney's Office.

Deffenbaugh had been charged with that offense by The Department of Natural Resources Police at Deep Creek Lake on August 14.

Michael W. Kent, 34, Md., had his initial DWI charge amended to DUI at a sentence revision hearing last week. A change of sentence was not indicated on court documents.

Gayle W. Holler, 48, Md., who had been charged with violation of probation stemming from two DWI arrests this past summer, had both charges against him dismissed by the sitting judge.

Ronald J. Sunday, 41, Angola, N.Y., had a request for a $300 refund on a DWI case granted. He produced verification that he had completed DWI school in New York State.

Huskies Pull Away In Second Half To Crush Rams, 36-6

The first half of the annual football clash between the Southern High Rams and the Northern High Huskies last Friday night on the Huskies' gridiron was typical of many past contests between these county arch rivals. The score was 7-6 at intermission, and there was no reason to believe that the game would not be decided until the final moments.

However, the second half belonged entirely to the home team, as the Huskies took control both offensively and defensively and rolled to a 36-6 victory, making it the most lopsided Northern victory over the Rams in nearly three decades.

The Huskies came into the contest undefeated and as a heavy favorite if one were to base all judgments on just the numbers. But those familiar with the rivalry and the history of this particular match-up knew that it was anyone's game at the kickoff.

The Huskies (5-0) put the first points on the board when Rob Speicher grabbed a 41-yard touchdown pass from Derek Mason early in the second quarter. Foreign exchange student Martin Strnad, who also plays for the Northern soccer team, booted the extra point to give the Huskies all they would need for the win.

The Rams cut the gap to one point late in the second half when Pete Strawser, who appeared to be contained by several Husky defenders, broke a number of tackles en route to a touchdown from 33 yards out. The run for the two-point conversion and the lead failed, leaving the score at 7-6 at halftime.

The Huskies wasted no time taking charge in the second half, as they took the kickoff and, on the first play from scrimmage, Mason scored on a 73-yard quarterback sneak. The play was called back because of a blocking penalty, but on the very next play Larry Wakefield broke through the center of the line and raced 34 yards for a touchdown. Strnad's conversion kick made it 14-6.

The Huskies really put the game away in the fourth period when they scored 22 more points. Speicher led off the quarter by catching his second touchdown pass of the evening, this time a 33-yard halfback option pass from Alan Sebold. Strnad kicked the extra point.

Sebold scored the second Northern touchdown of the period when he carried the ball in from the Ram 10-yard line. Strnad's kick gave the Huskies a 28-6 advantage.

The final points of the game were scored by the second and third string Northern offensive units, as Frankie Friend capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown run. Brett Newman ran for a two-point conversion.

The Huskies finished with 225 yards of rushing, compared with 100 for the Rams, with Sebold recording 101 yards on 13 carries and Wakefield adding 84 yards on 13 attempts. Mason connected on four of seven passes for another 74 yards. Sebold's pass for 33 yards gave the Huskies a total of 332 yards of offense.

Ram quarterback Jeremy Fitzwater made good on 6 of 16 passes for 135 yards.

Defensive standouts for the Huskies were Bill Younkin and Bob Fritz, while Galen Glotfelty and J.R. Reams excelled on defense for Southern.

"We played as well as we have played all year," Northern Coach Tom Vent said, "at least in the second half. This was just a great win for us."

When asked why the Huskies played so much better in the second half, Vent said, "We made a few adjustments, but Southern had a lot to do with what happened in the first half. They played very well. The Strawser boy's touchdown run was just an outstanding effort."

Vent did not name weekly award winners, stating that the victory was "a total team effort that involved a lot of outstanding plays by a whole lot of kids."

He said he was pleased with the play of Derek Mason at quarterback, noting that he "stayed with our game plan."

"We worked awfully hard preparing for this game, and it really paid off," Vent added. "We certainly hope Southern wins the rest of their games. It would be great for their program and it certainly would help us, too."

Southern Coach Fred Gregg assessed the second half of the game in almost the same way. "They really came out ready to play in the second half and we didn't," he said. "Then I think after they scored so quickly on us, we let down a little bit. Later on, some of our kids just gave up and quit, which was very disconcerting to us."

Gregg said that he and the rest of his staff were concerned about the attitude of his players coming into this week, and spent a great deal of time discussing this during their Sunday night meeting. "But we were pleasantly surprised when we got to practice on Monday and saw that our kids really had a very good attitude," Gregg said. "They have put the loss behind them and we have had real good practices this week."

The Rams (2-4) will be the favorite this week when they travel to Parsons, W.Va., to take on the winless Tucker County Mountain Lions. However, Gregg is far from assuming the Rams are going to win the game.

"We have watched films of them and we've scouted them a few times and, honestly, we can't figure out why they haven't won some ball games," Gregg said. "They really appear to be a good team. They play with a tremendous amount of emotion and enthusiasm, they play very hard, and they have always been excellent hitters. And, of course, playing at home always adds to their level of intensity."

The Lions' most widely used offensive formation is a pro-I set, with junior tailback Rocky Hebb (5-10, 150) and senior fullback Josh Supek (5-11, 190) leading the charge. Gregg also regards the Lion quarterback, junior Steelie Kissamore (6-0, 155) as a sound player.

"They are primarily a running team, but they don't hesitate to put the ball in the air," Gregg said.

The 4-4 Lion defense is led by its linebacking corps.

NOWHERE TO GO - The going was tough Friday night for the Southern High Rams, at least in the second half of their contest with the Northern Huskies, as the Husky defense held the Rams scoreless in that half en route to a convincing 36-6 Northern victory. Above, Ram running back Scott Dawson looks for running room around the right side, but Huskies Chris Bittner (#63), Bob Fritz (#52), end Dean Green (#50) converge to make the stop. The Huskies (5-1) will play at Berkeley Springs this evening, while the Rams (2-4) will play at Tucker County Friday evening.

Huskies Continue To Roll On The Volleyball Court

The Northern High School volleyball team added to its undefeated record Monday evening by stopping host Bishop Walsh in three games, 15-11, 15-1, and 15-8. The win upped the Huskies' mark to 8-0.

Kandi Buckel paced the Huskies with 18 service points, while Lisa Stephens finished with 10. Each had five aces, as the team served with a 96% effectiveness.

Leading the net attack for Northern were Amy Platter with nine spikes, including four kills, and Stephens, who had six. Defensively, the Huskies received outstanding back row play from Wrenny Smith, Amanda Galica, and Stacey Anderson.

Kirsten Gitt led the 7-4 Spartans with five service points.

"Keeping focused on one game at a time is our major task at this point in our season," stated Northern Coach Vonda Yunker.

The Northern junior varsity also maintained its perfect record for the year by defeating the BW jayvees in the preliminary match, 15-4 and 15-7. The 8-0 Huskies were led in scoring by Mindy McCarty, who had 13 service points, while Noelle Collins added seven. Michelle Geis served three aces in game two, as the Huskies served with a 92% efficiency.

Tara Burdock powered the net attack with five spikes and Collins added three.

The Huskies will play again Monday at Oldtown.

Southern Girls Defeat Oldtown In Volleyball

The Southern High girls' volleyball team got back into the win column last night by defeating host Oldtown, 3-1. It was the second victory in nine matches for the young Southern squad.

The Rams won the first game, 15-4, lost the second, 15-10, and won the next two, 15-11 and 16-14.

Angie Foley recorded 17 points to lead the Rams, while Gretchen Trickett and Marlena Whitacre each finished with 12. Pacing the Indians (0-12) was Tonya Pendergast, who scored 12.

The Southern junior varsity was topped in the preliminary match, 16-14 and 15-6.

The Rams will host Mt. Savage on Monday and travel to Westmar next Wednesday.

Lakers Split Two Matches, Sweep Mont.-Rockville

The Garrett Community College volleyball team upped its record to 18-8 this past week by splitting a tri-match last Thursday in New Kensington, Pa., sweeping visiting Montgomery-Rockville on Saturday, and then splitting another tri-match on Tuesday, also in McHenry.

In last Thursday's competition, the Lakers defeated CCAC-North, 15-5 and 15-8, before dropping a match to CCAC-Boyce, 15-2 and 15-7.

Wanda Swartzwelder was perfect in 15 serves, while Sheila Butt was successful in all 19 of her sets in the win over CCAC-North. Butt also had four assists.

Charity Taylor had six kills and was six-for-six in service receptions in the first game. Elaine DeBerry also successfully handled her six receptions.

In the second game Dawn Deshong was nine-for-nine in sets and DeBerry went seven-for-nine.

Deshong was also 10-for-10 in sets with two assists in the first game against Boyce, while Taylor was eight-for-10 in receptions and DeBerry was successful in seven of eight attacks. DeBerry also had three kills.

In the second game, Swartzwelder was perfect on five serves and went eight-for-nine in attacks with two kills. Deshong was seven-for-seven in attacks with a kill and Butt went 17-for-19 in sets with three assists.

The Lakers had little difficulty disposing of Montgomery-Rockville on Saturday, winning in three straight games, 15-5, 15-2, and 15-9.

Taylor led GCC in the first game with seven service points, including one ace. Wachter had five points and an ace, DeBerry was four-for-five in attacks with three kills, and Butt was also four-for-five in attacks with one kill.

Rebecca Few had eight service points, including an ace, in the second game, DeBerry added five with two aces, and Butt was 11-for-11 in sets.

Few recorded six points with an ace in the third game and Deshong was 10-for-10 in sets. Wachter led in receptions in all three games.

The Lakers avenged last week's loss to CCAC-Boyce Tuesday night by topping the visitors 10-15, 15-12, and 15-8. DeBerry had four service points in the first game, while Butt went 19-for-20 in sets and had four assists.

Renae Kinnie recorded seven service points with one ace in the second game and was also 10-for-10 in sets with four assists.

Taylor paced the Lakers in the third game by going five-for-five in serves, eight-for-eight in attacks, and nine-for-nine in receptions.

Garrett lost to Frederick in the second match, 15-3, 15-8, and 15-5. Few was 14-for-14 in serving for the Lakers.

Coach Margaret Quinn's Lakers will play again next Tuesday at Prince George's Community College.

Ram Golf Team Places Fourth In Regional Tourney

The Southern High School golf team completed its regular season by finishing fourth in a 10-team field at the Regional Tournament in Hagerstown last Wednesday. Rich Orr and Jason Skipper advanced to the state finals, scheduled for October 21-22, at the University of Maryland Golf Course in College Park.

The Rams finished with a match record of 21-15-1. "The team improved a great deal during the eight week season," stated Lindsey Gonder, head coach. "After beginning the season with eight losses, we won 21 of our final matches." Future prospects appear bright, as the team included only two seniors, Jason Skipper and Brandon Mitchum.

During the past several years four schools in Allegany County have developed interscholastic golf programs. "Golf clubs in the immediate area have initiated aggressive junior golf programs that should continue to stimulate interest in this valuable lifetime activity," Gonder said.

which includes Supek and senior Eran Molz (5-11, 189).

The Rams continue to be plagued with injuries. Senior tackle Larry Shreve is sidelined with a back injury, senior linebacker Mike Cassidy is out with an ankle injury, senior running back/defensive back Josh Woods is lost for the season with a foot injury, and senior tailback/linebacker Steve Eyler is listed as "doubtful" because of a pneumonia-like illness. Junior tackle Randy Murphy is also hampered by an ankle injury, but was listed as a "probable" starter.

The kickoff at the Lions' field is set for 7:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Huskies will be an even heavier favorite this week when they travel to Berkeley Springs this evening for a Thursday night contest.

The Indians, who are currently 2-5 on the season, have a large contingent of seniors on the roster, but have been struggling. Offensively, they run from a wing-T formation and will usually put the ball in the air on a regular basis.

"They have a good passing game, which has us a little concerned," Coach Vent said. "It's also their homecoming game, which always gives the home team a boost. I think we play at just about everybody's homecoming!"

Vent once again reiterated his concern about "keeping his team focused on the task at hand."

The Huskies emerged reasonably healthy from the Southern game, with Tim Hinebaugh sustaining an elbow injury and listed as "questionable" for this week.

The Huskies will also play on Thursday night next week at home against Petersburg.

"I'LL TAKE THAT BALL NOW" might be what Southern Ram Danny Nelson, right, was telling this Salisbury opponent during the Southern-Salisbury soccer game played last Friday on the Rams' athletic field. The Rams were defeated by the visitors, 3-1, and will go after their third win of the season this afternoon at Hyndman. Also identifiable in the photo is Southern's Joey DiSimone, #8

Rams Defeated By Salisbury Booters, 3-1

The Southern High School soccer team was topped by visiting Salisbury, 3-1, Friday afternoon on the Rams' field, as the visitors recorded their seventh win in 11 games.

Jeremy Hoover scored two goals in the first half for Salisbury, the first at the 25:55 mark when he took a pass from Keith Morris and re-directed it into the goal past Jason Pressley.

Hoover's second score was recorded about 12 minutes later, this time on an assist by Tony Ferraro.

The third Salisbury goal was awarded at the 25:00 mark of the second half when Russ Christner threw the ball in and, according to the referee, the ball glanced off Morris and went into the goal. (Goals cannot be scored on a throw-in unless the ball first touches another player.)

The Rams avoided a shutout when Aaron Chorpenning slammed home a corner kick by Stephen Goralski with 23:56 remaining in the game.

Pressley finished with 11 saves for the Rams, who were out-gunned in the number of shots on goal, 36-7. David Easton had three saves for Salisbury.

Southern originally had a game scheduled with Mt. Savage for Tuesday, but the Indians cancelled the contest. The Rams will play at Hyndman this afternoon in a 4:30 p.m. game.

Huskies Still Seeking First Soccer Victory

The new Northern High School varsity soccer team continues to seek its first win of the season after the Huskies dropped two more games this past week and saw their record dip to 0-7.

Coach Tom Ables' team dropped a 6-1 decision to a strong Calvary Christian Academy team in Accident last Thursday and was then crushed by the area's number one team, Bishop Walsh, 12-0, Monday evening, also at the Cove. The Huskies will host Beall this evening.

John Henriques scored the first two goals for Calvary last Thursday, recording his first one unassisted just 3:49 into the first half and then struck again at the 28:06 mark on an assist by Matt Reeder.

Ian Sutherland made it 3-0 at the 22:53 mark on a feed by Brian Umbel.

The Huskies avoided a shutout when Martin Strnad scored on a penalty kick with 19:02 remaining in the half, but Calvary's Micah Smith responded with an unassisted goal less than a minute later to make the halftime score 4-1.

Reeder scored Calvary's fifth goal of the evening on an assist by Lindsey with 21:58 left in the game and Seth Toner, assisted by Lindsey, recorded the final point at the 23:56 mark.

Reeder, who is one of the area's top scorers, was held in check most of the game by Husky Mitzi White, a member of the Northern cross country team, who had never played soccer before.

The win was the sixth straight for Calvary (8-2).

The Huskies were manhandled through both halves Monday by the top-ranked BW Spartans, who held a commanding 7-0 lead at halftime. It was the 14th victory for Spartans in 15 starts.

Jeff Harbel scored four goals for BW, Jason Helmstetter and Ryan Nelson had three each, and single goals were recorded by Andy McCreary and Vince Tola. Assists were recorded by Harbel, Nelson, Jason Edgerley, Alex Bosley, and Helmstetter.

The Huskies were outshot 30-12 and trailed in corner kicks, 6-1. BW keeper Luke Strosnider had nine saves and Bosley one, while Chris Elliott recorded 15 saves for Northern.

Deep Creek Club Edged In Soccer By Barrelville

The Deep Creek Soccer Club hosted Barrelville in a Western Maryland Adult Soccer League contest Sunday afternoon, and the visitors scored the only goal of the game to record a 1-0 victory.

Barrelville's goal was scored on the second of two similar plays. Deep Creek keeper John Steele made a spectacular diving finger-tip save on a lone "banana" shot from the right sideline to the left post. But several minutes later, Barrelville's Mo Pratt sent a long cross from the same area to the left corner of the goal box and Rocky Reed slammed the ball into the back of the net.

The contest featured numerous long crosses, passes, and high punts, all aided by a significant breeze. Although Deep Creek was able to reach these balls as often as Barrelville players did, the visitors ultimately controlled more of them on the second or third touch. They also took more shots on goal than Deep Creek, especially from the 25-30-yard range.

Since members of the league continue to insist on playing under modified high school rules, the referee easily could have issued yellow cards to the entire roster of each team for dissent, according to a Deep Creek Club spokesman. Gabe Fitzwater of Deep Creek and Barrelville's Jeff Shimko were cautioned for pushing each other after play had already been stopped for a free kick.

By correctly using "advantage" and a "slow whistle," Dave Spirk's officiating created confusion among players not used to a higher standard of competence, according to the spokesman.

"The Barrelville Club actually benefitted more often on stoppages for offside," the spokesman said, "but still complained long and hard because of delayed whistles. No penalty shots were awarded, and for the first time in memory, a ball handled by a defender in his own penalty area was correctly not whistled because it was not intentional."

The spokesman added that the Allegany County players, especially, were unable to influence the officials. "As a result, the game was well played, with a minimum of hacking," he said.

The win upped Barrelville's record to 3-1-1. The Deep Creek Club will play again this Sunday at Cumberland against Betz Chemical, with kickoff set for 3 p.m. Their next home game, to be played at Southern Middle School, is slated for Sunday, Oct. 24, against Flintstone.

Betz was the league champion last year, while Flintstone finished second. The public is invited to attend league games, free of charge.

1993 RAM BOOTERS - The 1993 Southern High School soccer team, the first Ram soccer squad since the early 1950s, is about two-thirds through its season. Coached by Tom Powers, Selvyn Brown, and Dave Spirk, the Rams currently have a record of 2-6 and will attempt to improve on that mark this afternoon at Hyndman. The Rams have been competitive in nearly every game, as they nearly upset the area's number one-ranked team Bishop Walsh, and played a close game against Salisbury, the number three team in the area. Remaining on the schedule after the Hyndman game are Allegany and Westmar. Pictured above, front, are goalkeepers Michael Purdy, left, and Jason Pressley. Kneeling, left to right, are: Corey Friend, Joshua Teeta, Jesse Ashby, Crystal Vecchioni, Ben Sumpter, Christian Coviello, Matthew Sincell, and Robby Swiger. In the next row, same order, are: Coach Spirk, Danny Nelson, Joey DiSimone, Nathan Rickman, Joshua Pressley, Charles Granke, Jeff Myers, and Jay Ferguson. In the back row, same order, are: Kevin Andrews, Aaron Chorpenning, Derek Spirk, Stephen Goralski, Shannon Ringer, Eric Anderson, and Coach Powers. Not present for the photo was Coach Brown.

Jets Roll Over Vikings, To Meet Steelers For Title

The Oakland Jets recorded a 24-7 win over the Parsons Vikings last Sunday to advance to the championship game of the Mt. Top Youth Football League against the Northern Steelers. The Jets and Steelers met last year in the championship game, with the Jets winning a hard-fought contest.

The Jets and Vikings trades possessions to start the game with neither team being able to sustain a drive. After the Vikings muffed a punt, the Jets took possession of the ball on the Vikings' 39 yard line. On the next play, fullback Tommy Gank broke four tackles and raced 39 yards for a touchdown. The PAT attempt failed.

The Vikings fumbled on the first play of the second quarter and the Jets took over on the Vikings' 40 yard line. A 19-yard jaunt by tailback Jason Bowers and a 2-yard run by Gank took the ball to the Viking one. Gank scored on the next play and the Jets led 12-0.

The Vikings were forced to go to the air on their next possession and one the second play Bowers picked off a pass and returned it 32 yards to the Vikings' 12-yard line. A penalty took the ball to the six-yard line and consecutive runs of four and two yards by Chris Gidley resulted in the Jets' third touchdown. The PAT attempt again failed and the score was 18-0 at the end of the first half.

On their first drive of the second half, the Jets scored on the sixth play on a 32-yard run by Gidley. The PAT attempt failed. The Jets started to substitute freely both on offense and defense. The Vikings scored in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard pass from Jason Hedrick to Wesley Lambert. Josh Bowley ran for the PAT to conclude the scoring.

The Jet jayvees were impressive against the Viking as they scored twice and held the Vikings to no scores. The Jets/Steelers championship game will be played Sunday at Northern High School at 2 p.m. Jet coach Vic Compitello stated, "We really hope that there will be a big turnout of Jet fans on Sunday to help cheer for the Jets. The Steelers are very good and they beat us during the regular season. That's our only loss in the last two years, so I think the Jets will be ready to play on Sunday."

BASKETBALL LEAGUE HELPS PTA - The Adult Recreational Basketball League recently donated funds to assist the Broad Ford Elementary School PTA (Parent-Teacher Association) in purchasing new playground equipment. PTA members have worked for several months to provide new as well as refurbished items for the school yard. In addition to spearheading a fundraising campaign, members have also volunteered their time to work on the equipment themselves. Pictured above, left to right, are Monty Pagenhardt, representing the basketball league; Brenda Betz, Sandy Ball, Nancy Wesley, Linda Stephens, and Rob Michael, also of the league.

Steelers Whip Raiders; Advance To Championships

The Northern Steelers remained undefeated in the Mtn. Top Youth Football League and advanced to the league championship game Sunday afternoon by rolling over the Oakland Raiders, 26-2, in a semi-final contest at Northern High School.

Brad Mason ran for two Steeler touchdowns and Scott Sisler passed for one and ran for one, while the only Raider points were scored on a safety by Josh Helbig.

Mason opened the scoring in the first quarter with a one-yard touchdown run, followed by a Sisler pass to John Snelling for the conversion.

The Steelers made it 13-0 in the second quarter when Sisler connected with Snelling again, this time on a 57-yard touchdown play.

Mason recorded his second one-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and also ran for the conversion to give the Steelers a 20-0 advantage.

It was in the fourth period that Sisler broke loose for a 23-yard touchdown gallop to conclude the Steelers' scoring.

Helbig tackled Jeff Carr in the Steeler end zone late in the game to avert a shutout.

Steeler Coach Ben Sisler gave credit to the members of the his offensive line for their efforts, not only in this game, but throughout the season. Starting on that line are: Jeff Spear, Corey Sisler, Craig Frazee, Andy McKenzie, and Joey Wilhelm.

Defensive standouts for the Steelers were Jimmy Warnick, Shane Frazee, Zach Rawe, and P.J. Workman, who had a fumble recovery.

In a rematch of last year's championship game, the Steelers will host the Oakland Jets this Sunday at the Northern field. The kickoff is set for 2 p.m.

Husky Freshmen Fall To Sentinels

The Northern High School freshman football team dropped a 16-8 decision to Fort Hill last evening

All of the scoring occurred in the fourth quarter, beginning with a two-yard touchdown run by Fort Hill's Pat Pennel, followed by a two-point conversion run by Tyrone Minor.

The Huskies tied the score midway through the period when E.J. Scofield connected with Nick Mitchell on a 10-yard touchdown pass, and Mitchell ran for the conversion.

Southern Boys Win PVC Cross Country Title

The Southern High School boys' cross country team ran its way to the 1993 Potomac Valley Conference title Tuesday afternoon by defeating three other teams at Berkeley Springs.

Sophomore runner Todd Howard placed second overall with a time of 18:18 to lead five Rams to placing among the top seven and record 24 team points. Keyser placed second with a score of 50, followed by Frankfort, 62, and Berkeley Springs with an incomplete score.

Placing fourth through seventh for the Rams were Bryan Clickener, Nathan McBee, Matt Newcomb, and Kevin Andrews, respectively. Dan Skipper finished 11th and Andy Craver was 12th.

Geoff Schadler of Keyser was the top finisher among all male runners, as he crossed the finish line seven seconds ahead of Howard. Frankfort's Garth Wagoner was third with a time of 18:37.

The Southern girls finished third among the four high schools, recording 52 team points. Keyser won with 30, Berkeley Springs was second with 49, and Frankfort was fourth with 104.

Jenny Reams was the top Southern finisher, recording a time of 22:40 for third place. Freshman Lauren Newcomb was fifth, who was also named to the All-PVC team. Completing the scoring for the Rams were: Andrea Devens, 12th; Shannon Dabney, 14th; Kara Freyman, 18th; Jennifer Parriseau, 19th; and Laah Broadwater, 27th.

Keyser's Valerie Smith and Courtney Taylor finished first and second, respectively, with times of 22:18 and 22:34.

In the boys' junior varsity race, Southern's team rolled to victory, as Charlie Wesley dominated the field with a first place time of 20:14, while Matt Devens, Jamie Jacoby, Steve Shockey, and Chris Jones finished second through fourth, respectively.

Southern's Julie Caruso placed eighth and Susan Blamble, 10th, in the girls jayvee event.

The freshmen girls of Southern dominated their event by sweeping the top five places. Meghan Dabney won first place, followed by Shannon Spurrier, Autumn Newcomb, Kandice Shomo, and Natalie Carlson. In the freshman boys' event, Ram Dave Alexander was second, John Oritz placed third, and Stan Hanson was 10th.

The Rams will host the Bi-County Championship next Monday, Oct. 18, at the Broadford Park course. Other varsity teams will include: Northern, Allegany, Beall, Bishop Walsh, and Fort Hill.

Cumberland Raceway Runs Queen City 50

Tim Hitt, of Weston, W.Va., put his Rocket Chassis Late Modal in Victory Lane for the 2nd Annual Queen City 50 at the Cumberland Raceway Saturday, October 9. Hitt left with a total of $5,096, which included lap and bonus money. Jim Deneen, of Hyndman, Pa., won the Semi-late Feature that was cut to 14 laps because of the weather. Deneen took home $939 which included lap and bonus money.

There were 41 Late Models and 23 Semi-lates in the pits for the final race of the season. The total payout for the Queen City 50 was $16,000.

Ten cars broke the one-lap track record set by Lynn Geisler last year. Geisler set a new one-lap record of 20.292 and received $300 for the fast time. The Louie Spoerl Dash for Cash was won by Lynn Geisler, the "B" Main winner was Todd Price and the "C" Main winner was Charles Schaffer.

Miss Motorsports 92 Robin Johnson, and Miss Cumberland Raceway Gina Newhouse presented the awards to the drivers.

In the Late Model Feature, Lynn Geisler held off Tim Hitt and Gary Stuhler through several cautions for 20 laps. On lap 21, on a restart, Tim Hitt got around Geisler, coming out of turn four for the lead. Hitt held off Geisler, Stuhler and Chub Frank through four more cautions for his first win at Cumberland. Geisler finished second and Stuhler finished third. Chub Frank, last year's winner, finished fourth, followed by Brian Ruhlman, Randy Kimmel, Scott Rhodes, Charles Shaffer, Jim Spence and Bob Wearing, Jr.

The Tri-State Racing Photos Hard Charger Award went to Charles Schaffer.

In the Semi-late Feature, Jim Deneen, in the Z&M Motors Line car, took the lead from Dion LaSalle on lap one. The race was stopped once for rain and had three cautions. Deneen kept the lead on all restarts. When the rain hit hard on lap 14, the race was checkered. Behind Deneen was Bob Elbin, Jerry Robinson, Steve Payne, Jack Pencil, David Burleson, Donnie Witt, Lynn Ogden, Shane Beegle and Dave Hoover. Heat winners were Jim Deneen and Dion LaSalle.

The promoters extend appreciation to the sponsors and fans of the Queen City 50 for their help and support and for making the 1993 season a success. The 1994 season opener is set for Saturday, April 23, 1994.

The third annual awards banquet to be held November 20, at the Holiday Inn in Cumberland, is sold out.

The drivers collected $1,147 for Late Model driver Wayne Johnson, who was hurt at the Hagerstown Speedway a week ago.

LITTLE MISS CUMBERLAND RACEWAY IN PARADE - Lacee Tressler, Little Miss Cumberland Raceway 1993, will ride in an antique car in the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade this Saturday, representing the Cumberland Raceway. Miss Tressler is five years old and a kindergartner at Dennett Road School. She will compete in the Little Miss Motorsports USA In King of Prussia, Pa., in January of 1994. She will be judged in sportswear, interviewing, and party dress. If she wins, Lacee will receive an all-expenses-paid trip to the Daytona 500 and Walt Disney World, where she will make appearances. A $5,000 scholarship will also be awarded the winner, and all-expenses-paid trips to the Nascar and Winston Cup races. Miss Tressler is a baton and gymnastics student at Brenda's Body Shop and a member of the Try-Hards aerobic team. She is enrolled at Garrett Gymnastics, and is also in the "missionette" program at the Loch Lynn Church of God. Her parents are Greg and Leslie Tressler, Oakland, and her grandparents are Dave and Betty Cogan and Charlie and Claudia Tressler, all of Oakland.

Husky Harriers Second, Third At Clear Spring

The Northern High School girls' cross country team placed second and the boys' squad finished third in a four-team meet held yesterday at Clear Spring.

The Northern girls finished with 38 points to place behind Martinsburg with 21 points. Both Beall and Clear Spring had incomplete scores.

In the boys' event, Martinsburg won with 20 points, Beall was second with 50, Northern recorded 61, and Clear Spring had an incomplete score.

Leading the Northern girls was Danelle Fike, who placed third with a time of 21:48. Cindy Weimer finished fifth, Stacy Dolan was seventh, Jennifer Morgan placed 12th, and Chris Umbel and Stephanie Dolan were 14th and 15th, respectively.

Mendi Hamilton and Heather Jones of Martinsburg won first and second places with respective times of 20:17 and 21:39.

Education Board

construction in the county be done where there is an existing infrastructure, which is present in Loch Lynn. This was made in the interest of preserving farm lands and other open space, as I understand it."

Board members, the superintendent, and the assistant superintendent, however, all agreed that the centralized location would be ideal, as it would serve both school communities fairly. The SAESC was made up of parents from both communities, and they too, according to Coviallo, agreed that this would be the desirable solution.

"I can't tell you how much I admire these people," Coviello said. "This is not an easy task. People are emotionally tied to their local schools - they've been here a long time. I commend these parents and former students for cutting through the sentimental issues and doing what is best for their children."

Ryscavage reminded all those present, however, that the new school is not definite, as the county commissioners did not accept the idea last year.

"It is up to our fiscal authority if we pursue this at all," he said. The issue will be brought before the commissioners soon, as the capital improvement program must be submitted to the state in the near future.

Capital Improvement Program

The capital improvement program, which is the education board's plan for all land acquisition, design, construction, and equipment for the public school facilities, was discussed and acted on by the board. The program presented by Ryscavage was approved with a three to one vote with Charlotte Sebold voting against.

Included in the improvement program is the air-conditioning system at Broad Ford Elementary and Southern Middle schools. The current system failed earlier this school year and temperatures rose to an uncomfortable level, Ryscavage said, making the learning and teaching environment "nearly unbearable." Both buildings were originally built as "open space" learning facilities, consisting of large rooms, or "pods," which served four or more classes at one time. The arrangement failed, and walls have been constructed over the past 12-13 years to separate the classes. This construction has resulted in an air quality problem because of poor ventilation.

The new system will cost approximately $100,000, with about $30,000 to come from the county funds. Ryscavage told board members that he wished to get the project started by July 1, 1994, so that it will be operating by the opening of the following school year.

Mrs. Sebold questioned the need for the system, and asked Ryscavage if all avenues had been explored concerning the air system. The superintendent said that he felt confident that the proposal was the most appropriate course of action, and that several ideas had been discussed. He also noted that in order to get the system fixed by next year, the board would have to act now.

Also included in the capital plan is the completion of the Southern High locker room, to be finished by Sept. 1994, and the addition of classrooms at Northern High. Ryscavage noted a particular urgency in the completion of the classrooms because of a projected enrollment increase for the next several years. Currently the enrollment at the high school is 507, but the projected number for 1995 is 600.

"The students are cramped now, but the problem will obviously be worse in the coming years," he said. The plan sets the completion date for the rooms in July 1995.

The cost of the additional rooms will be nearly $700,000.

Other items in the plan include the Southern Area Elementary School (the consolidation of Red House and Loch Lynn) in fiscal year 1996 at a cost of approximately $5 million, and the Southern High connecting corridor, library and cafetorium renovation, and the main gymnasium and lobby, all to be completed by July 1998.

The board voted for the program, with Sebold against. She said her reason for the nay vote concerned the cost of the Southern Middle and Broad Ford air systems.

School Nurses

Ryscavage and Director of Pupil Services Wilda Massi addressed the problem of the lack of school nurses in the elementary schools. The search for qualified persons has been in vain thus far, Massi said, as the salary offered is "far below" the average school-nurse salary.

The need for the nurses is magnified this year, as several teachers are reportedly handling the special needs of children with serious health problems. Some of the special needs mentioned included serious bowel problems, children with fetal alcohol syndrome, children with cystic fibrosis, and others. The teachers of the children are required to provide special health care for which they are untrained, according to James Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers Association, and the concerns are increasing as the school year progresses.

Mrs. Massi reported that while the situation is serious, there is not a health problem as yet that cannot be handled.

"The teachers have outdone themselves in meeting the needs of these children to provide them a free and appropriate education, as is their right," she said. "We do not have a health concern right now that we cannot meet, but I realize the concerns are out there."

Massi and Ryscavage agreed that the first step will be to obtain the services of two nurses in the elementary schools. Ryscavage said he would be asking the commissioners soon to provide an appropriate salary for the professionals. The money currently offered is from a grant, Massi said, and is "not competitive at all."

Further coverage of this issue, other recommendations of the SAESC, and other items discussed Tuesday will appear in a future issue of The Republican.

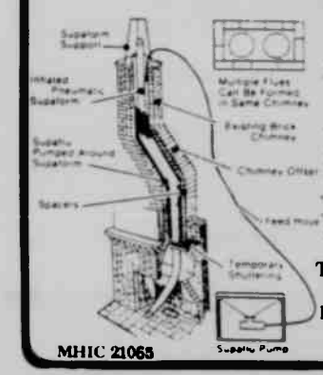
meyer, Geoffrey Meyers, and Sarah Ferguson. The Oakland victims were Sheila Reeves, Brandon Seifert, Bob Boal, Paul Naylor, Curt Bucklew, Jean Alexander, Vonda McIntyre, Michael Fazenbaker, Eric Moyer, Marvin Guthrie, Mary Brown, and Marge Evans.

Business signs damaged in the event belonged to Napa Auto Parts, Mighty Distributing System, and Grand Central Station. There may be still more victims, according to the report.



Sines reported that a similar incident occurred on August 14 when 10 vehicles were damaged. He said an intense investigation is underway, and urged any person with any information about this crime spree to contact the police at 334-2100.

"School Meals" Do 'Em Daily" Effort Underway Locally

Garrett County Food Service personnel plan to increase participation in the county school meals program by taking part in a new statewide promotional campaign designed to treat students more like customers, according to Richard Buckingham, assistant in school food and nutrition services. The campaign was launched this week, which is National School Lunch Week.

The campaign features a logo with the theme line "School Meals: Do 'Em Daily." The logo will appear on cafeteria posters and on promotion give-aways such as book covers, stickers, pencils, and bookmarks which students will receive when they eat school lunches, Buckingham said.

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer said that Maryland's school meals programs "help keep kids ready to learn."

"Every study we've seen has demonstrated a clear connection between regular, good nutrition and our kids' performance in school," he said. "And school meals benefit all kids, not only those who qualify for free and reduced-price meals."

Buckingham agreed that the primary purpose of school meals is to help students excel.

"But we have to realize that kids don't get those benefits unless they actually eat the meal," he said. "The new campaign recognizes that we have to treat the kids like customers and work harder to make our programs more appealing to them."

Last school year, 58% of Garrett County Students ate school lunch on an average day, Buckingham said, compared to the statewide average of 44%. Lunch costs $1.15 at county elementary schools, $1.25 at middle schools, and $1.30 at high schools.

Each full meal includes a combination of milk, vegetable, fruit, bread, and meat or other protein-rich food. The county receives federal subsidies for each meal it serves that fits this pattern. This keeps the price of a full school lunch well below the comparable price for a similar bag meal or for a fast-food lunch, Buckingham said.

Buckingham also pointed to an on-going awareness campaign, titled "School Meals: We Serve Education Every Day," as evidence that his program is determined to get the message out about ways school meals are changing. Students today increasingly find more choices on the lunch line, he said, and, more and more, menus are planned to decrease fat, sugar, and salt without sacrificing taste.

"School Meals offer a convenient, economical, and healthy alternative for school-day nutrition, and we need to make sure parents know that," Buckingham said.

State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick stated that strong community outreach efforts like the "School Meals: Do 'Em Daily" campaign show that Maryland's school meals programs help with the states "Schools for Success."

"We have to let people know that we're not merely serving children food," Grasmick said. "We serve education every day, with every meal we provide to every student."

In Loving Memory of Doris Jean Frazee

Who would have celebrated her birthday Oct. 12.
If roses grow in heaven.
Lord please pick a bunch for us
Place them in our mother's arms and tell her they're from us
Tell her we love and miss her
And when she turns to smile
Place a kiss upon her cheek and hold her for awhile
Because remembering her is easy
We do it every day.
But there's an ache within our hearts that will never go away

CIVIC CLUB HOLDS 20TH SHOW - The Civic Club of Oakland will hold its 20th Antique Show and Sale during the 26th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, Oct. 15-17, at the Oakland Armory. The quilt pictured above will be raffled off on Sunday, Oct. 17, at 4 p.m. This year marks the Club's 20th year of hosting the antique show, the proceeds of which go to several area non-profit groups each year. The Civic Club members work for months to organize the event and to prepare numerous apple pies, soups, and other lunch foods for patrons to purchase. Antiques from 30 dealers are available for purchase as well, and the booth fees paid by these dealers as well as all monies raised from lunch sales go to local organizations such as the Ruth Enlow Library, emergency services, Garrett Community College and Garrett Memorial Hospital foundations, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Hospice, and several others. Helen Nordeck, pictured above left, has made the yearly raffle quilt for 17 of the 20 years. This year's prize features the rose bouquet pattern. Shown center is Becky O'Connell, chairperson of the quilt raffle, and at right is Shirley Panther, chairperson of the Antique Show and Sale. The hours of the show are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day, with a $1 admission fee. Parking is free. For more information, persons may contact Mrs. Panther at 334-2477.

Oakland City Police Charge Local Man

The Oakland City Police arrested an Oakland man Saturday for fighting in the alley near the police station. Joseph R. Welch, 18, was reportedly fighting with another unidentified individual when officers stopped the altercation and charged Welch.

The defendant was later released on his own recognizance, according to a police spokesperson.

FSU Offering Herb Seminar

The Center for Professional and Extended Education at Frostburg State University (FSU) will be offering a seminar on herbs entitled "Herbs -- Plants With A Purpose." The one-day seminar will be held on campus, Saturday, November 6, from 9:30-11:30 a.m., in the Leake Room.

The class is designed to inform students how plants from all over the world have been used as special resource foods since the beginning of time. Participants will be given various handouts which will enable them to study how herbs can be helpful in balancing their own particular needs.

The class will be instructed by John and Amy Shuman, of The Shuman Life Center in Cumberland. The Shumans are committed to helping others learn how to "take charge of their health" so that high risk diseases can be avoided or minimized, according to an FSU spokesperson.

Those interested in attending the class must register before Oct. 30. More information may be obtained by calling (301) 689-4020 or by visiting the Center for Professional and Extended Education at 20 Braddock Street, Frostburg.

MCC Offering Training For Staff Members

The Maryland Conservation Corps (MCC), a division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Forest and Park Service, will be holding a week of staff training at Herrington Manor State Park from October 18-22. The training is designed to prepare the staff for the second year of the year-round MCC program.

Approximately 24 administrative staff and crew supervisors will be attending workshops on various subjects such as leadership and crew management, motivation, and staff burn-out.

There will be six year-round crews throughout the state this year, one of which will be working in Garrett County.

The program is funded and supported by the Commission on National Community Services thereby making community service "a major part of the program beyond the corps members' regular work day," according to a spokesperson.

During the staff training, the MCC administrative staff and crew supervisors will be volunteering several hours of their time on Wednesday, October 20, to participate in beautification projects for two local senior citizens centers -- Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident and Truesdell Home for Senior Citizens in Deer Park. The staff will be performing landscaping duties such as planting shrubs and flowers as well as a general clean-up detail. This project will be a cooperative effort between Garrett County Community Action and MCC.

Volunteers from Southern High School will also be joining the effort on October 20, designated as a statewide community service day with the theme "Make Your Community Blossom."

Any donations of shrubs, trees, or landscaping materials are welcome, according to Bill Durst, Volunteer Maryland coordinator, 334-9431.

Apitherapy To Be Topic Of MS Support Group

The Garrett County Multiple Sclerosis Self Help Support Group will meet Wednesday, October 20, at the Oakland Elks Lodge. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

This month the group will discuss Apitherapy, a non-medically proven use of honey bee products including: bee venom, raw honey, pollen, royal jelly, wax and propolis. Bee venom (available from the live bee or in an injectable form) has a long tradition as a folk remedy for arthritis and other degenerative diseases, including multiple sclerosis.

Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship To Meet October 16

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International dinner will meet Saturday, October 16, at 7 p.m. at the Crellin Community Center where the guest speaker will be Bob Harmon, U.S. Air Force, ret. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Harmon was born and reared in Western Maryland. He spent 24 years on active duty in the U.S. Air Force as a navigator on bombers and transports where he traveled to various countries of the world.

He retired from the military in 1973 and pursued a music career. He entertained in clubs throughout Maryland and West Virginia. He then participated in a new work in the Keyser area called Believer's Fellowship. He served as their pastor for four years, then resigned and traveled. He now serves as he is "called," according to a Fellowship spokesperson.

The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under and reservations must be made by calling 1-301-387-6707 or 1-304-735-5150.

A Fellowship spokesperson also noted that both the prayer breakfast and fellowship will now be held at the Crellin Community Center.

COVE

The Accident volunteer firemen will sponsor Bingo at the fire hall this Saturday, Oct. 16, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are sponsoring a fall bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 23, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Lunch will be served the entire time. Arts and crafts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale. Proceeds will benefit Lutheran World Relief and local projects. Parking is available behind the church. Handicapped-accessible entrances are located in the front off Highway 219. The public is invited.

The Youth Group will meet this Friday, Oct. 15, at Rush Baptist Church at 6:30 p.m. Misses Kara Alt, Romney, W.Va., and Pamela Schmidt, students at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W.Va., spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt, and Rachel and attended that church, where Greg Humberson was ordained a deacon of the church during the worship service on Sunday morning. That afternoon the Schmidts celebrated the 19th birthday anniversary of Pamela that occurred Monday, Oct. 11. Mrs. Donald Schmidt and daughters were also guests for the celebration. Sandy, Rebecca, and Donna Schmidt also accompanied the Schmidt family to worship services on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Maust and family, Washingtonville, N.Y., are spending most of the week here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust, and Phebe and Jason, where other guests for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Urbane Maust and family, Bel Air, Miss Lois Maust, Columbus, Ohio, Miss Debbie Maust, Morgantown, W.Va., and Miss Julia Maust, a student at Frostburg State University. The entire group were at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Saturday to attend the wedding and reception of Jason to Miss Karen Beitzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleland Beitzel, Bittinger. With the reception of the newly married couple, the rest of the group were in Morgantown that evening at the home of Miss Debbie Maust, and were at the Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville, on Sunday, where they were dinner guests of Mrs. Maust's mother, Mrs. Della Miller. An aunt, Mrs. Mildred Miller, Belleville, Pa., and other family members were also dinner guests there of Mrs. Miller.

The Rev. and Mrs. Oren Bender and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bender and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family, Mrs. Chester Yoder and Mrs. Kenny Miller were all in attendance at the wedding and reception of Jason Maust and Karen Beitzel at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Saturday. The Robert Benders and the Douglas Benders were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman, Accident. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bender visited with Jerry Maust, Accident, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, that afternoon, where Jerry underwent an appendectomy last week. Thursday evening visitors of the Douglas Benders were Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Moser and daughter, Grantsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kolb were among those attending the wedding of John Brobst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brobst, McHenry, and Miss Michelle Dixon, at the Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville, and the reception at the Bittinger fire hall.

Friday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft were Kristen and Amanda Hanft, Addison, Pa. Jeff Anderson, Camp Springs, and Young Sook Kim, Seoul, Korea, both students at Frostburg State University, joined the four of them for supper at the Will 'o Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, and remained overnight guests of the Hanfts. Jeff and Young Sook plan a December wedding. Other Saturday evening visitors of the Hanfts were Elmer Hanft and Mr and Mrs. Carroll Hanft. Sunday dinner and supper guests of the Hanfts were Miss Ann Marie Burton, Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Karl Oester, Meyersdale, Pa. The four of them visited with Mrs. Roy Harman at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted last week and remains a patient. Tuesday forenoon visitors of the Hanfts were Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Hutzel, Grantsville, and overnight guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Needer and family, Timonium. Charles Needer and Carroll Hanft were among the men leaving on Wednesday morning on a hunting trip to Colorado.

Mrs. Betty Richter was a Thursday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Diehl, Grantsville. Saturday visitors of Mrs. Richter were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Travis, Oakland. Mrs. Dorothy Resh and Mrs. Richter were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Alberta Ellifritz, Mtn. Lake Park, and the three of them visited with Mrs. Roy Harman at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Dennis Margroff was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, on Wednesday and was a patient there until Friday, where family members visited every day. Ben and Kraig Margroff, Friendsville, were guests at the Dennis Margroff home from Thursday until Sunday, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Margroff, attended schooling at Baltimore dealing with fire restoration and cleaning. Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff were Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Margroff, Ben and Kraig, and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Margroff and daughter. The Dennis Margroffs were evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Younkin, Accident.

A TRIBUTE TO MOM

For all the games she played with me
The lonesome times she stayed with me
The happy plans she made with me
My loving thanks to Mom

For all the storms she braved for me,
The rocky ways she paved for me,
The days she somehow saved for me
My loving thanks to Mom

For lessons that she taught to me
For all the joys she brought to me
For meaning such a lot to me
My loving thanks to Mom

Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco Pisano McClives Restaurant

Count on pita bread for a quick individual pizza. Break up canned tomatoes, drained, for sauce, then top with sliced red onions, mozzerella or Monterey jack cheese, prosciutto and a touch of Parmesan. Sprinkle with oregano and red pepper flakes.

Or how about roasted red peppers, crumbled goat cheese and sliced black olives? The only limit on a pizza is your imagination.

There's no difference between a chicken with white skin or one with yellow skin, neither in taste nor nutrition. It only depends on what the chicken ate.

Asparagus keeps best if you stand it up in a container of cold water- just like flowers.

Join us soon for a delicious meal.

Take a friend to church this Sunday

The Art of Friendship

Friendship is an art.

It is rather easy, as someone observed, to attract people and be attracted by them and develop acquaintances. But it takes an artist to keep the process going until deep friendship happens.

"If friendships were easy," declared Andrew Greeley, "there would be a lot more of them in the world."

And developing deep friendship is not easy because it is an art, and no art comes quickly or easily. Aristotle contended that "The business of every art is to bring something into existence, and the practice of any art involves studying how to bring this something into existence."

Friendship, as an art, demands patience. Many could-be friendships never happen because people get in a hurry to develop closeness and intimacy. Friendships that rush into intimacy are seldom lasting ones.

In our hurried and mobile society we have placed "rush" stickers on the package of friendship without also stenciling "fragile" on it.

Ralph Waldo Emerson gives comfort and courage:

HOW MUCH WATER SHOULD YOU DRINK?

All living cells of the body function in a fluid environment. This fluid is steadily lost through the gastrointestinal and urinal tracts. More is lost by perspiration and through the lungs. It must be replaced because the skin cannot absorb moisture from the air no matter how humid the day.

The body usually functions best if two quarts of liquids are taken in each day. One quart is considered the minimum. So extracts how much you get each day in coffee, etc., and drink additional water to help keep you healthier.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE ONE WHO SEES US
October 18, 1993

Background Scripture:
Genesis 16:1-3, 15:1-18
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 16:1-15

The story of Abram, Sarai, and Hagar must be read in the context of God's promise: "I will make of you a great nation" (12:2). Although he could not imagine how God would fulfill that promise, Abraham believed it.

How much later it is in Genesis 16, we do not know, but the writer of the passage makes it evident that God's promise seems no nearer fulfillment than before. "Now Sarai, Abram's wife, bore him no children" (16:1). Perhaps Abram still believed in the promise of God, but Sarai has run out of patience and trust. Instead of waiting for God to keep his word, she took things in her own hands. "Behold now, the Lord has prevented me from bearing children; go into my maid, it may be that I shall obtain children by her" (16:2). In those days it was believed that God was both the giver of fertility and barrenness and it was customary for a barren wife to give her maid to the husband and claim the child as her own. Hagar would become pregnant and bear the child, but it would belong to Abram and Sarai, not Hagar.

LOGICAL BUT WRONG

It may have been an acceptable custom but it was fraught with risk, as we see from the story in Genesis. As far as logic was concerned, it was a reasonable idea--but that didn't mean the people involved could handle it. And in this case, they didn't. Hagar, the pregnant servant girl, now felt that God had shown her favor and she lorded it over Sarai. Could Sarai handle this? No, not at all. Furious, she takes out her anger on Abram. "May the wrong done to me be on you!" (16:5). (These sound like real people!)

Sarai had refused to wait any longer on the Lord and even persuaded Abram not to wait either. That's not too unlike many of us today. We, too, get impatient waiting for the Lord to fulfill his promises. We finally get to the point where we believe that, if we don't do it, it won't get done. Our problem, therefore, is often not so much disbelief as impatience. And impatience keeps us from trusting.

So, when Sarai dealt harshly with her, Hagar fled into the wilderness. Can you imagine what she must have been feeling? One moment she was feeling God's favor with human life inside her, but now she had to flee and it seemed she was utterly deserted. As Sarai has despaired of God keeping his promise, so Hagar must have felt equally abandoned.

GOD SEES!

Encountering an angel of the Lord in the desert, Hagar is reassured. She will bear a child and he will become father of a great multitude. So she shall go back to her mistress and submit to her. We could well understand that, if at this point Hagar had said, "No way!! You think I'm crazy? That Sarai has it in for me." But the angel reassures her: "the Lord has given heed to your affliction" (16:11) and like Abram, Hagar accepts God's promise and trusts him enough to go back to an unpromising situation. That's hard on the strength of God's assurance that he is with us, to go back to a situation we want to run from.

Hagar's response is one of trust and wonder. "She called the name of the Lord who spoke to her, 'Thou art a God of seeing'... 'Have I really seen God and remained alive after seeing him?'" (16:13). It was believed that to see God meant immediate death. But the basis of her trust in God was not just that she had seen him (we are to assume the angel was God in disguise), but that, despite her role as a despised servant, God saw her and her affliction. And seeing her, he had compassion on her.

Often, like Hagar, we think that God cannot see us in our lowly place. We are too insignificant, too lacking in worth for him to know our plight and our needs. But, like Hagar, we need to remember that our Lord is "a God of seeing" and we are never out of his sight.

COVER STORY

BY JOHN CROOK

Robby Benson (right) and Peter Scolari

Park Overall, who plays nurse LaVerne Todd on "Empty Nest," is widely known as an outspoken actress who does not suffer fools gladly. Mention the name of her recent co-star Robby Benson, however, and she turns into a Smurf.

"I don't know that anything is a stretch for Robby," she says, almost cooing as she talks about his image busting role as Robert Sims in the recent CBS TV movie "Precious Victims."

"Robby is so multifaceted, it is uncanny. Robby has written movies. Robby has written music. Robby directs six shows of 'Evening Shade' a year. Robby is brilliant. Robby can do anything — and has. He's an incredible human being — gentle, soft, kind, wonderful and very talented."

When the 38-year old actor-director-writer-composer hears of this praise, his response is characteristically self-effacing. "She's really sweet." Then, quickly, he deflects attention toward the company of "Family Album," the CBS comedy series for which he will be directing five of the initial seven episodes.

"I can't tell you how much I hope it gets picked up," he says. The show's creative team — David Crane, Marta Kauffman and Kevin S. Bright, the same trio behind HBO's hit comedy "Dream On" — are "just about the most talented people I've ever worked with," he adds warmly.

"Family Album" casts two strong actors, Peter Scolari and Pamela Reed, as Jonathan and Denise Lerner, a 40-ish California couple who warily move their family, and his medical practice, back to their home-town of Philadelphia in hopes of rekindling their relationship with relatives on both sides.

Jonathan's white-bread parents include a mom who cooks and delivers entire meals to him every night, and still buys underwear and socks for him. Denise's Italian-American clan turns every occurrence into the stuff of grand opera.

Jonathan and Denise's own kids include a teen-age daughter who hates them for making her leave California and snarls things like "Don't mock my pain!"

While Benson lavishly praises the entire cast, he is most enthusiastic about his two stars: "(Peter) is so talented. He can basically do anything. He can play any moment, any way that you ask him to do it, and is willing to try. He can make anything funny if you want it to be, but it's always out of honesty.

"And Pamela Reed is just unbelievable. She can jump from sitcoms to 'The Right Stuff.' She's a phenom, just amazing. These people are so good at what they do — it's something I'm really proud to be a part of."

The "Album" premiere, which Benson didn't direct, seemed forced and shrill, and the show's future is uncertain. Benson won't lack for work, whatever happens. He has his directorial duties on "Evening Shade" coming up, provides a cartoon voice on the syndicated "Exosquad" and, in his "spare time," writes songs with his wife, singer Karla DeVito. The couple have two children, daughter Lyric, 10, and son Zephyr, 18 months.

IN FOCUS

Patient Meredith Elwell, aided by Dr. John Sabolich, tries out a new prosthetic leg, made possible by recent advances in the field of synthetics. "The Stuff of Dreams," a three-part series beginning Tuesday, Oct. 19, on PBS, takes an in-depth look at this exciting but often overlooked scientific realm. The program, which continues on subsequent Tuesdays, shows how materials such as superplastic and bioceramics are developed and how they impact our lives.

Crook, Chase hosts of 'Music City Tonight'

BY SCOTT WHITE

"Music City Tonight," centerpiece of the new Nashville Network weekday prime-time lineup, takes its place on the schedule Monday, Oct. 18. Former flagship "Nashville Now" has stepped down after a decade of popularity, leaving the way clear for a fresh approach. "Music City Tonight" hosts Lorianne Crook and Charlie Chase (of TNN's "Crook & Chase") will be more than happy to deliver just that.

"(TNN) just felt that over the 10 years they had done well," says Crook, "but to compete in today's television market, they had to beef up a little bit and chose us to do the beefing."

The show is broadcast from TNN's studios at the Opryland USA theme park. Premiere night guests include Alan Jackson, Pam Tillis and Garth Brooks. Personalities from the worlds of sports, comedy and cinema also will appear in the 90-minute musical format.

"When we first started doing 'Crook & Chase,'" says Chase, "it was 30 minutes long. And boy, we were almost screaming for 60. We finally got it, and it felt like your belt had been loosened a little bit. And, quite honestly, it's time for our belt to be loosened again. We want to have fun for 90 minutes. We want to make sure that it goes by real fast and people want to come back next time."

"Music City Tonight" features a versatile house band led by country veteran Buddy Skipper.

"We wanted people who can leave the country twang behind and do a big band sound for a night," says Crook. "Say the Kentucky Headhunters are going to be on the next night. We wanted pickers who can put on a different hat and rock 'n' roll that night."

A mother faces growing feelings of terror and helplessness as she combats the increasingly violent advances of a stalker is making on her teen-age daughter in "Moment of Truth: Stalking Back," airing Monday, Oct. 18, on NBC, the fact-based telefilm stars (left to right) John Martin ("Columbo"), Shanna Reed ("Major Dad") and Luanne Ponce ("Cruel Doubt"). The case that inspired the movie also led to the passage of the nation's toughest anti-stalking law.

TV-PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Jonathan Pryce

Q: What can you tell me about the strange man who does the Infiniti car commercials? Is he a dancer? –Del Bauer, Luray, Va.

A: That's Jonathan Pryce, one of my favorite actors, a man widely regarded as one of the most versatile performers ever to come out of the United Kingdom. Currently featured in Martin Scorsese's wildly acclaimed "The Age of Innocence," he was born on June 1, 1947, in one of those Welsh towns that never seems to have enough vowels in its name. Best known for his work on stage, Pryce holds two Tony Awards, one for his scathing performance in the play "Comedians," another for his virtuoso song-and-dance work in "Miss Saigon." (His casting in a half-Asian role set off a storm of controversy among Asian actors.) Just a few weeks ago, he was up for an Emmy for his performance in the HBO satire "Barbarians at the Gate." (He lost.) Moviegoers in this country first noticed him as the sinister Mr. Dark in the movie "Something Wicked This Way Comes." His other movie work includes prominent roles in "Brazil," "The Doctor and the Devils," "The Rachel Papers," "Haunted Honeymoon" and "The Ploughman's Lunch." All of these movies are available on video.

Q: My mother and I have been trying to remember a certain TV comic's name to no avail. While she portrayed dumb blondes, she actually was very bright and could answer almost any question about ancient civilization. She drowned in her swimming pool several years ago. Can you identify her? –C. Raker, Middletown, N.Y.

A: Yes. That was the lovely Carol Wayne. Johnny Carson's "Matinee Ladies" in many "Tonight Show" skits. A panelist on the game shows "Celebrity Sweepstakes" and "Mantrap" in the 1970s, Wayne was also a party to a one-episode 1969 flop called "Turn On," from the creator of "Laugh-In."

Q: About seven years ago I watched a TV show on the life of Michael Jordan. It told how his brothers and sisters were brought up by his mother alone. His brother was good at basketball but got mixed up with drugs and finally left the family. Michael decided he would carry on for his brother at his mother's encouragement. Was there such a show? –Nancy Jennings, East Harwich, Mass.

A: You've got the right sport, but the wrong player. Unless I'm mistaken, you're thinking about "A Mother's Courage: The Mary Thomas Story," a 1989 TV movie starring Alfre Woodard as the mother of basketball star Isiah Thomas.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Roberts, Gere in 'Pretty Woman'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Julia Roberts and Richard Gere

On Sunday, Oct. 17, Julia Roberts and Richard Gere star in "Pretty Woman" on ABC. Roberts portrays a Hollywood prostitute who meets the man of her dreams (Gere). Jenny Robertson, Billy Dee Williams and Esther Rolle star in Part 1 of the four-hour miniseries "Message from Nam" on NBC. Robertson portrays a Southern belle who becomes a war correspondent after her fiance is killed in the Vietnam War. It is a musical night on TNT with three favorites, "The Harvey Girls," "Easter Parade" and "Singin' in the Rain."

On Monday, Oct. 18, in "Moment of Truth: Stalking Back," Shanna Reed stars as a mother who fights to protect her daughter from a stalker. The film is based on a true story. Reed's character aided in the passage of one of the strongest anti-stalking laws in the country. On TNT Gary Cooper, Teresa Wright and Walter Brennan star in "The Pride of the Yankees." The film is the story of the ill-fated baseball star Lou Gehrig.

NBC's "Message from Nam" concludes on Tuesday, Oct. 19. It is a night for fright with "Scanners III: The Takeover" and "Scissors" on The Movie Channel. On American Movie Classics Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery appear in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith."

On Wednesday, Oct. 20, Spencer Tracy, Burt Lancaster and Maximilian Schell star in the Oscar-winning film "Judgement at Nuremberg" on TNT. Holly Hunter is involved with condominium salesman Richard Dreyfuss in "Once Around" on The Movie Channel.

Thursday, Oct. 21, on TNT, a TV station will air almost anything to get ratings in "Network." William Holden and Faye Dunaway co-star. On IRS agent 007 fights SPECTRE's plan to poison the world's food supply in "On Her Majesty's Secret Service."

On Friday, Oct. 22, it is mystery night on NBC with "Perry Mason: The Case of the Tell-Tale Talk Show Host." This was the next to the last Perry Mason movie that Raymond Burr made. Barbara Hale and Regis Philbin co-star. On the USA Network Oscar winner Al Pacino is involved with Ellen Barkin in "Sea of Love."

A teen agonizes over her first love in "Mermaids," Saturday, Oct. 23, on ABC. Cher, Winona Ryder and Bob Hoskins co-star. Actress Joan Crawford appears in two films on TNT: "Torch Song" with Michael Wilding and Gig Young, and "Queen Bee" with Barry Sullivan.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Country in the Poconos, Steppenwolf at biker blast

Marie Osmond

Gary Morris, Marie Osmond and Lee Greenwood perform in concert during "Mountain Music Jamboree at Pocono Raceway," a one-hour music special airing Wednesday, Oct. 20, on The Nashville Network.

Morris, Osmond and Greenwood sing some of their greatest hits, including Morris's "Wind Beneath My Wings." The concert was taped at the Pocono Mountain Magic Jamboree, a 10-day celebration in August celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Pocono International Raceway.

Mommy Dearest herself, Joan Crawford, is the dubious honoree of another edition of "Bad Movies We Love" Saturday, Oct. 23, on TNT. The back-to-back lineup of five Crawford titles features "Torch Song," "Queen Bee," "Harriet Craig," "Autumn Leaves" and "Flamingo Road." Her partners in crime, as it were, are Michael Wilding, Barry Sullivan, Wendell Corey, Cliff Robertson and Zachary Scott.

Plans to garner publicity for a scatterbrained actress backfire hilariously in "The Affairs of Annabel," a little-seen 1938 comedy starring Lucille Ball long before she met a certain Cuban bandleader. Jack Oakie co-stars in the comedy, which airs Thursday, Oct. 21, on American Movie Classics.

Sergei Prokofiev's soaring and passionate "Romeo and Juliet" is featured in a vibrant production from the Northern Ballet Theater and the BBC Philharmonic. The production airs Thursday on A&E.

The Discovery Channel serves up a suspenseful one-hour special called "The Visit: Bomb Disposal Man," focusing on a team of highly trained bomb experts as they try to foil the work of terrorists. It airs Sunday, Oct. 17.

Cinemax features two first-rate foreign films back to back on Wednesday. First comes "Toto le Heros," a gentle comedy about a boy who suspects he was switched at birth. "The Lover," on the other hand, is an erotically charged drama starring supermodel Jane March as a French girl smitten with an older Asian man (Tony Leung).

Several top comics join the musical group Steppenwolf to take part in "The Harley-Davidson 90th Birthday Blast," airing on Showtime Friday, Oct. 22.

Pierce Brosnan stars as Phineas Fogg in the 1989 TV miniseries version of "Around the World in 80 Days," which gets a three-night run on The Disney Channel beginning Friday. Eric Idle and Peter Ustinov also are featured.

TIME OUT

HBO's 'Inside NFL' rolls on in 17th season

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Gary Myers

HBO's "Inside the NFL," pay cable television's longest running sports series, continues its 17th season of bringing viewers the NFL's most amazing touchdowns and most punishing blows. The program airs each Thursday.

The program features as hosts Pro Football Hall of Fame member and former Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson, former Miami Dolphins linebacker Nick Buoniconti and former Cincinnati Bengals wide receiver Cris Collinsworth.

A new behind-the-scenes segment, "NFL Diary," is a weekly report by New York Jets quarterback Boomer Esiason. Los Angeles Raiders defenseman Howie Long or Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon.

Curt Gowdy returns for his sixth season as the voice of the popular "Where Are They Now?" segment, which tracks down some of the league's best players and uncovers their lives after football's final whistle has blown for them.

Not content with the same old recycled highlights shown on every station following each Sunday's games, "Inside the NFL" utilizes the vast library of NFL Films to give viewers a different perspective on games they might have seen many times before.

Also returning this year is the popular "Picks" segment, in which Dawson, Buoniconti and Collinsworth are joined by New York Daily News reporter Gary Myers to pick the winners of the week's upcoming games.

Myers (who never played professional football) returns for his second season of going head-to-head with the former NFL stars in the "Picks" segment. Myers ended up on top in his first season of picks and is off to a good start this year.

"You pick seriously to a certain extent," Myers says modestly. "I'd rather finish first than second, but it doesn't keep me awake at night either."

Myers also serves as host of the program's "Inside Info" segment, which draws upon his 15 years of experience covering the NFL to provide viewers with the latest NFL news, not gossip, from Myers' league insiders.

"One of the things I've tried to bring to this is the same journalistic integrity that I put into my newspaper articles," says Myers. "Wild rumors may sound good, but they usually don't have a basis in fact, and what I've always tried to do throughout my career in this business is be very responsible. I take it extremely seriously."

SOAP TALK

Martinez family grows; fan defends Keating

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Charles Keating

A Martinez and his wife, Leslie, welcomed a baby girl into the world on Sept. 13. Ren Farren Martinez is the infant's name. Ren is a Japanese word meaning Lotus Flower, everlasting wholeness, and Farren is the middle name of Jill Farren Phelphs, executive producer of "Guiding Light." Phelphs was the executive producer on "Santa Barbara," where she and Martinez became friends. The two are now business partners. Ren was met with open arms by her siblings, Cody and Devon.

Dear Candace: I have enjoyed watching "Another World," but I feel the story line is relying heavily on Cory family values, goodness and virtue.

Rachel sold out to Carl, and she should pay the consequences. Her child-rearing tactics with Maggie are positively archaic! I'd like to see Carl or Jake get the upper hand for once and maybe turn over a new leaf. –Kristen Fischer, Salem, Va.

Dear Reader: This is the first letter I have received favoring Carl (Charles Keating) and Jake (Tom Eplin). There aren't many viewers who sympathize with these two characters.

You are right about Rachel's (Victoria Wyndham) child-rearing habits. Maggie (Robyn Griggs) has been ignored most of her life and feels no one cares for her. She simply wants attention and to be loved.

It might be more appropriate if Rachel supported Maggie in her musical endeavors rather than fight her every step of the way. At least it would keep Maggie off the street.

Dear Candace: I would like to know what happened to Holly (Emma Samms) on "General Hospital." Why did she leave, and when is she coming back? –Curious in Mich.

Dear Reader: There are conflicting reports as to why Samms left the show. When she returned a year ago, she had signed only a one-year contract. When it came time to renew, Samms apparently opted to leave because she was unhappy with her story line. There are no plans for her to return to the show at this time.

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me the name of the woman who played Neal Alcott on "As the World Turns"? –Rachel Chambers, Honolulu.

Dear Reader: Mary Kay Adams portrayed Neal on "ATWT."

THIS WEEK

AN EMMY CHAMP RETURNS: Recent Emmy Award winners Tom Skerritt and Kathy Baker begin another season of their acclaimed but low-rated series, Picket Fences, starting Friday, Oct. 22, on CBS. The show, which also picked up a trophy as Outstanding Drama Series, will be immediately preceded by revamped versions of the sitcoms "Good Advice" with new cast member Teri Garr, and "Bob," which welcomes Betty White to its cast. • Also on Friday, NBC airs a one-hour Perry Mason retrospective, "The Defense Rests: A Tribute to Raymond Burr." Burr's last Mason movie airs next month. • Jenny Robertson, Nick Mancuso and Billy Dee Williams head a large cast in Danielle Steel's "Message From Nam," an NBC miniseries airing Sunday and Tuesday, Oct. 17 and 19. • Placido Domingo is among the musicians featured in "Great Performances: Passing the Baton," which profiles Georg Solti, outgoing musical director of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and his successor, Daniel Barenboim. The special airs Wednesday, Oct. 20. • The Learning Channel examines one of South America's most mysterious and beautiful Pre-Columbian civilizations in "Secrets of the Moche," a one-hour special premiering Friday. The show was filmed largely on location in Peru.

Local Students To Be Honored By State Commission

Maryland's top high school scholars will be honored by the Maryland Higher Education Commission on Saturday, Oct. 16, at Goucher College, Towson. Four students from the local area will be among the honorees, having been named finalist or semi-finalists. Eleven more students were given honorable mention by the Commission. They were selected as part of the state's Distinguished Scholars program, which offers $3,000-a-year scholarships for four years to top students as an incentive to attend college in Maryland.

Richa Magoon, a Southern High student and Christopher Wright, a Northern High student, were both named finalists in the achievement category. Semi-finalists were Jason Barr and Jeffrey Cook, both of Southern. Those students receiving honorable mention were Kelly Friend, Timothy Hinebaugh, Cynthia Kolbfleisch, and Melissa Weimer, all from Northern; and Jesika Bolden, Bryan Clickener, Shannon Dabney, Rachna Magoon, Jaime Savage, Tatum Shomo, and Andrew Wildesen, all from Southern.

Governor William Donald Schaefer will address the finalists and semi-finalists and their parents at the event, and Maryland college and university representatives will be on hand to answer questions. The recognition ceremony will be held at 3 p.m.

"When we invest in high education, we are investing in Maryland's future," Schaefer said. "One of the best investments we can make is to encourage our best students to go to college here. Good students challenge our institutions to excel, and they are more likely to stay in Maryland and contribute to the state's progress after they graduate."

Scholarships are awarded for both artistic talent and academic achievement. Budgeted for $4.2 million, the program will provide scholarships to 350 students in the 1994 high school graduating class.

More than 2,700 high school students applied for the scholarships this year, according to a spokesperson. Awards will be offered initially to the 360 academic finalists and the 72 finalists in the artistic competition. National Merit and National Achievement finalists are also offered Distinguished Scholar awards.

To be eligible for consideration for an academic award, students must have an unweighted grade point average (GPA) of 3.7 or higher. They are ranked on the basis of GPA and performance on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. Talent competitors must submit a portfolio for evaluation by, or audition before, a panel of professionals.

State law limits the number of new recipients to 350 annually. Each year a substantial number of finalists accept the awards, which can be used for many college-related expenses. Remaining scholarships are then offered to semi-finalists.

CHELSEA, IOWA, THANKS FRIENDSVILLE - Flood victims in Chelsea, Iowa, were overwhelmed by the generosity of the people of Friendsville recently when the semi-truck load of donated food, water, appliances, furniture, and other needed items arrived in their town. Mike Lawson and Chantay Mull (pictured below) drove the semi and trailer, donated by Quality Supplies Trucking of Friendsville, to Iowa in late August. The supplies were unloaded at the Chelsea Fire Department, where they were distributed to residents in need. The Lions Club of Friendsville spearheaded the effort and collected an astounding 20 tons of supplies and nearly $3,000 in cash to help out the Iowans. Iowan Lions Club State Secretary Matteo Cardella greeted Lawson and Ms. Mull when they arrived on August 25, as did Chelsea Mayor Ed Johnston. The flood waters were still evident throughout the town - Lawson is pictured above as he wades across the street. Friendsville Lions President Marlin Lawson received a letter in late September from Cardella, which expressed sincere appreciation from the Lions of Iowa and the people of Chelsea for the flood relief supplies and donations. Cardella enclosed several area newspaper articles about the unusual assistance, and noted that he would be sending videotapes from their television stations which covered the drop-off of goods. "We do appreciate your assistance," Cardella wrote, "and believe more so now in the Lion's motto - We Serve. The Lions of Friendsville, Maryland, do indeed do this so well."

Oakland O.E.S. Holds Meeting

Oakland Chapter #67 of the Eastern Star met Tuesday, October 5, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple to honor the Past Matrons' and Past Patrons' Association of Western Maryland.

Worthy Patron Theodore Raynovich presided and Rosemary Harvey, worthy matron, opened with a reading, "Beams of Sunshine," and then greeted Wilda Hile, deputy grand lecturer of Maryland; Mattley and Carter Rawlings, worthy matron and worthy patron of McKinley Chapter, Cumberland; officers, members, and brothers holding Masonic honors.

A program, "Smiles," was presented in honor of Betty Foy, president; Frank Clark, vice president; and all past matrons and patrons from the Western Maryland Association. Each received a gift from the worthy matron.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, October 19, which will be Friendship Night. A corn bread and beans supper will be held Wednesday, October 27, from 5 - 9 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, by donation only.

The worthy matron closed with "A Smile Is More Contagious" and refreshments were served by Minnie Nelson and Helena Thrasher.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information concerning a breaking and entering of a storage buikding located on Rt. 495 just north of Durst Road, near Grantsville.

Sometime during the night of Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, unknown suspects entered the storage building through an unsecured front window. The culprits then removed a small amount of cash and a Western brand hunting knife and leather sheath. The loss in this case was approximately $85.

Any person with information about this incident is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

ELCA WOMEN MEET

Women of the ELCA of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on Oct. 5, with four members present.

The topic, "Lutheran Identity," was led by Leota Baker. The program endeavored to help the group: consider what it means to be Lutheran, through a lively exchange between Martin Luther and those who came after him and called themselves Lutheran; and to see that the Bible, the hymnbook and the catechism have always been at the center of Lutheran identity.

A scripture text was read and a hymn was sung relative to each of the five dramatic readings which were explanations of the catechism.

Ruthella Resh presided over the business meeting.

A thank-you note was received from The Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa., upon receipt of a package of practical items recently sent by Zion's unit.

Announcement was made of the annual Fall Cluster Retreat, to be held Oct. 16-17, at Jackson's Mill, Weston, W.Va. This is a joint event for the Monongahela Valley-Mountain and Ohio-Kanawha Valley Clusters.

Minutes of the Women of the ELCA synodical convention, held in July, were received.

A letter was received from the W.Va.-W.Md. Synod office, announcing Bishop Alexander Black's visit to the Malagasy Lutheran Church in Madagascar; within the South Betiosky Regional Synod. An opportunity was extended to share in the bishop's adventure by sending a special offering to assist with travel expenses, when he departs on Nov. 28.

The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 2. The ingathering of the thank offerings will be observed. Any member who is unable to attend the meeting is requested to give her thank offering to the treasurer by that date.

Training Place Open House Set

Garrett Community College, The Training Place of Western Maryland, and the Department of Human Resources Child Care Administration announce an open house to be held at the recently renovated old Rolyan's Building at 215 S. 3rd St. The open house will be held on Wednesday, October 20, from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Oakland Center Continuing Education office of Garrett Community College and the Child Care Administration have been located at this site for the past several years. The Western Maryland Consortium Training Place has only recently relocated its operation to this site. All three agencies can still be reached at the telephone numbers listed for them in the local directory -- GCC Oakland Center - 334-8304; The Training Place - 334-8136; and the Child Care Administration - 334-3426.

The public is invited to attend the open house. There are planned activities and refreshments will be provided. If you desire additional information please contact the GCC Oakland Center.

Rosanne K. Susi Joins Local Real Estate Company

Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty recently announced the addition of Rosanne K. Susi as sales associate. She has completed the 45-hour, pre-licensing class and passed the Maryland Realty Estate licensing examination. Last week, she was inducted into the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

"We're very pleased that Rosanne has chosen to join our sales team and look forward to our association with her," stated Sherri Vancik, sales manager for Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty.

A native of Miami Beach, Fla., Susi relocated to Garrett County this past January. Prior to moving to the area, she was director of Physician Relations at a 400-bed hospital in Miami. Susi has over 10 years experience in hospital marketing and public relations and a master of business administration degree from Barry University in Miami Shores, Fla.

"I'm looking forward to transferring my professional skills into the real estate industry. My husband and I are quite excited with our move to Garrett County, and we're anxious to become active members in this community. I would very much like to promote this lifestyle to prospective residents," Susi stated.

She is married to Jeffrey L. Susi, who is chief operating officer at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland. They are expecting their first child in January. Rosanne has two stepchildren, Brian and Angie, who frequently visit from Ann Arbor, Mich.

Is Pleased to Announce

Garrett Medical Group is announcing the addition of Patricia B. Gotsch, M.D. to its staff. Dr Gotsch will begin the practice of Family Medicine with Obstetrics on Monday, October 18, 1993.

Dr. Gotsch received her undergraduate education at Loyola College in Baltimore, where she graduated summa cum laude in 1984 with a B.S. in Biology. She attended medical school at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine where she received her M.D. degree 1988. Dr. Gotsch completed her residency in Family Practice at Hinsdale Hospital in Hinsdale, Illinois. Subsequent to her residency, Dr. Gotsch joined a private group practice in Downers Grove, Illinois in 1991. While she enjoys the full range of Family Medicine, her special areas of interest are Obstetrics, Gynecology and Pediatrics.

Dr. Gotsch's husband Kenneth is employed by Motorola as a Test Engineer. After relocation, he will be doing similar work as a consultant. Ken and Patricia have two children: Zachary (4) and Abigail (2). As a family, they enjoy a variety of outdoor activities including skiing and hiking. The Gotsch family is looking forward to living and working in the western Maryland/West Virginia area.

To Schedule an appointment with Dr. Gotsch, please call Garrett Medical Group at 301-334-8171

New Mini-Grant Program Offered By Arts Council

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC) has launched a new Mini-Grant Program to assist community-based organizations in producing and presenting arts activities for the benefit of general audiences.

"It is the mission of the Maryland State Arts Council to make the arts as accessible as possible to all citizens throughout the state," said James Backas, executive director of the Maryland State Arts Council, part of the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). "This new program will help us reach many people who have never before been involved with arts programs in Maryland."

Not-for-Profit organizations that have not received MSAC funds during the current fiscal year (July 1, 1993 - June 30, 1994) are eligible to apply for grants for arts activities that will be held in the state. Maryland organizations eligible to apply include arts organizations, after school programs, civic groups, libraries, museums, religious organizations, schools, social clubs or other community-based groups that present programs open to the public. Applicants may submit only one mini-grant proposal per fiscal year.

There are no deadlines for the Mini-Grant Program. Interested organizations are encouraged to contact the Maryland State Arts Council as early as possible in their planning process to request information and application forms. Completed applications must be submitted to the arts council at least 60 days before the planned arts activities are scheduled to occur. The council will review the proposals and notify applicants of funding decisions within 30 days of receiving completed application forms. Funds cannot be requested for activities that have already occurred or will have occurred before the council's funding decision is made.

Evaluation criteria for the proposals are artistic merit of the proposed activities, feasibility of the budget and ability of the applicant to carry out the proposed arts activities.

Applicants for the Mini-Grant Program may request any amount up to $1,000. The amount requested must be matched by funds raised or contributed by the applicant on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Matching funds may include donations, ticket sales, grants or contributions from businesses or non-state government agencies, and or the applicant's cash contribution. In-kind or donated goods or services also may be used to match MSAC requests, as long as they do not represent more than 25 percent of the budget. Funds from other Maryland state government sources may not be used to match an MSAC grant.

For further information or to request application forms, eligible organizations may contact the Maryland State Arts Council, 601 North Howard Street, Baltimore, MD 21201; (410) 333-8232; TTY/TDD (410) 333-4519 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Large print/audio-cassette versions of this program information are available on request.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE GARRETT COTTAGE, owned by T. Harrison Garrett, was built in Deer Park in 1883. Garrett was the son of John W. Garrett, president of the B&O Railroad, for whom Garrett County was named. The house had 25 rooms and was noted for its beautiful stairway and paneling. The younger Garrett drowned in the Chesapeake Bay on June 7, 1888, at age 39 when his yacht collided with the steamer Joppa. The cottage was partially razed in the 1920s and the remainder was later destroyed by fire. The photo, on loan by Judge Lewis R. Jones (ret.), is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Zion Women To Hold Fall Bazaar

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are sponsoring a fall bazaar on Saturday, October 23, 1993, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Lunch will be served throughout the event.

Arts and crafts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale.

The public is welcome to attend.

COUNTRY KIDS
by Anissa Jamison, reporter

The Country Kids 4-H Club met recently and a report on the fair was given by Anissa Jamison and Arthur Pysell. Alicia DeWitt and Janet Harvey reported on the trip to Idlewild Park. A picnic report was given by David Glotfelty and Sarah Pysell. Several people reported on the farm tour.

New members joining the club include Kelly and Lisa Wade, Katelyn Moomau, Haley Gillespie, Lauren Wilson, and Miranda Gallagher.

Under old business, the club received a $10 check and red ribbon for its banner at the Maryland State Fair. It was also reported that the beef tickets were due October 8 at the Extension Office.

Under new business, the club members discussed the possibility of having a haunted hay ride for Halloween. The club will elect new officers in November. There was also a reminder of the Livestock Dinner on October 7. Public speaking contests will be held in February.

Demonstrations for next month will be by David and Nick Glotfelty, Michael Ritchey, and Alicia DeWitt.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Lakeside Youth Group To Hold Youth Sunday

The youth group, "Holy Fire," Lakeside Assembly of God, will hold a "Speed-The-Light" youth day on Sunday, October 17.

The youth will conduct the evening service and the offering will be designated for missions.

Immediately following the evening service, "Holy Fire" will sponsor "Spud-The-Light" which will feature baked potatoes and choice of toppings for a donation. Proceeds will benefit missions.

"Holy Fire" meets each Tuesday at 7 p.m. Lakeside is located two miles south of Deep Creek Lake on U.S. Rt. 219.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Taylor Receives Many Honors For Air Force Service

Senior Airman Kevin J. Taylor, Avilton, has attained the rank of E-4 after three years in the U.S. Air Force, and is presently stationed at F.E. Warren AFB, Cheyenne, Wyo.

AMN Taylor has been the recipient of numerous awards since his enlistment in November 1989. While in basic training at Lackland AFB (January 1990) he received special recognition for his voluntary contributions in supporting the Base's Chapel 8. While at Tech School at Chanute AFB, Ill., in April 1990 he received a certificate of recognition for outstanding performance and dedication of the Chanute Tech Training Center Special Activities Team; and in September 1990 received a letter of appreciation from USAF Col. Mark Deruyter, military judge, for his voluntary bailiff duties at the FEWarren Military Court.

In June 1991 he received letters of appreciation from Col. Richard L. Farkas, commander, FEWarren AFB; Col. L.T. Gerringer, deputy commander for maintenance, FEWarren AFB; and Lt. Col. Robert W. Cook, commander, 90 OMMS/CC, for outstanding contributions to the National Security Agency Lanuch Facility tour at the Base's Foxtrot-10. Also in June 1991, he was the recipient of a certificate of appreciation for contributions in restoring the LF Sortie M-07 to strategic alert.

During his tenure at Warren AFB, AMN Taylor has been honored several times as AMN of the month for the 90th Organizational Missile Maintenance Squadron, Francis E. Warren AFB, Cheyenne. AMN Taylor, son of Kitty Taylor, Avilton, and James Taylor, Mt. Ranier, was selected based on his outstanding performance of duty as a Missile Site Launch Crew Team member and his performance before an evaluation panel. Having entered the Air Force in November 1989, Taylor has been stationed at Warren AFB since graduating Tech School in March 1990.

Senior Airman Kevin J. Taylor

Taylor received the ICBM Master Technician Award in February 1992 having earned seven "Highly Qualified" and 19 "Qualified" quality assurance evaluations. As of April 1993 he had achieved five error-free QA inspections and completed 11 MGS removal and installations with no deviations noted. He was hand-picked to demonstrate RS handling procedures to Air War College members at Ellsworth AFB, South Dakota. His outstanding technical skills have contributed to his team being awarded four Squadron Team of the Month awards in march 1991, and May, September and October 1992. His team received 32 "Highly Qualified" and six "Qualified" grades from Wing Quality Assurance on their first evaluation.

AMN Taylor has been active in community affairs, having served with Meals on Wheels since early in 1990, has participated in the Designated Driver program during Cheyenne's annual Frontier Days, and volunteered time to enhance base community relations by participating in the "Friends in Blue" program, and the Frontier Park stadium preparations for the annual Frontier Days. Brig. Gen. Lance W. Lord, commander, 90th Missile Wing, and Lt. Gen. Arlen D. Jameson, commander of the 20th Air Force (FEWarren AFB), recently awarded Taylor a personal fitness certificate in recognition of superior physical conditioning.

Taylor has been attending Laramie County Community College, Cheyenne. Upon completion of his enlistment in November 1993, he plans to further his education at Frostburg State University or the University of Maryland, College Park, where he will major in computer science or engineering.

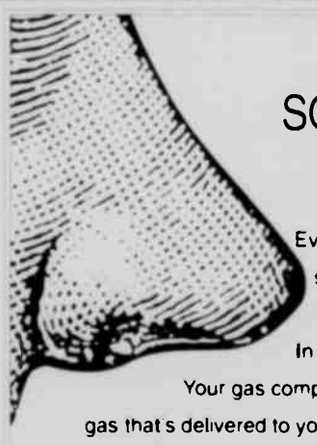
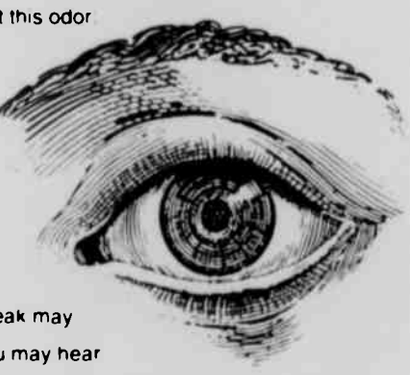
U.S. Marine Pvt. Allen W. Uphold, son of Nancy J. Uphold, Rt. 5, Oakland, recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C., recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.



All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.



Uphold is a 1989 graduate of Southern High School.

SOME COMMON SENSE WAYS TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.
Even with a system as safe and secure as your natural gas service, a leak could occur. That's why you and your family should learn some basic safety rules.
In cities, towns, or suburban areas.
Your gas company adds a special scent to the otherwise odorless natural gas that's delivered to your home. If you detect this odor:
- Don't use matches or operate electrical switches, equipment or appliances.
- Leave your home, business or building and call the gas company from another site.
- Don't return until a gas company representative arrives.

In parks or rural areas.
Outside some cities and towns, a natural gas leak may not be detectable by scent. In these areas, you may hear a blowing or hissing sound or see dirt blowing into the air, water bubbling or being blown into the air at a puddle, pond, creek or river, brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line, or fire coming from the ground or burning above it.
If this happens:
- Leave the area and warn others to stay away.
- Call the gas company and the police and fire departments.
- Don't try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never experience a natural gas leak. But, if you do, follow your senses.

Maryland Sells Bonds For Low Rate of 4.45%

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer sold $283,545,000 in General Obligation Bonds for a low interest bid of 4.4487% on Wednesday, October 6. The bonds had been rated "triple A," the best possible rating, by Moody's Investor's Service, Standard & Poor's Corporation, and Fitch's Investors Service, the three major bond rating agencies.

The winning bid of 4.4487%, the lowest rate since January 1972, came from a syndicate of firms across the country led by Merrill Lynch with a number of Maryland firms including: Legg, Mason, Wood, Walker; Alex Brown and Co.; Ferris, Baker, Watts; Maryland National Bank and First National Bank of Maryland.

Approximately $143 million of the proceeds from this sale will be used to redeem bonds sold in previous years at higher interest rates. Although these refunding bonds are being sold now, the redemptions will not begin until 1999. The state expects to save more than $8 million in interest costs from this refunding.

Proceeds from the other $140 million will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including $6.5 million for general state construction; $3.4 million for Water Quality projects; $20 million for the Baltimore Convention Center; and the remainder for a variety of state and local projects including cultural, educational and health facilities, and local correctional facilities.

Maryland remains one of only five states in the nation to retain the coveted triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

Governor Schaefer said, "Maintaining the triple A rating under difficult circumstances is a real tribute to Maryland and its financial leadership."

Treasurer Maurer said, "The four bids received and the 51-member syndicate from all over the country indicates how well regarded our bonds are."

Comptroller Goldstein said, "This is an outstanding interest rate on our 15-year bonds that is actually lower than the rate for 10-year triple A bonds, which generally have a lower interest rate."

The low interest rate obtained by Maryland on general obligation bonds is important to every state taxpayer because of the significant savings in repaying the bonds. The highly regarded triple A rating ensures that Maryland taxpayers benefit from the state paying the lowest possible cost of borrowing money for capital projects.

SWING YER PARTNER - Jim Carney, a member of the Mountain Top Promenaders, is shown helping a student, Risa Weimer, learn to dance at a demonstration. The club will be dancing in front of Proudfoot's Pharmacy before the Grand Feature Autumn Glory Parade in downtown Oakland this Saturday. Guests from other square dance clubs are invited to join them. The Autumn Glory Festival Dance will be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at Southern Middle School. The participation fee is $8 a couple. Spectators are admitted free of charge.

Cruz Couple To Lead Services

Rev. and Mrs. Pedro Cruz will be sharing in song, word, and slides during the 7 p.m. service, Sunday, Oct. 17, at the Oakland Church of the Nazarene, 203 South 8th Street.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Cruz were born in Puerto Rico. Rev. Cruz studied first at the Bible Institute in Puerto Rico and later at the University of Puerto Rico, where he earned a bachelor's degree in fine arts. He evangelized and pastored there for some years.

In 1986 Cruz was elected district superintendent of Puerto Rico District. He received an honorary doctorate from Covington Theological Seminary in 1990. He and his wife, Justita, were appointed missionaries to the Mexico Central America Region for the Church of the Nazarene in August 1993. He will be serving as the field coordinator for the MAC (Mexico and Central America) South Field.

Rev. and Mrs. Cruz have three children: Pedro, Darybel, and Enid. Upon their return to the field they will establish residence in Costa Rica.

All are invited to the special service, according to Rev. Bruce Knorpp, pastor.

G.C. Exceptional Support Group To Meet October 19

The Garrett County Exceptional Support Group will hold its monthly meeting on October 19 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The main goal of the group is to assist families of children and/or adults with disabilities to obtain information about resources and services available in this area.

The speaker will be Suzanne Ryan, early intervention teacher and service coordinator with the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program. She will provide an overview of that program which serves children from birth through age 2 who have developmental delays or disabilities.

Refreshments will be served. Persons desiring to arrange free child care during the meeting should call 334-9224 by October 16.

Dr. Thigpen To Speak At Springs

Dr. Kenneth Thigpen from the Pennsylvania State University will give a presentation on Pennsylvania Folk Legends at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa., on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 7:30 p.m. This program is part of the monthly membership meeting scheduled by the Springs Historical Society. All persons, members and nonmembers, interested in history are invited to take part in this presentation.

Associate professor of English and American Studies at Penn State, Dr. Thigpen will place the oral folk legends in a historical context. These legends range from early tales of Native American groups, to settlement narratives, to legends based on modern technologies and recent events. His presentation will include retellings of many types of legends in the state and will be followed by a discussion.

In its efforts to foster appreciation for history, the Springs Historical Society provides monthly meetings on the third Tuesday of each month. Membership in the Society is $10 per year and includes a free subscription to the Casselman Chronicle and free visitation to the Springs Musuem. The Museum and Folk Meeting House are located on the Springs Folk Festival Grounds on Route 669 in Springs.

Dr. Thigpen comes to Springs as part of the Pennsylvania Humanities Council's Commonwealth Speakers program. For additional information, persons may contact Esther Prosser at 814-662-4360.

Singers To Give Two Performances

The September Singers, a senior citizens choir, will present two performances this fall at Allegany Community College, Cumberland.

One concert will be Saturday, Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. and the other will be Sunday, Oct. 31, at 2:30 p.m.

This group came into being in 1976 with fewer than 30 members. Today there are 50 members, all of whom are at least 50 years old. Tickets are available from any member or may be purchased at the door for $3.

The director is George Ott, local business man and musician, and Heather Isner and Julia Siehler are the accompanists for the group. Ms. Isner and Marian Charles will present organ music before the performance.

Maust Volunteers For Mission Work

Audrey Maust, Accident, began two and one-half year voluntary service in Ecuador on September 11. She is serving as a teacher and church youth worker in Manta and Protoviejo.

Maust is a 1992 elementary education graduate of Cedarville College, Cedarville, Ohio, and is the daughter of Willis and Anne Maust, Accident. She is a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church.

Voluntary Service is a program of Rosedale Mennonite Missions, based in Irwin, Ohio, designed to give people the opportunity to help others voluntarily while having living expenses and a modest monthly allowance provided for them.

Maust will complete her program on September 10, 1996.

A CATCH MADE IN Heaven

Low-Fat, High-Flavor Recipes In A Snap

These recipes offer fresh, convenient and innovative ways to use dry pasta, high quality Alaska seafood and fresh lemons — in both hot and cold dishes, for elegant entertaining or quick family dinners. Try them out and see how easy cooking in the '90s can be!

Creating a meal that suits today's nutrition concerns and time-crunched lifestyles can be a challenging task. A '90s meal has to be healthy, low-fat, quick and easy, yet satisfying and full of flavor.

Three simple ingredients — pasta, seafood and lemon — blend together in numerous ways to make delicious, imaginative dishes that meet all those criteria and deliver spectacular taste, too.

Pasta PRESTO

Preparing pasta is so easy, you can put together an entire, well-balanced meal in the time it takes to boil the water and cook the pasta. Pasta is the perfect base from which to build a healthy meal because it's high in complex carbohydrates and low in fat, cholesterol and sodium. What's more, pasta complements a wide variety of foods that fit into a healthy diet. Creating pasta-based meals with Alaska seafood and fresh lemon is an especially inviting way to serve your family nutritious foods.

Adding interest and appeal to seafood or other meals can be as easy as trying new pasta shapes. Instead of spaghetti served with your favorite sauce, next time try the same sauce with Penne, Rotini (Spirals), Shells, Bow Ties, Mostaccioli or Ziti. There are about 30 different pasta shapes available in most supermarkets, and each one can bring a new look and slightly different texture to your favorite meals.

Pasta is the perfect ingredient for experimenting with ethnic flavors, too. Try accenting it with Asian, Mexican and, of course, Italian ingredients and flavorings for new dishes to add to your repertoire.

Seafood AT ITS BEST

Pairing up wholesome pasta with Alaska seafood is a smart choice, since they're both healthful, versatile and require very little cooking time. When it comes to picking the seafood for your meal, you can count on Alaska to provide the highest quality you can buy. Fished from the icy, pure waters of the North Pacific, Alaska seafood is completely natural.

The Alaska fishing industry has developed state-of-the-art freezing and processing techniques to ensure the fresh-caught flavor and texture is locked in within hours of being caught. That's why it's called fresher-frozen. All species of Alaska seafood — from finfish (Alaska pollock, halibut, cod and five varieties of Alaska salmon) to shellfish (Alaska King, Snow and Dungeness crab) — are available at your local supermarket in the seafood department.

Alaska canned salmon, a convenient alternative, is a delicious base for quick and easy salads, soups, sandwiches ... even lasagne and tacos. Alaska canned salmon starts with the highest quality fresh salmon. Alaska Red Sockeye canned salmon has a deep red color and rich flavor. Alaska Pink canned salmon has a lighter rose color and more delicate flavor.

A Creaming TOUCH

A clean, fresh and light way to enhance the taste of pasta and Alaska seafood dishes is with the touch of Sunkist lemon. Naturally fat-free and very low in sodium, fresh-squeezed lemon adds pure, unadulterated flavor. Squeezed directly over Alaska seafood and pasta, fresh lemon juice can take the place of rich sauces and dressings when you're looking for the ultimate in low-fat and flavorful eating. Fresh-squeezed lemon juice combined with herbs doubles flavor enjoyment. Tossing in a bit of fresh-grated lemon peel is another easy way to add zesty taste to meals.

For garnishing purposes, lemon offers automatic color and eye appeal. Dip an edge of fresh-cut lemon into parsley for an instant, sophisticated garnish. Hollow out half a lemon to make a "boat" that can hold a dipping sauce or dressing. Or pare a long slice of peel and wrap it around asparagus or green beans for an unusual presentation.

When purchasing lemons, look for smooth skins, firm and heavy fruit. Avoid bruised, bumpy, wrinkled fruit that may be old or was improperly handled. Lemons can be stored at room temperature for several days or in a plastic bag in the refrigerator for at least one month.

ALASKAN LASAGNE

Serves 8

- 1 can (14-3/4 oz.) Alaska salmon, drained
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
- 1 pint non-fat cottage cheese
- 3 cups grated part-skim mozzarella cheese
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg
- 1/2 tsp. grated lemon peel
- Juice of 1 fresh lemon (3 tbsp.)
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 4 cups (32 oz.) prepared spaghetti sauce
- 9 pieces of Lasagne, uncooked
- 1/2 cup water

Preheat oven to 400°F.

Flake salmon into a bowl; set aside. Squeeze liquid from spinach. In a medium bowl, combine spinach, cottage cheese, 2 cups mozzarella cheese, Parmesan cheese, egg, lemon peel and juice. Mix until well combined. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Spread 1 cup spaghetti sauce in bottom of a 9 x 13-inch pan. Arrange a layer of uncooked lasagne over sauce. Spread half the spinach mixture over lasagne. Top with half the salmon. Spread another cup spaghetti sauce over salmon. Repeat with a layer of lasagne, spinach mixture, salmon and spaghetti sauce. Top with a final layer of lasagne. Spread remaining 1 cup spaghetti sauce over lasagne and sprinkle with remaining 1 cup mozzarella. Pour 1/2 cup water around edges of lasagne.

FETTUCCINE TOSSED SALAD WITH CANNED SALMON

Serves 6

- 1 pound Fettuccine, uncooked
- Juice and grated peel of 1 Sunkist lemon
- 1 can (14-3/4 oz.) Alaska salmon, drained (reserving 3 tbsp. liquid)
- 3 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 2 tsp. sugar
- 2 tsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1 head romaine lettuce, cut into thin strips (about 6 cups)
- 3 medium plum tomatoes, cut in half and sliced
- 3 green onions, white part only, sliced
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh tarragon or dill, or 1 tsp. dried tarragon or dill
- Salt and pepper to taste

Prepare pasta according to package directions; drain.

Meanwhile, in a large bowl whisk together lemon juice and peel, reserved salmon liquid, oil, sugar, mustard and garlic.

Flake salmon into the bowl. Add cooked pasta and toss gently. Cover bowl and place in the refrigerator until cool, about 30 minutes.

SAVORY SALMON WITH TOMATO & OLIVE PASTA

Serves 4

- 1 pound Mostaccioli, Ziti or other medium pasta shape, uncooked
- 1 small onion, peeled and coarsely chopped
- 1 tbsp. olive or vegetable oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tsp. dried oregano
- 1 can (28 oz.) chopped tomatoes
- 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
- 4 tsp. tomato paste
- 1/2 cup chopped green or black olives
- 2 tbsp. capers
- Juice of 1 fresh lemon (3 tbsp.)
- 4 anchovy fillets, minced (optional)
- 4 Alaska salmon fillets (4 oz. each), thawed if necessary
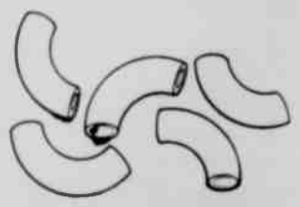
- Salt and pepper to taste



Prepare pasta according to package directions; drain. Meanwhile, saute onion in oil in a large skillet over medium heat for 5 minutes or until soft. Stir in garlic, oregano, tomatoes, tomato sauce and tomato paste. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened. Add olives, capers, lemon juice and anchovies. Remove from heat and cover to keep warm.

Season salmon with salt and pepper. Place on greased broiling pan and broil for 10 minutes per inch of thickness, measured at the thickest part, or until fish just flakes when tested with a fork.

To serve, toss cooked pasta with sauce, reserving 1 cup. Divide salmon and pasta between four serving plates and spoon remaining cup of sauce over salmon.

PASTA WITH ALASKA SALMON AND LIGHT LEMON SAUCE

Serves 6

- 1 pound Bow Ties, Mostaccioli or other medium pasta shape, uncooked
- 1-1/2 pounds Alaska salmon fillets
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice, divided
- 1/4 cup minced shallots (about 3 medium shallots), divided
- 1 rib celery, minced
- 1-1/3 cups non-fat plain yogurt
- 1 medium cucumber, peeled, seeded, sliced into thin half moons
- 1/3 cup finely chopped fresh dill or 1 tbsp. dried dill
- 1 tbsp. chopped chives or 1 tsp. dried chives
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Prepare pasta according to package directions; drain.

Meanwhile, in a microwave-safe baking dish, arrange salmon fillets in one layer, tucking under the tails for uniform thickness. Add white wine, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, 1 tbsp. shallots and the celery. Cover with plastic wrap and cut vents.

Microwave on high for 4 to 6 minutes, rotating dish halfway through cooking time, until salmon is opaque and flakes easily. If more time is needed, microwave in 30-second to 1-minute increments until fish is cooked. Drain liquid; set salmon aside.*

In a small saucepan, combine remaining lemon juice and shallots, yogurt and cucumber. Warm until heated through.

In a large bowl, toss cooked pasta with sauce. Flake cooked salmon into bowl, and add dill and chives. Toss well, and season with freshly ground black pepper.

* Alternately, place salmon in baking pan. Add white wine, lemon juice, shallots and celery as directed above. Bake at 400°F for 10 minutes per inch of thickness, measuring fish at the thickest part.

Nutritional Information Per Serving:
334 Calories; 30 g Protein; 31 g Carbohydrates; 8 g Fat; 49 mg Cholesterol; 639 mg Sodium. Percent of calories from fat: 22%

Here are some quick hints to use when preparing dishes with pasta, Alaska seafood and fresh lemon.

Boil 4 to 6 quarts of water for 1 pound of pasta. Add pasta gradually and stir. Stir again when the water returns to a boil.

Different pasta shapes require different amounts of cooking time, so check the package for directions. The pasta is ready when it is "al dente", or tender but firm to the bite.

When broiling, sauteing, grilling or baking Alaska seafood, count on about 10 minutes per inch of thickness, measured at the thickest part of the fish. Turn during cooking as necessary.

Everything in a can of Alaska canned salmon is edible — even the tiny bones! They're rendered so soft during processing that they're easily mixed with other ingredients. Plus, they're an excellent source of calcium.

A fresh lemon yields more juice when left at room temperature and rolled on the counter with the palm of the hand before squeezing.

One medium lemon yields about 3 tablespoons juice and 3 teaspoons grated peel. Five to six lemons yield 1 cup juice.

Meet Emily Ferren: The New Library Director With Expertise And Vision

by Sherry Frantz

Emily Ferren is well-educated and knowledgeable, people-oriented and computer literate; enterprising and self-motivated. If any of those terms seem contradictory, it may only be because they are not used side by side in the traditional terminology for leadership criteria. But, of course, it's time they were.

Emily is the new director of the Ruth Enlow Library system, and has accepted this exhaustive leadership role on the heels of Edith Brock's retirement following her 30-year career as the library's director.

It is now on the shoulders of Emily Ferren to guide the system into the future while keeping pace with its current needs -- and she seems to have accepted that charge with all the enthusiasm, confidence, and vision one could hope for in a director.

"You need to have a vision -- that's what a director is for," she said. "It's like guiding a boat."

Originally from Cleveland, Emily now resides on Sanders Lane, just west of Oakland, and she not only had taken "a personal interest" in Garrett County after first being introduced to it some time ago, but she has "always wanted to be a director." It has made for a "good combination," she said.

Emily reported that she has been impressed with the "genuineness and sincerity" of the local people. "I like it here even more than I thought I would," she said.

Her early assessment of the Ruth Enlow Library is that the system "has a lot of stability, the staff has a good attitude about helping the public, and the system is well-supported and well-used by the community." As far as any gaps she may have discovered in the library's current resource pool, Emily noted that the gaps are not in the scope of the material so much as in the currentness of it. "Not a lot of what we have is new," she said.

She explained that even though the library does have access to a wide range of materials and information through the interlibrary loan system, some of that information takes several days, or longer, to arrive and, in many cases, patrons need the information more quickly than that.

She believes that more automation at the library will help to provide better communications with the state library system. "Information changes too fast these days," she said, and to accommodate that fact, she is currently working to establish an on-line data base.

She has high praise, however, for all of the 22 staff members who, she says, know the collection well and who are adept at researching information. She has begun and intends to stay in close touch with those staff members (only five of whom are full-time employees) and has already visited each of the four branches twice and sent out several newsletters to keep them up-to-date with her thoughts and her agenda.

She notes, however, that employees need to be evaluated from time to time in order to keep abreast of any changes and to be informed about the library's goals.

She has also begun the process of delegating duties to the Assistant Director Sheila Hughes and to other members of the staff. "A librarian now has to do more things in the same 24-hour day, leaving little time for other important aspects of library work, such as outreach services."

Emily sets a high priority on communication at every level, from her own staff and patrons to county, state, and federal officials and agencies. "It's also important to keep in touch with the people who fund you," she stated, adding that she intends to be quite active in the fundraising process for the library.

Successful fundraising, she said, is "90% just being there, and the rest is being well-prepared for when funding does become available."

Emily brings with her a strong background in grant-writing which should prove beneficial to this rural library system isolated from much of the state. Even though more funding is always welcome, she said, sometimes the lack of same "leads people to become more creative with what they have, and to join forces with others -- I don't think anyone can afford to be isolated anymore."

Emily has been in library work for 23 years, having most recently come from Westminster where she served as coordinator of special projects and then as extension service coordinator for the Carroll County Public Library. She has extensive experience in early childhood education, literacy, and deaf education, and served as the librarian for the physically impaired in Queens Borough, New York City.

Her long and impressive list of career and career-related credits also includes sixth-grade teacher for the Cleveland Public School system; head librarian at the Griswold Institute; adjunct instructor at Carroll Community College; director of the Brooklyn Lutheran Nursery Pre-School; chairperson of the Ohio Library Association Task Force on Library Service to the Disabled, book reviewer for the Children's Book Review Service, assistant editor of Library Hi Tech, member of the American Library Association's Caldecott Committee, member of the executive board of the American Library Association of Specialized and Cooperative Library Agencies; secretary of the Queens Interagency Council on Aging; chairperson of the Lorain County (Ohio) Literacy Coalition, chairperson of the Maryland Library Association's Special Services Division; member of the Newberry Committee of the Baltimore and Carroll County Public Libraries; and president of the Baltimore Chapter of Quota International.

Emily has been named to Who's Who World Wide; Who's Who in American Education; and Who's Who of American Women.

Emily strongly supports the notion that any library reflects the community it serves. Because of that belief, she has already made a mission of introducing herself to all the various county departments, agencies, and organizations, and has been formally introduced to the Garrett County Commissioners.

"The library has to tailor its information for the community and to do that you have to know the community," she said.

With such stellar efforts already to her credit in the short time she's been in Garrett County, Emily deserves the community's attention, respect, and input. One opportunity will present itself on Wednesday, October 20, from 6-7:30 p.m., when an open house reception will be held at the Oakland branch in her honor.

The public is urged to come meet Emily Ferren -- the woman whose energies will likely prove beneficial to every one of us.

Area Christian Women To Meet

The Christian Women's Club of Oakland will host a luncheon with the theme, "Treasures from the Past" on Wednesday, Oct. 20, 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. at the Will O' The Wisp Restaurant. The club invites all area women to attend.

The special feature will be the presence of Joanna Sisler, a local antique dealer, who will be discussing a variety of different antiques, with a question and answer session to follow. The music guest will be Debbie Weeks with "Nostalgic Notes."

The special speaker will be Shirl Merki, Cumberland, whose topic will be "A Great Find."

For registration, persons should call Beverly Barb at 387-9112 no later than Oct. 18. A free nursery is provided. The costs of the luncheon is $6.50 per person. All reservations must be honored.

ATTENTION RESIDENTS OF OAKLAND

The Town of Oakland will permit Trick-or-Treating in the city limits of Oakland this year, on Thursday, October 28, 1993, from 5:00 PM to 6:00 PM. Trick-or Treating is only permitted during this specified time, and is open to children in Oakland through age 12. All children wishing to participate in Trick-or-Treating must be wearing a costume, and must be accompanied by an adult. Trick-or-Treaters should only visit homes which have their porch lights on.

Any household wishing to receive Trick-or-Treaters should turn their porchlight on during the specified time.

Any child wearing a Halloween costume, who wishes to participate in the annual Halloween Parade on Thursday, Oct. 28, should be at the Center Street School no later that 6:20 PM. The parade will begin at 6:30 PM, and will be followed by the Halloween Social at the Oakland Fire Hall, sponsored by the Oakland/Mt. Lake Park Lions Club. Prizes and fun filled activities are planned for the evening! Come and enjoy!

1993 Tree Assistance Available

Small and medium-sized commercial tree farmers who suffered significant tree or seedling losses because of damaging weather during 1993 may be reimbursed to replant, reseed and repair damage under USDA's Tree Assistance Program (TAP). The TAP is administered by each county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

To the extent that funds are available, the TAP authorizes 65 percent of the replanting or repairing costs beyond any loss that exceeds 35 percent, after adjustment for normal mortality.

The TAP covers orchard trees such as fruit and nut trees, and forest seedlings planted to produce timber, pulp, or Christmas trees that were lost due to damaging weather, including floods and drought in 1993.

Eligibility is restricted to owners of 500 acres, or less, of orchard trees and 1,000 acres, or less, of forest trees. Eligible owners must also have an annual qualifying gross revenue of less than $2 million in the tax year preceding the year in which the losses occurred and program payments may not exceed more than $25,000 per person.

Tree growers requesting assistance under the program may obtain additional eligibility and cost-sharing details from the Garrett County ASCS office at 334-1901.

Producers may sign up for this program until March 4, 1994.

U.S. Corn Stocks Up 92 Percent

Old crop corn stored in all positions on September 1, was estimated at 2.11 billion bushels, up 92 percent from September 1, 1992. Of the total stocks, 1.07 billion bushels are stored on farms, up 77 percent from last year. Off-farm stocks, at 1.04 billion bushels, are up 111 percent from a year earlier. The indicated disappearance from all positions for the June-August quarter is 1.60 billion bushels, three percent below the disappearance for the same quarter a year earlier. Old crop soybeans stored in all positions on September 1, 1993, totaled 292 million bushels, five percent above holdings a year ago. On-farm stocks, at 125 million bushels, are up 19 percent from September 1, 1992. Off-farm stocks at 167 million, are down four percent from last year. Indicated disappearance for the September 1992-August 1993 marketing year totaled 2.18 billion bushels, seven percent above disappearance during the comparable period a year earlier. All wheat stored in all positions on September 1, 1993, is placed at 2.16 billion bushels, up two percent from last September 1. Farm stocks are 1.00 billion bushels and off-farm stocks total 1.5 billion. Both are up two percent from a year ago.

U.S. Hog Inventory Down Four Percent

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on September 1 was estimated at 59.0 million head. This is a four percent decrease from last year and one percent below September 1, 1991. Breeding inventory, at 7.08 million head, was down five percent from a year ago and three percent below September 1, 1991. Market hog inventory, at 51.9 million head, decreased four percent from a year ago and was down one percent from September 1, 1991.

The June-August 1993 U.S. pig crop was 23.7 million head, eight percent less than last year and down three percent from the same period in 1991. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 2.93 million head, down seven percent from last year and six percent below 1991. Pigs saved per litter were 8.09 compared to 8.14 during the same period in 1992. U.S. hog producers intend to have 2.93 million sows farrow during the September-November quarter, three percent less than the actual farrowings during the same period last year and one percent less than in 1991. Farrowings intended for December 1993-February 1994, at 2.85 million sows, are two percent above 1993 but down two percent from 1992.

Maryland's dairy industry generated an estimated $673 million in economic activity last year.

Mastitis -- Area Problem

If your cows have more than the usual amount of mastitis, don't feel alone. Right now there are more mastitis cases than I have seen in Garrett County for several years. It is hard to pinpoint exactly what brought on this rash of mastitis. Possibly the stress of hot weather, followed by wet cool weather could be a contributing factor. Also, we may have relaxed a little in the mastitis control problem. In order to manage mastitis you need to know the causative organism. Work with your veterinarian on this. Dr. Jim Fearer and I are working together to produce a newsletter on how to handle the problem. If you are on my mailing list or a member of DHIA, you will be getting a copy sometime next week. In the meantime, I have a lot of information on mastitis available upon request.

Participates In Wilderness Trip At Salisbury St.

Tammy Eisentrout, 18, daughter of John and Connie Eisentrout, Oakland, recently participated in Salisbury State University's award-winning "Freshman in the Wilderness" program. All new students at Salisbury are required to go through University Orientation. An option they have is to do their orientation as part of a wilderness trip.

Students in the program have the choice of cycling 140 miles through the mountainous countryside of Maine or canoeing through the back country lakes of Ontario, Canada. Eisentrout opted for the canoeing trip.

Eisentrout graduated from Southern High School in 1993 with an overall grade point average of 3.5 and plans to attend medical school upon her graduation from Salisbury State.

"The Wilderness Orientation trip fosters both a sense of self reliance and trust among students. Remarkably, participants drop out of college at a lower rate than their classmates, become more involved in campus activities and generally do well academically," stated a Salisbury State spokesman.

At Salisbury State, some 6,000 students in 29 undergraduate and five graduate programs pursue liberal arts and professional degrees. The university is located on the Eastern Shore 30 miles from the Atlantic Ocean and 20 miles from the Chesapeake Bay.

Jubilators Gospel Quartet To Sing At Bloomington

The Jubilators Gospel Quartet will present a gospel sing at the Bloomington United Methodist Church on Saturday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m. Pastor Bill Brown invites the public to attend.

The Jubilators are of Cumberland and began singing in 1966. The members fill approximately 100 engagements a year at churches, civic organizations, and fairs, traveling 10,000 miles or more during this time, a spokesperson said.

The group consists of members Jim Glover, first tenor; Gene Streett, lead; Delford Crowe, baritone, Pete Pritts, bass; Dottie Streett, pianist, and Keith Miller, bass guitar.

Little Receives Realtor Board's Service Award

The Garrett County Board of Realtors recognized Don Little for his outstanding contributions as a volunteer in providing services to the residents of Garrett County. The local "Citizens Outstanding Service Award" is presented annually to a non-Realtor who has shown dedication to true community spirit activities.

Little is well known for his efforts with the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, having devoted his time and encouraged volunteerism of others, to assist in the annual house-building efforts. He took an early retirement in 1988 to begin work full-time as coordinator of the Garrett County Habitat new construction and rehab projects. He has also participated in Habitat projects in Kentucky, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Washington, D.C., and Baltimore.

Little has received recognition from the Governor's Advisory Committee on Homelessness. In addition, he coordinated the 10th anniversary "Build Blitz" in Garrett County during which a house was built in just five days.

Little traveled to Ocean City, where he and other statewide nominees received recognition from the entire Maryland Association of Realtors for their "superb" efforts and accomplishments, according to a Realtor spokesperson.

Little and his wife, Lorraine reside in the Deep Creek Lake area.

Revival Slated At Oak Grove Brethren Church

A revival will be held at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren October 17-21 at 7:30 nightly. The services will begin with worship service on Sunday, Oct. 17, at 11 a.m. There will be no evening service on Sunday.

The speaker will be Sonny Dodds and a covered dish dinner will be held at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, followed by a hymn sing at 2 p.m. The Sonny Dodds Family from Fulk's Run, Va., will be providing special music.

Oak Grove is located in McHenry on the Sang Run Road, past the entrance to the Wisp.

GRANTSVILLE

There will be a hymn sing at the Laughlin Church of the Brethren on Sunday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m., combined with the George's Creek Church of the Brethren. The church is five miles west of Grantsville on the Amish Road. The offering will go to the George's Creek Church where a new roof is needed. Persons who wish to help in this project may send a contribution to the Rev. Mark Durst, care of the George's Creek Church of the Brethren, Rt. 1, Box 434, Frostburg, MD 21532. The Rev. Curtiss Ketterman is the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Day of Seminole, Fla., are visiting their mother, Mrs. Gladys Smith, and Ruth and Everett Duckworth.

Miss Ruth Yommer is a surgical patient in the W.Va. University Hospital, Morgantown.

Mrs. Oma Beachy, along with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shaulis at DeLane, Fla., spent some time with Robert Diette and visited friends and relatives in the area before returning to their home. They visited the Walter Younkin home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bowser and Mrs. Emma Bowser of Hagerstown visited relatives and friends in the area.

Mrs. Ferne Beachy and Miss Emma Bowser visited Walter and Alice Younkin on Sunday.

W.O.W. NEWS

Spooks Wanted For Haunted Hayride At Herrington Manor

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Forest and Park Service, Herrington Manor State Park, will hold its annual haunted hayride on October 30.

The rides will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at 10 p.m. The hayride is free and will be conducted from the Herrington Manor State Park Concession building. Reservations are required because of limited seating. Refreshments will be provided for the program.

"Wear a costume and join us for a howling good time," said a park ranger.

To make reservations or obtain additional information, persons may call the park office at 301-334-9180.

Bennett Announces Candidacy For Attorney General

Former U.S. Attorney for Maryland Richard D. Bennett traveled throughout Maryland recently for the official kick-off of his 1994 election campaign for Attorney General.

Bennett, a native of Severna Park, announced that as Attorney General he would establish a Juvenile Justice Task Force within the Attorney General's office to assist Maryland's State's Attorneys in the prosecution of juvenile offender cases.

"The crisis in the criminal justice system in this state must be addressed by vigorously dealing with young offenders before they become violent, life-long offenders," Bennett said.

In his tour around Maryland, Bennett said that he would like to re-allocate organizational resources so that branch offices could be opened in Salisbury, Rockville, and Hagerstown to make services offered by the Attorney General's office more easily accessible.

Bennett also stated that as Attorney General he would closely monitor the state procurement process. "We need to ensure that state government contracts are awarded impartially and at the most reasonable costs for taxpayers. This is an area in which the Attorney General must be vigilant for the citizens of Maryland," he said.

Bennett, 46, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Maryland School of Law. He resides in Baltimore County with his wife, Jane, and their three children, Ridgely, 17, Elizabeth, 16, and Craig, 12.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

DINNER SLATED

A buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be served at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Saturday evening, Oct. 16, beginning at 5 p.m. Sponsored by the youth, donations for the dinner will be $5 for adults and $3 for children. Homemade cider will be a menu choice, and there will also be cider for sale. The church is located about one-half mile south of Eglon on Rt. 24.

FOOD FOR PRESTON SIGNUP

On Oct. 20 from 5-8 p.m. (note the evening hours), there will be a registration at the Aurora fire hall for those who are income-eligible to benefit from the Food for Preston Christmas dinner food package. Proof of income and expenses is requested when registering.

TO MARK 100 YEARS

Mrs. Nellie Hamilton will observe her 100th birthday on Oct. 25 at her home near Red House. To celebrate the occasion, the family is asking for a card shower and are also having an open house on Sunday afternoon so that friends may make a brief visit between 2-4 p.m. Her address is Rt. 1, Box 5934, Oakland, MD 21550.

CRAFT SALE PLANNED

The Mt. View Rebekah Lodge is planning for a craft sale for Saturday, Nov. 13, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Those wishing to participate may arrange for a table for $10 by calling Iris Myers at 735-5050, Nina Layman at 735-5139, or Mary Radford at 735-5783.

LIONS HAVE WORK DAYS

The Mt. Lions Club recently had several work days to clear trash from the overlook area on Backbone Mountain, near the Leadmine Road intersection. In order to accomplish this task, cooperation from Pocahontas Properties, the owners, was established. Viewing this area from that point was at one time possible but, because of lack of manpower, the West Virginia Department of Highways no longer kept the area cleared and it has grown over with trees. Several living chestnut trees were located at the time of the clearing.

APPLEBUTTER FOR SALE

The Stemple Ridge Ladies Aid still has some homemade applebutter for sale, either in pints or quarts. Persons may inquire or order by calling 735-6704, or any of the members.

TO CELEBRATE 60TH

William and Martha Slaubaugh Hollen will celebrate 60 years of marriage on Saturday evening, Oct. 16. A dinner in their honor is being served at the Mt. Grove Memorial Building at 7 p.m. The location is three miles south of Silver Lake, four miles north of Thomas, on U.S. 219. Gifts may be made by way of donations to the Union Ambulance Service in their honor.

LIPSCOMBS WINNERS

Edward and Joann Lipscomb and their son, Rick Lipscomb, and his wife, Shirley, were named winners of the Monongahela District of the West Virginia Soil Conservation Service. Their Eglon dairy farm was viewed via slides at the Friday evening, Oct. 8, awards dinner held in the Mill Room of the Kingwood Community Building.

Another local family, Claude and Jean Winters of Eglon, were selected as one of two recipients of the Take Pride in America award.

Making the presentation for each of these was Hancell Teets, a Preston County representative to the MSCD. This award is given to those families who, in addition to having outstanding conservation practices, are showing their pride in their country by taking an active part in the happenings in their communities.

Also attending the dinner was Mr. Teets's wife, Mildred.

MYERS BIRTH

Charles and Diane Myers of Leesburg, Va., announce the birth of their first child and son on Friday, Oct. 8, at 4:15 a.m. in the Loudin County Hospital. He weighed seven pounds, four and one-half ounces at birth, and has been named Andrew Charles.

Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Iris Myers of Aurora. Her husband was the late Charles Myers. Paternal grandparents are Eddie and Sandra Friel of Buckeye, near Marlinton.

Visiting with the new parents and baby this weekend were Mrs. Myers and her granddaughter, Jennifer Frost, of Eglon.

LOCAL TRAVELERS

Clifton and Grace Bachtel joined a bus tour to New England last week and returned Sunday evening to their Horse Shoe Run home. The extensive trip covered all of the New England states and many points of interest.

Also traveling in New England last week were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winters of Columbus, Ohio, who were joined by her brother-in-law and sister, Lewis and Hazel Durst, of Amboy.

Joining different bus tours to Branson, Mo., last week were Keith and Delores Douglas, David and Delores Stemple, Aurora.

EGLON HOMEMAKERS

Hostess Mary Rembold opened the Oct. 5 meeting of the Eglon Extension Homemakers, by reading scripture concerning the love of Christ for His church. Sandra Hauser concluded the devotions by reading a poem.

"Are You Having Trouble Remembering?" was the topic discussed by Rebecca Teets. Assisting in a skit were Jean Winters and Ruth Teets.

Plans were made for serving the Mt. Lions on Nov. 18. The county is asking that club members save Heinz baby food labels, which are used to support Children's Hospital at Morgantown. Scott product labels may be saved for support of Ronald McDonald houses. The county 4-H Foundation and local 4-H clubs benefit from the purchase of tickets for beef, hog, and lamb. Each member of the club purchased two.

The hostess had a display of gourds grown by Sandra Hauser, and served apple dumplings to the above mentioned and Linda Lewis, Avenell Parsons, Lectie Bonner, Nina Layman, and Sharon Hammel. The next meeting will be Nov. 2.

Former Elk Garden Resident Honored By Little League

Dewaine E. Jones, son of Donna (Murphy) Jones, Westlake, Ohio, formerly of Elk Garden, W.Va., was honored on August 12 with four trophies from the Little League Association.

After playing just two seasons, his award included All-Star, Most Improved Player, Hot Stove Golden Glove, and Most Valuable Player.

When Dewaine isn't pitching, he plays short stop for his team. At age 8, he has a .500 batting average and wants to be a major league baseball player when he grows up.

He is also the grandson of Dewaine Murphy who, in 1957, pitched the only no-hitter Elk Garden has ever had against Keyser High School.

MT. STORM POWER STATION TAKES FIRST PLACE - The Mt. Storm Power Station team took first place in the recent Fire and Rescue Competition, held by Virginia Power at North Anna Power Station. All area stations compete in the event, and the Mt. Storm champions took the top spot for the 11th consecutive year. The four categories of competition included Turn-Out Gear Race, Knot Tying, Breathing Apparatus Race, and Hose Coupling and Water Flow. Also included in the contest were efforts in CPR, patient assessment, traction splinting, and patient demobilization. Team members were Donnie Amtower (captain), Dave Johnson, Rocky Ludwick, Tim Kisamore, Curtis Porter Jr., Danny Hebb, Norman Minnick, Bruce Brooks, and Ekner Gaither. The first aid team members included Larry Moyers (captain), Richard Smith, Karen Kile, Mike Kessel, Owain Wilfong, Sue Cleaver, Mike Hare, Rodney Leatherman, and Greg Roy. The champs are pictured above as they celebrate with Station Manager Doug Ketterman (holding flag).

Assistance For New And Existing Businesses Available

Free business assistance will be available at a number of locations over the next few weeks for those who have small business or those considering starting a business.

Business planning, financing, recordkeeping, marketing, and other management-related topics will be discussed confidentially in one-on-one counseling sessions with Sharon Butner, program manager of the Potomac State College Small Business Development Center (SDBC) in Keyser. The office serves Grant Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, and Pendleton counties.

Assistance will be offered at the Hampshire County Chamber of Commerce in the Sunrise Professional Building, Romney, on U.S. Rt. 50 on Thursday, October 21 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.; at the Hardy County Commission conference room in the Courthouse on Washington St., Moorefield, Wednesday, October 27, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.; and the office of Region 8 Planning and Development Council in the Grant County Industrial Park, Petersburg, Wednesday, November 3.

Appointments must be scheduled in advance by calling the Keyser office at 304-788-6821, the Petersburg office at 304-257-2448, the Moorefield office at 304-538-6398, or the Romney office at 304-822-7221.

Working Women Conference Set At Potomac State

A free video conference, "Working Women Conference: Taking the Next Step," will be offered at Potomac State College in the LRC Viewing Room in the Mary F. Shipper Library on Wednesday, October 20, from 1-3 p.m.

The conference is the second annual video conference on how to tap into the full power, productiveness, and potential of women in the workplace. Moderated by former CBS White House correspondent Lee Thornton, the two-hour program is produced by the American Management Association (AMA) and co-sponsored by Potomac State College and the Potomac State College Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

AMA asked women managers across the United States to help develop the content of the video conference by explaining what issues are most important to them. As a result, the conference will cover the following key topics: communicating your vision to subordinates, co-workers, clients, and vendors; empowering yourself and others to succeed; essential traits of the new female leadership style; how a "woman's place" in the educational system affects your workplace performance; issues affecting minority women; negotiating to get what you want, and many more.

Supervisors, managers, professionals, human resource managers, women executives, business students, and MBA candidates should attend the conference, according to Sharon Butner, program manager. All participants will have the opportunity to interact with a panel of national experts, including Frank Acuff, Anne L. Bryant, Sally Helgesaen, Marianne Spraggins, and Lee Thornton, via telephone. Handout materials will include a 30-page program summary with outlines, objectives, bibliography, and excerpts from the broadcast.

To pre-register for the free video conference, persons may call the SBDC at 304-788-6821. Participants will be mailed a map of the campus and a parking pass as confirmation of their registration. Special arrangements for persons with handicaps will be made if requested in advance by called Butner at the above number.

PERSONAL MENTION

Jackie and Alina Snyder returned Sunday evening to their Brookside home from a week spent in Branson, Mo., where they attended many of the shows offered there and including a performance of the Passion Play. Enroute home they visited with the Jerry Johnsons at Sugar Creek, Ohio.

Hancell and Mildred Teets visited in Shepherdstown this weekend with their children, Ron and Judy Kepple, Mark and Jill.

Ellis and Marie Teets of Silver Lake spent an extended weekend in Salem, Va., with their daughter and family, Don, Bitsy, John, Stephen, Andrew and Elizabeth Shepherd.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis and Sara were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Winters, all Eglon, on a weekend visit in Manassas, Va., with Carl and Nancy Winters, Chuck and Clay. On Sunday they were joined by Gary and Julie Baker of Virginia Beach, Va.

Delmar and Virginia Wotring of Aurora sold a portion of their belongings on Saturday, preparatory to moving to smaller quarters.

Visiting last week and the weekend with Herb and Jean Starr, Stemple Ridge, were Dale Harsh, Richard Harsh, both Ohio, Linda Ayers and Dan Liston, Farmington, Pa., Jimmy Liston, Mt. Morris, Pa., Bobby McCoy of Virginia, and Paul Kiser of Uniontown, Pa.

Bob and Eileen Rembold were Saturday and Sunday guests of Bruce, Mary, Shawn and Craig Rembold at Eglon. On Saturday evening, a birthday party for Craig was held at the home of his grandparents, Ron and Avenell Parsons, and other than his family, guests were Doyle and Helen Roth, Gary, Fran, Chris, Jason and Lauren Roth, Jessica Lantz, Sandra and Beth Hauser, and Michelle Sisler.

Clara Spaid of Eglon was a Friday to Sunday patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

VOLUNTEER RECOGNIZED BY AHA - Connie L. Judy, Bayard, W.Va., was recently presented with two awards from the American Heart Association (AHA), Western Maryland Division, in recognition of her contributions to the Association's fight against disability and death caused by cardiovascular diseases and strokes. She received the Outstanding Rookie Award and the Development Recognition Award for the Garrett County Branch. The rookie honor commended her first-year efforts in outstanding leadership and dedication. Mrs. Judy, assistant vice-president and community office manager at First United National Bank and Trust's main office, Oakland, served as chairperson for the AHA Teleparty Event last November, which raised over $3,000 and was the most successful ever to be held in Garrett County. The second award was in recognition of her event achieving the largest percentage over goal. Mrs. Judy is pictured above with Joseph George, chairperson of the Allegany branch.

Melvin and Rose Ina Harsh, Grace Harsh and Doyle, Artenis Harsh, Stanley and Mark Harsh were all Sunday guests of Wilmer and Abbey Harsh at Ft. Ashby. Also visiting there were Don and Karla Harsh of Warrenton, Va., and Victor, Carol and Amber Imes, also of Ft. Ashby.

Bob and Pat Dunkin and their son, Zack, moved last week into their home in Aurora which had been occupied in their absence by Herb and Toni Gabler. The Gablers have moved to Tallahassee, Fla.

Thank You

We want to thank our many friends & family for making our 65th anniversary a special day. Thanks for the gifts, money, cards, and food that we all shared together.

God Bless You All,

NOTICE TO GARRETT COUNTY TAXPAYERS

According to the laws governing my office (section 14-808/Tax Property), the Treasurer must advertise and sell properties for delinquent County, State and Town taxes, or taxes due other taxing agencies.

Garrett County tax bills become delinquent 15 months after mailing. Therefore, 92-93 (blue) tax bills and prior years were delinquent October 1, 1993. The 93-94 (purple) bills WILL NOT BE delinquent until next October. Personal property taxes for 92-93 and prior years are also delinquent and become a lien on real estate.

Final delinquent notices are normally mailed March 1, allowing 30 days for payment. After this time, all delinquent accounts will be given to the Attorney for preparation for tax sale. ABSOLUTELY NO EXCEPTIONS!

If there are any questions, don't hesitate to call the office anytime between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Kendra Wagner Becomes Bride Of Edward Thayer In August Ceremony

Kendra Lea Wagner and Edward Franklin Thayer exchanged wedding vows on August 7, 1993, in a double-ring ceremony at Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church with the Rev. Donald Wilson officiating.

Wedding music was provided by organist June Harvey and pianist Karen Otto. Vocalists were Debbie Zimmerman and David Martin. The unity candles were lighted by the couple's mothers.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of Italian satin with a form-fitting bodice encrusted with pearled and sequined Milano lace with a heart-shaped cut-out in the yoke with pearl strands extending from the bridal collar. The heart shape was repeated on the back with a keyhole effect. The ornate, modified leg-o'-mutton sleeves ended in bridal points at the wrists. The Basque waist held the full skirt of satin, which swept to a semi-cathedral train of English net that was adorned with pearled lace appliques.

The bride wore a jeweled crown headpiece of pearls and sequins accented with a single pouf of bridal illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of silk roses and lilies, accented by iridescent pearls and baby's breath. The bouquet was fashioned by the groom's mother, Linda Harr.

Serving as matron of honor was Melanie Chidester, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cindy Drefhall, Stacy Clary, and Jenny Draper, friends of the bride. Flower girl was Angie DeWitt, friend of the couple.

The bridal attendants all wore iridescent turquoise taffeta gowns with high-low hemlines. The heart shape backs were repeated from the bride's gown. They wore pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride. They carried bouquets of silk roses and lilies accented with baby's breath. They were also designed by the groom's mother. The flower girl wore a white satin and lace dress and carried a basket of rose petals.

The mother of the bride wore a two-piece peach satin dress, accented with a tailored, long-sleeved, appliqued lace jacket. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece silk turquoise dress with a v-shaped appliqued neckline.

Serving as best man was Sean Hershman, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were John Thayer, brother of the groom, Randy DeWitt and Scott Hershman, friends of the groom.

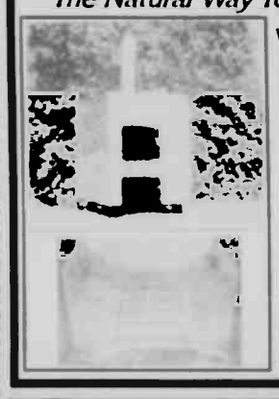
The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails and satin lapels. Groomsmen wore grey tuxedos with satin lapels. The father of the bride wore a similar black tuxedo with satin lapels. All boutonnieres were also made by the groom's mother.

The buffet reception dinner was held at the McHenry House at the Wisp Resort. The three-tier white and turquoise wedding cake with four connecting side cakes were baked and decorated by Kay Carlson, cousin of the groom, who gave the cakes as a wedding gift. The cake was served by Connie Henline, Kathy Lawson, and Judy Savage, aunts of the bride. A champagne toast was offered to the couple by the groom's best man.

Music was provided by Mr. Z and decorations were designed by Mary Lou Stemple. Connie Lawson and Jill Henline, cousins of the bride, served as guest book and bird seed attendants. Judy Wilt was the photographer and the ceremony was videotaped by Lanny and Greg Savage, uncle and cousin of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at the Will O' the Wisp. A bridal shower was given for the bride in July, hosted by Linda Harr and Dawn Thayer, mother-in-law and sister-in-law of the bride. Following a honeymoon trip to Station Square in Pittsburgh, the couple established residence in Mtn. Lake Park.

The bride is the daughter of Dale and Donna Wagner, Oakland. She is a graduate of Southern High School and Allegany Community College. She is employed as a registered nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in the progressive care unit.



The groom is the son of Paul and Linda Harr, Oakland, and the late John Thayer. He is a graduate of Southern High School and Dean Institute of Technology. He is employed at Arrowhead Deli.

Kellie Rush Weds Jerry Higdon Jr. In August 14 Double-Ring Ceremony

Kellie Colleen Rush became the wife of Jerry Reed Higdon Jr. on August 14, 1993. The 6 p.m. double-ring, candlelight ceremony took place at Heritage Church of God in Severn with the Rev. Norman Hamby officiating.

Both mothers lighted candles on the altar and during the ceremony the couple lighted the unity candle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rush of Deer Park. The groom is the son of Jerry Higdon Sr., Severn, and Mrs. Jackie Heinrich, Columbia.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a straight ivory gown of satin and antique lace. The sleeves were lace and the bodice was accented with pearls and quins. The open v-back, accented with pearls, draped to the waist. The detachable train was a simple satin with lace edging. The floor-length detachable veil fell from a pill box hat covered with lace, pearls, and sequins.

The bride wore pearl drop earrings borrowed from her maid of honor and an antique sapphire ring from her grandmother. She also carried a bouquet of fresh white miniature carnations, stephanotis, orchids, and ivy. The isle was lined with greens and candelabra.

Serving as the maid of honor was Debra Higdon, aunt of the groom, who wore a deep teal, straight, floor-length, off-the-shoulder suit. She carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride, but with rose-colored flowers. The bridesmaids were Rebecca Ahern and Cheryl Feller, friends of the bride. Their gowns matched that of the maid of honor, but they carried deeper rose-colored bouquets and wore pearl necklaces.

The best man was Earl Reddell, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Joe Ponczak and Joe Rudden, friends of the groom. The groom and groomsmen all wore dark grey tuxedos with tails. The groom wore a vest, rose tie, and pocket square. The best man wore a vest, deep teal tie, and pocket square. The groomsmen wore deep teal cummerbunds, ties, and pocket squares.

Following the wedding, the bride and groom were chauffeured by limousine to the reception at Martins West in Baltimore. The dinner menu included chicken cordon bleu, French onion soup, and flaming strawberries jubilee. The main cake was a three-tier chocolate, yellow, and white cake, surrounded by pearls. Bridges on each side led to two separate layers which ended at a porcelain musical bride and groom beneath the main cake.

The couple honeymooned in Orlando, Fla. and now reside in Severn.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, and is currently employed with Citicorp in Silver Spring. The groom is a graduate of Oakland Mills High School in Columbia and is currently working for Electricians Local #24 as an electrical apprentice.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's mother and step-father at their home in Columbia. The bride was the guest of honor at three bridal showers; one given by an aunt of the groom, one by the bride's sisters-in-law, and one by co-workers at the University of Maryland.

Wedding guests attending from out-of-state were from Michigan, Florida, Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Ohio, and Virginia.

State Jobless Rate Higher, County's Lower

Unemployment in Maryland increased modestly in August, causing the state's unemployment rate to rise from 6.6 percent in July to 6.7 percent in August. Statewide employment and the labor force receded as workers withdrew from the job market.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate dropped from 11.5 percent in July to 10.6 percent in August. The August 1992 rate was 9.7 percent.

Employment reductions are not uncommon during August, according to the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development. With the summer drawing to a close, employers start to trim their seasonal workforces. During August, the number of people employed in Maryland declined by nearly 15,200 people to 2,449,430. Seasonal workers leaving the labor market offset this decline somewhat, holding down August's jobless increase to 2,012 people.

"Although unemployment increased slightly in August, other economic indicators continue to point to a slow recovery," said Mark I. Wasserman, secretary of economic and employment development (DEED). "Initial and continuing claims for unemployment insurance continued to fall below last year's levels, while retail sales, new housing permits and new automobile registrations increased significantly."

Seasonal layoffs and reduced business activity lowered employment in a number of industries during August. Staggered layoffs in education and cuts in summer maintenance and recreation programs meant fewer jobs in both the services and government sectors. In addition, layoffs in agricultural and engineering services contributed to job losses. In manufacturing, the other major sector to report an upturn, vacation recalls in food processing, apparel and rubber products helped to increase employment.

Labor market and other indicators show that the Maryland economy continues to struggle to recover from the recession. Both employment by place of residence and employment by place of work (jobs) continue to be below 1992 levels. Manufacturing employment rose in August, while initial claims for unemployment insurance fell. Also, during the most recent month, data on retail sales, new auto registrations and housing permits were all positive.

Western Maryland was the only region in the state to report declining joblessness, as the unemployment count fell by nearly 700 people, lowering the unemployment rate from 10.3 percent in July to 9.7 percent in August. In Garrett County, recalls in manufacturing and hiring in business services helped unemployment to fall, while in Washington County, a decline in the number of job seekers was a major factor in lowering unemployment.

Statewide, unemployment rates in August ranged from a low of 3.9 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 11.5 percent in Baltimore City.

Autumn Glory Turkey Dinners Set In Loch Lynn

Autumn Glory turkey dinners will be served Saturday, October 16, from 3-7 p.m. at the Loch Lynn Restaurant to benefit the Kurtz Chapel Building Fund.

The menu includes fresh, roasted turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans or sauerkraut, homemade bread, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, coffee or cold drinks. Donations are $7 for adults and $3.50 for children. Carryouts are available.

TO BE IN CONCERT AT PLEASANT VIEW -- The "LIGHT" Singers, from Liberty University, Lynchburg, Va., will be ministering this Sunday morning, Oct. 17, at Pleasant View Baptist Church, during both morning worship services (8:15 and 10:45 a.m.) They will perform an hour-long concert at 9:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend. They will also perform before the Autumn Glory Parade on Saturday, at 11:30 a.m. in front of the reviewing stand on Second Street, Oakland.

Lighthouse To Offer Q&A Session About Psychiatric Rehab

The staff of Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., will be on hand at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, on Oct. 18 from 10 a.m.-noon, answering questions about available psychiatric rehabilitation services.

Donna Gregory, program coordinator, said the purpose of the outreach assistance is to be accessible to people who wish to know more about what is available in this area. Similar outreach efforts will soon be located at various sites throughout Garrett County to accommodate different communities, she said.

The staff will at the same time be gathering information for a "community needs" survey in order to plan for the expansion of Lighthouse services.

For more information on Lighthouse and the outreach assistance, persons may call the establishment at 334-9126.

BPW To Sponsor Haunted House

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club is looking for a few ugly, funny looking, weird "creatures" for a special Halloween "treat."

Sponsored by the Community Affairs Committee, a "Haunted House" will be held at the Oakland fire hall on October 25-28 from 6-8 p.m. each evening. Proceeds will benefit the fire department.

This special Halloween Haunted House will feature such scenes as the "Casket Room," the "Butcher Block," the "Electric Chair" and many more "surprises," according to a BPW spokesman.

Cost of this seasonal "tour" is $1 per person, and the public is invited.

Persons desiring more information are encouraged to contact BPW President Liz Daniels at 334-1471 or committee members Bea Crosco at 334-3153 or Gretchen Rush at 387-6481.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

HARVEST DINNER

The annual Harvest Dinner will be served Saturday, Oct. 16, from 4-7 p.m. at the Friendsville United Methodist Church dining room. This is coordinated by the U.M.W. and supported by the entire church. The menu will include turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, cranberry salad, sauerkraut, rolls, pumpkin pie or gingerbread. Carry-out service will be available. Cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children. There will also be crafts, baked goods and candy for sale.

TO SERVE PULPITS

Brian Schofield will serve in the pulpit of Selbysport United Methodist Church at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 17.

George McDowell will be the guest speaker at Friendsville Methodist Church at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 17.

Dottie Hersom, Markleysburg, Pa., will be the guest speaker at Blooming Rose Methodist Church for Sunday, Oct. 17, during the 9 a.m. service.

A North Garrett Parish meeting will be held Sunday, Oct. 17, at Mt. Zion Methodist Church on Rt. 40, at 2:30 p.m.

RUSH BAPTIST

Special services were held Sunday afternoon at Rush Baptist Church for the ordination of Gregg Humberson to serve as a deacon of the church, by Pastor Ray Perkins. Pastor Perkins gave a sermon and charge to Gregg of his duties and responsibilities. Refreshments were served.

GRACE LUTHERAN

The fellowship dinner held Sunday evening, Oct. 3, at Grace Lutheran Church was well attended, by the congregation and four guests: Kathryn Kiratko, Amelia Coward, Doris Meusel and Donys Seebo, Severn. Kathryn is a former member of the church and a W.E.L.C.A. member.

On Monday, Oct. 6, members of the W.E.L.C.A. and four guests gathered at the church for the October meeting. The guests were ladies from the Severn area. Geraldine Turney presided. The message, "God's Gift of Hope," was shared. During Friendsville Days in August, two Bibles were presented: the adult Bible to Debra Thorn and a child's Bible to Hannah Sines. The winner of an afghan donated by Evelyn Jenkins was Martha Preston, Millersville.

CHURCH OF GOD

Homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 10, at Sand Spring Church of God was well attended. Six members of the Ladies Aid met at the church's social room on Thursday for a business session conducted by President Joann Meyers, and then members knotted a quilt.

God's Blessings Singers from Harrisonburg, Va., will give a musical program at the church on Saturday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The annual buckwheat cake supper will be held at the fellowship hall on Saturday, Oct. 30, starting at 4 p.m. On the menu will be sausage, buckwheat cakes, biscuits and gravy and homefries. This is sponsored by the Ladies Aid. Tickets are: adults, $5, and children under 12, $2.50.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service will be held Sunday, Oct. 17, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, for Harry George Seggie, 41, of Mesa, Ariz., at 2 p.m. and at 3:30 p.m., the American Legion, Frostburg, will have a service at the cemetery at Frostburg Memorial Park.

HOMEMAKERS TO MEET

The Friendsville Homemakers will meet Friday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. for lunch at the home of Mrs. Ina Grace Leehman, with co-hostess, Carolyn Humberson. A meeting will follow.

BIRTH

Robert and Marsha Patchan, Columbia, announce the birth of a daughter, Kathryn Louise, on Wednesday, Oct. 6, 1993, at a hospital there.

Marsha is the daughter of Louise (Waynat) Bates and Richard Bates, Bowie.

Robert is an electrical engineer with naval research, and Marsha is a chemist for the University of Maryland Medical School.

New Vaccine Approved for Children

According to the FDA Medical Bulletin, Lederle Laboratories has been licensed to distribute a new vaccine that provides immunity against viral and bacterial conditions that have required separate immunizations. The new vaccine (called Tetramune) provides immunity against DPT (diphtheria, tetanus, and pertussis or whoopping cough) and the organism Haemophilus influenzae type B, the primary organism involved in bacterial meningitis and a frequent cause of other infections. If the vaccine is first given during infancy, only four injections are required, half the number needed with currently available vaccines.

SCOUTS IN ACTION

Cub Scout Pack 70 of Oakland, sponsored by St Peter's Rectory, visited the Pittsburgh Zoo on Oct. 2. The family visit to the zoo included 27 Cub Scouts, 39 parents/grandparents, and 30 family members.

The group stopped for brunch at the Uniontown McDonald's, and arrived at the zoo under cloudy skies and sporadic rain. The Aqua Garden was a highlight of the visit, as were the bear and lion exhibits.

The trip back to Oakland included a stop at Chucky Cheese at the Century III Mall.

The next event planned for Pack 70 is a float in the Autumn Glory Parade this weekend. Other events coming up for the group include a Halloween party, swimming at Alpine Lake, Christmas caroling at a nursing home, skiing at the Wisp, the Scout Show, a pinewood derby, and the Rain Gutter Regatta.

Any person who would like more information about Pack 70 or who would like a boy from grades second-fifth to participate may contact Bob Stephens at 334-8647.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR STRIP MINE PERMIT

Md. Grid Coordinates
N 645,300
E 235,000
Election District No. 11

Notice is hereby given that Pine Mountain Coal Company, Route 1, Box 442, Frostburg, Maryland 21532 has submitted an application to the Maryland Bureau of Mines for a surface coal mine operations permit. The proposed operation is to be located near Lonaconing, Maryland.

The proposed operation occupies a 17.5 acre tract on the east side of Laurel Run, 2.1 miles northwest of Lonaconing in Election District No. 11, Garrett County, Maryland, Maryland Grid Coordinates N645,300 E235,000. Access to the site will be from Maryland State Route 657, 2.1 miles northwest of Lonaconing, Maryland.

Surface of the area to be mined is owned by Lilly F. Weir, Rt. 1, Box 50, Lonaconing, Maryland 21539 and Winner Brothers Coal Company, Consol Village, Frostburg, Maryland 21532 and the mineral to be mined is owned by Maryland Fuel Company, Village Parkway, Industrial Park, Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

The permit area is within the U.S. Geologic Survey 7.5 minute quadrangle of Barton, Maryland, the boundaries which are shown on the vicinity sketch above.

The application includes plans to construct one pond to control sediment and stormwater on the mining area. The pond will be located within the proposed mining permit area. In addition to a surface coal mining permit, the construction of the pond will require a separate small pond approval from the Bureau of Mines.

A copy of the mine permit application, which includes the pond plans for the small pond approval, is available for public review during regular office hours at the Bureau of Mines office and the Soil Conservation District Office at the Garrett County Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. Questions concerning any aspect of the application may be directed to John E. Eckhart, Permit Supervisor at (301) 463-6518 or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Permit Section at (301) 689-6405.

A public hearing will not be held on this proposed activity unless requested. Written comments, requests for a public hearing and requests to be included on the interested persons list regarding this application will be received until November 15, 1993, by the Director, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 S. Water St., Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

Further notices about this application will be provided only by mail to those persons that submit comments, request a public hearing or request to be included on the list of interested persons.

Attention: File No. OPA 92-10.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Proposed Amendments to the Garrett County Sewage Sludge Regulation

The Board of County Commissioners, sitting as the Garrett County Board of Health, will hold a public hearing in the Commissioners' Meeting Room in the Courthouse on November 2, 1993, at 7 p.m. The purpose of the hearing will be to hear testimony on proposed changes to the regulation governing sludge disposal in Garrett County. The proposed major changes are:

1. Updating the enabling legislation.
2. Increasing the fees for disposal.
3. Increasing the security deposit.
4. Increasing the permit fee.
5. Eliminating the security deposit requirement when the project only involves top dressing existing cover crops with sludge.

Copies of the regulation outlining the proposed changes are available in the County Commissioners' office or the Environmental Health office, Room 104 of the courthouse.

Interested citizens are invited to attend.

GCC Students Fare Well At Transfer Colleges

A recent research report has revealed that students who transfer from Garrett Community College to Maryland four-year institutions have better academic records than students from other Maryland community colleges for the 1991-92 academic year.

Of the 44 former GCC students tracked that year, 11 4 percent maintained 4.0 averages at their transfer institutions. This figure compares with 7.8 percent of students from all other Maryland community colleges and 4.8 percent of those from other small Maryland community colleges (Chesapeake, Cecil, and Wor Wic Tech.) Half (50 percent) of the former GCC students had averages between 3.0 and 3.99 compared to 35.2 percent of students from other Maryland community colleges.

This report coincides with a survey recently released by the Maryland Higher Education Commission of 1992 graduates of Maryland community colleges and employers of these graduates. The results of the survey are complimentary of the education provided by Maryland's community colleges.

The vast majority of the graduates who transferred to a four-year campus (81 percent) said that their community college did a very good or good job preparing them. Students assessed as needing remedial help gave high ratings to the developmental courses for math, English, and reading offered at their TOWER ERECTED - No, those are not catarpillars on the tower shown above; they're actually three men erecting the tower at the Public Safety Center currently being constructed in McHenry at U.S. Rt. 219 and Md. Rt. 42. The tower will aid in communications for the three state departments that will be housed in the new complex - the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, The Department of Natural Resources Police, and the State Fire Marshal's Office. The scheduled completion date of the complex is May of 1994. The groundbreaking for the building was held May 6 and many state officials were on hand to hear a message by First Sergeant Greg Shipley who stated, "Governor William Donald Schaefer recognized the need for the new public safety center and knew it would positively impact the level of police services available to Garrett County residents." Barrack W Commander Charles Hinnant indicated that nine new civilian positions will be created when the complex is completed. The construction contract was awarded to Edward D. Wilburn, General Contractor, Inc., McHenry, and the sewerage contract was awarded to Frank Arnold Contractors, Oakland. The architects for the project are Anshen and Allen, Baltimore.

Assault With Intent To Murder Charge Incurred By Local Man After Dispute

An Oakland man was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Oct. 23 after a domestic altercation in which he apparently threatened the life of his wife Gregory J. Tressler, 31, was charged with assault with intent to murder, two counts of reckless endangerment, assault, two counts of battery, and malicious destruction of property, according to the police.

The sheriff's office received a telephone call from Leslee Tressler on Friday. She screamed to the dispatcher that her husband was going to kill her, according to the police report, and that she needed help. Cpl. Randy Sines and Pvt. J. Bittinger responded to the Rosedale home and reportedly found Tressler to be intoxicated and behaving violently. He picked up his 3-year-old son, according to the report, and attempted to go down the basement steps, warning if anyone followed, someone would die. Sines reported that the defendant lost his footing and the officer grabbed his arm to keep him from falling down the steps with the toddler.

The defendant then put the child down and reportedly grabbed Sines by the throat. He was immediately subdued by the officers and handcuffed. Mrs. Tressler was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated for injuries from the altercation and then released.

Tressler reportedly threatened his wife's life verbally, as well as the lives of the officers. He was transported to the Garrett County Jail, and later released after posting $50,000 bond, according to an office spokesperson.

Early Morning House Breaking And Assault Leads To Arrest Of W.Va. Man

A Kitzmiller family was awakened at 4 a.m. Sunday when a Gormania, W.Va., man allegedly broke into their home and barricaded himself inside. Raymond A. Miller, 22, has been charged with felony burglary, nighttime breaking and entering, two counts of battery, resisting arrest, destruction of property, disorderly conduct, disorderly intoxication, and unlawful detainment.

According to the police report, Miller pounded on the bedroom window of Sharon Lucas, his ex-girlfriend. He also pounded on the door of the house, and managed to enter the home. Robert Lucas, the father of Sharon, told the defendant to leave, and Lucas's wife Millie picked up the phone to call the police. Miller allegedly yanked the phone cord out of the wall before the connection was made to the dispatcher's office. At some point during the commotion Sharon was apparently struck by the defendant, who also is reported to have kicked the family's dog.

Millie and Sharon Lucas then ran out of the house, with Mrs. Lucas managing to grab the cordless phone and take it with her. She was able to contact the police from the woods behind her home, according to the report. Garrett County Sheriff's Office Cpl. L. Gnegy and Maryland State Police Troopers Moore and Anderson responded to the scene immediately, finding Miller in the family's living room apparently detaining Robert Lucas there.

The defendant repeatedly asked Lucas for a gun, according to the report, and Lucas told him there were none in the house, even though a full gun cabinet was close by. When officers arrived, Miller reportedly would not open the door for them. He also asked the officers for a gun. Finally

GHOSTS AND GOBLINS AND OTHER COSTUMED DARLINGS will be out in full force tonight as these youngsters were for a Halloween Parade conducted by an Oakland pre-school center this week. Trick or treat will be held in most incorporated towns in the county. To double check if trick or treating is permitted, persons should call their town hall representatives. Parents or guardians are asked to advise by an safety laws while trick or treating. Fire-retardant costumes are recommended and children should wear light-colored clothes or safety strips so that they can be seen by passing motorists. It is advised that children only visit homes they know or homes with the front porch light on. Suspect candy or fruit should be carefully inspected by parents. The annual Halloween parade will be held in downtown Oakland this evening at 6:30 p.m., followed by a social at the Oakland Fire Hall, conducted by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club.

Bittinger Man Seriously Injured In Tree Stand Fall In "Good" Condition

A Bittinger man is now listed in "good" condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., according to a hospital spokesperson, after he was taken there last Wednesday. He had been seriously injured Tuesday evening when he fell from a tree stand.

Lowell Bender, 53, reportedly fell from a tree stand at his hunting property near Mt. Storm at approximately 6:15 p.m. on Tuesday, October 19. With a compound fracture of the right femur (large leg bone) numerous facial fractures including a cut eye and double vision, Bender was able to pull himself 60-70 yards. From losing so much blood, he was too exhausted to go on and collapsed about 100 yards from his pickup truck.

His wife, Verna, said he does not believe he ever lost consciousness. During the evening hours, Mrs. Bender became concerned because her husband had not returned home, so she called a family friend, Tim Junkins, and asked if he would go look for Lowell. Junkins was unsuccessful in his first attempt to find Bender and Mrs. Bender said she asked him to go back and look again since he had still not returned home.

Bender was found seven hours after he fell and was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Mt. Storm Rescue Squad. He was to have been transferred from that facility by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter, but fog prevented air travel. He was then transported by Freeman Ambulance Service to Ruby Memorial.

On Wednesday at 11:30 a.m., Bender underwent surgery which lasted 14 hours. Following that surgery, he was placed on a respirator in the Intensive Care Unit. He has since been moved to the Eighth Floor and is recuperating. Mrs. Bender indicated that he would probably not walk on his right foot for two months and will be undergoing physical therapy. She said the facial injuries were healing and that a rod had been inserted in his leg to stabilize it. She said there was no infection, thus far.

"Lowell has remained very upbeat, very positive during this entire situation," said Mrs. Bender. "One of our greatest comforts has been the prayers and support

Both High School Bands Fare Well At State Contest

The Northern and Southern Garrett Marching bands gave impressive performances at Saturday's Eighth Annual Maryland State Band Championships, held at Towson State University's Minnegan Stadium. Northern brought home the third place trophy in Group I, and Southern was awarded second place in Group II. (The Groups are determined by band size.) Both bands were up against several other competitors in their divisions.

Southern Garrett, under the direction of Richard Clever, was up against 14 bands from areas including Salisbury, Annapolis, and Waldorf. The group took second place with a score of 85.4. First place was won by Westmar High School, and in third place was Old Mill High School, Millersville. Old Mill was the 1992 defending champion.

Northern Garrett faced seven bands in competition, and captured third place with a score of 78.4.

"We were just ecstatic about the placement," said James Boord, band director. "Out of 45 members, our band has 22 freshmen and six kids who are marching for the first time. Third place is an impressive feat for a young band."

Taking first in Group I was Colonel Richardson High School, Federalsburg, and in second place was North East High School of Cecil County.

Forty high school bands participated in the competition, the proceeds from which will benefit the Rotary Club of Towson Service Fund and WBAL Radio 11 Kids Campaign.

Thanos Execution Stayed By State Court Of Appeals

The execution of John Thanos has been stayed by order of the Maryland Court of Appeals, which heard testimony yesterday concerning his death sentence. Thanos waived his right to the 240-day stay granted all those sentenced to death in Maryland, but the public defender's office and the American Civil Liberties Union asserted to the court that the defendant could not waive the right.

The court issued a temporary stay and gave no indication of a ruling date. If the court denies the appeal before Nov. 8, the execution could be carried out sometime during the month, according to reports.

If the ruling comes after Nov. 8, a new death warrant would have to be issued, according to a state spokesperson. Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court signed Thanos's death warrant several weeks ago when he found the defendant competent to waive his right to the 240-day stay.

Commissioners Approve Funds For Hiring Of Elementary School Nurses

The Garrett County Commissioners this week approved the release of undesignated funds to the Garrett County Board of Education for the hiring of two school nurses to serve the elementary schools throughout the county, as well as funds to begin the design work on two capital improvement projects -- the Southern High School locker room renovation project and the addition of six classrooms at Northern High School.

The decision to approve the use of those funds (estimated at approximately $133,000) was made following a presentation of the long-range capital improvement program required for county schools by Superintendent of Garrett County Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage.

Ryscavage and Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer met with the commissioners last week concerning the need for two additional school nurses who would, under a tentative memo of agreement between the education board and the health department, be hired under the auspices of the health department's supervision, personnel salary scale, and working conditions, with some modifications to be made as a result of the school schedule and the school board providing administrative control.

The amount requested -- and approved -- is between $50,000 and $60,000, depending on who is hired for the position. The board will be transferring the funds to the health department to hire the two nurses by this December.

The remainder of the undesignated funds will be used to begin the design work on the addition of six classrooms at Northern High School ($39,235) and renovation of a locker room at Southern High School ($17,500).

Ryscavage also explained to the commissioners the order in which the capital improvement projects had been prioritized for the state -- a requirement for partial state funding of the projects. The first priority is the Broad Ford Elementary Southern Middle School air conditioning systemic project, with a total estimat-

Commissioner Tells School Board To "Go Back And Re-Study" School Plan

Garrett County Commissioner Elwood Groves this week questioned the Garrett County Education Board's plan to consolidate the Loch Lynn and Red House elementary schools into one school, telling the board to "go back to the drawing board" and re-study the option of rebuilding the two schools.

During a meeting in which the education board's capital improvement program was presented to the commissioners, Groves told Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, "I'd really like to clear the air about this consolidation proposal. When the board of commissioners was first approached about this four or five years ago, we were totally supportive. We recognized the need of the older elementary schools. Since that time, we have revisited it repeatedly, even though the state fiscal problems complicated the matter.

"Red House and Loch Lynn elementary schools were at the top of our list one and one-half years ago and, at that time, the majority of the board felt comfortable with this ... but one and one-half years later, we find that the education board is locked in on consolidation.

"I am concerned with preserving the community schools because they play a unique role in the community -- we're losing a lot if we sacrifice that -- and, besides, I've never seen documentation that consolidation is cost effective. . . . I suggest we go back and take a look at the option of rebuilding the two schools."

Dr. Ryscavage responded to Groves by saying, "This is the second time the consolidation proposal has been formally reviewed and the education board has concluded it would prefer consolidation."

The consolidation proposal carries a cost of approximately $4 million, $2.5 million of which would be taken care of by the state, with the county picking up the remainder of the tab.

Groves then stated, "I don't think the option of keeping the two schools was ever fairly considered. The Red House people were willing to go along with the consolidation but with hopes of establishing it somewhere between Loch Lynn and Red House. The new Growth Management Act makes that an impossibility so it's ended up being a blind alley for the Red House residents."

School board member Charlotte Sebold, however, told Groves that the education board was under the impression that the commissioners felt "the possibility of the schools being renovated was not an option -- the

CHANGE YOUR CLOCK

CHANGE YOUR BATTERY

Before retiring for the night this Saturday, Oct. 30, persons should turn their clocks and watches back one hour to standard time from daylight savings time, and thus enjoy an extra hour of sleep before church on Sunday. In conjunction with that activity it is recommended that residents also change, or at least check, the batteries in their smoke alarms.

UNIQUE PROJECT CELEBRATES LOCAL WOMEN - The Civic Club of Oakland has created a unique work of art to continue the 1993 Celebration of Garrett County Women. Two large "quilts" - will be on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland through November - feature squares which recognize groups, activities, organizations, or businesses which involve women in some fashion. The squares were made by representatives of each organization or business over the summer, and the two 25-square quilts were pieced together by Pauline Lewis. Some of the organizations or individuals in the piece work are New Horizons, the Senior Olympics, Garrett Community College, the Historical Society, Hospice, women in art, Amish woman, the AAUW, and numerous others. The work was featured on a float in the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade two weeks ago, shown below. Participants on the float represented various aspects of local women's involvement in the community and included several women honored throughout the year as Woman of the Month. Pictured above, left to right, are Club members Bobby Andersen, Anne Grant, Jackie Johnson, Martha Jachowski, and Dottie Cathel. The celebration will continue through December.

Additional Arrests Made Related To Recent Vandalism

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office reported the arrest of an Oakland man accused of being involved in a recent rash of vandalism throughout Oakland and Mtn Lake Park. Christopher A. Glotfelty, 20, has been charged with six counts of malicious destruction of property for his alleged involvement in the destruction of numerous car windows and business signs on the night of Oct. 9.

Another arrest has been made of an Oakland teenager on the strength of a criminal summons, according to the sheriff's office report.

The vandalism involved 20-25 victims in the local area, who discovered on the morning of Oct. 10 that their windshields and or back car windows had been shattered with rocks. The Oakland City Police Department has also assisted in the investigation.

The total loss in the incident is estimated to exceed $10,000, according to a police spokesperson.

PSI Ordered In Drug Possession/ Paraphernalia Case

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for an Oakland man last week who had been found guilty of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Terry A. Tasker, 31, was found guilty of those counts by sitting Judge Thomas Lohm, retired. Other charges of maintaining a drug nuisance location and petty theft were not prosecuted.

Stemming from that same case, Kimberly A. Taliaferro, 27, same address, was cleared of possession of marijuana, maintaining a drug nuisance, and possession of drug paraphernalia charges against her. She was found guilty of battery, however, and fined $100 and placed on six months of supervised probation. A fifth charge of resisting arrest was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Tasker and Taliaferro had both been arrested on May 19 after a court-ordered search and seizure warrant had been executed at their residence by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

Police indicated that the search revealed two suspected marijuana pipes, traces of marijuana and marijuana seeds in five separate areas of the house, one pack of rolling papers, and a number of unidentified white pills. Tasker was reportedly at the residence at the time of the search and Taliaferro arrived some two hours later and became combative with a police officer and resisted arrest. The theft charge against Tasker was lodged when a ladder at the residence belonging to the Wisp Resort was found and identified.

In other District Court news, Jackaon L. DeWitt Jr., 33, Oakland, was found not guilty of battery. That charge had been brought against him by Pamela K. DeWitt stemming from an August 18 incident in which she claimed he kicked her during an altercation.

Larry W. Gordon Sr., 46, Oakland, was found not guilty of violating a protective order. He had been charged with that offense by Judy A. Gordon who said Mr. Gordon came to her residence and refused to leave even after she reminded him that he was violating the court order not to enter her residence.

Gregory A. Sines, 18, Friendsville, was found not guilty of malicious destruction of property. He had been charged with that offense by the Maryland State Police following an August 3 incident in Friendsville, where Sines was arrested with a juvenile who had tampered with several fire hydrants and wasted town water. Sines was a passenger in the juvenile's vehicle.

Gary A. Ashby, 20, Oakland, was found guilty of violation of probation stemming from an earlier theft charge. The judge reimposed Ashby's previous one-year jail term. He was given 30 days credit for time already served.

Ashby had initially been charged with the theft of a large sign at the Durst Funeral Home in Oakland in 1991 and then failed to meet the conditions of his probation.

Phillip R. Wilburn, 22, Grantsville, was found guilty of violation of probation and his sentence was reimposed. The judge said he would permit Wilburn to do 20 hours of community service with the Grantsville Church of the Brethren before November 15 for his sentence.

Wilburn had been found guilty of making a false statement to police in earlier court proceedings and was later found to be in violation of his probation.

DWI CASES

Ronnie G. Guthrie, 19, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI (driving while intoxicated) and the judge granted probation before judgment. He was also fined $150 and placed on 12 months of supervised probation.

Guthrie was also found guilty of failure to keep right of center and fined $40 for that offense and of failure to display a registration card on demand for which he was fined $20. In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, charges of driving on a restricted license and failure to wear a seat belt were not prosecuted.

Dale Clatterbuck, 31, Md., was found guilty of DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol). He received a 10-day suspended jail term, was fined $500 ($425 suspended), and placed on six months of supervised probation.

LOAR AUXILIARY DONATES TO HOSPITAL - The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently made the first installment on a $50,000 pledge to the hospital. Pictured are members of the auxiliary and President Betty Pritt, shown presenting a $5,000 check to Benjamin Rosenthal, hospital president. According to Pritt, this installment will go toward the hospital's Foundation to further the endeavors of the facility. The Loar Auxiliary is a volunteer organization established shortly after the opening of the hospital. The auxiliary owns, operates, and supervises the hospital's gift shop and sponsors several fund-raising activities such as flea markets and bake sales for the benefit of the facility.

GCC Trustees Hear Report Of Calculus Workshop

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met October 19 and heard a report by Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, coordinator of mathematics, regarding a recent calculus workshop held at GCC for math instructors.

The workshop, titled 'Preparing All Students For Understanding Calculus," was held in September and the presenter was Dr. Martha Bilotti-Aliaga, mathematics instructor at the University of Michigan, according to Priselac.

The goal of the workshop was to provide participants with an active learning experience to assure that all students can be prepared to understand calculus.

Local school teachers who participated were John McBride, Don Lipscomb, Carol Slagle, Jim Zimmerman, Wade Grove, Bonnie Langan, Bill Carlson, Karen Thrasher, Christina Harvey, Jackie Noe, Jane Wildesen, Donna Durst, Judith Ramer, Matt Glotfelty, and Louise Grove.

Priselac said guests also attended from West Virginia University, Carnegie Mellon, Frostburg State University, the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Maryland, California University of Pennsylvania, Allegheny Community College, Pennsylvania State University - Erie, and Villanova University.

The program is integrated with the Tech Prep program now being used in Garrett County schools.

NEW TRUSTEE WELCOMED

The board also welcomed newly appointed board member, Sue Beachy, who will fill out the unexpired term of Marjorie Fratz, who died of cancer in August.

One position remains open on the board - the unexpired term of Suzanne Conger, who resigned last May to re-locate in North Carolina.

VISION 2004

GCC President Dr. Stephen Herman reported on the progress of the Vision 2004 Convention slated at the college on Friday, November 5.

Questionnaires have been sent out regarding a five-year strategic plan for the college. It is hoped that the convention will provide a basis for such a plan for the college.

ENROLLMENT

A record-setting enrollment for the fall semester was announced by Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell. She noted a head count of 720 students for the current semester, up 56 from last year. That results in an eight percent increase.

The FTE (full time equivalency), however, was down slightly because of the number of part time students registered.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Pat Welch reported that the college had to take out a short-term loan because of delayed payments from the state (Pell Grants). She said it was no cause for alarm and that the state had simply changed its schedule in sending out allocated funds.

She also indicated that current spending of the budget is at 18 percent, or seven percent below even spending.

GRANT RECEIVED

Dr. Herman told the board that a grant has been received from the Appalachian Regional Commission for $52,223 to complete the CAD Lab at the college. That money will purchase the second 10 computers needed for the lab.

The CAD Lab now provides a hook-up with Hagerstown Junior College for technical programs.

BOARD RETREAT

The Board of Trustees will hold its annual retreat on Friday at the home of Dr. Herman. The next public board meeting will be held November 16. Following Tuesday's meeting, Dr. Priselac guided a tour for the trustees in the math lab.

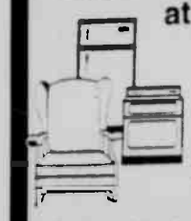
Backing Vehicle's Mirror Strikes Oakland Woman

An Oakland woman was treated and released Saturday from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson, after she was struck by the rearview mirror of a backing vehicle.

Evelyn M. McRobie, no age given, was reportedly struck by a 1992 Pontiac Grand Prix, operated by Glen D. Unger Jr., 27, Oakland. Tfc. D.W. Broadwater investigated the 8 a.m. mishap for the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, and said the mishap occurred when Unger was backing from a parking space at Treasure Island and failed to see McRobie, who was standing by her vehicle, and stuck McRobie with his rearview mirror.

Unger was charged in the incident. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported McRobie to the local hospital.

DWI ARRESTS



State police at McHenry also noted three DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and or drugs) arrests this past week.

Jason A. Lohr, 22, McKeesport, Pa., was charged with DWI on Saturday by Tfc. S.H. Anderson.

Brian L. Davis, 24, Oakland, was also charged Saturday with DWI by Tfc. J.K. Moore.

Moore arrested Frederick D. Sanders, 46, Oakland, on Tuesday and charged him with DWI.

Recycling Figures Up Considerably From Last Year

Director of the Office of Solid Waste and Recycling Rodney Glotfelty announced this week that the amount of solid waste being recycled in the county has increased from 1.3% to 8.7% since the last reporting period.

Glotfelty attributed that increase, in part, to an improved and more extensive reporting system wherein more individual recyclers are reporting the type and amount of items being recycled, and to the county's recycling efforts at the dumpsters, and, in particular, the newspapers being disposed of by county residents that are now routinely being collected and used by a farmer, who recently formalized his agreement with the county.

Glotfelty also reported that tires constitute the biggest weight item, at about 531 tons, and that cardboard comes in second, at about 333 tons.

More and more, said Glotfelty, his office is benefiting from improved cooperation from local businesses, as contacts have been expanded. "That cooperation is probably how we're going to be able to reach our goal," he said, adding that grocery stores have been contributing greatly to the recycling of cardboard.

He specifically named Food Lion in Oakland, the Grantsville and Oakland Foodlands, and the Accident and Mountain Lake Park IGAs.

The recycling goal set by the state is 15% for rural jurisdictions, to be achieved by July 1, 1994. If the local jurisdictions are unable to achieve their goals, the state has imposed certain penalties, including not allowing any building permits in the jurisdictions where goals are not being reached.

"Because of that," said Glotfelty, "it behooves us all to reach that goal."

NHS STUDENT SERVICE ALLIANCE HELPS OUT - Students from Northern High School's Student Service Alliance class spent the day of Oct. 19 working hard in Accident. Seven community agencies received help from the students in celebration of Maryland Youth Service Day. The community's Head Start Program, Town View Village, library, Flowery Vale Senior Center, fire hall, rescue squad, and town were all visited by the students who cleaned vehicles, as shown above, did yard work, decorated a day care center (below), and accomplished numerous other tasks. Barbara Law, the students' advisor, reported that the day turned out to be a great experience for all involved - both students and agencies. The working students included John Wilt, Hank Hughes, Shelley Frye, Lisa Stephens, Mike Kitzmiller, Jessica Perry, Kathy Yoder, Janet Hoover, Danielle Rodeheaver, Jessica Stripling, Debria Sisler, Amy Umbel, Crystal Bradshaw, and Vicki Sukow.

In his efforts to hear from as many businesses as possible that are recycling, Glotfelty has asked that anyone not contacted by his office, call him at 334-9337 to report recycling activities.

Glotfelty also stated that manning and fencing the areas of the county's dumpster sites is being pursued by his office as a "high priority," and may be accomplished as early as next spring.

He also reported that work at the new landfill is progressing, with the completion of the maintenance building, the installation of liners, and a scale house being installed.

Leaf Disposal Guidelines Set By Health Dept.

The Garrett County Health Department has issued guidelines for local residents who are in the process of disposing of leaves accumulating on the ground, warning that burning the leaves is prohibited by Maryland Air Pollution regulations where collection service is available.

"Burning often seems to be an easy alternative for solving this dilemma," stated Walter Haydel, health department representative. He explained that the smoke from burning leaves contains a high concentration (about one pound of air pollutants for every five pounds of leaves burned) of such pollutants as hydrocarbons, particulate matter, and carbon monoxide.

Pollutants resulting from leaf burning can greatly aggravate the condition of persons suffering from respiratory disorders, and can cause eye and nose irritations, fever, coughing, and cramps in a healthy person. The pollutants can also cause house paint to deteriorate, retard plant growth, injure shrubbery, increase laundry and cleaning costs, and generally deteriorate the air quality, according to Haydel.

Leaf collection is available in the county's municipalities, and the guidelines follow:

Accident will accept bagged leaves, but residents must call the town manager at 746-8060 for the pick-up schedule.

Deer Park will collect bagged leaves beginning October 25 and continuing every Monday until November 22.

Friendsville will be collecting leaves with a vacuum machine, but leaves must be raked to the curb side. Bagged leaves will also be collected with the regular solid waste collection.

Grantsville will accept bagged leaves with the regular solid waste collection.

Loch Lynn will collect leaves raked to the curb side using a vacuum machine on Saturdays.

Mountain Lake Park has not yet finalized its collection schedule, but will probably accept leaves raked to the curb side or bagged, according to Haydel. Residents are asked to watch for a schedule to be published in an upcoming issue of the newspaper.

Oakland will collect leaves raked to the curb side or bagged for regular Friday collection.

Residents in other municipalities or those individuals served by private collection services in unincorporated areas of the county should check with their contractors to determine if and when they will accept leaves for collection.

Residents in areas where there are too many leaves to be collected or where no collection is available should investigate using leaves for mulching, erosion control, and compost piles. It may also be possible to use mechanical mulching equipment to chop up the leaves. These processes return needed nutrients to the soil, while efficiently eliminating the leaves.

The Cooperative Extension Service (334-1990) and Environmental Health Services (334-8980) has information on composting.

Should collection be unavailable and other means of leaf disposal be ineffective, leaves originating on the premise may be burned by householders between the hours of 4 p.m. and midnight. The fire may not be closer than 200 feet to the nearest neighboring residence and may not create a nuisance, stated Haydel.

Although it is not necessary to obtain a permit from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) or from the Garrett County Health Department, the following DNR regulations must be followed: The fire must be at least 200 feet from wooded areas, a 10-foot wide fire break must surround the fire, and a responsible person should remain on the scene until the fire is completely extinguished. Haydel added that it is also important to contact Garrett County Central Alarm at 334-1929 prior to burning leaves.

Sheriff's Office Notes Arrests

Various arrests were logged this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. A car accident causing minor injuries was also investigated.

A McKeesport, Pa., man was arrested at 4 a.m. Sunday for DWI (driving while intoxicated) after Cpr. L. Gnegy observed him operating his vehicle the wrong way on a one-way street. Arrested was Ludwig V. Ditson, 23.

Gnegy had apparently given the defendant directions a short time before the arrest when Ditson was looking for the Garrett County Jail. He was attempting to pick up a friend who had been charged with DWI earlier the same evening, according to the report. When Gnegy saw him driving the wrong way on Alder Street, he pulled him over and at that time detected the odor of alcohol on the defendant.

A check through the sheriff's office computer revealed that Ditson was driving with a suspended license. During processing for the DWI and traffic charge, officers also located suspected marijuana in the defendant's pocket. He was subsequently charged for possession of a controlled dangerous substance, according to the report.

A West Virginia man was arrested on the strength of a fugitive from justice warrant. Ernest Blosser, 28, Reedsville, W.Va., was wanted in West Virginia for conspiracy to distribute marijuana, according to the officer's report. He was taken into custody by Lt. P. Pratt on Oct. 22.

Stephen F. Durst, 40, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants, according to police reports. He apparently failed to appear in court to face theft charges.

Puzzled and Suspicious...

A glaring example of placing one's personal, political agenda ahead of what is in the best interest of the public seems to be emanating from the Garrett County Commissioners' Office this week.

We are referring to the actions of Commissioner Elwood Groves concerning the Board of Education's proposal to consolidate the Red House and Loch Lynn elementary schools.

A special committee, which included representation from the commissioners' office, carefully studied the issue of consolidation of the two schools versus the option of repairing or replacing the present two school buildings, both of which are in near deplorable condition and grossly inadequate in terms of space. Also on that committee were the principals of both schools, teachers, and parent representatives from both communities.

After carefully considering all aspects of the situation and keeping the welfare of the students and families involved at the forefront of that consideration, the committee unanimously agreed that consolidation was the best recommendation. But when that recommendation was proposed to the commissioners this week, Mr. Groves basically disagreed and requested more information as to the costs of repairing or replacing the two schools. He stated that it was his feeling that the community schools should be preserved and that there is "a tendency for the Board of Education to look strictly at cost efficiency...there's got to be other factors considered when considering education."

The fact that Groves disagreed with the board's recommendation is not the major issue here; it is his totally uncharacteristic response that has us extremely puzzled and suspicious. We laughed out loud when we heard the quote in the preceding paragraph, a quote coming from a man whom we regard as the champion of considering only the bottom line when it comes to expenditures of county funds. Mr. Groves knows that the renovation of the old schools is next to impossible and that the building of two new schools would cost at least twice as much as the building of one school.

We ask the following questions: Why are you just now, at the 11th hour, voicing your opposition to the recommendation? Why didn't your representative on the committee make your position known? Does it have anything to do with the fact that the committee's recommendation does not require building the new school in the town of Loch Lynn, your home town? Isn't it true that you are really in favor of the consolidation as long as the new school is built in Loch Lynn? Do you understand why the board of education supervisory staff was absolutely flabbergasted when, after years of trying to squeeze extra money out of the county budget for school improvements, you are the one who suddenly suggests construction of two new schools? Why are you suddenly willing to consider spending enormous amounts of money when your record of performance to date is just the opposite? Why have you been consistently in opposition to bonding authority for the Board of Education, but are now ready to consider spending huge sums of money to rebuild two schools, which would certainly require the floating of bonds?

If Commissioner Groves cares to respond to these questions in writing, we will be glad to provide the space for his answers on this page.

P.S. Did you ever pay back the county money you used for your own out-of-state, higher education -- money that is reserved for the benefit of "permanent, fulltime county employees?"

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor

As you have read, the Broad Ford P.T.A. has undertaken a project to make our playground safe and more enjoyable for our children. Our project is currently on its way completed due to so many people who have volunteered to join our efforts. It has been so encouraging for me to see that if people band together with a vision, the impossible can be accomplished.

First we would like to publicly thank the following people:

- The director of Head Start, Jean Tressler, and Duane Yoder for donating three pieces of their equipment and the National Guard for moving these play structures.

- Dan Clark and Steve Kisner's carpentry and agriculture students for building and filling mulch beds, getting wood chips, painting and staining equipment, and putting the spiral slide together. Their work was productive and proficient and their eagerness to do any task was something to be admired. We also appreciate the powers that be who gave permission for the students to come during school hours to put their developing skills into practice.

- The parents and teachers of Broad Ford who have been active in the fund-raising and especially the work aspect of our project. Fund-raising is no easy matter in this economy and the payments generosity and support has been terrific. In addition, we have had some of the hardest workers come to our workdays, many of whom went to a lot of trouble to arrange to come and many who took off work the Friday of Autumn Glory and worked all day putting in our new equipment and finishing the safety phase of our project. These parents are irreplaceable and vital to the success of this project.

- A special thank you from the P.T.A. officers to our custodian Richard DeWitt for his efforts that have been immeasurable to his project and whose help exceeds the call of duty. We also appreciate "Boots" DeWitt for using his backhoe to back fill the playground.

Secondly, we would like to recognize the following businesses and their type of support.

- Beachy Lumber Company for your ongoing support and accommodation on our work days.

- Green Acres for your discount on the mulch bed landscaping materials.

- Southern States for the donated grass seed and straw to be used this spring and lending us stakes and plastic to keep children off equipment until it was safe.

- Sisler Lumber and Wood Products for the donated wood chips for our mulch beds.

- Allegany Welding for saving the day with the seesaws and giving us a big discount on your efforts and digging extra holes.

- Tri-State Paving who drilled the holes for the new equipment as well as painting hopscotch and four square games on the pavement.

- Christian Brothers Painting - for advice and painting two of our pieces of existing equipment.

- Garrett Mines Supply for donating mine belts to be placed under the swings.

- Oak-Lee Dairyland - (the custard stand) for selling candy bars during Autumn Glory.

- Clipper Ship for selling candy bars after Autumn Glory.

- Fitzwater Furniture for donating an item to be used at our discretion.

- Grand Central Station for donating items to be sold at our yard sale.

Lastly, we are so grateful to the following organizations, companies, and individuals who have donated or pledged monetary support to our cause: Bausch and Lomb, B.G.S.G., Buffalo Coal, Holmes Safety Association, Mettiki Coal Corporation, Men's Recreation Basketball, Mrs. Deborah Stuck, and Wayne's Water and Wells.

Thank you for all of your assistance toward our goal. Meanwhile, I urge the community to come visit our playground and enjoy the fruits of our labor.

Sincerely,
Linda Stephens
Playground Chairman
Broad Ford School

P.S. Oh yes, and thanks to The Republican for providing front page coverage and the space to publish this letter.

To the Editor:

We would like to bring to your attention and ask that you publicly recognize the many people of Garrett and Allegany counties who assisted in the search for two young girls lost in the woods of the Savage River State Forest. We were amazed at the outpouring of support from our agencies and individuals throughout the entire ordeal.

Late Monday afternoon, October 18, two girls, ages 8 and 9, ran away from one of our homes. They wandered into the woods and then became lost. We notified the Maryland State Police that the girls were missing, and we immediately received help from both the police and the Maryland Rangers.

Evening and night search parties found nothing except two bears in the forest. Rangers John Frank, from New Germany State Park, and Rick Lewis, from Savage River State Forest, stayed all night to run the command operations and continue searching. Joe Stevens, also from New Germany, stayed until 2:30 a.m. and then returned at 7:30 a.m. Other Rangers arrived from New Germany State Park, Deep Creek Lake State Park, Savage River State Forest, Potomac Garrett State Forest and Herrington Manor State Forest. They were joined by DNR Police from the Billmeyer Work Center in Flintstone and the Mt. Nebo Forestry Service and the Cumberland Forestry Service. We were particularly grateful for the assistance of DNR Public Communications Officer Gary Yoder in handling the press and media.

At least eight officers from the McHenry Barracks of the Maryland State Police were involved in the operation as well as officers from the Cumberland Barracks. The search operation was directed by State Police Major W. Raymond Presley, Western Troop Commander, and Lt. Charles Hinnant, commander of Barrack W at McHenry. The K9-1 unit with bloodhound was here from Jessup. Troopers Rodeheaver and Tindal remained all night to continue the effort. Also a part of the search was Trooper 5 (Medevac Helicopter) and its night vision equipment from the Maryland State Police Aviation Division in Cumberland. The Western Maryland Specialized Crime Scene Search Team arrived from Allegany County. Our thanks to the communicators back in the barracks who handled all of the phone calls and information exchanges.

When the call went out for persons to assist in the search parties, the people of this area responded overwhelmingly. Many took off work or closed their businesses to come. At least 50 volunteers from the local fire companies responded. Represented were: Grantsville, Eastern Garrett-Finzel, Accident, Bittinger, Swanton, Deer Park, Oakland, Lonaconing, Frostburg, Clarysville and Corriganville. The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Frostburg Ambulance Service were here on standby to treat the girls if needed and to assist in the search. Calls for help were placed on local radio stations, and private citizens unrelated to volunteer organizations also came to lend a

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

TARGETING MARYLAND'S HIGH SCHOOL DROPOUTS
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

Recently, I had the opportunity to meet some determined you men and women participating in a 17-month program designed to reshape and retrain unemployed high school dropouts. Called "Operation Challenge," Maryland is one of 10 states to offer the federally-funded effort, which is part of President Clinton's "Rebuilt America" program.

Currently, about 80 young men and women from all over the state are nearly four weeks into the Challenge program's first five-month resident curriculum being coordinated by the Maryland National Guard at Aberdeen Proving Ground in Harford County. Along with playing a key role in our nation's defense and Maryland's ability to respond quickly to a disaster, we have also relied on the guard to help us with such important efforts as fighting the war against drugs and making sure all school-aged children in Maryland are immunized. Now through the Challenge program, the Maryland National Guard is offering a second chance to some of Maryland's teen-aged dropouts.

I have become increasingly concerned about the number of young people dropping out of school. Last year in Maryland, over five percent of Maryland's students chose to leave school before their high school graduation. While five percent may not sound alarming, any young person who drops out of school is one too many. In today's fast-paced, high-tech world, a good education is more important than ever. High school dropouts enter adult life far behind their peers. And, too often, there isn't a second chance to catch up. You don't need to look any further than our jails to see the consequences of dropping out of school, about 80 percent of prison inmates never completed high school.

Although militarily-structured and housed on a U.S. Army post, the program is not to be confused with a "boot camp" for juvenile offenders; every Maryland Youth Corps member is a volunteer, is drug-free and is not facing criminal charges.

The Challenge Program is also not a summer camp. While students are not asked to join the military, they are expected to accept some military discipline. Corps members wear special uniforms, start each day early, and march to classes that will prepare them for the state's high school equivalency test. They also learn computer skills and basic life skills such as driving a car, balancing a check book, and completing job applications. Hiking, camping and community projects, including assisting the visually impaired and cleaning up parks, are also an important part of the curriculum.

For many, the change of scenery and a more disciplined environment may be enough to get back on track. Others may need to rely more on the available tutoring to improve reading, writing and math skills. Whatever the case, a dedicated, professional staff, many of whom are current or former members of the Maryland National Guard, is available to help corps members help themselves.

The rewards for successfully completing the Challenge program are great, including eligibility for a G.E.D., a driver's license and a $2,200 stipend for further education. The Maryland Guards' guidance continues after graduation as well. Each Corps member is assigned a mentor from their local community to be a friend and role model as part of a 12-month follow-up program.

The Challenge Program also works hand-in-hand with my "Partners in Prevention" initiative, which focuses state government resources on averting problems before they develop. In this case, the Maryland National Guard is working to prevent some of the despair and frustration high school dropouts commonly face, as well as prevent juvenile crime and drug abuse.

I am proud of Maryland's first Challenge youth corps class. They are currently proving that Maryland's dropouts are truly worth this second chance.

For more information about the Challenge Program, including the next class which is scheduled to begin in February, contact the Maryland National Guard at (410) 278-4541 or toll-free at (800) 820-6692. If you have other ideas on how we can help our young people achieve a bright future, please write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Recycling At The White Bins
by Donna Aspinall

How are we doing in our recycling habits or habits-to-be? Besides depositing recyclables in their correct sections of the white bins, some of us are not paying very close attention to the condition or type of our deposits. Here's what one recent trip to a white bin revealed, in addition to the right materials in their respective sections:

In the brown glass bin were clear glass, newsprint, plastic bags, and bees; in the green glass bin were plastic bags, plastic and metal rings on bottles, metal caps and lids, and bees; in the clear glass bin were paper and plastic bags, metal rings, metal caps and lids, and bees; in the steel aluminum cans bin were paper and plastic bags, one-gallon plastic container, and bees, and in the newspaper bin were paper and plastic bags, shiny inserts, and bundles of paper bags.

Bees around the area pose a nuisance to all and a health threat to some. Making sure all food and beverage containers are rinsed out would eliminate this problem.

Neither paper and plastic bags nor any boxes should be put in the glass and can sections. Why? Because when the entire bin is upended for emptying, the recyclables mix with the wrappings, resulting in trash, which has to be resorted. (This costs the recycler in time and effort, which costs money in any business.) Paper bags or twine can be used for newspapers, but plastic should not be put in any sections of the white bins. Instead, clean plastic bags (and paper bags, too) can be recycled at Food Lion, reused for household trash, reused for groceries at Foodland, or donated to the Nearly New thrift shop in Oakland. Dispose of dirty bags in the trash.

Plastic and metal rings, caps and lids are still being left on some of the containers. These, too, cause a load of recyclables to become trash unless someone's time and effort are expended to remove them. This should be done prior to putting them in the bin. The metal should be recycled with the cans, of course.

Remember that Garrett County cannot yet recycle plastic containers of any type, light bulbs, glass or ceramic tableware and cookware, mirrors, and window glass.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

School Improvement Teams

Individual school improvement teams, chaired by the respective principals, have been the focus of each school's improvement efforts. These teams are actually required by bylaw which will be officially adopted by the Maryland State Board of Education in November.

The teams are composed of teachers and parents. The high school teams also include student members. They are charged to complete an in-depth study of research relating to practices and techniques to improve all students' performance.

Each team develops and adopts an improvement plan which evaluates goals and objectives for a given school year or years. The results of these efforts are published annually, and each year each school repeats the analysis and goal-setting process.

The local board of education sponsored a training session for each team to review their decisions about team organization; to see the development of their plans in an annual cycle and to improve the dynamics of the teams. This event took place Oct. 1 at Garrett Community College and will be followed by a training session in the spring of 1994.

More specifically, the teams look at the data-based areas that are the heart of the Maryland School Performance Program. These include the functional testing program, MSPAP criterion-referenced tests, attendance rates, drop-out rates and promotion rates, and several pieces of supporting information, such as mobility rates and first graders with kindergarten experience.

Each team also reviews a set of goals adopted by the Garrett County Board of Education. The indicators to show progress toward these goals include such items as norm-referenced test data that compare local performance to a national group of students, and the percentage of parents involved in various programs.

A critical factor to be considered in the attempt to promote school improvement is school climate. Climate is defined as the norms, beliefs, and feelings that are reflected in the instructional practices and behavioral patterns of the school's operation, including the physical attributes of the school, satisfaction and morale of students and staff, and their productivity and achievement.

True validation will come from the public when students are thinking better, producing better products, working in groups successfully, applying communication skills and becoming better prepared for the job market or higher education.

The annual school report card that is released each November is used by school staffs and improvement teams to help them improve activities. Each team can analyze its school's reports with other school information to determine where to focus resources and energies. If teams look closely at the information, they will see there is reason for celebration, as well as ample work ahead.

The desired goals for the school improvement process are twofold: 1) to change outcomes in student learning and 2) to create a school culture for school improvement. To reach these goals, discernable, describable change in the schools and school system will be necessary in staff beliefs and attitudes, instructional practice, and level of collaboration within the school and the school system.

School improvement takes time, time, and more time. It is, in reality, a plan of action which supersedes a workshop! Its hallmarks are patience, endurance, and a cycle of affirm/adjust/renew/begin again. It takes three to five years for changes to begin to appear of a substantive nature. There are exceptions. But these exceptions are the exception, and not the rule.

School Improvement Planning is, in essence, a master plan for improving all facets of school operation in order to produce excellent achievement for all students.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of Nov. 1-5 is as follows:

Day 1 - Tossed salad, lasagna/beef tomato sauce, pears, garlic bread, Neopolitan ice cream.

Day 2 - Fruit cocktail, oven fried chicken, baked potato, broccoli w/cheese, biscuit, orange sherbet/cookies.

Milk, coffee, and tea are served with all meals.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 746-8824; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-2848; Starner Hill Apts., Grantsville, 895-5092; Jennings Community Building, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Mtn. Lake Park, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

Rev. Leitzel To Be Speaker For Special Service

Rev. Celo V. Leitzel, a Lutheran pastor from Selinsgrove, Pa., will be the guest preacher at the Mountaintop Reformation Festival worship service, slated for this Sunday, Oct. 31, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland.

Officially retired since 1987, Rev. Leitzel currently serves as interim pastor of Arbogast's-Leininger's Lutheran Parish, Mt. Pleasant Hills, Pa. Nearly all of his 45 years in the ordained ministry have been spent in rural and small-town settings.

A native of Richfield, Pa., Rev. Leitzel is a summa cum laude graduate of Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove. He earned his theology degree from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, where he was ordained in 1948, and where he served as a teaching fellow for five years. In 1953 he assumed the pastorate of the Muddy Creek Lutheran Parish in Lancaster County. Five years later he accepted a call to the Wolf's Crossroads Parish near Sunbury, Pa. During his tenure there the three congregations of the parish merged to form the United Lutheran Church, Sunbury.

Rev. Leitzel became pastor of First Lutheran Church, Selinsgrove, in 1965 and was actively involved in its merger with Trinity Lutheran Church, Selinsgrove, in 1971 to form Sharon Lutheran Church. He and the late Rev. J. Allen Snyder together pastored Sharon Lutheran until 1974, when he accepted a call to the four-point Eastern Snyder County Lutheran Parish. From 1981 to 1987 he served the two-point Salem Lutheran Parish near Selinsgrove.

For six semesters Rev. Leitzel was a lecturer in Bible at Susquehanna University. He also served as dean of the Sunbury District of the former Central Pennsylvania Synod (LCA) and as dean of the Middle Creek Conference of the current Upper Susquehanna Synod (ELCA). In addition, Leitzel has chaired the Snyder County Board of Assistance, served as a member of the Pennsylvania Governor's Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse, and served as president of the Selinsgrove Ministerium.

In June of this year, Rev. Leitzel was honored by the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia as the first recipient of the Henry Melchior Muhlenberg Medal. This award was established to recognize "exemplary service in the ordained ministry in congregations and campus ministries." The creation of this annual award was announced in the fall of 1992 as part of the seminary's commemoration of the 250th anniversary of Rev. Muhlenberg's ministry in North America.

The Muhlenberg Medal, which is held in the same high esteem as an honorary doctorate degree, was awarded to Rev. Leitzel by the seminary's board of trustees in recognition of his years of service to the church in rural and small town settings. According to the medal selection committee, Leitzel's years in this setting "have been marked by his dedication to the Gospel as understood from the perspective of the Lutheran confessional theology. This has found expression in his effective preaching, his Biblical teaching, his encouragement of others, both parishioners and colleagues in the ministry, and his personal witness."

Rev. Leitzel and his wife, the former Doris Snyder, of Richfield, Pa., have two sons and two daughters. Their oldest son, Lowell, is the French teacher at Southern High School and an active member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

The theme of the Oct. 31 Reformation service is "Reformation and Renewal - Rooted in the Gospel." Local pastors who will also participate in the Holy Communion service are: Rev. Louise Knotts, of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish; Rev. Stephen Yelovich, of the Accident-Friendsville Parish; and Rev. Paul Poerschke, of St. John's Lutheran in Davis, W.Va. There will be special music by a joint choir representing several local Lutheran congregations.

The congregation of St. Mark's invites all to attend the service.

NATIONAL HEALTH CARE AND PHARMACY WEEKS PROCLAIMED - This week, Oct. 24-30, was proclaimed both the National Health Care Quality Week and the National Pharmacy Week. The Garrett County Commissioners endorsed the proclamations with local affiliates Tuesday. Pictured above, standing left to right, are Cindy Welch, pharmacist; John Newton, pharmacist; Peggy Spaid, pharmacy technician; and Heidi Lueking, director of the department of pharmacy services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Organizers of National Pharmacy Week urge all consumers to recognize the efforts and accomplishments of pharmacists across the country to improve the nation's health care reform. See separate story. Pictured below with Garrett County Commissioners Brenda Butscher, Elwood Groves, and John Brasket is Bette Welch, director of quality assurance/risk management at Garrett Memorial. National Health Care Week is in recognition of health care quality professionals efforts to achieve the highest possible standards of health care quality and to assist in the nation's health care reform.

Nat'l Health Care Quality Week Is Recognized

Celebrations of National Health Care Quality Week will take place at health care facilities around the country October 24-30.

"Health care reform is a major topic of national discussion right now, and quality week helps us remind everyone how critically important it is to keep the quality in health care," said Claire M. Dunn, president of the National Association for Health Care Quality (NAHQ).

"Healthcare organizations are increasingly embracing continuous quality improvement -- CQI -- as an essential objective for every level of employee and every physician," stated Bette Welch, director of quality assurance risk management at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "This means focusing attention, time, and effort to meeting internal and external customer expectations. It also means knowing who our customers are, tuning in to their needs and expectations, establishing processes for soliciting customer feedback, monitoring performance, and then using this information to execute corrective action."

NAHQ sponsors Quality Week to increase public awareness of the important role of quality in health care. The week also celebrates the many accomplishments of health care quality professionals across the country.

In addition to having the special week proclaimed by the Garrett County Commissioners, Garrett Memorial has invited Clara Jean Ersoz, M.D., to speak at a luncheon for the hospital's medical staff and board members on October 29. The topic for discussion will be "Managing Complex Change -- Preparing for Health Care Reform, Process Quality Management."

Ersoz, who is vice president of medical affairs at Saint Clair Memorial Hospital in Pittsburgh, has served on the clinical faculty for the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations for which she taught advanced strategies for medical staff leadership.

"We are in the business of caring. Anything less than a demonstrated commitment to high-quality performance by ourselves and Garrett County Memorial Hospital is a disservice to all our customers," said Welch.

NAHQ promotes the continuous improvement of quality in health care by providing educational and professional development opportunities to quality managers at all levels.

For more information, persons may fax, call, or write National Association for Health Care Quality, 5700 Old Orchard Road, First Floor, Skokie, IL 60077-1057, phone (708) 966-9418.

National Pharmacy Week Noted By Garrett Memorial

Garrett County Memorial Hospital's pharmacy service is observing National Pharmacy Week, October 24-30, by urging the public to talk to their pharmacists about their medications.

"Following the pharmacist's advice can both save money for consumers, and help lower the nation's health care bill by ensuring the safe and effective use of medications. Not following a medicine's instructions or discontinuing its use without your doctor's advice can lead to a more expensive treatment, such as surgery or hospitalization," explained Heidi Lueking, director of the department of pharmacy services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"Many times patients don't take the selection and use of over-the-counter medications seriously," said Lowell J. Andersen, APhA president. "Over-the-counter products are still very powerful, can cause side effects, and can adversely interact with prescription medications. Consumers should seek the advice of a pharmacist to ensure they understand what they're taking."

"When the patient keeps the pharmacist up-to-date on all prescription and over-the-counter medications being taken and asks important questions, the pharmacist can monitor the patient's treatment and help guarantee a healthy result," said Lueking. "Pharmacists are always available to talk with consumers about their medicines and I encourage all patients to talk with their personal pharmacist about any questions they may have about their medicines."

The American Pharmaceutical Association, the national professional society of pharmacists, represents the third-largest health profession, composed of more than 170,000 pharmacy practitioners, pharmaceutical scientists, and pharmacy students. Since its founding in 1852, APhA has been a leader in the professional and scientific advancement of pharmacy and in safeguarding the well-being of the individual patient, a spokesperson said.

Mtn. Laurel Garden Club Holds Its First Flower Show

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club held its first flower show on October 19 at the home of Ruth Jackson in Oakland. Chairpersons of the show, Nina Adams and Dawn Tritch, chose the theme, "Return to Loveliness," and coordinated every detail of the show, from the music to the catered luncheon, to reflect that theme.

Judges for the show were Martha Smith, past president of the National Council of the State Garden Clubs, and Mildred Caperton, a long-time member of garden clubs.

A spokesperson for the local club noted that the flower show was officially a non-standard show, since it was felt that the less stringent requirements would encourage more first-timers to participate. Many persons in the community expressed interest in attending the show, but the consensus of the garden club was that the members were more likely to submit different entries if the first show was private.

The show was composed of two divisions with a total of five classes, each with specific requirements. The judges awarded first, second, and third place ribbons in each class, along with a best of show ribbon for the entry with the highest number of points.

The best of show entry was presented by the chairpersons to Ruth Jackson for hosting the show in her home. Those present said they felt the first effort was a "triumph" and they were appreciative of the judges' comments on their efforts.

Plans are now being made for a second show that may be open to the public.

Crime Watch Meeting Slated In Oakland

A Crime Watch meeting will be held in Oakland at the Municipal Building in the council chambers on Saturday, November 6, at 5 p.m.

Oakland City Chief of Police John K. Sines is urging all interested persons to attend and learn more about how neighbors can help neighbors in preventing or reporting crime.

Eastern Star Trip Scheduled

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, is organizing a trip to New York City, slated for Dec. 3-5. Persons planning to participate must have their money in no later than November 3.

According to Betty Foy, coordinator, there is still room on the bus. Persons wishing to go should mail checks made out to Oakland Chapter 67 to her at 203 Oak Street, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. Prices are: $296 per person double occupancy; $268 per person for three per room, and $257 per person for four per room.

HOUSE FOR SALE - The playhouse shown above, as it appeared in the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade recently, is for sale to benefit Habitat for Humanity. Don Little, building coordinator for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity built the playhouse to be sold in honor of children who are now living in a Habitat house. Little stated that the playhouse would make a great gift for a child or a nice donation to a church or day care center. Since 1983, Habitat for Humanity has built 24 homes with number 25 near completion. When "25" is dedicated, there will be 114 people living in better housing conditions. Of the 114 persons, 68 are children. The playhouse measures five feet by nine feet and is six feet high. The interior walls are drywalled and four of the five windows open. The front door does not open, but there is a side entrance. Persons interested in placing a bid on the house may contact Barbara Briggs at 301-334-9431, ext. 121. Bidding will begin at $1,100. The house is displayed on U.S. Rt. 219, just north of Oakland. The deadline for placing a bid is December 1.

Gabriele Says Change Clock, Change Battery

One day before the time change, fire departments throughout the State of Maryland will sound the alarm -- literally -- on smoke detector neglect as part of this year's "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" campaign.

"Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" is a national home fire safety campaign sponsored by the International Association of Fire Chiefs and Energizer batteries. The campaign theme urges all citizens to adopt a lifesaving habit changing smoke detector batteries when they change their clocks back from daylight saving time each fall.

During the evening of Saturday, October 30, fire departments throughout Maryland and across the country will activate emergency sirens to signal residents to check and change the smoke detector batteries in their homes.

Citizens are also being urged to conduct the country's fire national fire safety drill during "Operation Check and Change."

"Working smoke detectors cut the risk of dying in home fire by nearly 50 percent, by providing an early warning and critical extra seconds to escape," stated Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele. "Although smoke detectors are in the majority of Maryland homes, it is estimated that nearly 1/3 do not work because of worn out or missing batteries."

In addition to changing smoke detector batteries, the fire marshal recommends that Marylanders take a few other fire safety measures including checking the smoke detector itself by pushing the test button, changing their flashlight batteries, and planning "two ways out" and practicing these escape routes with the entire family.

For more information about fire safety and operation "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery," citizens are asked to contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at 1-800-525-3124, or their local fire departments.

Dance For Heart Event Set For Nov. 13 At SHS

The American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division is inviting area residents to participate in an Aerobic Dance for Heart event on Saturday, November 13, at Southern High School, from 6-10 p.m.

The four-hour dance extravaganza is being sponsored by Brenda Brosnihan of Brenda's Body Shop in Oakland to raise funds for the American Heart Association's cardiovascular research and education programs.

"The American Heart Association is very excited about the event and encourages everyone to attend," said Wendell Beitzel, development chairman. "We are also thrilled that Brenda Brosnihan is supervising the event. She is an excellent, award-winning instructor who will provide Dance for Heart participants with a fun and energizing workout."

Beitzel noted that dance studios, recreation facilities, spas, health and exercise clubs participate in Dance for Heart as part of a nationwide effort to fight heart disease and stroke. Dancers collect donations from friends, relatives, and co-workers, and they can win prizes based on the amount of money collected.

Dance for Heart demonstrates dance-exercise as a benefit to cardiovascular health and the AHA. Brosnihan stated, "Dance-exercise is a popular activity because it emphasizes fun and fitness. Participation isn't limited by age, sex, or shape, so anyone can try it. Through Dance for Heart, we have the opportunity to help in the fight against heart and blood vessel diseases, as well as show that dance-exercise is fun, easy, and heart-healthy."

Since it began in 1982-83, over a million men, women, and children have danced and exercised in Dance for Heart events throughout the country. Their efforts have raised millions of dollars to help fight heart disease.

Persons desiring additional information about the Dance for Heart event may call the American Heart Association at 1-800-734-3769 in Garrett County or at 301-724-4011 in Allegany County.

Lutheran Braille Workers To Celebrate 50 Years; Benefit Dinner Set Nov. 6

The annual turkey dinner held by local Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 will be a special one this year as the National Lutheran Braille Workers are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary. The dinner will be held at the Northern Middle School cafetorium on Saturday, November 6, from 4:30 until 7 p.m.

The beginnings of Lutheran Braille Workers were a result of a young blind divinity student, Fred Graepp, who lost his sight in an industrial accident and wished to continue his studies. He learned braille through a Salvation Army program and set out to bring the gospel to other blind people.

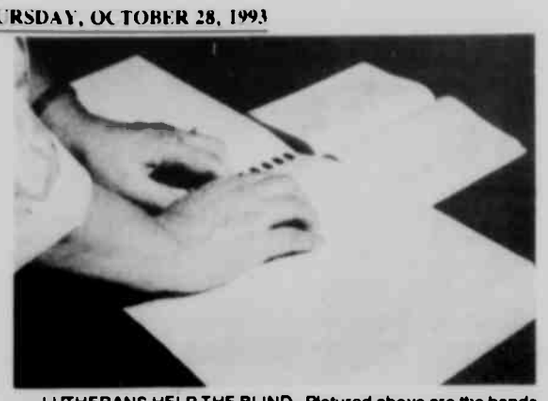
Unable to find much Christian braille material, Graepp placed a tiny ad in the May 1942 edition of The Lutheran Witness asking for Christian books that could be transcribed into Braille for the blind.

From Graepp and a few others - notably Helene L. Koehler, LBW's first executive director - the organization grew to more than 7,000 volunteers. It has a yearly budget of $1 million, the bulk of which comes from $5 and $10 donations.

In each of the last five years, LBW has produced 750,000 pieces of braille and large-print literature in 43 languages, including Bibles. It has standing requests for Bibles in a number of other languages, particularly those of the fragmented republics of the former Soviet Union.

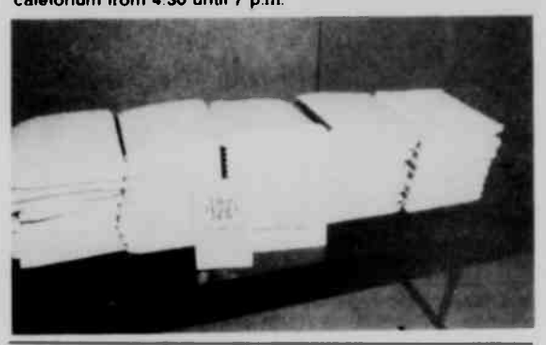
All the materials are provided free of charge to 1,300 organizations serving the blind in 120 countries and another 2,000 organizations in North America, according to LBW Executive Director LeRoy Delafosse. He indicated that nearly 75 percent of LBW's income is spent on production costs, mostly for paper.

Lutheran Braille Workers are volunteers (85 percent of whom are over age 65) and work in work centers in the United States, Canada, and Brazil.



The local Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 began operation on April 1, 1984. It is located in the parish house of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident.

Volunteers from the five Lutheran churches of the area operate the work center. From the beginning, the Gospel of St. John in the Swahili language was produced and is still being produced. Also, 1,000 books of the Gospel of St. Luke in the Burmese language were produced during that period.



The work center is an ongoing endeavor to spread the Word of God in braille to the blind.

Each year, a benefit dinner is held to help with purchasing supplies for the work center. Aid Association for Lutherans branches of the area lend their support with matching funds.

The public is encouraged to attend the November 6 dinner to support the work of the Lutheran Braille Work Center. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12.

LUTHERANS HELP THE BLIND - Pictured above are the hands of a blind person, whose fingertips glide across the embossed Word of God. Lutheran Braille Workers produces Biblical Books of the Bible in over 40 languages. Below are 40 braille books, representing 40 volumes of Dios Habla Hoy, the Spanish Braille Bible that Lutheran Braille Workers has in partial production. Local Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 aids in the production of Christian braille materials and holds a turkey dinner each year to help offset costs of materials, especially paper. The dinner is set for November 6 this year at Northern Middle School cafetorium from 4:30 until 7 p.m.

OUTREACH PARTICIPATES IN HEART FEST - The Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Team joined the American Heart Association and numerous other national sponsors during the month of October to participate locally in Heart Fest. The promotional program focuses on the health benefits of diets low in saturated fats and cholesterol to combat high blood cholesterol, a major risk factor of heart attacks. The seven-member Outreach team joined Amy Ritchie and Ann Sherrard, dietitians for the Health Department, and Wendy Wakefield, dietitian for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in distributing information to area residents on "How to Shop Smart to Save Your Heart." The booklets contained healthy eating tips and information on the new food label that will be required on all products by May of 1994. Coupons for a variety of low-fat, nutritious foods were also available for visitors to the Heart Fest information tables. Heart Fest began at seven local markets on October 11 and will continue throughout the month. Local supporters of the program include Accident IGA, Browning's Foodland, Food Lion, Grantsville Foodland, Mtn. Lake Park IGA, S&S Market, and the Tailgate Market in Oakland. Volunteers also participated in a senior health fair held October 18. National sponsors were Healthy Choice, Quaker Oatmeal, Campbell's, Keebler, Guiltless Gourmet, and Second Nature. Pictured is Amy Ritchie, dietitian, distributing Heart Fest information to Donald Weeks, Oakland, during the recent Tailgate Market at the Autumn Glory Festival in Oakland.

EARLY INTERVENTION AWARENESS MONTH - The Board of Garrett County Commissioners recently proclaimed November as Early Intervention Awareness Month to bring attention to the need for parents, relatives, doctors, and others to be aware of services available to qualified children through the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program. All children in Garrett County, birth through age 2, are eligible for evaluation and assessment to identify developmental delays at no cost. Services for infants and toddlers who qualify include special instruction, speech pathology and audiology, occupational therapy, physical therapy, and health services. Services available for the family include parent training, education, and support. Persons knowing a child who does not follow people with his eyes, make sounds, hold and play with toys, sit up, crawl, walk, or respond to other people at the appropriate stages may call the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program at 334-1189. On hand for the signing of the proclamation were the commissioners, seated left to right, Brenda J. Butscher, Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey; standing same order are Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools; Suzanne Ryan, Early Intervention teacher; Crystal Wilson and her son, Samuel; Robert Stephens, executive director of the Office for Children, Youth, and Families; and Robert Shaffer, director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

WRAP Campaign Is Endorsed By Local Catholic Daughters

The Catholic Daughters of America, Court Oakland 2209, have again this year pledged support of Pornography Awareness Week, Oct 31-Nov. 7. The local members will wear white ribbons m their lapels throughout the week to endorse the WRAP campaign: White Ribbon Against Pornography. Others are encouraged to do join the campaign.

According to a spokesperson, WRAP was created several years ago by Morality in Media, a national organization dedicated to the return of family values and the eradication of pornography.

"We face a frightful assault on this nation's bedrock, pro-faith, and family values," said William E. Simon, a former Secretary of the Treasury and member of Morality in Media. "In order to up their ratings and advertising revenues, our current TV mediamongers trash family values with wild abandon while shamelessly promoting decadent and violent fare."

Simon called on the leaders of religious communities to join the campaign and "stand up resolutely against this outrageous trashing of America's traditions."

WINTER SOLSTICE CONCERT SLATED AT FSU - The Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series continues this fall with the highly acclaimed Winter Solstice Concert on Sunday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Multi-Use Room of the university's Lane Center. The concert will feature three recording artists from the Windham Hill label, presenting a unique holiday program. Nightnoise, the group pictured above, has been creating "music that is as lithe and magical as it is unsuited to any conventional definition" tor the past decade. Guitarist Michael O Domhnaill, Triona Ni Domhnaill on keyboards, flutist Brian Dunning, and violinist Johnny Cunningham are all Dublin-born musicians. By virtue of its melding of Celtic, jazz, classical, and pop influences, Nightnoise has created a signature sound all its own. Contributions to the first three A Winter Solstice recordings include the original seasonal songs Nollaig, Bring Me Back a Song, and Snow is Lightly Falling. Other featured artists will include Liz Story, whose music is a combination of classical, jazz, folk, and "a century s worth" of popular keyboard literature. She will be joined by bassist Joel DiBartolo, who performed with the Tonight Show Band for 17 years. Alex De Grassi, the third featured musician, is a guitarist whose influences span the globe. He was one of the first artists to record for Windham Hill with his 1978 recording of Turning: Turning Back. The event is presented in cooperation with WFWM, FSU's public radio station. Series tickets are limited and available only at ticket outlets. General public tickets may be purchased at the Lane Center Information Desk or at individual ticket outlet locations. For more information, persons may contact the Lane Center desk at 301-689-4411.

Veterans Affairs Department Plans Informational Mtg.

The United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), Baltimore VA and Martinsburg VA Medical Center will provide an update on VA benefits and services to local veterans. The meeting will be held at Allegany Community College Theatre on Willowbrook Road, Cumberland, on Nov. 4. It is scheduled for 7-9 p.m.

The meeting will provide an opportunity for veterans to ask questions, discuss issues, and voice concerns. All veterans are welcome.

A member of Congressman Roscoe Bartlett's staff will be present, according to Newell Quinton, director of the VA department.

The success of this meeting will depend on veteran attendance," Quinton said. "We hope that a good representation of the veteran population of Allegany and Garrett counties will participate in the event."

For more information, persons may contact Veterans Services Officer Milton O. Maeda at 1-800-827-1000.

Sheriff's Office Probing Property Destruction, Theft

Cases of property destruction and theft involving over $2,000 in losses are currently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Brian M. Friend, Oakland, contacted police when he discovered his truck to be vandalized with key-scratches and slashed tires. The vehicle, a 1989 Dodge Dakota, was parked by Friend in his driveway at 1 a.m. on Oct. 21. At 7 a.m., he found all four tires slashed and obscenities scratched on several areas of the vehicle.

The repair cost was set at $1,850. Friend told police he had no idea who may have done the damage, and that he has no enemies that he is aware of. Police are investigating.

A radar detector was stolen from a Mtn. Lake Park man sometime between the hours of midnight and 5:30 a.m. on Oct. 21. The Passport brand detector was located inside a 1979 Toyota Celica, and was valued at $300.

A Homelite chainsaw was apparently stolen from Miles M. Rausch, Oakland, sometime between Oct. 17-25. Also stolen was a Murray push mower and a digging bar, all taken from an outbuilding on his property. The loss in the case has been set at $290.

ed cost of $100,000, the second is the six classroom addition at Northern High School, with an estimated total cost for design, construction, and equipment at almost $600,000, and the third priority being the consolidation of Red House and Loch Lynn elementary schools at an estimated total cost of approximately $4 million.

Two projecta are listed for completion in Fiscal Year 1994 -- the second half of the locker rooms at Southern High and the refurbishment of the heating system at Northern High. Both projecta were termed "critical" in a letter sent to the commissioners by Education Board President Beverly Ann Murphy, who explained that the Southern project "represents the first step in ultimately completing the renovation of Southern High . . . and critical in continuing the overall plan." The Northern project, she said, is alao important since the 40-year-old heating system could fail at any time.

The estimated cost of both of these projects is estimated at between $450,000 and $475,000. In her letter, Murphy stated, "We recognize that this is a significant amount of funding to request of you. Anticipating that this may be difficult for you to accomplish on a pay-as-you-go basis, we wanted to discuss the feasibility of completing these two projects so that other options might be explored, if necessary."

She then stated that if that option was not a possibility, the commissioners should consider seeking bonding authority from the General Assembly.

Murphy continued, stating, "By looking at our long-range capital improvement program it would appear that a bond issue will probably be the only way in which the projects planned for FY1996 will be accomplished. These school projects, along with perhaps other necessary county projects will require over $1 million to complete even with substantial state support."

Northern High School Principal Martin Green was on hand at the meeting to explain the necessity of the additional classrooms, as well as science lab classrooms, at the school. The six additional regular classrooms, he said, were needed because of the most recent projections of increased enrollment at Northern.

The current enrollment there is 548. By 1998, an enrollment of 632 is anticipated, but the building was only designed for 608 students, he said.

The request for science lab/classrooms is the result of new graduation requirements by the state, which mandates not only an increase from two to three science classes, but also has changed the manner in which some courses are to be taught. "This calls for a different kind of facility," said Green.

The list of proposed capital improvement projects has been submitted to the Interagency Committee for Public School Construction (IAC), according to Ryscavage.

EDUCATORS ATTEND WORKSHOP - While Garrett County students had a day off from school last Friday, 40 elemantary school educators "hit the books" at a workshop titled Cooperative Integrated Reading and Composition. The workshop took place at the Board of Education Office, and was led by Carolyn Gwaltney, pictured standing, who is from Johns Hopkins Univerarity. The event was sponsored by Chapter I.

Huskies Upset By Vikings On Last Minute Field Goal

A 21-yard field goal in the final moments of the game, set up by a crucial turnover deep in their own territory, resulted in a big upset of the Northern High Huskies by Petersburg last Thursday evening.

Tom Routt, possibly the top place kicker and one of the best punters in the state of West Virginia, easily split the uprights with just 70 seconds remaining after the Huskies fumbled the ball away on their own 18-yard line. Routt had kicked a 50-yarder earlier this year against Pocahontas and had a 47-yarder to his credit last year.

The Huskies led in total yardage, but the Viking defense basically contained the potent Northern offense as the Huskies managed fewer than 200 yards, with only 28 of that coming through the air. Northern had outscored its opponents by a 160-28 margin, for an average of almost 23 per game.

The win improved Petersburg's record to 5-3, while the Huskies, who went into the game ranked third in the area, dropped to 6-2.

7-35	Penalties-Yards	11-80
4-1	Fumbles-Lost	3-2
104	Total Offense	193

The first half was all defense, as the game was scoreless at halftime. The Huskies finally broke the ice in the third period when Larry Wakefield capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown run. Martin Strnad's kick for the extra point was no good.

The Vikings knotted the game later in the same period when Mike Movers scored on a one-yard carry. Routt's kick for the conversion also failed, leaving the contest tied at 6-6 and setting the stage for the winning field goal.

It appeared the game might go into overtime, as the Huskies had the ball with less than three minutes to play, but were deep in their own territory. But the fumble gave the visitors the opportunity for the upset.

The Vikings ran three plays and then, with 1:10 left on the clock, Routt recorded the chip shot three-pointer to give Petersburg the victory.

Routt also averaged 45 yards on three punts for the evening.

Penalties also plagued the Huskies in particular, as they were flagged 11 times for a total of 80 yards. They also lost two of three fumbles and were intercepted twice.

Alan Sebold led the Huskies' ground game, picking up 76 yards. Josh Rush and Brett Newman excelled on defense for Northern, while Shane Redman and Keith Martin led the Petersburg defensive effort.

"They deserved to win, and they did," stated Northern Coach Tom Vent matter-of-factly. "You have to come into a game mentally prepared to play, and we just weren't prepared. We also let their best weapon (Routt) have an opportunity to beat us, and that's what he did."

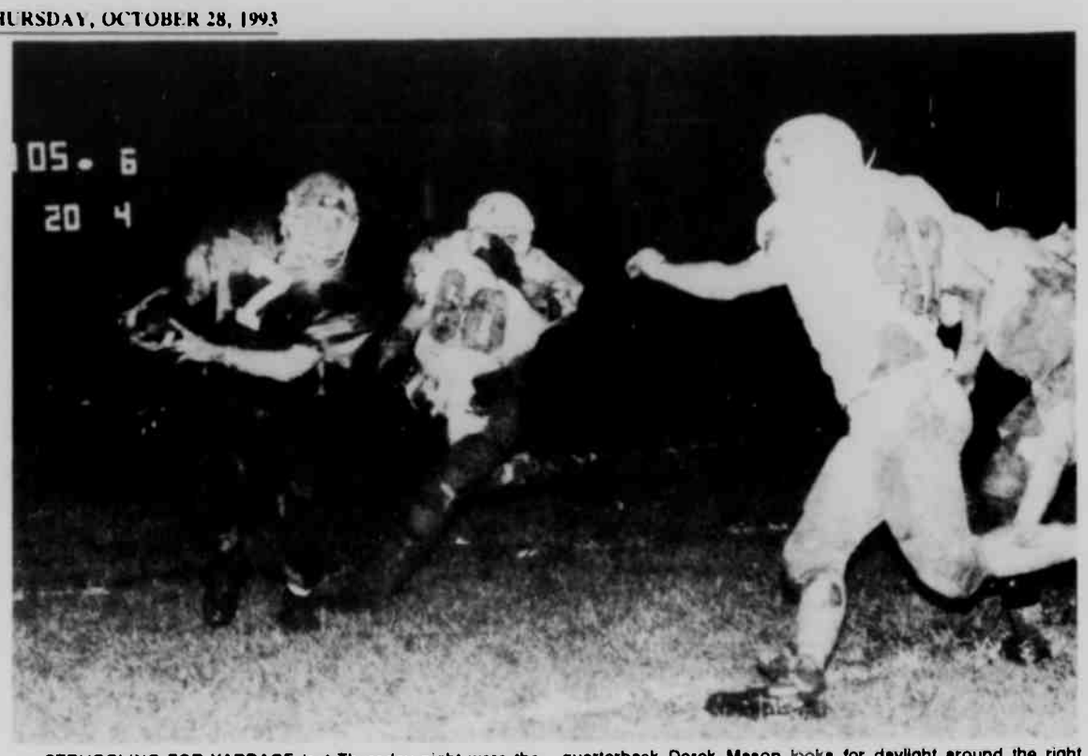
While the Huskies will most likely be favored to win again this Saturday at Bishop Walsh, Vent is anticipating another difficult challenge.

"They are a really young team, but they play very hard and we have never beaten them," Vent said. "We consider them a city team that plays a tough schedule and are almost always the underdogs. It will also be their homecoming."

The Spartans' wing-T offense is led by its sophomore quarterback Danny Harper (5-11, 160) and running backs Sidney Chang, a 5-7, 165-pound junior, and senior Justin Carr (6-0, 160).

The Harper boy has very good speed and runs the option well, which may cause some real problems for us," Vent said.

BW's 6-2 defense is led by senior defensive end Price Boxley (6-0, 190) and two big tackles in senior Jim Martin (6-3, 245) and junior Tom Geatz (5-8, 240).



"We are now in a must-win situation in terms of the playoffs," Vent said, noting that he has been conducting extra practices this week. "I think our attitude is definitely better this week. Our kids found out last week what happens when you lose your concentration."

The Huskies are reasonably healthy in terms of physical injury, Vent said, but noted that a number of players have been fighting a flu bug this week.

This week's contest will be played Saturday afternoon on the Spartans' field.

Husky Jayvees Rip Mapletown For Third Win

Brian Heslop recorded 117 yards and three touchdowns on just 12 carries, while [illegible] passed for two touchdowns and ran for one as the Northern High School junior varsity football team crushed visiting Mapletown, Pa., 36-6, Monday. The victory improved the Huskies' record to 3-3-2.

Heslop put the first points of the game on the board in the first quarter when he broke loose for a 39-yard touchdown run. Mitchell passed to Joey Layman for the two-point conversion to give the Huskies an 8-0 lead.

Jason Herman extended Northern's lead in the second period when he hauled in a 25-yard touchdown pass from Mitchell. Mitchell again connected with Layman for the extra two points to make it 16-0 at halftime.

The Huskies moved out to a 30-0 lead in the third period when Mitchell fired a 25-yard scoring strike to Heslop and later carried the ball himself for a two-yard touchdown run. Heslop ran for the two-point conversion on the first third quarter score.

Mapletown 4-2 avoided a shutout late in the third period when Chad Caldwell scored on a two-yard run. The run for the conversion failed.

Heslop recorded his third six-pomter of the evening in the fourth period on a 42-yard run.

Mitchell completed six of 10 passes for 78 yards. Also excelling on the Northern offense were Lance Umbel and Mike Minnick.

Spearheading the Northern defensive unit were Brandon Baumgardner, who led the team with 13 tackles, and Bill Spelcher and Nick Wachter, who had nine and seven tackles, respectively.

The Huskies will go after their fourth win on Monday at home against Bishop Walsh.

DNR Announces Trout Stocking

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced that more than 16,000 adult rainbow trout are being stocked into selected trout fishing areas in the state.

Stocking by DNR's Freshwater Fisheries personnel was completed Friday, October 22. Nearly half of these trout weigh about ½ pound each.

Because of low stream flows across the state, most of the trout have been stocked into larger rivers, lakes, and ponds. These areas will remain open to fishing during the fall trout stocking period.

Anglers are reminded that a trout stamp on a current Maryland fishing license is required to possess trout caught in the state.

Garrett County waterways that have received a fall stocking are as follows: North Branch Potomac River, 600; Jennings Randolph Lake, 300; and Casselman River (2 trout day) 300.

For additional information about the fall trout stocking program or freshwater fishing in Maryland, persons may contact DNR's Freshwater Fisheries in Annapolis at (410) 974-3061.

In our haste to take, process, and place a photo of the undefeated Northern High School volleyball team on the front page of last week's issue of The Republican after the Huskies defeated previously unbeaten Mt. Savage the night before, we inadvertently omitted the identification of two members of the Northern team. Huskies Candy Buckel and Stacy Anderson were among those in the photo, but were not identified. We regret the omission.

Southern Jayvees Topped By Campers

The Southern High School junior varsity football team was defeated last night by the Allegany jayvees, 16-8, on the Rams' field.

The Campers took a 2-0 lead in the second quarter by blocking a punt that was recovered by the Rams in their own end zone.

The Rams went on top 8-2 on the first play of scrimmage in the second half when Adam Moomau ran picked off a Chris Arnold pass and raced 50 yards for a touchdown and Howard Crosco ran for the two-point conversion.

Allegany tied the game at 8-8 when Fuzz Wilson scored on a six-yard run in the fourth period and then put the game away late in the period on a one-yard sneak for a touchdown by Arnold.

Moomau, Brian O'Connell, and Shawn Strawser led the Southern defensive effort, while Moomau, Crosco, and Dan Compitello paced the Ram offense.

The loss wrapped up the season for the Rams, who finished with a 2-2-2 mark.

Roast chicken will stay juicier if you sear it at 400 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes, then continue cooking at 325. When it's done, let the bird rest 15 to 20 minutes to let the juices settle.

What makes chocolate cake or cookies "Mexican"? There's a subtle hint of cinnamon that adds a sophisticated dimension.

Toasted coconut makes plain ice cream special. Sprinkle unsweetened shredded coconut on a double layer of paper towels and place on the bottom of the microwave. Zap uncovered for 7 to 8 minutes.

The way to perfect mashed potatoes: mash the cooked and tender spuds, add butter or oil to coat the starch in them, then add heated milk. It works with sweet potatoes, too. For a spicier result, use sour cream instead of butter, along with 1 Tbs. prepared horseradish.

For better results making chocolate shavings for dessert decor, hold the block of chocolate with a paper towel so your warm hands won't melt the chocolate bar.

To Candy

You were our friend, our confidant,
The one who made us smile and laugh
Even when we didn't really feel like it.

You were our helper, our inspiration,
The one who did what she believed was right
No matter what others thought.

You cared so much, even about a little puppy
With a white heart on its head.
You shared with us the strength you gained
From the solid rock you stood upon.

Your personality was as florescent
As the colors you wore.
Your zest for life and your perseverance
Provided examples for us all to follow.

Candy Apple and Tootsie Roll were fitting nicknames
For someone as sweet as you.
You had in your heart so much joy
That you could even laugh at our silliest jokes.

You were our conscience once, just for pretend,
But now you're like Jiminy Cricket for some of us
Because we know you're watching,
Looking over our shoulders,
Remembering as we remember,
Turning back time's pages
And taking a glimpse at what used to be.

When you left us,
Riding the white horse you always dreamed of,
Real angel dust dancing in your hair,
You did not take our memories.

We miss you, dear friend.

Rams Just Miss Upset Of Hedgesville, 10-8

In what was expected by most area high school football fans to be a rout, the Southern High School Rams decided they would be no pushover for the highly touted Hedgesville Eagles, who brought their 7-1 record to Oakland last Friday night fresh off an overtime win over previously unbeaten Fort Hill. The Rams nearly pulled off what would probably have been the season's biggest upset, but fell just short, losing 10-8.

Southern led in first downs and had nearly double the total offensive yardage, but two critical turnovers set up both of the Eagles' scores.

Eagle fans were as shocked as many Ram supporters at halftime when the score was still 0-0. The deadlock was broken in the third period after the Eagles blocked a Jeremy Fitzwater punt and took possession on the Rams' 18-yard line. Jared Donaldson capped the short drive with a two-yard scoring run and Jason Smith booted the extra point.

Southern	0 0 0 8	8

ON HIS WAY FOR SIX was Southern Ram Scott Dawson last Friday night against the Hedgesville Eagles on the Rams' gridiron. Although the Eagles came to Oakland as a heavy favorite to run over the Rams, they returned home with a narrow 10-8 victory, as Southern nearly pulled off what would have been the season [illegible] the Rams, [illegible] rebound [illegible] Cumberland

It would be Smith's foot that would ultimately win the game, as early in the fourth quarter he connected for a 34-yard field goal that put the Eagles on top 10-0. The score was set up by a Southern fumble on their own 33-yard line.

An earlier attempt by Smith was just short of the crossbar.

The Rams did not give up, however, and came back with a long drive that was highlighted by a 43-yard run by Pete Strawser. Scott Dawson concluded the effort with a nine-yard touchdown run and also ran for the two-point conversion.

The loss dropped the Rams to 3-5 on the season.

"I really don't think we can play any better than we did Friday night," stated Southern Coach Fred Gregg. "Even though our record may not show it, I still believe we have a very good football team. Injuries to some of our key players, plus the difficulty of our schedule have been the major factors in our won-loss record."

Expected to start for the Eagles was quarterback Mark Porterfield, a 6-5, 218-pound junior, but he was sidelined with a thigh injury. "Actually his replacement caused some real problems for us," Gregg said. "While Porterfield is very good, Donaldson is much more mobile and a very good runner. We really weren't prepared for him. But we were obviously extremely pleased with the play of our entire defense."

Northern Spikers Maintain Perfect Record With Victory Over Allegany

The Lady Huskies volleyball players continued their winning ways Monday by defeating a stubborn Allegany Camper team in three straight games by the scores of 15-12, 15-6, and 15-6. The sweep of the Campers avenged an earlier blemish on a nearly perfect season when Northern defeated Allegany by three games to two. Those two game losses are the only ones that appear on the Lady Huskies 11-0 record thus far. The team's game record stands at 33-2.

Kandi Buckel led all Northern scorers with 14 service points. Lisa Stephens aided the Husky cause with nine points, and Stephanie Kamp registered eight. Alison Buckel finished off the Campers with 7 points, with four aces. Northern's team serving percentage for the game was 94%.

Stephens was the leader at the net on both offense and defense. She had seven spikes and two dinks on offense, plus four blocks on defense. Amy Platter and Ellida Schofield each chipped in five spikes, and Platter recorded three blocks. Back row defensive stand-outs were Amanda Galica, Wrenny Smith, and Stacy Anderson.

Allegany took the lead in the first game, with Northern coming back to tie the score several times. Allegany took the lead at 10-9 but Lois Stephens ran off four unanswered points to put Northern ahead for good. In the second game, Alco again took the lead 6-3. Northern fought back to achieve a 7-6 score with Kamp registering 4 points. The Husky defense then completely shut down the Campers' scoring. Kandi Buckel scored eight consecutive points to claim victory in the second contest.

In the deciding game, Northern took the lead only to have Allegany tie the score at four. The Huskies re-claimed the top as Stephens tallied four unanswered points. The coup de grace came from Alison Buckel who put Allegany away with seven straight points. Jennifer Knierium led the Campers with eight points.

Northern's junior varsity defeated Allegany's jayvee in a marathon match that lasted over an hour. The Huskies won by the scores of 16-14 and 17-15. Sarah Beitzel led Northern in scoring with nine points, including four aces. Mindy McCarty added eight, and Tara Burdock scored game point in game two.

The Huskies got behind in the first game 12-5, but Beitzel brought the team back to tie the score at 12. McCarty iced the game with four unanswered points. Maya Mehana was Allegany's leading scorer.

In the second contest, Northern's jayvee jumped out to a 12-3 lead, moving on to 14-5. Alco came fighting back, taking the lead at 13-12. The score see-sawed back and forth until Noelle Collins put Northern ahead 16-15 with two points. Burdock then served the winning point.

Northern's next opponent is Flintstone at home this evening at 7 p.m.

Southern Girls Fall To Sentinels

The struggling Southern High School varsity volleyball team dropped a match last evening to visiting Fort Hill, 3-1.

The Rams won the first game, 16-14, but dropped the next three, 15-1, 15-13, and 15-9.

Brandi Parker and Becky DeWitt each had 11 service points to lead Fort Hill, while Angie Elsie paced the Rams with 10 points.

The Southern junior varsity was also defeated, 2-1, losing the first game, 15-0, winning the second, 15-7, and dropping the third, 15-11. Sandy Niner and April Melton each recorded eight points for Southern, while Bianca McIntyre, Michelle Magruder, and Amber Waltz each scored eight for the Sentinels.

Southern will play again Monday at Allegany.

Lakers Split A Pair Of Matches; Record Is 21-10

The Garrett Community College volleyball team split a pair of matches this past week to put their record at 21-10.

The Lakers defeated Potomac State College and then lost to Catonsville CC on Sunday in McHenry, then traveled to Potomac State on Tuesday where they again topped the Catamounts, but lost to Frederick CC.

In Sunday's match against Potomac State, the Lakers lost the first game, 15-4, but won the next two, 15-10 and 15-8. Sheila Butt had six service points in the second game, including two aces, while Charity Taylor served 10-for-10 in the third game and had three aces. Butt went 10-for-11 in sets.

The Lakers won the first and fourth games against Catonsville, 15-12 and 15-8, but lost the other three, 15-11, 15-5, and 15-8. Taylor paced the Lakers in the first game with seven points, including two aces. Dawn DeShong went nine-for-10 in attacks with five kills in the second game and Butt was 20-for-20 in sets with seven assists.

Butt went 11-for-11 in the third game, while Taylor recorded seven service points in game four. Elaine DeBerry, Rebecca Few, and Butt each recorded four points in the fifth game.

On Tuesday in Keyser, W.Va., the Lakers dropped the first match to Frederick, 2-1, losing the first game, 17-15, winning the second, 15-12, and being edged in the third, 17-15.

Cara Wachter had six service points in the first game for GCC, while DeBerry recorded seven in game two. Wachter also recorded seven points in the third game, and also converted all 21 of her sets and had six assists.

The Lakers topped Potomac in the second match, 15-3 and 15-7, behind a five-point effort by Taylor in the first game and a six-point performance by Few in the second.

The Lakers, coached by Margaret Quinn, will compete again this Friday at Essex against the host team and Montgomery-Rockville.

Rams, Huskies Split Garrett CC Championship

The Southern High School boys' team and the Northern High School girls' team were the winners of the annual Garrett County Cross Country Championships, held Monday at the Broadford course in Oakland.

The Southern boys swept the first six places and finished with a team total of 15 points, while the Northern boys finished with 49 points.

Nathan McBee finished the 3.1-mile course first with a time of 18:07, followed by Kevin Andrews, Todd Howard, Matt Newcomb, Bryan Clickener, and Andy Craver. Northern's Rich Bowser placed seventh, followed by Southern's Dan Skipper and Northern's Aaron Hordubay and Donnie Manning.

It was the Southern boys' second straight county title. The top seven finishers were named to the All-County team.

Leading the Northern girls to a narrow victory and setting a new course record was Danelle Fike, who finished with a time of 22:11. The Huskies finished with 26 points, while the Rams recorded 30.

Cindy Weimer of Northern placed second, followed by Southern's Jenny Reams and Shannon Dabney. Stacy Dolan of Northern was fifth, Southern's Lauren Newcomb finished sixth, Chrissy Imbel of Northern was seventh, and Ram Kara Freyman was eighth.

Ribbons were awarded to the top seven finishers in the boys and girls junior varsity races. The top finishers in the boys' race were Charlie Wesley, Jaime Jacoby, Steve Shockey, Matt Devens, John Ortiz, Chris Jones, and Todd Gibson, all of Southern.

The junior varsity girls' race was dominated by Southern runners, who swept the top four spots. Katrina Thayer, Meghan Dabney, Tammy Butt, and Susan Blamble were the top finishers, followed by Northern's Megan Sines and five more Southern runners.

The Rams and Huskies will compete in the 1A Regional Meet at Rocky Gap State Park next Thursday, Nov. 4. Ten boys' teams and nine girls' teams are expected to participate in that competition. Charlie Himmler, coach of the Northern teams, is the meet director.

SHS Booters Drop Finale To Allegany, 8-3

On yet another rain-slick field, Southern High School's new soccer team was defeated by Allegany Tuesday night in their season finale, 8-3, at Greenway Stadium in Cumberland.

With their speed and a dry field early in the game, the Rams dominated play with seven shots on goal in the first five minutes. But Allegany's Darren Isom squibbed one shot just under the fingers of Ram keeper Jason Pressley for the opening score about seven minutes into the game.

The next 24 minutes consisted of good defense by both teams. With about nine minutes left in the first half, Travis Klingler capitalized on a loose ball eight yards from the Southern goal following a corner kick to give Allegany a 2-0 halftime lead.

The downpour of rain in the second half seemed to more adversely affect the Rams, who slipped and slid in the worn parts of the goal area and allowed four more goals in 17 minutes. Isom and Klingler accounted for the first two, both unassisted, after which Brett Luhring scored on an assist by Josh Becker, and Becker scored on an Isom assist to make it 6-0.

The Rams finally put their first point on the board following a corner kick that was picked up by Dan Nelson, who moved toward the goal, but seeing no shot passed the ball back to Aaron Chorpenning, who blasted it into the net at the 21-minute mark.

"I'LL TAKE THAT BALL, PLEASE" says Southern Ram Aaron Chorpenning, left, as he attempts to steal from an unidentified Allegany Camper. The Rams concluded their first season in 42 years with an 8-3 loss Tuesday evening on the rain-slick field at Greenway Stadium in Cumberland. Also identifiable in the photo is Southern s Steve Goralski, right

Southern scored again just two minutes later when Joey DiSimone picked up a crossing pass and worked his way between three defenders to score.

The Rams continued their attack and, following a legal slide tackle by Nelson that resulted in contact with the Allegany keeper. The keeper responded by angrily spiking the ball to the ground, after which the ball was caught by a teammate. The referees called a hand ball and awarded the Rams a penalty kick, which was booted into the goal by Nelson.

The Southern rally was squelched when Shawn O'Rourke and Sean Lutmer scored unassisted goals.

"They went into a mode of short passes and ball control that we were unable to defend," stated Southern Coach Tom Powers. "Our game strength leaves us when we can't run full out. Our team has to improve our ability to both work and defend against the short pass/high control game to be really competitive against experienced teams. That will come as our youth program matures and the players develop a better touch on the ball."

The Rams concluded their season, the first in 42 years, with a 2-7-1 record. The team posted a total of 30 goals in 11 games and finished second among the single-A Region I schools in total offense. Defensively they were near the bottom having allowed 56 goals.

The leading defender was sweeper Kevin Andrews with 32 blocked shots. Offensive honors went to junior Derek Spirk with eight goals and five assists, while Dan Nelson finished with seven goals and three assists and Joey DiSimone recorded seven goals and two assists.

The Rams will lose only two seniors: defender Eric Anderson and keeper Mike Purdy.

"We appreciate the fan support we have received this year," Coach Powers said. "Our crowds were the largest in the area. Quite often we had as many people follow us on the road as the home teams generated. That's like having an extra player on the field.

"We were a very young team, with only two seniors and five juniors on a squad of 24 players," he continued. "The mistakes we made are typical of young teams and we are very pleased with the progress we made. Next year our focus will become much more intensive on defense."

Soccer League Playoffs, Annual Banquet Slated

The Mountaintop Soccer Association will hold its annual awards dinner on Monday, Nov. 8, at the Elks Lodge in Oakland following a weekend of playoffs in its youth league.

The dinner event will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the showing of videos of the youth players from the 1993 season. Dinner and the awards program will follow.

Reservations for the dinner must be postmarked by this Friday, Oct. 29, and directed to Cindy Kutchman, 808 Pensinger Blvd., Mtn. Lake Park. No dinner reservations made after this date can be guaranteed. Reservations forms have been distributed to all players.

Playoff Schedule

Playoffs in the youth league will begin this afternoon, Oct. 28, in the Under 12 Division, with the third place team, Wildcats, playing the sixth place team, Rangers, and the fourth place team, Cobras, playing the fifth place team, Bays, at 4:30 p.m. at the Southern Middle School fields.

The second round games will be played Saturday, Oct. 30, inside the track at Southern High School, with the second place team, Cosmos, meeting the winner of the third/sixth game at 9 a.m. and the first place team, Spurs, facing the winner of the fourth/fifth game at 10:30 a.m. The championship game will then be held Sunday at 4:30 p.m. on the Southern High School athletic field.

In the Under 14 Division, the first place team, Express, will play the fourth place team, Kickers, and the second place team, Blast, will play the third place team, Jammers, at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., respectively, at the Southern Middle School fields on Saturday, Oct. 30. The championship game will be played Sunday, Oct. 31, at 6 p.m. at the Southern High School athletic field.

Admission to all youth league games is free.

Northern Soccer Squad Drops 4-1 Game To Wildcats

The Northern High soccer team played one of its best games this season Monday evening, but was defeated by host Westmar, 4-1. It was the 10th defeat in as many starts for the new Northern squad, while the Wildcats improved their record to 7-5.

Eric Johnson recorded a hat trick for the Wildcats, while Mac Sloan finished with three assists.

Johnson scored two goals in the first half, both off assists by Sloan, to give the Wildcats a 2-0 halftime advantage.

The Huskies came back with a goal early in the second half, scored by Edwardo Maggiolo off a feed by Kristin Heslop.

Westmar put the contest away with goals by Keith Broadwater, assisted by Sloan, and Johnson, on an assist by Mike Dunn.

The Huskies were outshot, 25-16, and trailed in corner kicks, 7-4. Northern keeper Chris Elliott was credited with 15 saves, while Westmar's Donnie Bradley had 10 stops.

A&A Soccer Team Top Biospherics For Third Win

Mike Hoffeditz scored twice and Mark Gwiazdowski and Aaron Taylor each recorded a goal Sunday afternoon, as the A&A Realty/Deep Creek Lake soccer club defeated the visiting Biospherics, 4-1, in a Western Maryland Adult Soccer League contest. It was the third win in seven games for the Deep Creek club.

Both teams were short of players and the game started late, with the visitors playing the first half with the wind to their advantage. They were unable to penetrate the Deep Creek defense, however, while the home team forwards recorded about a half dozen shots on goal in the first quarter, none of which resulted in a goal.

With six minutes gone in the second quarter, Steve Heatwole brought the ball straight up the middle and fed Hoffeditz, who turned with the ball and scored.

Later in the quarter, when Hoffeditz was about to score in similar fashion, he was knocked to the ground by a defender and awarded a penalty shot, which was kicked wide to the right.

The score remained 1-0 until the fourth quarter when Eric Biser placed a cross in front of the goal on a corner kick. Gwiazdowski took the feed and headed the ball into the net to give A&A a 2-0 lead.

Ten minutes later Hoffeditz cut off a short goal kick and scored unassisted.

The Biospherics averted a shutout when Miguel Quiros collected a ball from Ceasar Gonzales near the center circle and looped it over Deep Creek keeper John Steele for a goal.

Deep Creek responded with a final goal when Taylor drove home yet another Biser cross from the right wing.

The loss dropped the Biospherics to 1-6 on the season. Deep Creek will play again this Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31, at 1 p.m. when they host second-ranked Teeter Landscaping of Flintstone on the Bausch & Lomb field at Southern Middle School. It will be the final regular season contest for Deep Creek.

Adventure Sports Institute Executive Council Meets

Members of the executive council of the Adventure Sports Institute met recently in Garrett County for a weekend of activities that included a dinner with musical entertainment at Herrington Manor State Park, a Saturday morning business meeting at Garrett Community College, and an afternoon interpretive hike on Monroe Run.

At the business meeting, chaired by Council President John Bambacus, members were informed of the progress made by the Adventure Sports Institute during its first year of operation and of projects being planning for the future.

"It's remarkable to see how far this organization has come since our meeting last year," stated Senator Bambacus. GCC President Dr. Steve Herman spoke of the growth of the Institute and told of the contract with Department of Natural Resources giving the Institute priority use of state lands for programming purposes.

Mike Logsdon, director of the Adventure Sports academic program at GCC, introduced associate faculty members who were present. Darcy Dagremond, champion mountain biker; Lt. Col. Bob Turbyfill, head coach of the U.S. Orienteering Team; and Bill Endicott, former coach of the U.S. Canoe and Kayak whitewater slalom team. Logsdon reported on the success of the Adventure Sports program which now has 23 majors enrolled, including students from Frostburg State University who are taking adventure sports courses at Garrett Community College. He showed a video tape taken during various adventure sports classes: swiftwater rescue, whitewater canoeing and kayaking, rock climbing, scuba diving, and sailing.

Don Storck, executive director of the ASI, told of the Adventure Sports Forum being planned for next year at which nationally prominent figures will be speakers. Dr. Catherine Gira, president of Frostburg State University, announced that the master's degree program in recreation is now awaiting final approval. Gira also praised the cooperation between her university and Garrett Community College in promoting outdoor recreation, environmental awareness, and cultural offerings for residents of the western Maryland counties.

Other ASI projects discussed at the meeting were the weekend camps for Boy Scouts and other experienced campers, the proposed camps for disadvantaged youth being planned in conjunction with the Maryland National Guard, and the programming of adventure activities for persons with disabilities. Following the meeting, attendees heard a luncheon address by George Williams, Director of Tourism in Maryland who focused on the attraction of adventure sports activities for families and persons seeking to get away from urban lifestyles.

MRS. SHAFFER BAGS BEAR - Debbie Shaffer became only the second female archer in the state of West Virginia to record a bear kill, as she bagged this 190-pound bruin on private property near Aurora on the first day of bear hunting in the state. Mrs. Shaffer has been successful in hunting deer with a rifle for several years, but was hunting for the first time with a bow after practicing with targets in September. "I was hoping I'd get a chance at a buck," she said, "but I don't have the words to explain what I felt when I saw the bear. I was only hoping to remember everything my dad and my husband had told me." This was the first recorded bear kill by a woman in Preston County. Mrs. Shaffer resides with her husband, John, in Aurora. She is the daughter of Ted and Dot Sisler, also of Aurora.

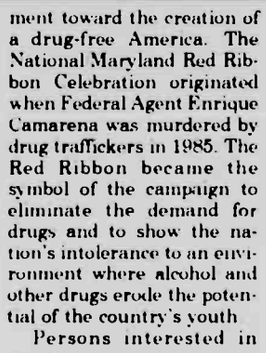
Sixth Red Ribbon Event Recognized In Garrett County

The Sixth National Maryland Red Ribbon Celebration is being recognized throughout Garrett County during the week of October 23-31. The annual event, that offers citizens the opportunity to demonstrate their commitment to a drug-free lifestyle, culminated during the weeklong, visual Red Ribbon Week campaign.

Local businesses, religious institutions, service organizations, and law enforcement offices joined the Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett County Commissioners, and the Garrett County Health Department, as well as medical personnel, local media, parents, senior citizens, and youth, in the prevention educational efforts of the campaign.

State sponsors included the Maryland Alliance for Drug-Free Youth, Inc., and the national Federation of Parents. Honorary chairpersons for the celebration were Governor William Donald Schaefer, President Bill Clinton, and First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

The goal of the annual campaign is to present a unified and visible commitment toward the creation of a drug-free America. The National Maryland Red Ribbon Celebration originated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. The Red Ribbon became the symbol of the campaign to eliminate the demand for drugs and to show the nation's intolerance to an environment where alcohol and other drugs erode the potential of the country's youth.



Persons interested in obtaining more information on alcohol and other drug prevention activities in the county may call the Health Department at 334-8111.

House Breaking

Gnegy was able to open the door and caught the defendant behind it. The state police officers had been positioned in a hidden location until Gnegy opened the door, and all three officers subdued the defendant, according to the report.

Miller is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information into the theft of a lawn greeting sign on Aug. 28.

In the early hours of that date, the sign - which is a 6-foot tall replica of Barney the Dinosaur - was stolen from a residence on Mosser Road. The sign was owned by Tina's Lawn Greetings.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

School Plan

school consolidation advisory committee was not aware of your board being willing to build two separate schools. Those ideas needed to be exchanged.

"Our decision was based on what we thought the county government was willing to support. We need to know what your board is willing to do."

When the advisory committee to study the school consolidation issue was formed last year, the education board requested that a representative of county government be named to serve on the committee. The county commissioners subsequently appointed Director of Garrett County Planning and Zoning John Nelson.

Commissioner John Braskey then asked Dr. Ryscavage, "Has a cost analysis ever been done on the two smaller schools?" and Dr. Ryscavage stated that the state would have agreed to partial funding of the two separate schools but that the contribution would not be as great as it would be for the consolidated school. He also noted that state officials had "concerns about whether space would be adequate" if two schools were to be built.

Commissioner Groves again entered the conversation, saying, "There is a tendency for the board of education to look strictly at cost efficiency. There's got to be other factors considered when dealing with education."

Ryscavage then told the commissioners that the state is "ready to move now on the project, and to go back and re-study the issue might mean the state would abandon the project."

He reported that the project must receive fiscal approval from the commissioners by the preferred date of November 5 and the absolute deadline of December 7.

Commissioner Brenda Butscher asked, "How can you expect us to make a decision on an issue this large that quickly? These proposals should have been brought to us a month ago."

Commissioner Braskey then stated, "We'd better get together on this issue as soon as possible."

A number of Red House residents were in attendance at the meeting, several of whom expressed their surprise that the option was still open to them to keep two separate schools.

Red House parent Lisa Skipper stated that she was "happy you're looking at community-based schools. We'd like to keep our school."

When Ryscavage was later contacted about his reaction to Commissioner Groves's statements, he said he could not recall having been officially or unofficially informed of his opposition to the school consolidation plan.

Ryscavage was also asked what impact the opposition would have on the project, and he responded by saying, "Well, frankly, if they're really interested in supporting the two schools, it would make our job a lot easier -- it's just a question of whether or not the county can afford that. It would certainly please everybody."

He added that while the board would still submit its application for the school consolidation plan, "we will also develop educational specs to detail our needs for square footage" for the two separate schools.

Ryscavage and the education board members have scheduled a meeting with the commissioners on November 9.

"We actually see this as positive," said Ryscavage. "Keeping the fire lit is important. We have to do something (for the students in those school buildings)."

hand. There were undoubtedly others who lent their assistance without leaving us their names or affiliations.

The Grantsville Subway Shop heard of the situation and sent doughnuts and hoagies to help feed all of the volunteers.

The children were found safe at approximately 1 p.m. on Tuesday by one of the search teams.

Caring for youngsters who have experienced a difficult and painful childhood is always a challenge. It is, in fact, an impossible task without the support and assistance of both public and private agencies within the local community. We commend those individuals and organizations who over the past 24 hours showed their commitment to young people and thus the future of this nation. What a bright spot of hope they portrayed in a society plagued with social problems. Our warm and sincere thanks to each individual and organization that participated in this cooperative effort.

We urge your recognition of this outstanding community.

Sincerely,
Louise S. Richards
Executive Director

Dear Ms. Richards,

You (and we) have just done so.

To the Editor:

I would like to clarify a statement made in the Oct. 21 issue of The Republican concerning school nurses.

In that article, I was quoted as stating that students with attention deficit syndrome "can't learn and the kids around them can't learn, so we're wasting all the resources for that class." This idea of not learning can be true for students who do not get proper care for their attention deficit; however, children who have been properly medicated or have been taught to manage their behavior are NOT disruptive. These children are able to achieve academically as well as students who do not have attention deficit disorder.

The point that I wanted to make is that monitoring the effectiveness of the medication is necessary to assure that the therapy meets each individual child's needs.

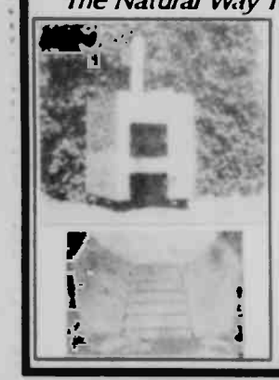
To the Editor

I was especially interested to read your editorial and article on the dumpster sites and the pictures! It had been reported to me about the "Bear Rte. 135 site" this week. The bears are having a field day and have been sighted many times there. It could be the Rte. 495 Grantsville way site could be the same, since it is strictly an isolated woods area. Could the sites be changed? Or the bears be restricted? Or is it easier to put it also onto the taxpayers?

I have not been aware of anyone particularly caring about the dump sites since Mr. Shockey left the county payroll. He was excellent and committed. He did a grand job on the dumpster sites, as well as the roads! Now we have more bureaucrats and less supervision and less commitment. Naturally the people get blamed and the taxpayers get socked again! What happened to the yearly curbside pickup at the home with heavy equipment from the county, which was available several years ago? One thing which really was available for the average taxpayer who had no truck or heavy lifters! Then you changed it to a pickup at certain dumpster sites once a year, which was useless for many people, then you discontinued that! What were you thinking?

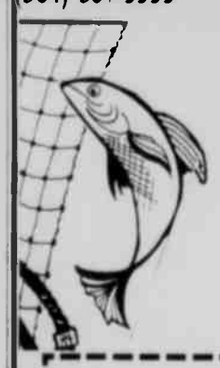
I travel a lot of the roads all over Garrett County, as a necessity. Many are lovely, but Green Glade Road is like traveling 75 years ago in a road wagon or buggy, which I did. How come? With all your elaborate, expensive schemes for dumpster sites, surely someone could come up with an idea of how to pave one short stretch of road, and do a good job, so it would last a few years.

Can we Marylanders continue to afford the most expensive state government operation for Gov. Schaefer that exists in our nation? Can we continue to pay and pay for our local government ad infinitum, and never know where the money really goes? Can we unlimitedly pay for our commissioners to lunch at "The Wisp" with department heads and guests at taxpayers' expense, when we have restaurants and eating places all over the courthouse area within walking distance?



Where does the taxpayer's money go? Please think!

This is my opinion.



Thanking you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

PORK FOR SALE

Persons may call 735-5256 or 735-3141 to place an order for sausage, pork chops, or scrapple, which the Mt. Lions Club will be selling on November 20 along with their buckwheat cake dinner. Cost of the sausage and pork chops will be $1.60 per pound

CHANCES FOR SALE

Persons may buy tickets from any Aurora School student which gives the holder an opportunity to win one of four quarters of beef, one of two halves of hog or a harvest basket to benefit the Aurora PTO. Tickets are $1 each and will be the only method of fund-raising, as the usual Halloween party cannot be held because of a lack of space. Persons may contribute non-perishables for the harvest basket to the school by October 28.

Treat or treat in the Union District area will beheld from 6 until 7:30 p.m. on October 30. Persons are asked to keep a porch light on if they wish to participate.

CRAFT SALE

A craft sale will be held November 13 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Persons wishing to reserve a table may call 735-5050, 735-5139, or 735-5783. This event is being sponsored by the Mt. View Rebekah Lodge.

BUILDING UNDERWAY

Pre-cast concrete walls and floor for the new Union Ambulance squad hall at Aurora were put into place last Tuesday and Wednesday at the Aurora site. Work days will be needed and, it is hoped, provided by local volunteers for pouring of the cement basement floor, a leveling course on the main floor, and the erection of walls and roof. It is expected that the work can be divided by either communities or groups and each will be notified.

MULLENAX HONORED

Donna Mullenax, a West Virginia University junior, was inducted into the Golden Key National Society on Sunday, October 17, at ceremonies held in the Mountainlair. Those inducted make up the top 15 percent academically in the junior and senior classes. Donna is a math education major and the daughter of Allen and Carolyn Mullenax, Horse Shoe Run. Her parents, her sister, Patty, and her grandmother, Lela Mullenax, were dinner guests of Donna and attended the induction ceremony.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

"Are You Having Trouble Remembering?" was the topic of discussion led by Virginia Martin for the October 19 meeting of the Aurora Extension Homemakers. Members related difficulties in remembering and Mrs. Martin suggested using notes and calendars and distributed 1994 calendars she had made on her computer for each member. She also showed ways to assure correct medication.

Dorothy Spaid led devotions.

The club received a red ribbon for its Buckwheat Festival exhibit. Seven members, Deloris Slawter, Martha Bolyard, Sue Mayne, Ressie Conrad, Wilda Stemple, Virginia Martin and Mary Jane Hanline, attended a craft workshop held on October 12 to prepare for the November 13 bazaar.

Members Dorothy Spaid, Opal Myers and Ressie Conrad plan to continue with the reading aloud program at Aurora School when scheduled. A book will be purchased for the Aurora School library in memory of member Beulah Lipscomb who recently died.

President Opal Myers announced that a Morgantown area fall rally will be held November 2 at the Good Shepherd Church in Grafton. A committee appointed to plan a December activity consists of Deloris Slawter, Sue Mayne, and Ressie Conrad. She also showed pencil sketch note cards which the West Virginia State Extension Council is selling. The new international student was present at the fall conference.

The hostess, Anita Lantz, was winner of the pig-in-the-poke and she displayed as her special feature a fall wreath made by her sister. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mildred Kovalck at 7 p.m. on November 16 with Wilda Stemple presenting the lesson.

The hostess served refreshments to Dorothy Spaid, Wilda Stemple, Martha Bolyard, Deloris Slawter, Opal Myers, Ressie Conrad, Virginia Martin and two guests, Lillian Knotts and Nancy Sisler.

MOATS BABY SHOWER

A surprise baby shower was held Wednesday, Oct. 20, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building to honor Evona Moats and her infant son, Dayton Wayne. Connie Fint directed the group in playing games, the honored guest opened and displayed her gifts, and refreshments included a cake decorated for the occasion and including Dayton Wayne in the theme, done by Dean Sisler. The affair was sponsored by the Young Adult Sunday School Class of the church.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Hancell and Mildred Teets, Aurora, attended a meeting of directors of the West Virginia Soil Conservation Districts and staff held October 18 and 19 at North Bend State Park. While the men were concerned with business arrangements, the women were taken on tours to both glass and blouse outlets.

Wayne and Ellen (Harsh) Wheeler of New Philadelphia, Ohio, were weekend guests of Grace White at Gortner and visitors at Maple Spring Church with friends and relatives in Eglon.

Mrs. Ruth Allman of Eglon is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital undergoing tests. Her daughter, Maggie Eye, of Painesville, Ohio, has come to be with her.

Ralph Gatto of Eglon was admitted last Monday evening to Garrett County Memorial suffering a heart attack and was transferred Thursday to Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown, where he remains a patient. Coming to the home to stay with Mrs. Gatto's mother, Olive White, are her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald White of Rocky Mount, N.C.

Michael Humphrey, 18, of Parsons, died Monday, October 18, at Ruby Memorial Hospital. He is a brother of Mrs. Jeff (Cindy) Harsh, Horse Shoe Run.

Dorothy Alexander of Brookside was a surgical patient last week at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Elwood Blamble was injured last week at the Terra Alta Stockyards when a cow kicked a door he was about to open. He underwent surgery for a hand injury at Garrett Memorial Hospital. He is recuperating at his Stemple Ridge home.

Paul Stemple of Aurora was an out-patient in the surgical unit at Garrett Memorial Hospital on Monday this week.

Delmar and Virginia Wotring have moved from Aurora to an apartment in Oakland. Purchasing their home in Aurora is the Rick Ward family, who moved here from the Swanton area.

Sean and Kathy (Moon) McGoldrick have moved from Oakland to the Mike Myers home in Aurora which they are purchasing. This is also the former Gilbert Crowe property. Kathy is the daughter of Mrs. Harriett Moon and the late Edward Moon.

Also moving this week are Ruth and Roscoe Teets, who are moving from their farm to their "city" home in Eglon, while their son and his family, Bruce, Mary, Melinda and Tracy Teets, are moving to the farm from Dodsonville, Ohio, where they also had a farm.

Ira "Junior" and Mary Bolyard returned Sunday evening to their Aurora home from a two-week hunting trip in Canada, during which he was the lucky hunter, bagging a moose. They stopped for a visit in Ohio with their son, Tom, and his family before returning to Aurora.

Sunday afternoon visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Winters at Eglon were Willie and Gladys Hedrick of Red Creek who had formerly resided here.

Mrs. Ardis Teets, her daughter, Nicole, Eglon, and her mother, Mrs. Bertha Sanders, Mtn. Lake Park, made a trip to Tallahassee, Fla., where Nicole will remain to live with her brother, Nathan, and enter school there in January. She will be training in the care of animals confined in parks and zoos.

OBITUARY
Michael Shawn Humphrey

Michael Shawn Humphrey, 18, of Parsons, died October 18, 1993 at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown. He had been in declining health for the past two years. Death was attributed to a rare neurological illness.

He was born December 28, 1974, at Elkins, a son of James L. and Rose L. Metz Humphrey, who survive in Parsons. He attended Tucker County Schools and was a Protestant by faith.

In addition to his parents he is survived by three brothers, Sam Humphrey, Chris Watson, and Tim Filler of Parsons; three sisters, Mrs. Jeffrey (Cindy) Harsh, Horse Shoe Run, Mrs. Kenneth (Donna) Akins, Parsons, Pamela Humphrey, at home; maternal grandmother, Okie Metz, Parsons; step-paternal grandmother, Wanda Humphrey, Buckhannon, one nephew, and two nieces.

Funeral services were held at the Jeffrey A. Barb Funeral Home in Parsons on Thursday, Oct. 21, with the Reverends Pat Cassidy and Harley DeLaurere officiating. Interment followed in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

WORLD COMMUNITY DAY

The celebration of World Community Day will be Nov. 5 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. The host church will provide bread, beverage and table service for the noon covered-dish meal. A short program will begin at 1 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring non-perishable food items to be donated to the Food for Preston program to provide Christmas dinners for those in need. Everyone is welcome.

SNYDER HOSTS CLUB

The Amboy Sewing Club met in the home of Hassaleah Snyder on Oct. 20, with the hostess providing the devotions including a reading, "Would I Be Called A Christian?" The members knotted a baby comfort. Refreshments were served to Blondell Sisler, Hazel Durst, Lois Strawser, Eloise Harsh, Dawn Hook and Anthony, Dorothy Hauser, Dean Sisler, and Wanda Rinehart.

NEWS FROM AMBOY

On Oct. 22 the teenagers from the Amboy United Methodist Church Sunday School met in the fellowship hall for a lock-in night, which included devotions, discussion on symptoms and prevention of suicide, games, movies, and refreshments.

The Amboy Sunday School took a hayride on Oct. 24 with the eldest, Floyd Knapp, 82, and the youngest, Anthony Hook, 15 months, among the participants.

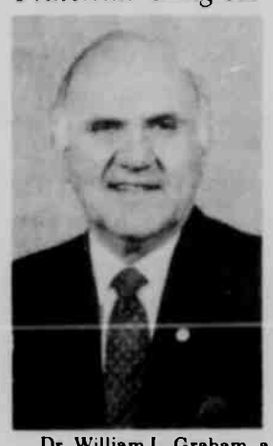
The Young Adult class is making hard tack candy and persons may place orders now by calling Robin Feather at 735-3240. Cost is $2.50 per pound.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. William Pennington of Eglon was admitted Monday to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for tests.

Ralph Gatto has returned to Eglon following angioplasty at Monongalia General Hospital, but with expectations of future bypass surgery.

First U.M. Church Collects 180 Coats For Armenians



When the United Methodist Committee on Relief (UMCOR) appealed to its churches nationwide for warm coats for the citizens of Armenia, Terra Alta's First United Methodist Church in West Virginia responded.

Rev. Norvell Robertson, pastor, stated that 180 coats were collected for this project. "This responsiveness, in less than a week's time, shows the concern this congregation has for the people of Armenia," stated a church representative.

The coats were boxed Monday for shipping to national headquarters. UNCOR's goal is 100,000 coats to be flown to Armenia for distribution to people who will be subjected to frigid temperatures and little or no heat sources.

Graham Named President Of W.Va. Fraternal Congress

Dr. William L. Graham, a native of Garrett County, was recently installed as president of the West Virginia Fraternal Congress at its annual meeting held in Jane Lew. A component of the National Fraternal Congress of America, the Congress is made up of over 50 fraternal benefit societies active throughout the state. Bringing together fraternalists from diverse religious denominations, crafts and guilds, it serves to focus the sharing of ideas of how to better serve its membership and communities, according to a spokesperson.

Dr. Graham is currently the Woodmen of the World fraternal coordinator for the jurisdiction of West Virginia, having served on the Woodmen National Legislative Committee and its National Fraternal Committee. He was an associate dean at the West Virginia School of Dentistry for several years. A Diplomate of the American Board of Oral Medicine, he is past president of the International Organization of Teachers of Oral Diagnosis, past chairman of the Sections of Oral Diagnosis/Oral Medicine and Clinic Administration of the American Association of Dental Schools. He was the project director of ODONTICS (Omnibus Dental ONline Information Control System), a comprehensive computer application for the dental school clinic.

Widely known throughout the fraternal lodge system, Dr. Graham has spoken to many groups promoting traditional family values and community service.

The state Fraternal Congress has elected to finance the construction of a Habitat for Humanity home in West Virginia.

CAR CARE CAR CARE CAR CARE

National Group Helps Take The Guesswork Out Of Car Repairs

According to the Car Care Council, October is National Car Care Month, a time when vehicle owners should be preparing for cold weather driving and undoing the damage caused by summer's tough conditions.

But for countless motorists, any thought of car care presents a challenge: how to find competent automotive repair and service. Maybe years ago, a shadetree mechanic would do; after all, cars were simpler, less complex. But with today's high-tech vehicles, the margin for error is less. Mistakes can be costly. Whether it's the family sedan, a sports car, minivan, pick-up truck, or sports utility vehicle, today's cars and light trucks represent a sizeable investment.

An increasingly popular way of finding qualified mechanics -- one that avoids much trial and error -- is to look for automobile technicians who have earned national credentials from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) an independent non-profit organization whose mission is to improve the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians.

Here's how the ASE program works. Twice a year thousands of mechanics sit for ASE certification exams at some 500 locations across the country. Designed by representatives from the automotive service and repair industry, vocational educators, and ASE's own technical specialists, the exams stress real-world diagnostic and repair problems, not theory. The exams are administered in the field by The American College Testing Program (ACT), the same organization that offers college entrance and other professional exams.

Mechanics who pass one or more automobile exam and fulfill the work experience requirement earn the title of ASE-certified Automobile Technician, while those who pass all eight auto exams earn Master Auto Technician status. Technicians must recertify every five years in order to keep current with changing technology and to remain in the ASE program.

Certified auto technicians are issued personalized credentials listing their exact area(s) of certification and blue and white ASE shoulder insignia.

Repair facilities employing ASE-certified technicians usually display the ASE sign on the premises and post their technicians' credentials in the customer service area.

Because ASE offers certification in all major areas of automotive repair and service, it is wise to ask the shop owner or service manager specifically for a technician who is certified in the appropriate area, say, brakes, engine repair, or air conditioning.

Consumers benefit from ASE's national certification program since it takes much of the guesswork out of finding a competent technician.

ASE-certified auto technicians have proven their competency to their customers, their employers, and themselves and have the blue and white ASE credentials to prove it.

Because certification is voluntary, mechanics who have taken the time and expense to earn their credentials can be counted on to have strong sense of pride in accomplishment, which should be good news for consumers.

Moreover, before taking ASE exams, many mechanics attend training classes or study on their own after work. The time they spend sharpening their skills should also be advantageous to consumers.

And while The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence does not certify places of business, only the individual technicians, it stands to reason that employers who encourage their technicians to earn ASE certification will be equally dedicated to the other aspects of their businesses.

ASE-certified auto technicians can be found at every type of repair facility: new car dealerships, independent garages, service stations, tire dealers, specialty shops, and major franchises. There are over 300,000 ASE-certified technicians at work nationally.

For more information about ASE-certified technicians, send a business sized self-addressed, stamped envelope to: ASE Consumer Brochure, Dept. CCCR, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, VA 22070.

Tires Important To Economical, Safe Operation Of Automobile

Tire and related automotive care is extremely important to motorists concerned about the safe and economical operation of their cars.

Since 1921, the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association (NTDRA) has shared that concern for the well-being of the nation's motoring public and now as a supporter of National Car Care Month/October, offers these important car care tips:

Tire Inflation: You can turn air into oil, simply by keeping your tires properly inflated.

According to the Department of Energy, American motorists could save 90,000 barrels of oil a day by properly inflating their tires. Keeping their tires underinflated could result in wasting an estimated 600 million gallons of gasoline annually, or about $750 million a year.

Motorists should check their vehicle owner's manual to determine the proper inflation.

It is not possible to tell if tires are underinflated just by looking at them. Since air pumps are not always accurate, NTDRA recommends that you either stop by a tire dealer for an inflation check or carry an accurate air gauge in the glove compartment. Tires should be checked at least once a month and before any long trip.

Underinflation lowers miles per gallon, creates excessive heat, seriously reduces tread life, increases rolling resistance and can cause tire failure.

Tires: Don't go bald early! At least once a month, inspect tires closely for signs of uneven wear. Uneven wear patterns may be caused by improper inflation pressures, misalignment, improper balance or suspension neglect. If caught in time, the cause may be corrected. When the tread is worn down to 2/32nds of an inch, or to the wear bars, which look like thin strips of smooth rubber across the tread, appear on the tire, it's time to replace the tire. DON'T WAIT.

Suspension and Steering: Suspension systems in need of repairs send out warning signals: (1) Excessive bounce at front or rear end when you push down the bumper (2) rough, uncomfortable ride-caused by leaking shock absorber seals or (3) clinking noises when going over a bump or pot hole. If any of these problems are noticed, motorists could avoid excessive and expensive damage to their cars and tires by having the suspension system checked. If car fails to respond immediately to turn of steering wheel, then a professional check of steering components is in order.

Brakes: Squeaky not always bad, but be careful. All brakes are susceptible to slight occasional squeal or grinding. This occurs after the vehicle has been idle overnight or in unusual damp weather conditions. This noise will dissipate quickly, and has no effect on brake operation. However, if the brake noises (grinding and squeaking) continue, or brake linings haven't been checked by a professional service center for over one year, a professional check should be in order. Also, if brake pedal has to be pushed down further than normal to engage, a check may be needed. Brake fluid level should be checked every six months.

Alignment: Keep it going straight. If the car seems to pull to one side or appears to be traveling at an angle while all four wheels are straight, and the tire tread is wearing unevenly, the car is probably out of alignment. This could happen to either a new or older car. To avoid permanent damage and the risk associated with driving a vehicle in this condition, NTDRA suggests a professional opinion.

Our Nation's Cars: Older, Better, Worth More

Our nation's drivers, now older than ever, are driving older cars, too. Average car age in 1970 was 4.9 years. Now, a generation later, that figure has increased by nearly two-thirds to eight years. That's the oldest since the end of World War II, when average car age reached nine years.

A car is not necessarily a clunker because it is old, emphasizes the Car Care Council, but it is more likely to be a candidate for repairs, and it certainly deserves more frequent under-the-hood checks.

Survey results from National Car Care Month vehicle checks indicate a continuing condition of maintenance neglect on vehicles of all ages. This is due in part to the fact that 80% of all gas is pumped at the self service pumps, where people neglect underhood checks. But it's also due to tight money: needed preventive maintenance sometimes takes a back seat to other household items.

MAINTENANCE PAYS OFF

The popularity of well maintained used cars is on the rise, as new car dealers now sell more used cars than new.

Another benefit of keeping one's vehicle in good condition is trade-in value, concludes the Council; good used cars are bringing top dollar. Average price of a used car has increased more than any other category listed in the government's consumer price index, showing a +9.1% change (in a May 1993 report). This compares to a +6.3% increase for medical care, generally considered the leader in cost escalation.

Preventive Maintenance -- After All, It's Your Money

Americans are taking better care of themselves by eating better, exercising and altering their life-styles to live longer lives. But how many motorists apply this same way of thinking to the care of their vehicles? According to a recent study, 5.2 percent of all motor vehicle accidents are caused by automobile neglect.

Inexpensive preventive maintenance on vehicles results in a longer life and saves money on major repairs down the road. Regardless of the age of the vehicle, the following preventive maintenance and safety steps can preserve the condition and performance of the vehicle. These steps are not only economical for you the consumer, they also benefit the environment in which we all must live. Here are a few tips you can follow:

* Have the oil and filter changed regularly, every 3,000 to 4,000 miles.
* Have all fluids checked, including brake, power steering, transmission transaxle, windshield washer solvent and anti-freeze. These fluids play a large part in the safety performance of the vehicle.
* Check tire inflation. Underinflated tires can result in a loss of fuel efficiency. This is the least expensive form of preventive and safety maintenance. Tires should be checked once a month.
* Keep your engine tuned up. A fouled spark plug or plugged restricted fuel injector can reduce fuel efficiency as much as 30 percent.
* Have your vehicle's chassis lubricated frequently. This step extends the life of the moving components of the vehicle's suspension system.
* Check battery cables and posts for corrosion and clean them if needed. The battery fluid should also be checked and filled if it is low. (Except in the case of maintenance free batteries).
* Have the lighting system checked frequently, including headlights, turn signals, brake and tail lights.
* Check windshield wiper blades for cracking, tears and windshield contact. Replace them approximately once a year or sooner if streaking begins.
* Inspect engine belts regularly. Worn belts will affect the engine performance. Look for cracks, missing sections or segments.
* Have the air filtration system checked frequently. Change the air filter at least every other oil change. This system ensures that the vehicle is performing at its peak condition.

IMPORTANT: Motorists should consult the vehicle owner's manual for individual service schedules. Vehicle manufacturers' service schedules may vary.

The next step toward preventive maintenance is finding a qualified automotive service facility. Recent reports of automobile repair fraud have made consumers skeptical of automotive service facilities. However, there are very professional and honest automotive service facilities throughout the country. Many of these establishments are members of the largest trade association of its kind, the Automotive Service Association (ASA). ASA is a national non-profit trade association serving approximately 12,000 members of the automotive service industry. These member businesses uphold a stringent Code of Ethics, have a great deal of integrity and employ professionally trained technicians. Member businesses can be identified by the red, white and blue ASA sign. Many ABA businesses and affiliate groups conduct Car Care Clinics to better serve their communities. Car Care Clinics are free safety check lanes performed by qualified technicians. The car care program is a nationwide campaign developed by the Car Care Council, a non-profit public information organization whose purpose is to educate consumers on the importance of automotive preventive maintenance. October is National Car Care Month and is generally the time when these clinics are held. However, many ASA affiliate groups conduct these clinics throughout the year at various locations.

Lung Association Says Tuned Engines Mean Cleaner Air

The American Lung Association is teaching motorists responsible behavior during the nationwide observance of National Car Care Month in October, driving home the message that properly maintained cars can decrease air pollution, improve lung health, increase gas mileage and save the car owner money.

"Motor vehicle exhaust is comprised of many dangerous pollutants that contribute to lung disease, including carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides," warned Alfred Munzer, M.D. president of the American Lung Association. "These harmful auto exhaust emissions can cause headaches, chest pains and drowsiness. When they interact in the atmosphere, these emissions can also burden healthy lungs, making it difficult to breathe."

According to the Lung Association, motor vehicle emissions are responsible for nearly 40% of the air pollution in the United States. Many auto service centers have exhaust analyzers that make emissions testing quick, easy and inexpensive. "Emissions testing should be a regular part of all auto repair checks," says Dr. Munzer.

A recent Gallup poll conducted for the American Lung Association found that 90% of Americans feel that air pollution is a serious health problem. The poll also found that 96% of Americans agree that it is the responsibility of car owners to maintain their vehicles to reduce air pollution. These are encouraging results, especially since air pollution caused by motor vehicle emissions can be reduced by simply keeping cars and trucks in better running condition.

Property maintained vehicles pollute less, run better, last longer, and get better gas mileage. Regular auto tune-ups can improve fuel efficiency by up to 15%. Most cars built since 1975 have catalytic converters which, along with electronic ignition systems, can reduce harmful emissions by up to 99%. These emission controls devices, if properly inspected and maintained, can boost a car's performance and fuel efficiency.

Using leaded gas in a car that requires unleaded gas reduces both spark plug and oil filter life. This practice can also damage both the exhaust system and the catalytic converter. Properly adjusted spark plugs and ignition can help decrease harmful air pollution and boost fuel efficiency.

Two brochures, Car Care and Clean Air and Get a Check-up for Your Car, are available from local American Lung Association offices by calling 1-800-LUNG USA, or by writing: American Lung Association, GPO Box 586, NY, NY 10116-0596. The Lung Association's environmental health activities and other lung disease prevention and education programs are supported by the annual Christmas Seal campaign that was started in 1907 to fight tuberculosis.

Shocks And Struts Should Be Included In Safety Chech

A common cause of highway accidents is the driver's loss of control of the vehicle. Reasons vary, including driving too fast for conditions, rough road surface, momentary inattention at the wheel and many more, but the net result is an accident.

In Many cases a more "forgiving" car can help avoid such a crisis, says the Car Care Council. The term, relates to a car's ability to cling to the road when the driver enters a curve too fast or stay on course when the right wheels run onto the shoulder of the road.

A valuable safety feature of your late model car is its excellent handling characteristics. Good roadability, which can help keep you out of trouble, should remain yours for the life of your car IF you practice preventive maintenance, emphasizes the council. This means regular checks, service and replacement of critical systems like brakes, steering and suspension, including tires.

Shock absorbers and struts, defined as ride control parts, also fit into the category of safety equipment. (A strut has a shock absorber inside a "housing" which connects the suspension to the vehicle's body.) If you're riding on worn shocks and struts, your vehicle may be unsafe not only to driver and passengers but also to other vehicles on the road.

Your car's ability to steer, brake and accelerate depends on the friction between the tires and the road. Instability of a vehicle, like bouncing wheels or swaying on turns, is caused by worn shock absorbers and/or struts. Worn shocks will also cause a nose dive action when you come to a stop and can increase braking distances up to 10%.

The symptoms of deteriorating ride control can gradually "sneak up on you" until they become noticeably bad. Such was the case with many owners of several hundred cars and trucks inspected during a National Car Care Month vehicle check. 44% had discrepancies with ride control components, mainly leaking shocks or struts. When the condition was brought to the owners' attention, they noted their vehicles had been riding or handling poorly.

During National Car Care Month '93 (October) make it a point to have your vehicle safety checked, reminds the Car Care Council.

More information about shock absorbers, struts and ride control is available in the Council's new pamphlet, entitled "Your Shocks and Struts Need Inspection." For a free copy send a business-sized, self addressed stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. RC, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 34352.

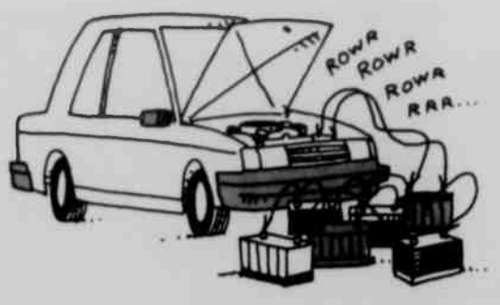
What's Involved In A Complete Car Tune-Up?

When you take your car into the shop for a "complete tune-up," a service generally required every 30,000 miles or every two or three years, what services should be included? This question, often controversial even among the automotive service trade, is addressed in a recent newsletter of the Professional Master Technician's Association. The facts are provided by a "CD-ROM" repair information database, used by technicians to access current and accurate diagnostic and repair information.

Electronic ignition, computerized engine controls and electronic fuel injection have eliminated many of the adjustments that once were part of a traditional tune-up. So most technicians probably would say a tune-up on most cars today is a preventive maintenance service or an engine performance check.



One of the main reasons people bring their vehicles into their mechanics for a tune-up is because they are experiencing some kind of "driveability" problem: starting, stalling, hesitation on acceleration, poor gas mileage or lack of power. These symptoms seldom are cured with a new set of spark plugs or a few turns of the screwdriver. On today's complex engines and comprehensive performance check is in order.

Another item that should be included is an emissions check, now mandatory in 35 states. Most mechanics check the operation of basic emissions control components, but an actual emissions check at the tailpipe is essential to accurate diagnosis.

The following are 21 items that should be included in a complete tune-up, according to the professionals. The list may vary according to vehicle and/or shop providing the service, but it's a handy reference for owners seeking quality service.

*Replace spark plugs
*Replace distributor rotor
*Check the distributor cap and replace it if necessary
*Check ignition timing and adjust if necessary
*Check ignition performance(firingvoltage/ignition patterns)
*Check ignition wires and replace if necessary
*Check ignition idle speed and adjust if necessary
*Check the choke mechanism (on engines with carburetors)
*Clean fuel injectors
*Check compression and/or power balance (to identify bad injectors as well as compression problems)
*Check manifold intake vacuum to reveal exhaust restrictions
*Check battery and charging voltage
*Check exhaust emissions, to verify fuel mixture, ignition performance and emission controls performance
*Check the vehicle computer for presence of any trouble codes
*Install a new air filter
*Replace the fuel filter(s)
*Replace the PCV (positive crankcase ventilation) valve
*Check all emissions control components
*Check all vital fluids, including engine oil, transmission fluid, coolant, brake and power steering fluid.
*Check all belts and hoses
*Check safety items such as lights, windshield wipers, tires, horn, etc.

For an informative pamphlet listing the eight most common signs your car needs a tune-up send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. T, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Car hard to start? That's one of the signs it needs a tune-up.

Car Maintenance: What You Don't Know Could Hurt You

Implementation of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 will affect all car owners by the end of the decade, the National Automobile Dealers Association said.

The Act mandates that the U.S. Environment Protection Agency issue regulations on its implementation, many of which will affect motor vehicles and the motor vehicle service industry. The regulatory debate will focus on enacting legislation that industry, environmentalists and the general public will support.

All Americans want clean air and a wholesome environment, but that will mean sacrifices and higher costs for industry and consumers, NADA said. Currently, eight out of 10 motorists pump their own gas and do not even bother to check engine oil level regularly. Dirty car engines pollute the air, and many unsafe cars are on the nation's highways as a result of improper maintenance.

Every car owner can contribute significantly to a cleaner environment and save money by doing two things--performing regular and periodic safety and maintenance checks on the cars you own or drive.

Simple adherence to maintenance schedules outlined in vehicle owner's manuals would contribute to a cleaner environment, save money in costly repair bills and save lives. Automobile dealers can provide car owners with a maintenance schedule tailored to local driving conditions.

NADA recommends that motorists regularly take their car to a dealership or repair shop and have the brakes, lights, tires, wipers and fluid level inspected, so that problems can be corrected before they become serious. The National Car Care Council estimates that 50 percent of all vehicle accidents in the United States are caused by unsafe vehicles that have not received basic maintenance.

October is National Car Care Month, and NADA reminds motorists that this is a perfect time to have your car thoroughly checked over and make sure that proper basic maintenance hasn't been neglected. As winter approaches, harsh weather and falling leaves become potential road hazards without good tires, a properly adjusted suspension system, good brakes and tight steering. Motorists should be aware of the increased demands of winter driving on vehicle engines. A seasonal tune-up ensure that your car is up to the challenge.

The message is simple: proper maintenance saves money and contributes to a cleaner environment because clean-running cars help reduce harmful emissions and help prevent highway fatalities.

For a free brochure on proper car maintenance, write to the National Automobile Dealers Association, Public Affairs Department, 8400 Westpark Drive, McLean, VA 22102, or phone (703) 827-7407 to request "At Your Service."

The National Automobile Dealers Association represents more than 19,000 franchised new-car-and-truck dealers holding 35,000 separate franchises, domestic and import.

Maintenance

Motorists have the option of performing inexpensive preventive maintenance and safety steps to prolong the life of their vehicles. Considering the high cost of purchasing a new vehicle, it only makes good sense to properly maintain and service your current vehicle.

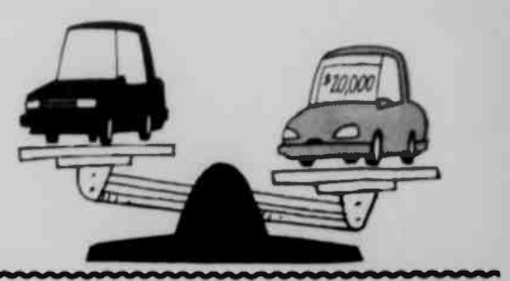
Best Used Car Buy Might Be The One You Own Now

If you've been muttering about your old car's "nickel and diming you to death," you may be fighting the urge to head for the dealer's showroom or used car lot. Sticker shock, however, can make those nickels and dimes look pretty good, especially when weighing the facts and figures provided by the Car Care Council in their pamphlet "Renew or Replace: Rx for Making a Decision."

Think about investing perhaps no more than the amount of a down payment to fix up your old car, suggests the pamphlet. In a sense, you'd be buying your next car at the right price from someone you (hopefully) can trust: YOURSELF.

When and if you do consider this option, be objective. Visit a mechanic and let him inspect your car. He can compile an itemized list of mechanical needs and the approximate cost to put it back in good shape. Next, put the pencil to it. If the car is paid for, you'll probably save money by giving it a new lease on life. Further, by having it repaired you can make your car serviceable for another couple of years while saving toward its replacement. And, when you are ready to deal, you'll have a better car to trade.

While a mechanic may quickly move under the hood to diagnose mechanical problems, most car owners look first to the outside of the car. They want a nice paint job, no dented fenders or missing trim. Some touch up work or perhaps a new paint job may be needed. Think about pin stripes to dress it up a bit.



Look at the interior. Does the fabric need to be cleaned and/or repaired? Would a sun roof make you happier with "Old Faithful?" A little money can go a long way toward upgrading a car.

To estimate the costs of cosmetic upgrading you'll need the help of a body and paint shop plus an upholstery and trim professional.

Once the decision has been made to revamp the car you already own, and depending upon the extent of the project, you may need a little help from your bank. While the bank might have been eager to make a new car loan, what about financing repairs on an older car? Circumstances alter cases, but most banks will finance this type of loan. The way they see it, the sum will be smaller and therefore a reduced risk. The customer's payments will be more affordable and on a shorter term.

So consider your options: a new car that may strain the budget and depreciate quickly, a used car that's an unknown quantity, or the car you already own. No matter what major work your car needs, it usually won't be as costly as the first two options.

For more information on this topic send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the Car Care Council, Dept. R, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

How Much Is Your Car Worth?

Have you ever wondered what the current market value of your automobile really is? Whether you are buying or selling a used car, or are simply curious, pinpointing a fair market value can be somewhat confusing. A dealer might suggest one price while newspaper ads might suggest a range of others. And, although high and low book values are obtainable by the general public, the available sources are limited and inconvenient (e.g. the reference section of the library, some banks and credit unions, a savings and loan.)

To alleviate the problem, a state-of-the-art computerized system has been introduced nationwide by National Automobile Data Service, Inc., which makes information on current used auto and truck values readily accessible. You simply dial 1-900-884-3300 on any touch-tone phone to activate the AUTO PRICELINE service, follow the simple instructions and, within an average of four minutes, you can obtain the current high and low values (that is the wholesale and retail values) of autos and trucks from 1975 to the present. The data is systematically updated so it is always current, and the service includes a list of applicable vehicle options.

The fee for this fingertip service is $2.00 per minute

As I drove through the countryside on that bright and brisk day in late October, the swirling leaves fragmented my view, so that I slowed to a stop alongside the road where I perceived a most fantastic vision.

Spanning the horizon was a stage, and on that stage was a myriad of majestic dancers adorned in their festive fall finery of orange and red and gold, swaying to and fro, keeping time with the woodwinds as they swept melodically through the trees, reflecting the brilliant light from above.

Moments later, I blinked back to reality and resumed my travel through the colorful autumn countryside. I marveled at the power of the imagination as it had influenced my perception of what I had "seen" seconds before.

God, the ultimate Creator, has given us the gift of imagination. He has also given us the gift of choice...of how we choose to perceive our world. Let us worship God each week, opening our hearts to the power of the Master, in order that we shall be influenced to perceive our lives as more positive and meaningful.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

"GOOD GUYS" vs. "BAD GUYS"
October 31, 1993

Background Scripture:
Genesis 25:19-34

Devotional Reading:
Genesis 25:19-34

The story of Jacob and Esau is not a story about a "good guy" versus a "bad guy." Neither of them is wholly "good" nor "bad." Both of them are very much like real people we all know.

The difference between them was not moral superiority--the Bible does not indicate that one was more righteous than the other. Although they were twins, there was nothing identical about them. They were simply different in almost every way. They looked different from minute-one. Esau was red and hairy. (His name is a play on both these characteristics--"red" is a play on the word Edom, the nation that Esau would find, and "hairy" is a play on the name Seir, the region of the Edomites.) Jacob in contrast, was not a hairy man. (His name, Jacob, was a play on the word "heel" or "he supplants"--a reference to the fact that as they were born, Jacob was grasping the heel of Esau and eventually supplanted him.) In the womb, it seemed to Rebekah that these two unborn children were already contending with one another.

Even their vocations typified two very different ways of life. Esau was the macho hunter, "a man of the field," while Jacob "was a quiet man, dwelling in tents" (25:27-28). There is nothing wrong with either vocation or life-style; they are simply different--although the Israelites traditionally identified more with the shepherds than the hunters--and the two styles of life sometimes clashed.

DIFFERENT TEMPERAMENTS

Furthermore, Esau and Jacob were different temperamentally. Esau was a man of the flesh; physical things were basic with him, like hunger or thirst. He was not ambitious to get ahead; he lived pretty much day to day. Jacob, by contrast, was a man who lived by his intelligence rather than his physical might. He was crafty and he did plan and scheme ahead. He knew what he wanted and was determined to get it.

There was a difference even in parental favor. This is not a case of the "good" parent against the "bad" parent. Both of them are very much like real parents today. Without planning it that way, Isaac favored Esau and Rebekah favored Jacob. The writer of this story suggests that Esau was like Isaac, while Jacob was more like his mother.

In the passage where Jacob cons Esau out of his birthright, it is again not a case of the "good guy" and the "bad guy." On the one hand, we fault Esau for being so careless and stupid to give up his birthright for the sake of something to eat. He didn't seem to have any sense of value. On the other hand, we can fault Jacob for being so conniving as to take advantage of his brother's stupidity.

VALUE & SIN

That's the way it is with people today. Often, it is not a case of the righteous versus the unrighteous, but that people are different and imperfect. There is value and sin in every life. Even so, God can use each of us to achieve his purpose. Jacob, despite his dishonesty, has the capacity to be the father of the tribes of Israel. And Esau, despite his limitations, will be the father of the Edomites.

In emphasizing their differences, we must not overlook their similarities. They had the same mother and father and they came from the same family. Different as they were, they ultimately had the capacity to recognize their bonds as well as their differences.

So, in our own families there are the same potentials and pitfalls. But God can use and bless all of us--and does.

COVER STORY

Drescher portrays a nanny with attitude

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Fran Drescher

Fran Drescher has the face of an angel, the mind of an intellectual and the voice of a road grader on gravel. All of it comes together in an unusually beautiful and funny package. Drescher uses her talent for making people laugh in her new CBS comedy, "The Nanny," debuting Wednesday, Nov. 3.

Drescher portrays the quick-witted and street-smart Fran Fine, who sets out one day to sell cosmetics door to door and finds herself as a nanny in charge of a wealthy Englishman's (Charles Shaughnessy) three neglected children.

"She brings heart, love and warmth to the house, and a bit of chaos," says Drescher of her character. "She always bends or breaks the rules, and everybody is better off because of it."

Drescher wrote and developed the characters, and she says there is a bit of herself in Fran Fine. "I think my character is a combination of my mother and myself before I moved away from Queens and became much more exposed to things," she says. "Fran's father has a lot of my husband's personality. He feels guilty if he isn't doing the right thing, but he also has trouble expressing himself."

Drescher is especially pleased to have creative control of "The Nanny." "When we finished 'Princesses,' I told my husband, Peter, that I was determined to get more inside on my next series. I wanted a lot more creative control," says Drescher. Her husband, Peter Marc Jacobson, is the executive producer and a writer for "The Nanny."

"We started brainstorming ideas, and then, as luck would have it, I ended up on the same plane as the president of CBS on a trip to Paris. I told him I had some ideas, and he said we could set up a meeting when I got back to Los Angeles.

"I spent some time at my friend Twiggy's home in London. She was also in 'Princesses.' It seemed so funny for me to be in their house. Twiggy and her husband, Leigh, have two teen-age children, and they were so polite and formal.

"One morning I was sitting in their living room, and I called Peter and said, 'What if we did a spin on "The Sound of Music" where I play a nanny and I come into this English guy's house to take care of his kids?' And it will be like no nanny anyone's ever seen before, and she changes everyone's lives.' He said it sounded like something we should develop. We pitched to CBS and they liked it, and the rest is history."

Drescher has kept creative control, overseeing every aspect of the production and even writing many of the episodes. "Peter and I wrote the first two episodes, and we help rewrite all the rest. We had a very clear vision in the beginning of what we wanted to see happen, and that is what we are doing."

This is not the first project Drescher and Jacobson have worked on together since they met in high school. They have produced shows, given haircuts together and even owned and operated their own gourmet crouton company. "We are a very entrepreneurial couple, who are realizing our dreams," Drescher says.

Melissa Gilbert stars as an ailing wife who murders her husband Bruce Boxleitner (both pictured) with the aid of his self-assured mistress (Kate Vernon), only to have him seemingly rise from the grave in "House of Secrets," airing Monday, Nov. 1, on NBC.

The eerie psychological thriller takes place in New Orleans' French Quarter. Cicely Tyson plays voodoo princess Evangeline. Michael Boatman also stars.

Eek! TBS crawling with 'Nature's Nightmares'

BY DAN RICE

Spiders, bats and a spooky atmosphere punctuated by deadly bolts of lightning are standard fare for Halloween, but "National Geographic Explorer" milks new chills with its presentation of frightening facts about these works of nature. Debuting Sunday, Oct. 31, on TBS, "Nature's Nightmares" offers a two-hour examination of natural terrors, introduced by host Robert Urich from a moonlit graveyard set.

In the first segment, "Bite of the Black Widow," victims of the "spider of death" recall their life-threatening ordeals, which usually involve 48 hours of intense pain. One bite recipient developed such a hostility to the spiders he now spends every summer night tracking down and killing them. The lifestyles of the eight-legged, eight-eyed creatures, which are prone to crawl into empty shoes, are thoroughly examined in the program. Also of interest is a follow-up segment on how filmmakers George and Kathleen Dodge captured those intriguing scenes of spider activity.

Next up is "When Lightning Strikes," a look at nature's greatest wrath, which connects with about 1,000 people every year. Goller Lee Trevino recounts his electrifying experience on a rain-soaked green, and Edwin Robinson testifies that his sight was restored by lightning after nine years of blindness.

The "Explorer" team then hangs with bats on their home turf in "Phantoms of the Night," and visits the set of "Arachnophobia" to profile bug wrangler Steve Kutcher, the man responsible for the creepy insect casts of "Exorcist II" and "Bram Stoker's Dracula."

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I enjoyed watching "Danger Theatre" last summer. We need more shows like that to help us forget our problems for a while. Who and where can I write about this show? –Mrs. S. DeHart, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada.

A: I thought this show was pretty good, too, but it drew mixed reviews. It's not on the fall schedule and, frankly, doesn't seem likely to return. Write to Peter Chernin, President, Fox Broadcasting Company, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90213.

"Danger Theatre"

Q: Why will this upcoming season of "Star Trek: The Next Generation" be the last one? Where can I write to express my anger for this cancellation? –Raul D. Infante, Tucson, Ariz.

A: Though the producers have been planning to wean viewers from "TNG" to "Deep Space Nine" for over a year, the situation is subject to change. As of this writing, there may be an eighth year of "TNG" in the stars, but there is a good chance that this season will be its last, with feature films to follow. I've heard the cast was excited about the move to theatrical films, but became less so when they learned of plans to include some of the original crew (including William Shatner) as well. Write to Rick Berman, Executive Producer, "Star Trek: TNG," Paramount Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Q: During the publicity over Raymond Burr's death, I think an error was made. I am sure that "Perry Mason" premiered either in 1955 or '56, not '57 as was reported. Please clear this up. –Mrs. C. Huffman, Waynesboro, Va.

A: Sorry, "Perry Mason" premiered Sept. 21, 1957, on CBS. While we're on this subject, let me add that I can't confirm any of the rumors that now fill my mail. This intensely private man married thrice, lost his only child to leukemia and lived his last years in pain. He once said, "The public understands perfectly everything I choose to show them ... as an actor. Everything else is none of their business." To which I say, "Amen, Counselor."

Q: When I was a little girl, I remember watching an animated special based on C.S. Lewis' "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe." I think it was on every year. Why isn't it shown anymore? Is it available on video? –K.G., Tucson, Ariz.

A: As the song almost says, you're looking for "Lion" in all the wrong places. It's been on HBO in recent years, and airs Wednesday, Nov. 3, on The Disney Channel. This version is in syndication now, so it could turn up anywhere. It's also available on tape.

John Stamos stars as Joseph Seldon, a businessman whose wife disappears during a boating trip gone awry, in "The Disappearance of Christina," airing Thursday, Nov. 4, on the USA Network.

As Seldon struggles to free himself from murder charges, he begins to discover signs that his wife may still be alive. A tangled web of greed, extortion and adulterous affairs begins to emerge. Robert Carradine, Claire Yarlett and Kim Delaney co-star.

Fran Drescher (right) is in charge of three affluent but neglected children, (from top) Nicholle Tom, Benjamin Salisbury and Madeline Zima, in "The Nanny," Wednesdays on CBS.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Halloween frights; epics on TBS

BY TED KUSIO

Peter Falk may not be scary, but he's featured on Halloween, Sunday, Oct. 31, as the annoying, poorly dressed, yet lovable detective in the ABC movie "Columbo: It's All in the Game." Patty Duke and Tracy Nelson are in the middle of a custody battle as a woman tries to adopt her grandchild, who has Down syndrome, in "No Child of Mine" on CBS. Michael Keaton becomes the guardian of his late partner's daughters in "One Good Cop" on NBC. And in the spirit of Halloween, Showtime frightens with "Candyman," Cinemax scares with "Leprechaun" and HBO playfully terrifies with "Ghostbusters."

Peter Falk

Continuing the Halloween theme on Monday, Nov. 1, NBC petrifies with a murdered husband returning from the dead in "House of Secrets," and Jean Stapleton spooks in "Ghost Mom" on Lifetime. The Movie Channel airs the last chapter in the Norman Bates saga, with Anthony Perkins in "Psycho IV: The Beginning." Showtime offers the last action hero himself, Arnold Schwarzenegger, in the 1991 blockbuster "Terminator 2: Judgment Day." Geena Davis and Madonna play ball in "A League of Their Own" on Cinemax. TBS presents Gary Cooper's Oscar-winning performance as a World War I hero in "Sergeant York."

Renew those wishes for a big-screen television as TBS presents Charlton Heston in the epic "Ben Hur" on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

HBO features Kim Basinger as an ambitious and sexy cartoon character in "Cool World," on Wednesday, Nov. 3. TBS offers Rhett Butler (Clark Gable) not giving a damn in the famous Civil War film "Gone With the Wind."

On Thursday, Nov. 4, a rich man is accused of killing his wife in the USA Network movie "The Disappearance of Christina." Meryl Streep tries comedy in "She Devil" on Showtime. The Movie Channel offers Mimi Rogers as a promiscuous woman who becomes a religious fanatic in "The Rapture."

Robert Wagner and Stefanie Powers return for new adventures in "Hart to Hart Returns," Friday, Nov. 5, on NBC. The Movie Channel presents Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis taking a road trip in "Thelma & Louise."

Wesley Snipes saves the day in "Passenger 57" on Saturday, Nov. 6, on HBO. Bruce Willis also saves the day in "Die Hard" on Showtime. Cher breaks hearts in "Moonstruck" on Cinemax.

TIME OUT

Breeders' Cup marks 10th anniversary

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Tom Hammond

The world's best thoroughbred horses take to the starting gate for one of the premier events of the racing year when NBC airs the Breeders' Cup from Santa Anita Raceway in California on Saturday, Nov. 6.

The 10th anniversary of the Breeders' Cup, the richest day in all of sports, includes seven championship races, each with a minimum purse of $1 million. The highlight of the day, the $3 million Breeders' Cup Classic, features an outstanding field of 3-year-olds and up going one and a quarter miles.

The Classic is wide open this time around, according to host Tom Hammond, who has worked with NBC and the Breeders' Cup since it began in 1984 from Hollywood Park.

"It's been a crazy year with everybody beating everybody else," says Hammond. "A lot of people lean toward Best Pal, who's only won one race all year but has run some great races at Santa Anita. Devil His Due has been consistent all year and Bertrando has been sensational the last couple of months."

The Breeders' Cup has provided Hammond and millions of other race fans some incredible moments over the past nine years, including a 1989 showdown between Easy Goer and Sunday Silence in the Classic.

"It was the great rivalry revisited for the last time," says Hammond. "That was one of the best races because it lived up to the pre-race hype."

Sunday Silence jumped out to a big early lead and held on to beat a charging Easy Goer by a neck.

Hammond also vividly recalls the 1988 Distaff at Churchill Downs. "It was maybe the greatest race I've ever seen," he says. "Personal Ensign, an unbeaten filly, was going up against Kentucky Derby champion Winning Colors. "As they came down toward the finish, Personal Ensign looked hopelessly beaten, but somehow or other found the courage to just barely win the race." Personal Ensign became the first major horse to retire undefeated in decades.

Although criticized by some in its early years as being merely a made-for-television event, the Breeders' Cup has had a profound effect on the sport during its first 10 years.

"Everything during the year is geared toward the Breeders' Cup now," Hammond points out. "The money and the prestige have made it the highlight of the season. Rarely does it fail to decide a championship in every division. It's become the all-surpassing moment in racing."

SOAP TALK

Charles Shaughnessy stars in 'The Nanny'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Daytime fans can now find one of their all-time favorite soap actors, Charles Shaughnessy (Shane, "Days of Our Lives"), on prime time. Shaughnessy co-stars this season with funny lady Fran Drescher in "The Nanny," airing Friday nights on CBS.

While it is often difficult for daytime actors to find work in prime time, Shaughnessy has managed to land himself on one of the hottest new shows of the fall season.

Charles Shaughnessy

The actor traded in his spy hat from "Days" for the top hat of a wealthy broadway producer in "The Nanny." His character has three children, of whom Drescher's character, Fran Fine, is in charge. The Englishman often matches wits with the street-wise but soft-hearted nanny, which makes for a very funny show.

Shaughnessy adores working with Drescher. "Fran is such an extraordinary woman. She is so capable, funny, charming, and I have really enjoyed my time working with her," says Shaughnessy.

Drescher, in turn, appreciates Shaughnessy's sensible English attitude. "When we were first working together, he started telling me about how American women are too obsessed with being thin and he really likes a woman that is a good 10 pounds overweight," says Drescher. "And I'm thinking to myself, 'This guy is, like, from heaven. I love this man.'"

Daytime fans were mortified when Shaughnessy decided to leave "Days" and the popular role of Shane Donovan, but the actor says it was time.

"I left daytime because it was time for me to go," says Shaughnessy. "I spent eight years on 'Days.' You can have amnesia only so many times. I had a psychopathic twin. I had been blown up about 16 times. I had enough bullets and shrapnel in my body to keep me away from refrigerator magnets for months. It was just time to move on. But I wouldn't have any problem going back to daytime. I enjoyed it a great deal."

Shaughnessy was one of the biggest daytime stars, but he says it didn't really help him find work.

"When you leave daytime, it doesn't matter how popular you were, you have to start all over in order to work in prime time and film. It is not easy, and I think that is why so many actors fail. It can be quite a bust to an ego."

Urich in a natural thriller, fictional chills with Stamos

BY JOHN CROOK

"National Geographic Explorer" taps into some primal terror with "Nature's Nightmares," a special Halloween edition airing Sunday, Oct. 31, on TBS. Host Robert Urich strolls through a spooky graveyard set as he introduces segments on things that make people go "Eek!" or "Ewwww!," as the case may be – including black widow spiders, bats and bugs.

Robert Urich

Viewers who suffer from arachnophobia (fear of spiders) should be advised that the opening segment, "Bite of the Black Widow," contains almost unbearably vivid close-up glimpses of the web-spinners infiltrating private homes. Also featured: a conversation with "bug wrangler" Steve Kutcher, who supervised the use of creepy-crawlies in "Bram Stoker's Dracula."

Three sets of estranged fathers and sons attempt to work out their differences during a tense sailboat voyage, in "Father/Son," a two-hour documentary airing Saturday, Nov. 6, on The Family Channel. The special is the third entry in the six-part series "Desperate Passage."

"Father/Son" brings together a recovering alcoholic and his runaway son and a workaholic and his son, as well as a gang member and the son who just wants him to come home. The documentary was filmed in the cramped quarters of a 57-foot sailboat during a seven-day trip.

A carpenter and Vietnam veteran helps a teen-age war orphan who comes to America seeking her G.I. father, in "Night Driving." The Showtime 30-Minute Movie premieres Wednesday, Nov. 3.

John Stamos stars in "The Disappearance of Christina," a thriller about a businessman accused of murdering his wife. It premieres Thursday, Nov. 4, on the USA Network.

Gregory Peck won an Oscar for his unforgettable portrayal of soft-spoken Alabama attorney Atticus Finch in "To Kill a Mockingbird." Mary Badham and Philip Alford shine as the children, Scout and Jim, and Elmer Bernstein's musical score is haunting. The beautifully crafted film version of Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel (Horton Foote's screen adaptation also won an Oscar) airs Sunday on A&E.

HBO reprises its Emmy-winning original movie "The Positively True Adventures of the Alleged Texas Cheerleader-Murdering Mom," on Monday, Nov. 1. The fact-based black comedy won acting trophies for both Holly Hunter and Beau Bridges.

4:00 pm 7 ★★½ Frontier Hellcat (1966 Adventure) Stewart Granger, Elke Sommer. A diamond merchant is abducted by outlaws posing as Indians.

"The very thought that someone has the audacity to drink and drive," says movie critic Gene Siskel, "and be a missile on the highway, taking out other people, is simply appalling." Siskel joins forces with fellow film buff Roger Ebert and Mothers Against Drunk Driving to combat the crime of driving while intoxicated in "Hollywood Gets M.A.D.D." airing Saturday, Nov. 6, on TBS. Drunken drivers killed an estimated 18,000 people and injured 1.2 million in 1992.

THIS WEEK

HALLOWEEN BARTATHON: Latecomers to the party that is "The Simpsons" can catch up with the seasonal brilliance of the show's Halloween specials when Fox airs all four of those episodes back to back on Sunday, Oct. 31. • Also on Sunday, PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre" concludes its latest cycle of "Jeeves and Wooster," with Stephen Fry and Hugh Laurie. • Robert Urich examines natural terrors (bats and spiders) on a special edition of "National Geographic Explorer," Sunday on TBS. • Melissa Gilbert, Bruce Boxleitner and Cicely Tyson star in "House of Secrets," a spooky remake of the French thriller "Diabolique" set in New Orleans' French Quarter. The TV movie airs Monday, Nov. 1, on NBC. • Peter Falk wrote the script for the latest "Columbo" mystery, "It's All in the Game," co-starring Faye Dunaway. The film airs Sunday on ABC. • A woman serving time for killing her abusive husband escapes prison to start a new life under an assumed identity, in "Conviction: The Kitty Dodds Story," a CBS movie starring Veronica Hamel and Kevin Dobson on Tuesday, Nov. 2. • On Friday, Nov. 5, Robert Wagner and Stefanie Powers return in the first of four new "Hart to Hart Returns" whodunits made for the NBC Friday Night Mystery wheel.

FSU To Present Researcher On JFK Assassination

J. Gary Shaw

Frostburg State University's Campus Activities Board and United Campus Ministry are sponsoring a lecture on the JFK conspiracy by J. Gary Shaw on Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the University's Lane Center multi-use room. The event is free and open to the public.

To a large majority of the American people, the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963 remains an unsolved mystery. By the latest polls, three out of four citizens do not believe the official versions of how, why, and by whom Kennedy met his tragic death almost 30 years ago. Many believe there was a massive cover-up of the true facts about this political murder.

It is this "cover-up" that author researcher J. Gary Shaw addresses in his informative lecture and visual presentation on the assassination. "Revealing documentary and photographic evidence is presented in a concise and easy-to-follow manner by which the audience may judge for themselves the validity of the official version of the President's death. In approaching the questions of how, why, and who, light is shed on what really transpired in Dallas, Texas on Nov. 22, 1963," according to an FSU spokesman.

Shaw is an architect in private practice since 1969 and first generation researcher/investigator into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He has been actively involved in JFK research since 1963 and has been a contributor to numerous books, films, and television programs about the case. He is the co-author of two on the subject, COVER-UP: The Governmental Conspiracy to Conceal the Facts About the Public Execution of John Kennedy (1976), and the best seller, JFK: Conspiracy of Silence (1992). He is also a director with the Assassination Archives and Research Center in Washington and a director and co-founder of the JFK Assassination Information Center in Dallas. He is currently working on his third book about the assassination.

For more information about the programs, persons may call the Lane Center Information Desk at (301) 689-4411.

Rep. Bartlett Votes Against Deficit Spending

Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett scored 100% in the 1993 Sincerity Ratings issued by the Association of Concerned Taxpayers (ACT). "It's nice to know there are still some good guys around like Roscoe Bartlett," said Gordon S. Jones, association president, in releasing the study.

ACT rated six 1993 votes in each of the two houses of Congress which presented explicit tradeoffs between increased deficits and spending cuts. On those votes, 205 representatives and senators consistently voted for more government spending. Of the 205, 191 of them had supported the Clinton Budget plan, supposedly because it would reduce the deficit.

"It isn't news that most representatives and senators lie to their constituents," said Jones of the study's results. "But the degree of hypocrisy revealed in this study is truly astounding."

"These members of Congress are not really opposed to deficit spending," said Jones. "Their vocal opposition to deficit spending, expressed in town meetings and at other gatherings of the voters, is merely a cover for higher taxes. They simply have not grasped the point that, however justified a new spending proposal might be, there isn't any more money."

But a significant minority of representatives and senators consistently voted against increased deficit spending. All 171 of those who received a 100% rating, including Congressman Bartlett, also voted against the Clinton budget bill.

ACT looked at such new spending proposals as the Clinton Administration's proposal for a National Service, extension of unemployment benefits, and flood relief "ACT is not arguing the merits of these programs," noted Jones. "They may have merit, and in any case, it is obvious that the voters support them. But they have to be paid for. When offered a chance to pay for them by reducing other spending programs, too many members just blew the opportunity."

Jones commended those who opposed by the Clinton Budget and these new unfunded programs. "These people had the courage of their convictions. They knew that the Clinton Budget would not cut federal spending, and they refused to be stampeded into supporting even more spending.

The entire rating, with state-by-state breakdowns of the votes of representatives and senators, is available from the Association of Concerned Taxpayers. More information may be obtained by calling (202) 785-0494 or FAX (202) 785-0261. ACT is a grassroots lobbying organization working for tax reform at the federal level.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE HOWARD HOUSE on Alder Street in Oakland was built by the children and grandchildren of Frances Scott Kay, author of the National Anthem. The widow of Key and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Howard (daughter-in-law of Revolutionary General John Howard) first visited Oakland in 1857. The house was built sometime shortly thereafter and was used as a summer home by their descendants for many years. The house was razed in the early 1960s. Historical Trust Seeks Applications For Grant Fund

The Maryland Historical Trust, an agency of the Department of Housing and Community Development, is now accepting applications for the 1994 (Fiscal Year 1995) Historic Preservation Grant Fund. The application deadline is December 31, 1993, for grant funds available after July 1, 1993.

Nonprofit organizations, local jurisdictions, business entities, and individuals may apply for these matching funds. The maximum grant award is $40,000. Funds may be used for pre-development and development activities associated with the acquisition, rehabilitation, or restoration of historic properties listed in or eligible for listing in Maryland Register of Historic Properties, or for a variety of historic preservation research, survey, education, and promotion activities.

The Trust uses its Open Project Selection Criteria to evaluate each application. Successful applicants for projects assisting historic real property must convey a perpetual historic preservation easement to the Maryland Historical Trust prior to the release of funds.

For further information, applications, and copies of the open Project Selection Criteria, persons may contact Richard Brand (Capital Projects) or Michael K. Day (Non-Capital Projects) at the Maryland Historical Trust, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, MD 21032 or call 410-514-7600.

The Maryland Historical Trust is the official state historic preservation office for Maryland.

Pull The Plug On Household Hazards.

Electricity is a necessity in modern living. It serves you well all day, every day. But it also can have a dangerous side to it. Here's how to avoid some accidents that can occur when safety precautions go unheeded.

Never place electric cords where they'll be tripped over or receive excessive wear (such as under rugs, through doorways, etc.). Inspect electrical cords often for wear-especially at the plugs and any connections. Always follow the manufacturers' instructions for operation and care of electrical appliances. Immediately disconnect any appliance that sparks or stalls during operation. Keep combustible materials (clothing, curtains, paper, etc.) away from lamps or heating devices. After ironing clothes, be sure the iron is unplugged (not just turned off) when you leave it. Never turn on an appliance while standing on a wet floor, and don't put any electrical parts in water or use portable electric tools in wet weather.

What's Cooking?

Spooky costumes, mysterious masks, flickering candles in a jack-o'-lantern — what could be more fun for kids and parents alike than a Halloween party?

This year, plan a post trick or treating celebration bewitching [illegible] guests with traditional tricks and tempting treats made with pure, unsweetened cocoa, sinfully smooth chocolate bars and one of-a kind milk chocolate Kisses.

Halloween Chocolate Cake, decorated like a pumpkin with zesty orange frosting, green icing vines and a chocolate covered ice cream cone stem, is sure to bring oohs and aahs from your guests. A combination of milk chocolate bars and cocoa makes it devilishly rich, and the velvety smooth taste will haunt them long after Halloween.

And since Halloween is the perfect time for a little mystery, treat the party crowd to Pumpkin Face Surprise Cookies; watch their eyes light up as they discover a hidden chunk of creamy chocolate sandwiched between two rich cocoa cookie layers. Their orange frosting pumpkin faces liven up any goody tray! And because the cookies are made with all natural cocoa, preparation is easy — simply blend the rich-tasting cocoa with the other dry ingredients, and avoid the messy, pre melting steps required by other baking chocolate ingredients.

Halloween Thumbprint Cookies are scaringly good! These dark chocolates cookies are sure to cast a spell on visiting spooks and spirits when they taste the sweet combination of chocolate and creamy orange filling topped with a chocolate Kiss.

For a mouthwatering chocolate dessert that will make even the scariest jack-o'-lantern smile, serve Double Kiss Chocolate Cupcakes. Costumed callers will be surprised when they sink their fangs into these rich cocoa cupcakes and find a chocolate treat inside. Topped with vanilla frosting and another chocolate Kiss, it's no mystery why these treats will be a hit.

Ghosts, black cats and witches alike will howl about Spooky Cookie S'mores. They're eye-catching cocoa cookies in favorite Halloween shapes filled with gooey marshmallow and creamy milk chocolate. The little ones will love helping decorate the cookies with ghostly icing faces.

For a twist on a traditional treat, dip apples into a bowl of warm, melted chocolate to create Bewitching Chocolate Coated Apples. The spellbinding combination of crunchy apples and satiny smooth chocolate will mesmerize both young and old trick or treaters.

spook-tacular TREATS

HALLOWEEN CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 5 HERSHEY'S Milk Chocolate Bars (1.55 oz. each), broken into pieces
- ½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup boiling water
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup HERSHEY'S Cocoa
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Chocolate-Coated Ice Cream Cone
- Orange Frosting
- Decorator Frosting (recipes follow)

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour 12-cup fluted tube pan. In medium bowl, stir together chocolate bar pieces, butter and water until chocolate is melted. In large mixer bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda, and salt; gradually add butter mixture, beating until thoroughly blended. On medium speed of electric mixer, blend in eggs, sour cream and vanilla; beat 1 minute. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan to wire rack. Cool completely. Meanwhile, prepare Chocolate Coated Ice Cream Cone. Drizzle Orange Frosting over cake. Place ice cream cone into center of cake for pumpkin stem. Using leaf decorating tip, pipe leaves onto "pumpkin" with Decorator Frosting. 12 to 16 servings.

Chocolate-Coated Ice Cream Cone: In small microwave-safe bowl, place one 1.55 ounce Milk Chocolate Bar, broken into pieces, and 1 teaspoon shortening (do not use butter, margarine or oils). Microwave at HIGH (100%) 40 to 50 seconds; stir until chocolate is melted and mixture is smooth when stirred. Spread melted chocolate over outside of flat-bottom ice cream cone. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm, about 30 minutes.

Orange Frosting: In microwave-safe bowl, place ½ cup butter or margarine. Microwave at HIGH (100%) 1 minute or until melted. Stir in 2 cups powdered sugar, 1 to 2 teaspoons freshly grated orange peel and 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract. Stir in 2 to 4 tablespoons hot water for desired consistency. Blend in red and yellow food colors for desired orange color.

Decorator Frosting: In small mixer bowl, combine 3 tablespoons water and 1 tablespoon meringue powder*. Add 1½ cups powdered sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla extract; beat on high speed of electric mixer until stiff. Blend in green food color for desired color.

BEWITCHING CHOCOLATE COATED APPLES

- 6 medium apples
- 6 wooden sticks
- 1 HERSHEY'S SYMPHONY Milk Chocolate Bar (7 oz.), broken into pieces
- 1 tablespoon shortening (do not use butter, margarine or oils)

Cover tray with wax paper. Wash and dry apples; remove stems. Insert wooden stick into stem end of each apple. In medium microwave-safe bowl, place chocolate bar pieces and shortening. Microwave at HIGH (100%) 30 seconds; stir. Microwave at HIGH additional 30 seconds; stir. If necessary, microwave at HIGH additional 10 seconds at a time, stirring after each heating, just until chocolate is melted and mixture is smooth when stirred. Dip apples into chocolate mixture; twirl to remove excess coating. Place on prepared tray. Refrigerate until coating is firm, about 1 hour. 6 coated apples.

SPOOKY COOKIE S'MORES

- ½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup HERSHEY'S Cocoa
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 9 to 12 large marshmallows, cut in half
- 6 HERSHEY'S Milk Chocolate Bars (1.55 oz. each), broken into pieces
- Decorator Frosting (recipe follows)

In large mixer bowl, beat butter, sugar, egg and vanilla until well blended. Stir together flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt; add to butter mixture, mixing until well blended. Divide dough into quarters; wrap tightly. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Heat oven to 325°F. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough, one-fourth at a time, to ⅛-inch thickness. With ghost or cat shaped cookie cutters, cut dough. Place cookies 1 inch apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until firm. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack; cool completely. Place marshmallow and chocolate piece on flat side of 1 cookie; place on paper towel. Microwave at HIGH (100%) 10 to 15 seconds or until marshmallow puffs. Top with matching cookie; press down slightly. Repeat with remaining cookies. Decorate with Decorator Frosting, if desired. About 1½ dozen sandwich cookies.

Decorator Frosting: In small mixer bowl, combine 3 tablespoons water and 1 tablespoon meringue powder. Add 1½ to 1¾ cups powdered sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla extract; beat on high speed of electric mixer until stiff.

PUMPKIN FACE SURPRISE COOKIES

- ½ cup butter or margarine, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup HERSHEY'S Cocoa
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 HERSHEY'S SYMPHONY Milk Chocolate Bar (7 oz.)
- Decorator Frosting*

In large mixer bowl, beat butter, sugar, egg and vanilla until creamy. Stir together flour, cocoa and baking powder; add alternately with milk to butter mixture until well blended. Divide dough into quarters; flatten each into a disc. Wrap individually in plastic wrap. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours or until easy to handle. Meanwhile, break milk chocolate bar into pieces on scored lines; cut each piece in half. Heat oven to 350°F. Working with one portion of dough at a time on floured surface, roll to about ⅛ inch thickness. Using 2 inch round cookie cutter, cut dough into equal number of rounds. Place half the rounds on ungreased cookie sheet. Place one chocolate piece in center of each round. Place remaining rounds on top. Using tines of fork, seal edges. Bake 8 minutes or until set. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. Cool completely. With Decorator Frosting, decorate top of cookies to resemble pumpkin face. About 40 cookies.

*See recipe for Halloween Chocolate Cake. Create orange frosting by substituting red and yellow food color for green.

HALLOWEEN THUMBPRINT COOKIES

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine, softened
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup HERSHEY'S Cocoa
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Additional sugar
- About 48 HERSHEY'S KISSES Milk Chocolates
- Orange Filling (recipe follows)

In large mixer bowl, beat butter, 1 cup sugar, egg yolks, milk and vanilla until well blended. Stir together flour, cocoa and salt; add to butter mixture, mixing until well blended. Refrigerate dough 1 to 2 hours or until firm enough to handle. Heat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease cookie sheet. Remove wrappers from chocolate pieces. Shape dough into 1 inch balls; roll in sugar. Place on prepared cookie sheet. Press thumb gently in center of each cookie. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until set. Spoon about ¼ teaspoon Orange Filling into thumbprint of warm cookies. Gently press chocolate piece in center of each cookie. Carefully remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. Cool completely. About 4 dozen cookies.

Orange Filling: In small mixer bowl, combine 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine, 4 teaspoons milk and ½ teaspoon vanilla extract; beat on high speed of electric mixer until smooth. Blend in yellow and red food color for desired orange color.

DOUBLE KISS CHOCOLATE CUPCAKES

- About 60 HERSHEY'S KISSES Milk Chocolates
- ¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter or margarine, softened
- 1¾ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup HERSHEY'S Cocoa
- 1¼ teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- 1¼ cups water

Remove wrappers from chocolate pieces; set aside. Heat oven to 350°F. Paperline 30 muffin cups (2½ inches in diameter). In large mixer bowl, combine butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla. Beat on high speed of electric mixer 3 minutes. Stir together flour, cocoa, baking soda, salt and baking powder; add alternately with water to butter mixture. Beat until just combined. Fill prepared muffin cups about ⅔ full with batter. Place chocolate piece in center of each. Bake 20 minutes or until top springs back when touched lightly in center. Remove from cups to wire rack. Cool completely. Frost as desired. Place another chocolate piece on top of each cupcake. About 2½ dozen cupcakes.

Jacoby Named Associate Prof. Of Journalism

Fred. W. Jacoby has been named associate professor of journalism at Potomac State College of West Virginia University for the 1993-94 academic year, according to President Joseph M. Gratto. Jacoby is in his 10th year of teaching journalism and mass communications at Potomac State. He is also the college's coordinator of communications and sports information director.

Jacoby received his master's degree in journalism from the University of Maryland. He also earned a bachelor's degree in journalism and economics from the University of Maryland.

In addition to his teaching duties at the college, Jacoby is the faculty adviser of the student newspaper, Pasquino, now in its 73rd year of continuous publication.

Jacoby serves as chairman of the state-wide West Virginia Higher Education Public Relations Council. He is also editor of the state-wide West Virginia Writing Project newsletter.

He is active in faculty governance on the PSC campus as a member of the faculty executive committee, the college-wide review committee, and is a former chairman and secretary of the faculty assembly.

Jacoby is currently chairman of the Student Life Council and the Library and Bookstore Committee.

He has completed a series of seminars presented by the Center for Critical Thinking at Sonoma State University, as well as numerous effective teaching workshops. He has been nominated for Outstanding Professor of the Year at Potomac State.

In his community, Jacoby has served two terms as president of the Loch Lynn Elementary School PTA and is a member of the Mt. Top Volleyball League and the Broadford Lake Volleyball Association.

Prior to his tenure at Potomac State College, he was an instructor at Garrett Community College, writer/editor for the Department of Commerce's National Ocean Survey, and managing editor of the North Coast Times-Eagle newspaper in Wheeler, Ore.

Jacoby resides in Oakland with his wife, Connie, and Sons, Jaime and Eric.

Lighthouse Staff Receives Training

Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., counselors Sharon DeWitt and Helen West attended training at the Thomas B. Finan Center in Cumberland on Oct. 22.

The psycogeriatrics training was sponsored by the Western Maryland Regional Office of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Hygiene. It addressed the mental health needs of the elderly through an introduction to assessment, treatment, and service planning. The workshop featured presentations on normal aging, dementia, schizophrenia, delusional disorders, and depression, along with clinical vignettes.

Lighthouse staff will attend a follow-up seminar at Finan on Nov. 17 to discuss functional assessment of the elderly consumer, service planning, and treatment.

"The need to identify and provide appropriate rehabilitation for the elderly with psychiatric disabilities is a significant step in enhancing the range of services. Providers of rehabilitation services need to understand aging and its effect on mental health," stated Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski, executive director, Lighthouse, Inc.

Special Services Set At Mtn. Top Christian Assembly

Special services will be held at the Mountain Top Christian Assembly of God November 5-7 and will be conducted by students from Export Bible School, according to Pastor James Boyce.

The services will begin on Friday, November 5, at 7 p.m. There will be a special door to door visitation in the Mountain Lake Park area on Saturday from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. The students will be obtaining responses from the public on vital issues facing the nation.

The church services will continue Saturday, November 6, at 7 p.m. The final services will be held Sunday, November 7, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the services and persons desiring additional information may call 334-5995.

Dinner Theatre At Zion School Is Re-Scheduled

Zion School of Christian Education, Grantsville, had planned a dinner theatre for October, but several "unforseen developments" made it necessary to postpone the event until November 11, 12, and 13. The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. and the theatre presentation will be at 7:30 p.m.

The play is a comedy mystery written by George McDowell Jr., titled Who Doeth It? Set in an English manor house, it involves some of the world's best detectives as they try to solve the mysterious murder.

For more information, persons may call Benny Simmons at (301) 895-3840 or Zion School at (301) 895-5978. Tickets are available through the school or at Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville. Persons may arrange to have tickets reserved in their name, at the door, by calling (301) 895-5978 or writing Zion School, P.O. Box 44, Grantsville, MD 21536.

"It is important that we know which night you will attend the dinner. Attendance at the dinner is not mandatory for attendance at the play, but we ask that you call for particulars," stated a Zion spokesman.

Railroad Book Published By FSU Faculty Member

Dr. Harry Stegmaier has a mission to make sure that a generation too young to remember the glory days of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will at least be able to read about it. Stegmaier, professor of history at Frostburg State University, recently published the first of five volumes on the B&O passenger service from 1945-1971 entitled "The Route of The National Limited."

Once known as the "flagship of the St. Louis Main," The National Limited was the premier train to the gateway of the Southwest, says Stegmaier. The National Limited name began on April 26, 1925, when the Baltimore & Ohio inaugurated an all-Pullman luxury train on the New York to St. Louis run in the halcyon days of the "Roaring Twenties."

Through the years, the B&O adapted to the times by adding lighter, more streamlined cars than the heavier more luxurious Pullmans, but the service aspect remained constant.

"To understand B&O passenger service, and what happened to it, it is necessary to understand that Americans had fallen in love with the automobile in the 1920s and car ownership had soared," he said. Building new highways became board. Stegmaier has filled his book with old photographs, car diagrams, advertisements and publicity photos to document this particular line.

Stegmaier has an extensive background in railroad history. He has published several articles in "The Inside Track" and the Passenger Train Journal" including ones on "The Mercury: New York Central's Train of Tomorrow," one of the first railroad streamliners in the United States. He has also written "A Basic History of World War II: A World in Turmoil: 1919-1945" published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Company and was one of the authors of "Allegany County: A History."

His love affair with trains is reflected in his many articles on railroads, from the short line railroads of Garrett County to the Grand Trunk Western Railroad lines from Detroit to Chicago. Many of those lines are now gone, including the National Limited which was eliminated in 1969.

"It is hoped that this history of post-war B&O passenger service will bring back many good memories for those who experienced it first-hand, particularly that special B&O touch that made travel so pleasant," Stegmaier said. "The B&O has been of special interest to me for a long time and I wanted to write its history before it was lost."

Besides the National Limited, the book covers the history of all trains on the St. Louis route, including the Diplomat, the Metropolitan Special, the West Virginian, the Cincinnatian, the Louisville Service and the Grafton to Wheeling connecting trains. Future volumes will cover other routes.

Baltimore & Ohio Passenger Service, 1945-1971: Volume I was published by TLC Publishing Company and is available at The Book Center, Cumberland.

Maryland Gasoline Consumption Up During Summer

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said stable gasoline prices and fair weather combined to boost gasoline consumption as well as tourism activity during the summer of 1993. Motorists used 560.9 million gallons of gasoline during June, July and August of 1993, up 13.7 million gallons or 2.5% over the summer of 1992.

The comptroller told the audience at a ribbon-cutting for the I-83 Warren Road interchange in Baltimore County, "This is the first significant summertime increase in gasoline consumption since 1989," Goldstein said. "The summer vacation season and the month of December are normally when the most gasohne is sold."

Gasoline sales were highest during July, when 191.4 million gallons were sold. August sales totaled 186.8 million gallons and June sales 182.7 million gallons.

Buckwheat Cake/ Sausage Supper Set In Swanton

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the Swanton Community Center on Saturday, November 13, beginning at 4 p.m., according to a Center spokesperson.

The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. Proceeds from the supper will benefit Swanton Community Center projects.

Circuit Assembly Of Jehovah's Witnesses Held In Corapolis

"Keep Seeking First the Kingdom" was the theme for the Circuit Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses held in the weekend of October 17 and 17, according to local elder Donald Stull.

Over 1,000 witnesses from Northern West Virginia and Western Maryland congregations met the Assembly Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Corapolis, Pa., for the two-day gathering, with 125 attending from the Oakland congregation.

Traveling overseer, Gene Shalkoski, spoke on the topic, "What God's Kingdom Will Do For Mankind."

Stull noted that six delegates from the Oakland congregation symbolized their dedication to Jehovah by water baptism at the assembly.

Yommer-Resh Reunion Held

The 12th annual Yommer-Resh reunion was held at the Grantsville Park on August 21 with approximately 85 persons attending from Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Delaware.

Mamie Yommer, Grantsville, was the eldest woman attending and William R. Yommer, Baltimore, was the eldest man attending. The youngest girl at the reunion was Leanne Rounds, Grantsville. The youngest boy was Danny Rodriguez, Meyersdale, Pa. Larry and Janice Holton, Delaware, traveled the farthest. Brian Rest, Mantua, Ohio, won the horseshoe pitching contest.

Among Who's Who

Mandi Stemple, daughter of Bobby and Wilma Stemple, Oakland, has been nominated for honorary award recognition for two consecutive years (1991-91 and 1992-93). Her biography has been published in the 26th and 27th annual editions of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

The publication recognizes students for their academic and community achievements and the honor is received only by five percent of the nation's high school students. Miss Stemple is now eligible for the Who's Who Scholarship Program and college referral services.

She is a junior at Southern High School. She is on the yearbook staff and is a member of the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren.

Miss Stemple has also been chosen as a congressional scholar and was invitad to the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington, D.C.

Three Agencies Hold Open House

Garrett Community College (GCC) -- Oakland Canter Continuing Education, The Training Place (Garrett County J.T.P.A. office), and the Department of Human Resources (DHR) Maryland Childcare Administration recently held a joint open house to officially open their renovated building (the old Rolyan's building) at 215 South Third Street, Oakland.

Visitors, representatives of other agencies, the Private Industry Council, and graduates from programs were given tours of the new facilities. An estimated 180 people attended the event. Persons who would like to tour the facility are welcome at any time during business hours.

More information may be obtained by contacting Pat Baer, GCC, at 334-8304; M. Sue Shockey, The Training Place at 334-8136; or Debbie Bernard, D.H.R. at 334-3426.

Open Air Burning Regulations Noted

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department, reminds landowners of the open air burning regulations that are in effect in Garrett County. Now that fall has arrived, many landowners are in the process of cleaning up their yards and are interested in burning the leaves and debris.

"Unfortunately many landowners do not burn safely resulting in wildfire," a DNR spokesman said. In 1992, debris burners caused a total of 20 fires in Western Maryland. Debris burning in Garrett County accounted for eight fires, or 42%, of the wildfires in the county last year.

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands. The regulations are:

1. A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2. Adjacent personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3. At least one responsible person must remain at the burning site until the last spark is out.

4. Permissible burning hours, where a DNR Forest Service permit isn't required, are between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m., Daylight Savings Time (DST). When the time changes at the end of October, the burning times will change to between 4 p.m. and midnight, Eastern Standard Time (EST).

5. Open air burning, under regulations 1-4, requires a burning permit from the county health department (334-8980). Open air burning prior to 5 p.m. D.S.T. or 4 p.m. E.S.T. requires a burning permit from DNR Forest Service in addition to the permit from the health department.

6. Prior to all open air burning, the landowner should contact the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management at the non-emergency number, (301) 334-1929, and let them know where the burning is being conducted and who is responsible. This prevents the unnecessary alerting of the volunteer fire companies.

7. Burning on windy days should be avoided. High winds are one of the leading causes of debris fires escaping control and becoming wildfire.

Open air burning not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $50 to $250.

For additional information, persons may call the DNR Forest Service at (301) 334-3296 or the Garrett County Health Department at (301) 334-8980.

Safe Halloween Planned at GCC

A safe Halloween for all children in the community is being planned by the Student Government Association of Garrett Community College in the Student Center for Friday, Oct. 29, from 7-10 p.m. There will be no admission charge, but each child is asked to bring one non-perishable food item that will then be donated to the House of Hope.

According to SGA President Lora Evans, children should wear costumes. Activities will include a haunted house, games, and trick or treat.

NOTICE TO LOCH LYNN RESIDENTS

Leaves will be picked up in the Town of Loch Lynn on Saturday, Oct. 23 and the following Saturday, Oct. 30, weather permitting. There is no need for residents to bag the leaves, but they must be raked to the edge of the street.

Abandoned Mine Reclamation Projects To Reclaim 197 Acres Of Mined Land

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Mines, will have administered $2.7 million to fund nine abandoned mine reclamation projects in 1993. The nine projects, five in Garrett County and four in Allegany County, will reclaim 197 acres of mined land, stabilize roads, seal deep mine entries, and remove hazardous structures.

Frank Arnold Contractors, Oakland, completed a deep mine closure project in May and a strip reclamation project in August. Three deep mine entries near Crellin were sealed to prevent access into the abandoned workings at a cost of $3,588. Arnold also completed a $110,170 project which reclaimed 28 acres of abandoned strip mine three miles south of Bittinger.

The strip mine, located near the Pleasant Valley 4-H Center, was partially within Cunningham Swamp, a wetland of Special State Concern. Abandoned mine pits filled with water were a safety hazard. The steep sideslopes of the water filled pits were graded to a flatter angle to reduce the safety hazards while protecting the wetland and enhancing the ecological and aesthetic value of the water bodies.

A 48-acre abandoned surface mine on Franklin Hill, northwest of Westernport, is being reclaimed by Eagle Mining, Inc., of Midlothian. The contract to reclaim the area, which has been destabilized by landslides and erosion, will cost $578,880.

Earthmovers Unlimited, Inc., of Tyrone, Pa., reclaimed a 12-acre abandoned strip mine in the Aarons Run watershed, north of Bloomington. The $144,060 project eliminated a dangerous highwall and reduced infiltration of surface water into deep mine workings.

The IA Construction Company is performing a $997,000 contract which will eliminate the threat of mine sinks, or cave-ins, along a section of Route 936 north of Midland. Mine shafts and voids located beneath a quarter-mile stretch of the state highway are being filled with stone and compacted earth to prevent future subsidence. The Maryland State Highway Administration is administering the IA contract utilizing funds received from the Bureau of Mines.

A $266,100 project by Walter N. Yoder and Sons, Inc. of Cumberland will reduce infiltration of Vale Run stream flow into underlying abandoned deep mine workings south of Frostburg. Historically, flows in Vale Run, a tributary to Georges Creek, entered the deep mine through fissures in the rock and discharged from the Hoffman Drainage Tunnel, near Clarysville. The Hoffman Tunnel was constructed in the early 1900's to dewater deep mine in the Upper Georges Creek basin. The Vale Run project was designed to reduce local flooding and enhance low flows in Georges Creek.

The Moore's Run Reclamation Project dismantled a hazardous abandoned coal loading structure one mile south of Barton. Excavating Associates, Inc., Ellerslie, completed the $45,995 project.

The Bessemer Reclamation Project will reclaim 20 acres of forfeited strip mine and 31 acres of abandoned strip mine northwest of Frostburg. The reclamation project includes backfilling of 305,000 cubic yards of mine spoil to eliminate 4,300 feet of highwall and several hazardous water bodies. A $293,330 contract has been awarded to the John Duckworth Coal Company of Frostburg and construction is scheduled to begin later this month according to Bureau of Mines personnel.

Fayetteville Contractors, Inc. is reclaiming a 34 acre strip mine located two miles south of Friendsville. The site was mined by Jones Coal, Inc. before the Bureau of Mines revoked the mining permit and forfeited the reclamation bond.

The Maryland Bureau of Mines reclaims abandoned mines, with funds received from the Federal Office of Surface Mining, that endanger the health and safety of the public, degrade the quality of the environment, or diminish the beneficial use of the land and water resource. To date, the Abandoned Mine Lands Program has spent $13,661,440 and reclaimed 1,180 acres of abandoned mine lands. A 1979 inventory of Maryland's abandoned mines, completed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, estimated approximately 308 abandoned mine sites, totalling 9,500 acres and affecting 450 miles of stream.

RECLAIMING THE LAND - At the end of 1993, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Mines, will have administered $2.7 million to fund nine abandoned mine reclamation projects in Garrett and Allegany counties. Above and below, Frank Arnold Contractors is shown excavating at a strip mine near the Pleasant Valley 4-H Center, partially within the Cunningham Swamp. The steep slopes of the water-filled pits were graded to reduce the safety hazards, while protecting the wetland and enhancing the ecological and aesthetic value of the water bodies. Above right, no signs remain of the three deep mine entries near Crellin. They were sealed to prevent access into the abandoned workings. Frank Arnold Contractors also completed that project.

Bloodmobile Nets 59 Pints During Friendsville Visit

The American Red Cross bloodmobile collected a total of 49 pints of blood during a regular visit to the Friendsville fire hall last week.

Among the first-time donors was 73-year-old Troy Fike. Becoming one-gallon donors were Eleanor Teets, Friendsville, and Terry Feather, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., while Mary Suter became a two-gallon donor and Lloyd Oester reached the three-gallon level. A number of donors were from Bruceton Mills.

Volunteers assisting with the visit were: Belinda Benedict and Eleanor Teets, registration; Amy Platter, temperatures and canteen; Kathy Swartzentruber, hemoglobins; Esther Benedict, R.N., histories; Faye Humberson, bag labeling; and Sophie Benedict, canteen.

Also assisting were two nursing students, Diane Regan and Roberta Bender.

The next visit of the bloodmobile to Friendsville will be February 4.

Bartlett Wants Unfunded State Mandates Removed

Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, and several other members of the bipartisan Congressional Caucus on Unfunded Mandates, held a press conference this week in Washington, D.C.

Bartlett outlined his commitment to reducing taxpayer costs, saying, "When the federal government issues a spending order to states and localities, it costs each family an average of $1,000 annually. We need to ensure that there is accountability for these funds, and we need to cut out any wasteful spending as a basic protection to the American taxpayer."

Members of the Congressional Caucus on Unfunded Mandates have introduced several pieces of legislation designed to force the federal government to waive the mandates unless it sends the funds needed to accomplish its directives. "Each congressional district has its share of horror stories, and members will be sharing some examples," stated a spokesperson.

This press conference complements other press conferences being held around the country by state and local officials who insist Congress and the federal government must end costly directives without including money to pay for them.

To Sing At Grace Brethren Church

The Kestner Family will be performing gospel music at Grace Brethren Church, Accident, on Sunday, November 14, at 10 a.m.

The church is located 1/8 mile off U.S. Rt. 219 on the Bumble Bee Road. The public is invited to attend.

Maryland State Egg Decorating Contest Announced

As part of the egg promotion activities that occur each Easter at the White House, the American Egg Board has announced that in 1994 a special White House display will be created, showcasing a decorated egg from each egg-producing state. Only one egg will be accepted from each state.

The localegg selected will represent the State of Maryland. Therefore, it should convey some aspect that is associated with this state (e.g., Chesapeake Bay, crabs, Black-Eyed Susan, etc.)

Eggs may represent an individual or group effort and up to three top entries representing the county should be submitted to the Maryland Egg Council no later than November 29, 1993. A judging panel will select the top three prize winners for the state, and the state champion will be forwarded to the American Egg Board.

For more details and contest rules, persons may contact the Extension Office (334-1990).

It was decided to have a turkey dinner to celebrate Thanksgiving when the group meets on the next third Thursday, Nov. 18. A turkey will be provided, and participants need only to bring a vegetable, salad, or dessert. All Crellin area senior citizens are invited.

SCHOOL NEWS

The School Improvement Team presented its final report to the staff on Tuesday, Oct. 26. Members of the Team were: Keith D. Harvey (principal), Sherry Taylor (primary teacher), Kimberly Collins (intermediate teacher), Barbara Conway (Chapter 1 resource teacher), Alana Jones (parent), Marsha Kitzmiller (Chapter 1 parent), Pastor Michael Mudge (community member), and Les McDaniel (counselor).

The Book Fair will be held the week of November 8-12.

Halloween parties at the school and the parade will take place after 1 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 29.

HALLOWEEN DANCE

The Crellin Improvement Association will sponsor a Halloween dance on Friday, Oct. 29, from 7 to 11 p.m., at the Crellin Elementary School. Costumes are optional. Admission is $3 stag and $5 drag. All school-age children will be charged $1, with younger children admitted free. Prizes will be awarded, and refreshment will be sold. Once admitted to the school, children will not be permitted to leave the building and then return. The band "Main Line" will be performing.

OKTOBERFEST

An Oktoberfest party will be held for children age 10 and younger and their parents on Sunday, Oct. 31, from 2 to 4 p.m., at the Crellin United Brethren Church. Games and prizes will be available for children, and refreshments will be available for parents and their children. All Crellin area grade school children and their parents are invited to attend. The event is sponsored by the Senior High Youth Group.

UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH

The Annual Missions Conference is slated for Sunday, Oct. 31, and Monday, Nov. 1.

Dr. and Mrs. Roger Birdsall will be the speakers for the Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Since retiring as a United Brethren pastor, Dr. Birdsall has taught at the India Bible Seminary and also at the Sierra Leone (West Africa) Bible College. Mary Lou Birdsall was active in the Women's Missionary Fellowship and served on the denomination's Board of Missions prior to going to the mission field. While in Sierra Leone, she assisted with home schooling.

Miss Nadine Hoekman, a nurse at Mattru Hospital in Sierra Leone, will speak at the 7 p.m. service on Monday. She had two previous experiences in short-term missionary work before her assignment to Mattru Hospital (a 60-bed United Brethren facility) in November 1990.

According to a church spokesman, the Missions Conference is meant to be a time of immersion in the subject of missions. The Biblical basis for missions is reviewed, information about the fields and progress is shared, and financial and personal commitment is sought.

All services are open to the public.

4-H Club News

COVE KIDS
by Melissa Paugh, reporter

The monthly meeting of the Cove Kids 4-H club was held October 14 at the St. John's church in the Cove. There were 33 members, nine parents, and two visitors present.

The flags were held by Donna Schmidt and David Wampler. Pledges were led by Hannah Schmuck and Shonna DeWitt.

The club sold cider donated by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Broadwater. We had nominations for office. We drew names for the Christmas party in December. The club will be going roller skating October 21 at Star Lite from 7 to 9 p.m.

The next meeting of the Cove Kids 4-H will be November 11 at the home of Joyce Paugh at 7 p.m.

NORTH GLADE
by Adam Herbert, reporter

Ten members gave Wildlife Project reports at the regular meeting of the North Glade 4-H Club in October. Three members and three adults participated in Adopt-a-Highway last month.

The club also provided and served lunch at a local auction last month. A check for $200 was sent to Missouri 4-H'ers for flood relief from the money earned at the auction.

The club will have a Halloween/pizza party on October 31 beginning at 4 p.m. American Heart Association volunteers will be collecting between October 16 and November 21 of this year instead of next February. The club will be collecting in the North Glade Meadow Mountain area on Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m.

Rebecca Girdish welcomed new members.

NORTH STAR
by Krlstopher Knox, reporter

The North Star 4-H Club met Oct. 12 at the Accident fire hall. The junior officers conducted the meeting

Roll call was answered with a member's favorite holiday. Old business included a trip scheduled for Oct. 24 to Laurel Caverns, the Livestock Association meeting, and beef raffle tickets. A reminder to send thank-you notes to buyers, and beef halters still at the Extension office was given.

Under new business, hunter safety classes were discussed. A parent banquet is scheduled for Nov. 14 at the fire hall. Officers for 1994 will be elected at the November meeting

A donation of 4200 was approved for Ryan McKenzie. Demonstrations were given by Kanya Knox on a calendar, and Kristopher Knox on his John Deere collection.

Info Given On Posting Of Land Against Trespass

Landowners interested in posting their ground against trespass or unlawful entry can now post their ground by painting their boundary lines

The 1990 Maryland legislature enacted new legislation under the annotated Code of Maryland (COMAR 08.01.05, entitled "Criteria for Certain Activities on Private Property." Under this regulation, a landowner can post his property against trespass by painting his boundary lines using a bright blue paint. The paint marks should be a vertical line at least two inches wide, and at least eight inches long. The paint marks should be readily visible to a person with normal eyesight.

Landowners interested in further information on this law should contact the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service at Mt. Nebo. The office is open Monday through Friday, 8 am. to 4:30 p.m. The phone number is (301) 334-3296.

MFB Dairy Committee To Hold Meeting On Proposed Milk Board

The Dairy Committee of the Maryland Farm Bureau has reviewed the final report of the Maryland Dairy Task Force including the recommendation that a Maryland Milk Commission be established by legislative action.

Current Maryland Farm Bureau policy supports establishing a producer-approved Maryland Milk Commission.

So that the producer can learn the purpose and better understand the way the Commission will work, the Farm Bureau Dairy Committee has scheduled six informational meetings across the state. These meetings will also give all dairy farmers and legislators the opportunity to meet and discuss the proposal.

The purpose of the Milk Commission is to stabilize the Maryland dairy industry from farm to consumer. Some of the things the Commission would do:

1. License all processor and wholesale distributors.

2. Create a six person Board with three consumers, two producers and one processor.

3. After public hearings, would establish minimum class I raw milk prices.

4. After public hearings, could establish "not below cost" wholesale prices.

5. Have an audit staff to monitor compliance, (processor and wholesaler.)

6. Establish a fee structure to fund the Commission activities.

7. Cooperate with similar organizations in adjacent states.

With depressed milk prices, dairy farmers need to work together to stabilize their industry and maintain currently negotiated premiums, Farm Bureau says.

"Because it is important for Maryland dairy farmers to present a very supportive, unified, and knowledgeable voice to our legislators, we urge you to attend one of the scheduled meetings," says Maryland Farm Bureau President William Knill.

The meeting for Garrett County producers will be held Monday, Nov. 1 from 1-3 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall.

Operating A Tractor Safely

Every farmer who climbs onto a tractor should be sure that it is a safe, efficient piece of farm machinery. Recognizing efficiency is easy but recognizing safety characteristics if more challenging.

Farm tractors have reduced the time it takes to prepare planting ground and harvest crops. However, tractors continue to cause more deaths among farmers than any other item on American farms. Most disturbing is the fact that many of these deaths are preventable, especially those associated with tractor overturns.

Technology exists that can save almost all tractor operators involved in overturns. Known by the shortened term ROPS, roll-over protective structures with safety belts can save lives. U.S. tractor manufacturers have voluntarily installed ROPS on all new tractors since 1986, but many tractors manufactured earlier are not equipped with this life-saving feature.

In Sweden, where ROPS are mandatory, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers estimates that 90 percent of tractor operators involved in overturns escape serious injury or death. According to the National Safety Council's Agricultural Division, in the U.S. there is a 50 percent fatality rate for side overturns and approximately an 85 percent rate for rear overturns on non-ROPS farm tractors. More than 300 deaths were attributed to farm tractor accidents in 1992, with 53 percent of these fatalities resulting from overturns, according to National Safety Council statistics.

Safe tractors must have an approved ROPS and the operator must fasten the accompanying safety belt with each use. In addition, operators should inspect the tractor's warning and marker lights for proper functioning and ensure that the tires are sound and properly inflated. Safety-conscious operators will never accept "extra riders" and will always shut down the power-take-off unit and engine before leaving the operators' stations.

This information is provided by the National Safety Council.

Farm Bureau Calls For NAFTA Passage As Vote Approaches

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) will be good for farmers and the nation's economy overall, Farm Bureau told the House Agriculture Committee. As a vote on the monumental trade agreement approaches, farmers and representatives of farm organizations converged on Capitol Hill last week to urge members of Congress to give the barrier-smashing accord a thumbs-up vote. The House is expected to vote on NAFTA Nov. 17.

NAFTA will be good for American farmers and workers," said Keith Eckel, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau president and member of the American Farm Bureau Federation Board of Directors. "It will expand exports and bring about higher farm income and a net increase in U.S. jobs. Rejection of NAFTA could actually reduce U.S. exports and cause job losses."

He told committee members that Mexico is currently unable to keep production pace with its domestic demand for food. That is one reason for the current $1.5 billion U.S. farm trade surplus with Mexico.

Eckel said although the NAFTA agreement is not perfect, it is a positive and necessary step for U.S. foreign policy and trade interests.

"In my business, timing is everything. The timing is right for NAFTA," he told committee members. "I don't think we have the privilege of any extra time for this agreement. Not everything that we wanted was included in the agreement, but a vast majority of it was."

Eckel discounted complaints about the proposed agreement by focusing on the potential benefits to both U.S. producers and foreign customers of U.S. agricultural products.

"The list of unfounded grievances about NAFTA goes on and on," he said. "However, NAFTA is probably the most thoroughly studied and analyzed trade agreement ever written, and almost all studies show it will be a net plus for both Mexico and the United States."

Some groups in opposition to NAFTA have claimed the trade agreement will allow for "transshipment" of imported goods through Mexico and Canada to the U.S. Opponents claim goods passed through Mexico and Canada would in effect circumvent U.S. tariffs and import requirements. Eckel quashed fears about transshipment abuse and said the NAFTA agreement has strong rules to prevent such occurrences.

"This is the strongest country-of-origin agreement we have ever negotiated," Eckel said. "Mexico's import barriers on products from other countries are generally very restrictive. In most cases, it would make little sense for products to be shipped through Mexico and face tariffs that are on average two-and-a-half times higher than U.S. tariffs. I fail to see the threat."

The leading role that agriculture has taken in forming the agreement will be realized through the benefits American farmers will reap with NAFTA in place, Eckel told the committee.

"The key to this agreement is that agriculture has taken a front row seat in the negotiations," he said.

Crop Insurance Sales Close For Certain Crops

To be eligible for disaster benefits on 1993 crops, farmers who lost over 65 percent of their crops must purchase multiple peril crop insurance on the same crop in 1994, according to Roger Richardson, chairperson, Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Producers of 1993 wheat, barley, oats and rye must purchase 1994 crop insurance by October 31, 1993, for these crops to be eligible for disaster benefits," Richardson said. Crop insurance sales on nursery crops and potatoes close on October 31, apples close on November 20 and peaches close on November 30, 1993.

He said farmers are required to certify that they understand that failure to pay the required crop insurance premiums will mean forfeiture of disaster payments. "Producers cannot avoid insurance simply by delaying to file for disaster payments."

"Producers of any 1993 crops with more than 65 percent in production losses must agree to obtain 1994 multiple peril crop insurance to receive 1993 disaster benefits," the ASCS official said.

Tick Identification Service Offered By Md. Dept. Of Ag

The Mosquito Control Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has started a free tick identification service at its headquarters laboratory in Annapolis, as well as at laboratories in Riverdale, Salisbury, and Leonardtown. "Our goal is to help health professionals and the general public identify ticks that may be carrying Lyme disease or Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever," Secretary Robert Walker said.

According to Cyrus R. Lesser, chief of the Mosquito Control Section, ticks to be identified should be placed in a sealed container along with the name, address, and telephone number of the donor, date and location where collected, and type of host--whether it be human, pet, livestock, equine, etc. The container should be delivered or mailed to the nearest laboratory. Results of the identification will be available within four working days. "Our staff will also be available to answer questions about tick life cycles, and offer advice on how to avoid tick bites," Lesser said. Those interested should call (410) 841-5870 for more information.

Soybean Harvest Progressing On Schedule

Through the week ending October 24 Maryland farmers harvested 34 percent of the soybean acreage. This was equal to last year's progress of 34 percent harvested and equal to the normal five year average of 34 percent harvested at this time of year.

Topsoil moisture rating improved somewhat to 19 percent short and 81 percent adequate. Subsoil moisture improved to 38 percent short and 62 percent adequate. Conditions allowed an average of 4.5 days suitable for fieldwork during the week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Average statewide corn condition was rated poor to fair and soybean condition was rated in fair condition. Statewide, hay supplies were adequate. Pasture feed again averaged in good condition. Sorghum was in fair to good condition.

Wheat seeded, 52, 40, 46; barley seeded, 89, 75, 77; rye seeded, 67, 37, 61; corn grain harvested, 80, 47, 67; silage harvested, 98, 91, 96; soybeans shedding leaves, 88, 86, 88; harvested, 34, 34, 34; sorghum mature, 88, 100, N.A; harvested, 23, 30, N/A; alfalfa hay, fourth cutting, 93, 92, 89, fifth cutting, 35, 51, 33; other hay, third cutting, 78, 86, 80; fourth cutting, 57, 43, 40; and apples picked, 84, 78, 89.

N.A: Not available.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending October 22 had above normal temperatures and precipitation. Temperatures averaged 60.3 degrees, 6.2 degrees above the normal of 54.1 degrees for the October 16 to October 22 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from 31 degrees at Hancock to 49 at Patuxent, but generally in the low 40's. Maximum temperatures ranged from 68 degrees at Oakland to 85 at Patuxent and generally around 80 degrees. Precipitation averaged 0.80 inch, 0.08 inch above the normal of 0.72. Precipitation ranged from 0.06 at Upper Marlboro to 2.14 inch at Bel Air. Regional rainfall averages were: western, 0.78; north central, 1.13, southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.47, and the Eastern Shore, 0.64 inch.

Water Conservation, Recycling Topics Set For Dairy Technology Conference

Environmental concerns will be addressed by several speakers during the afternoon and evening sessions of Maryland's 49th annual Dairy Technology Conference at College Park.

The all-day event is scheduled November 10 at its usual location, the College Park Holiday Inn, near the intersection of U.S. Highway 1 and the Capital Beltway (I-495). Sponsoring organizations include the Department of Animal Sciences and Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park.

Roy E. Carawan, a food engineering Extension specialist from North Carolina State University, will lead off the afternoon session with "Water Conservation and Pollution Prevention for the Dairy Industry."

Dr. Carawan will speak again at the evening dinner meeting on "Environmental Concerns for the Dairy Industry."

Following Carawan on the afternoon program will be Joan C. Williams from the Stone Container Company of Hopewell, Va. Williams will describe her company's program for "Recycling in the Dairy Industry." This program deals with waste materials like paperboard cartons and plastic wrap.

Also on the afternoon agenda, Robert L. Walker, Maryland's secretary of agriculture, will give a 30-minute response to recommendations in the Maryland Dairy Task Force Report submitted last spring.

The Dairy Technology Conference is open to all persons with an interest in dairy foods or milk production. A $15 fee is charged for advance registration, including lunch. Registration at the door is $20 per person. Separate reservations need to be made for the evening dinner, which is a joint meeting with the Dairy Technology Society of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

For pre-registration forms and program information, those interested may contact Robert R. Peters, 1103 Animal Sciences Bldg., University of Maryland, College Park, Md. 20742. Dr. Peters is the Dairy Technology Conference coordinator and an Extension dairy specialist. His office telephone number is (301) 405-1401.

Storing High Moisture Corn

Corn is drying down a little faster than we are used to. I have had several calls concerning the storage of high moisture corn (HMC). What is the proper moisture content for storage? Ideally, shelled corn should be stored between 25-30 percent, with the outside limits of 22 to 35 percent. High moisture ear corn (HMEC) should be stored between 27 to 35 percent, with the outside limits of 25 to 40 percent. These recommendations are generally based on storing in a oxygen-limiting silo. As you are aware, when working with the outer limits, you increase the chances of problems such as heat damage, spoilage and molding.

Can HMC be stored in conventional silos and plastic bags? The answer is yes, but you must do a lot of things right. First of all, the corn must be harvested at the ideal moisture content as described above. A medium grind is needed so the corn will pack, pushing out the oxygen. Tight packing is critical for proper fermentation. I would recommend using a propionic acid preservative. If the corn moisture is 22 percent and lower, I think it would be risky to try to store as HMC. In fact, I have seen HMC at 29 percent heat up to the point that you could not hold your hand in it for very long. Also, HMC is heavy; therefore, make sure your conventional silo is in good shape and can withstand the pressure.

Ladybugs By The Thousands!

I have never seen so many ladybugs. I have had calls from all over the county from people concerned about the high population that has occurred. Evidently, conditions were just right for the ladybugs. They are probably the most beneficial insect that we have. Thirty-thousand ladybugs can control aphids on 10 acres. This time of the year it is common for ladybugs to assemble. They are getting ready to go into hibernation. As soon as the weather turns cold they will be gone, so just bear with them. There are around 300 species so you will see some with eight, 15, or even two spots on their back.

Private Applicator's Pesticide License Examination

If you need to obtain your pesticide applicator's license, the Maryland Department of Agriculture will be giving the examination on November 17 (Wednesday), 7:30 p.m., at the Garrett County Extension Office. If you would like some help in preparing for the test, I will be holding a workshop on Tuesday evening, November 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension Office.

First Financial Corp. Announces Quarterly Results

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland (NASDAQ:FFWM), the holding company for First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, announced this week that net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1993, before considering the effect of a change in accounting principle, totaled $664,000 or $.46 per share compared to $1.0 million or $.74 per share for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1992.

Net income for the current quarter, after the cumulative effect of the change in accounting principle, increased to $2.4 million or $1.64 per share. The change in accounting principle resulted from the adoption on July 1, 1993 of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109, Accounting for Income Taxes. The cumulative effect of this change was to increase net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1993 by $1.7 million or $1.18 per share.

According to a spokesperson for the corporation, the decrease in net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1993, before the effect of the change in accounting principle, was primarily because of the inclusion in net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1992 of approximately $376,000, net of applicable income taxes, on the sale of mortgage-backed and investment securities compared to net gains of approximately $3,000 in the three months ended Sept. 30, 1993.

Net interest income rose $286,000 or 10.5 percent to $3.0 million in fiscal 1994. Such an increase was offset by higher provisions for losses on real estate owned and an increase of $157,000 in compensation expense attributable to stock appreciation rights attached to certain outstanding stock options issued pursuant to the Company's Stock Option Incentive Plan.

The Company paid a quarterly cash dividend of $.10 per share on Sept. 30, 1993, to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 15, 1993.

Effective June 30, 1993, the Company adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 115, Accounting for Certain Investments in Debt and Equity Securities." As a result, at Sept. 30, 1993, the Company had $58.1 million of its investment and mortgage-backed securities classified as available for sale which had the effect of increasing stockholders' equity at that date by $508,000 for unrealized gains, net of the applicable income tax effect.

At Sept. 30, 1993, the Company's stockholders' equity totaled $10.4 million which represented 11.9 percent of assets at that date. The bank's tangible, core and risk-based capital ratios equalled 11.2 percent, 11.2 percent and 21.4 percent, respectively, at Sept. 30, 1993. Such ratios exceeded all regulatory requirements. There were 1,326,171 shares of common stock outstanding resulting in a book value per share of $30.19.

Non-performing loans and other assets totaled $10.6 million or 3.1 percent of total assets at Sept. 30, 1993 compared to $11.6 million or 3.4 percent of total assets at June 30, 1993. The Company's total allowance for losses equalled $5.9 million or 56.1 percent of total non-performing loans and other assets at Sept. 30, 1993 compared to $5.7 million or 47.3 percent at June 30, 1992.

HELPING THEIR COMMUNITY - It was Garrett County cold early one Saturday morning when volunteers began arriving at the Eastern Garrett County Recreation Area. They were coming to erect new playground equipment. On hand was Patricia Avore, the playground equipment company's representative. She gave directions on setting up the equipment. The area had just been excavated. The addition to the park was the culmination of months of planning and fundraising, coordinated by a group of community members and the recreation area's park board. The Playground Equipment Committee was formed by a group of Finzel residents in the spring of 1992. Money was raised through concession sales during baseball season, a park festival, and a generous donation by the Eastern Garrett County Fire Department. Still short of the needed funds, the committee and park board investigated the possibility of state funding. With the assistance of county officials, Program Open Space money was granted, making financing a reality. The job was completed within a few hours and all the tired volunteers could say was "Heartfelt thanks to everyone who helped us realize this dream."

Annual World Day Of Prayer Planned

A planning meeting was held October 18 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, for World Community Day, sponsored by Church Women United. Those present were: president, Charlotte Mousch, Helen Silber, Jean Friend, Helen Keller, Audrey Brenneman, Hazel Margroff, and Evelyn Steyer.

Mrs. Brenneman opened the meeting with prayer. The World Community Day program is titled "Healing the Church-The Ecumenical Decade."

World Community Day will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident on November 5, with registration at 12:30 p.m. and a worship service at 1 p.m.

Gift certificates will be available. Everyone is welcome.

Unclaimed Property Tabloid Generates Some 5,000 Calls

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the Unclaimed Property Section of his office received about 5,000 telephone calls between October 19 and 22 as a result of full-size advertising supplements placed in 13 Maryland newspapers, last week, including The Republican. The ads are to help find 11,750 people who are rightful owners of unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars.

The ad supplements, with a pot of gold on the front, are also running in 12 other Maryland newspapers this week.

The advertisements list all the most recently reported names, regardless of the county of last known address, to help people who have moved from one place to another in the state. "This is the second time we have published a statewide list of the most recently reported accounts, and the telephone inquiries show it is a great way to reach the thousands of people who have money due them. If you see your name or the name of someone you know, please call the unclaimed property office at (410) 225-1700 in the Baltimore area, or toll-free 1-800-492-1751 from elsewhere in Maryland," Goldstein said.

The comptroller noted that the names in the current list are mostly reported by insurance companies. "The insurance benefits include health insurance benefits which never reached the individual, benefits due individuals or estates from life insurance proceeds and benefits from matured endowment policies," Goldstein said.

Whether your name is in the ad supplement or not, it's worth contacting the unclaimed property office periodically because our computer records cover more than 160,000 accounts worth about $60 million reported to us over the past 25 years, and there is no time limit on claiming the money that is rightfully yours," Goldstein said. "You can claim the funds any time and legitimate heirs can even claim the funds after the original owner's death."

Maryland law requires financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies and other corporations to report to the state comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits and the contents of safe deposit boxes which are unclaimed after five years.

In calendar year 1992, the Comptroller's Office returned $5,650,899 in unclaimed funds to 10,345 individuals. "That's almost three times more than the 3,573 claims we paid in 1991," Goldstein said. "One reason was the innovative use of the advertising supplement and our other outreach programs to locate owners of unclaimed funds."

Sisters Awarded For Academic Work

Richa Magoon

Rachna Magoon

Richa and Rachna Magoon, daughters of Om and Devindra Magoon, Oakland, have been rewarded for their outstanding academic achievement at Southern High School.

Richa Magoon has been named a Maryland Distinguished Scholarship winner and will receive $3,000 per year for four years to attend a college in Marvland. She is one of just 350 finalists who are honored by the Maryland State Education Commission.

Richa is a distinguished honor roll student and a member of the National Honor Society. She has been named Student of the Month in science.

Rachna Magoon, also a distinguished honor roll student, is an honorable mention winner in the Maryland Distinguished Scholarship program and a nominee for the Tandy Technology scholarship.

Rachna is president of the Southern High chapter of the National Honor Society.

Both sisters have won numerous other awards, such as recognition by Who's Who Among American High School Students. They are winners of Minds in Motion awards, as well as the National Science Merit Award in chemistry.

The Magoons have participated in the Blind Skiers Program and have also done volunteer work for the Garrett County Health Department. They also took part in the Health Careers Opportunity Program, sponsored by the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center.

The sisters enjoy volleyball, skiing, sewing, and needlework. They hope to pursue careers in medicine.

A joint worship and Sunday School session will be held for the congregations of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, and St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, this Sunday, Oct. 31, at St. Paul's. The Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the worship service will begin at 11 a.m. The Rev. Stephen Yelovich is the pastor and everyone is welcome to attend.

Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch #588, will have a Branch Awareness program and Halloween party this Sunday, Oct. 31, at 6 p.m. in the social room of St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. A sloppy joe supper will be served. Costumes may be worn. There will be ghosts, goblins, cider, games and a cake walk. All members and guests are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Fourteen youth and five adults attended the youth meeting on Sunday at the Rush Baptist Church. The group plans to go to the Lakeside Assembly of God Church, near Oakland, this Sunday, Oct. 31, at 6:30 p.m. to attend a Harvest Fun Festival. They made plans to have a table at the Christmas Bazaar to be held at the Flowery Vale Senior Center on Saturday, Nov. 13. The next meeting for the group will be Friday, Nov. 5.

The 11th annual turkey dinner to benefit the Lutheran Braille Workers, Inc., will be served at Northern Middle School cafetorium on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 4:30-7 p.m. The cost of the meal is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. Carry-out meals will be available, as well as baked goods and crafts. The dinner is open to the public. It is being sponsored by Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 and Aid Association for Lutherans, Branches 585 and 588.

The Ladies Aid Society of St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, met Thursday evening. Hostesses were Mrs. James Margroff and Mrs. Phillip Margroff. The group made plans to house clean the church on Tuesday, Nov. 9, beginning at 8:30 a.m. The voting members of the church met Tuesday evening. New officers elected were: vice president, Kevin Margroff; financial secretary, Mrs. James Margroff, elder, Randall Harman, and trustee, Keith Harman. The group voted to purchase a new organ for the church and it has been delivered. A dedicatory concert will be given on Sunday, Nov. 1.

The Cove Homemakers Club met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Kevin Margroff, Friendsville. The topic "Diet Supplements" was presented by Mrs. Randall Harman, Accident. The next meeting will be Monday, Nov. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deniker were in Barton on Saturday afternoon to attend the wedding reception of Michael Deniker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Deniker, and Debbie Miller, following their wedding that afternoon at the Catholic Church at Westernport. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Deniker and family and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deniker and daughter visited several times with the Homer Denikers during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family were Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mast, Grantsville. Mr. and Mrs. Mast announce the birth of their second child and son, Andrew Del, on Tuesday, Oct. 19 at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland. The infant weighed six pounds, 13 ounces. Mrs. Mast is the former Marla Brenneman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman, Accident. Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Mast, Grantsville. Maternalgreat-grandparents are Viola Miller, Grantsville, and Mrs. Amelia Brenneman, Accident. Paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mast, Salisbury, Pa.

Residents of this community learned of the death of Mrs. Margaret (Fickenscher) Holbrook, Cumberland, born May 26, 1922, who died on Thursday, Oct. 14, as the result of an automobile accident near Louisville, Ky. She is survived by her husband, Richard Holbrook, who was admitted to a Louisville hospital following the accident. Mrs. Holbrook was a resident of this community when her father, the Rev. Hugo Fickenscher, was pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, from 1924-1945. She was preceded in death by her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Fickenscher, a twin sister, Marjorie, and a brother, the Rev. William Fickenscher.

Lawrence Glover was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, last Tuesday, Oct. 19. Visitors included Mrs. Rita Mangold, Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glover, Friendsville, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harman and daughters and Mrs. Lawrence Glover. He expects to be released from the hospital sometime this week.

The Rev. and Mrs. Oren Bender were in Morgantown, W.Va., on Wednesday and Saturday to visit with Lowell Bender, Bittinger, who was seriously injured in a hunting accident on Tuesday when he fell approximately 25 feet from a tree. He underwent surgery on Wednesday and has now been moved from the intensive care unit. Spending some time at the Oren Bender home is a granddaughter, Miss Ashley Bender, near Beckley, W.Va. She spent Sunday evening with the Douglas Bender family.

A special service and a carry-in dinner at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church honored Raymond Bender on Sunday for his retirement as deacon at that church. Six of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Bender were present for the occasion, namely Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beitzel and family, Salisbury, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Craig Cumberworth and Heather, Mr. and Mrs. David Brenneman and son, Grantsville, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Brenneman and daughters, Accident, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bender and Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Bender and daughters. Other residents of this community also attended with the large group that was present for the occasion. Herman Yoder, Grantsville, will fill the position of deacon left by Raymond. A Thursday visitor of the Benders was Miss Vicki Yoder, Grantsville. Visitors on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Brenneman and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beitzel. Mr. and Mrs. Bender were Sunday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maust, Accident, where another guest was a sister to Mrs. Maust and Raymond, Mrs. David Miller, Irwin, Ohio.

Albert Smearman, Friendsville, Gary Vonstein, Frostburg, Everett McClintock, Jeff and Steve McClintock, returned to their respective homes on Friday after spending time on a game hunting trip to Colorado. Weekend guests at the Everett McClintock home were a daughter, Betty Deise, and friend, Baltimore. Additional Sunday dinner guests were Miss Donna McClintock, McHenry, Mr and Mrs. Gary McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Steve McClintock, Jeff McClintock and Miss Elizabeth Otto.

Mrs. John Schmidt and daughter, Rachel, were in Morgantown, W.Va., on Friday to visit Misses Pamela Schmidt and Kara Alt, students at West Virginia University. They watched Kara practice with the WVU Marching Band as it prepared for an upcoming football game. Mrs. Schmidt and Rachel were among those attending a birthday party on Saturday at Fox's Pizza Den, near McHenry, honoring Allen Moats, whose fourth birthday anniversary was Friday, Oct. 15.

Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanfts were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Needer and family, Timonium, and Carroll Hanft, Addison, Pa. Charles and Carroll and others in the group returned to their respective homes that day from a hunting trip to Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. David Wass and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanft and daughters, Addison, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Brown, and Mrs. Ellen Truman and daughter, Kaleigh, were among those attending the Garrett County Horsemen's Association banquet on Saturday evening at the Bittinger fire hall. A birthday cake decorated with horses was served and "Happy Birthday" was sung to David Wass, whose birthday anniversary was Sunday, Oct. 17, and Carroll Hanft, whose birthday anniversary was Monday, Oct. 25. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stemple and daughter, Mrs. Joyce Paugh and family, Fred Bentz, Ralph Georg, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft were among the large group at the Accident fire hall on
